Books, Magazines, Etc.

New and revised edition of Mrs. H. C. Conant's "Popular history of English Bible Translation;" with a new preface and additional matter, bringing the history down to the present time, by Thomas J. Conant, D. D., husband of the talented author, and a well-known Biblical scholar and member of the American Bible Revision committee. This is a complete history of the Bible revisions from the days of Wycliffe to the present time. Says Dr. J. Stanford Holmes: "It is as interesting as a novel, and beyond all comparison the best work of the kind ever written. It ought to be in everybody's hands." Published by I. K. Funk & Co., Nos. 10 and 12 Dey street, New York. Price, in paper, fifty cents; in cloth, $1.00.

There is a great flourish of trumpets over what the administration is going to do in the prosecution of the star-route operators. Cook, a skillful criminal lawyer, is said to have been employed to prosecute, and the work will be exhaustive and pushed to the extreme. Such demonstrations are not new. Grant was full of them. But who ever knew of any conviction? The country would prefer to know what has been done to the rascals, rather than what is going to be done.—Boston Post.

That's just the way the republican papers used to talk years ago, at the time "Reformer" Tilden was making so much political capital out of his loudly-trumpeted proceedings against the canal-ring thieves in New York—not one of whom was ever punished, or made to disgorge a dollar of the many millions stolen.

In Salem, Mass., Friday morning, during the parade of the Barnum and London shows, the six-horse team drawing the glass-enclosed cage containing forty big serpents became unmanageable and ran away, smashing the case into fragments and literally strewing the streets with anacondas, boa constrictors and other reptiles. There was a general stampede among the immense crowd of people witnessing the procession, but the coolness of the keeper of the serpents, aided by the courage of the employes of the show, sufficed for the gathering up of the slimy monsters. A good many Salem people may have "seen snakes," but it is doubtful if anybody ever saw as many and as lively ones as were seen there that morning.

Don't Trust Them.

When you feel badly, and have pains here and there through your body that you don't know how to account for, it is the most foolish policy in the world to take the advice of people who say: "Oh! there's nothing the matter with you. Let yourself alone and you will come out all right." These folks know nothing about it, and may be trifling with your life. You may have kidney or liver trouble. Send right out to your druggist and get a bottle of Dr. David Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy" and then you will be all right, or write to the doctor at Rondout, N. Y.

The gunboat Yantic arrived at Key West on the 3d inst., took in coal, and immediately proceeded to Progresso, Yucatan.

Rear Admiral E. T. Nichols assumed the duties of chief of bureau of yards and docks on Saturday, relieving Capt. Law.

His Ignorance cost me $150.

I was sick abed for three months. The doctor said I had prolapsus uteri, which was untrue. He didn't try to cure me, but wanted to make a $1.50 every day. My uncle is a druggist, and he told me to turn the doctor off and try Sulphur Bitters. I did so, and five dollars worth of Sulphur Bitters cured me of general weakness and debility.—Mrs. S——, New Haven.

Comdr. Francis M. Bunce is detached from command of the Marion on the reporting of his relief, to return home and report arrival.

Rescued from Death.

William J. Coughlin, of Somerville, Mass., says: "In the fall of 1876 I was taken with a violent bleeding of the lungs followed by a severe cough. I soon began to lose my appetite and flesh. I was so weak at one time that I could not leave my bed. In the summer of 1877 I was admitted to the city hospital. While there the doctors said I had a hole in my left lung as big as a half a dollar. I was so far gone at one time a report went around that I was dead. I gave up hope, but a friend told me of Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs. I laughed at my friends, thinking that my case was incurable, but I got a bottle to satisfy them, when to my surprise and gratification, I commenced to feel better. My hope, once dead, began to revive, and to-day I feel in better spirits than I have the past three years.

I write this hoping you will publish it, so that every one afflicted with diseased lungs, will be induced to take Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs, and be convinced that consumption can be cured. I have taken two bottles and can positively say that it has done more good than all the other medicines I have taken since my sickness." Sold by all druggists.

Important.

When you visit or leave New York city, save Baggage Expressage and Carriage Hire, and stop at Grand Union Hotel, opposite Grand Central Depot; 450 rooms, fitted up at a cost of one million dollars, reduced to $1 and upwards per day. European plan. Elevator. Restaurant supplied with the best. Horse cars, stages and elevated railroad to all depots. Families can live better for less money at the Grand Union Hotel than at any other first-class hotel in the city. tap15,82

FELLOWS' Compound SYRUP OF HYPO-PHOS-PHITES

THE REFORMER AND VITALIZER OF THE BLOOD.

Is composed of ingredients identical with those which constitute Healthy Blood, Muscle and Nerve, and Brain Substance, whilst life itself is directly dependant upon some of them.

By increasing Nervous and Muscular Vigor, it will cure Dyspepsia, feeble or interrupted action of the Heart and Palpitation, Weakness of Intellect caused by grief, worry, overtasked or irregular habits, Bronchitis, Congestion of the Lungs.

It cures Asthma, Neuralgia, Whooping Cough, Nervousness, and is a most wonderful adjunct to other remedies in sustaining life during the process of Diptheria.

The expenditure of brain power too early or too severely in children often results in physical debility; the use of Fellows' Hypophosphites exerts a singularly happy effect in such cases.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitute for this under any circumstances.

THE RED MASK.

A Mocking Demon Stalking Abroad.

There are for many reasons, few diseases more to be dreaded than Erysipelas, and it has, not inaptly, been termed "St. Anthony's Fire." There is no disease which so completely deforms and disfigures the visage of the patient; and it may fairly be compared to a red mask thrown by a mocking demon over the human face. It is almost as dangerous as it is repulsive. Arising from a variety of causes, running its course with pain—it often ends suddenly in death. The old treatment consisted of blood-letting and the use of strong drastic purgatives. The substitute of Dr. Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy" Use this and you have taken the essential total of all the best physicians in the land could prescribe for Erysipelas. A case in point. Mr. S. B. Carpenter, of Grandville, N. Y., writes that he had for some time been afflicted with this disease in both legs, and has regained his health by the sole use of "Favorite Remedy." Other cases could be cited, but space prevents. "Favorite Remedy" is also sure in its action in all other diseases of the blood. Ask your druggist for it, or address the proprietor, Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, New York.

Rear-Admiral Thomas H. Patterson has been ordered to the special duty of preparing for publication a new edition of the regulations for the government of the navy.

An order has been issued detaching the members of the first class from the naval academy on the 10th inst., and placing them on waiting orders.

Comdr. Yates Stirling is ordered to command the Passaic, the receiving ship at Washington.

—A meditative man was roaming through an anatomical museum and came across the skeleton of a donkey. "Ah," he said, in reverential awe, as he adjusted his green spectacles, "we are indeed fearfully and wonderfully made."

—"Is that a yacht?" was asked of a long, gaunt codder who was lounging about the warf, as the questioner pointed to a very small steam vessel coming in. "No," was the reply. "Is that a yacht?" pointing to another sort of craft that might be a yacht. "No, that ain't no yot, nuther," was the answer. "Well, what is a yacht?" was the next inquiry. "Wat's a yot?" said the fisherman; "Well, you gets any sort of craft you please, and fills her up with liquor and seeg-yars, and git yer frens on board and have a rowdy time—and that's a yot!"

—A preacher, whose great delight it was to startle his hearers, said that there were three things which a woman should both be and not be at the same time: First, she should be like the snail, always keeping within her own house; but she should not be like the snail, which carries all it has upon its back. Second, she should be like a clock, but she should not be like an echo, which always manages to have the last word. Third, she should be like the town clock, and always keep time and regularity; but she should not be like the town clock, which speaks so loud that all the town can hear it.

—There is no greater hindrance to the spread of the gospel in our midst than the prevailing custom of dressing excessively for church. It seems strange that women should choose God's house as the place for dress-parade, and stranger still that the daughters of Zion, who are commanded to "adorn themselves in modest apparel," should come before the Lord with lofty looks and high heads and nodding plumes, keeping step with the giddy votaries of fashion. This Delilah, of worldliness has been robbing the church of her strength while she has been sleeping, and she has need to arouse herself, or her enemies will prevail against her. We are glad to see that a few have been aroused to the importance of dressing plainly for the sanctuary.—Christian Woman.

Ash-Tonic;

A perfected purifyer of the system. In 1-2lb. bottles; 75 cents. For dyspepsia, the many forms of liver complaint, impure and impoverished blood, and functional derangements attendant upon debility. For symptons indicated by indigestion, loss of appetite, nausea, sick headache, sour stomach, furred tongue, drowsiness, blanched lips, sallow complexion, pain in the side or back, eruptions, depression of spirits, nervous irritability and hysteria, and for building up the system, ash-tonic is unquestionably the most prompt and energetic remedy yet devised.

The ship Marcia Greenleaf cleared at Bangor, Me., June 1st, for New Orleans. She is the first full-rigged ship that ever loaded ice there. Her cargo consists of 1,786 tons of ice of excellent quality.

From the Hub.

There is perhaps no tonic offered to the people that possesses as much real intrinsic value as the Hop Bitters. Just at this season of the year, when the stomach needs an appetizer, or the blood needs purifying, the cheapest and best remedy is Hop Bitters. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure; don't wait until you are prostrated by a disease that may take months for you to recover in.—Boston Globe.

Portsmouth Chronicle.

TUESDAY, JUNE 6. 1881.

Heavy Liquor Seizure.

The police of Lowell, Mass., on Sunday morning at about ten o'clock went to the stable of Patrick Lynch, on Cross street in that city, and found there sixty-five barrels of whiskey, containing 2138 gallons; 1067 gallons of rum, 397 gallons of wine, 385 gallons of gin, and 360 gallons of brandy,—the whole being contained in 131 barrels, the estimated value being $10,000. Lynch has no license, but has in former years been licensed as a wholesale dealer.

The New York Senatorial Fight.

The voting in convention on the 3d inst. was as follows: For a successor to Mr. Conkling—Jacobs 50, Conkling 34, Wheeler 18, Cornell, 20, Rogers 14, scattering 14. For a successor to Mr. Platt—Kernan 50, Platt 30, Depew 30, Cornell 13, scattering 27. No choice.

The vote on Saturday, the 4th, was merely formal, no startling changes in the voting taking place.

On the 6th the vote for a short-term candidate was: Jacobs 25, Conkling 26, Cornell 16, Wheeler 14, Rogers 13, scattering six. For a successor to Platt: Platt 23, Depew 21, Kernan 26, Cornell 9, Miller 9, scattering 12.

News and Notes.

Edward S. Essex, son of a reputable citizen of Newport, R. I., was badly and perhaps fatally shot soon after midnight on Saturday, but refuses to state how it was done or who did it. It is surmised by the police that there is a woman in the case.

Two brakemen were killed, a fireman and engineer badly hurt, and two engines and over thirty freight cars piled up in a mass higher than the telegraph poles, by the forgetfulness of a night operator at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, who on Sunday morning forgot to hold a train on the Chicago & Northwestern railroad which he had been ordered to stop.

The sheriff of Conejos county, Col., on the 4th inst. telegraphed to Gov. Pitkin that the civil authorities were powerless against the gang of desperadoes led by Allison, and asking arms to enable the people to defend themselves. The governor at once offered a reward of $1,000 for the remainder of the gang, and also ordered arms shipped to the sheriff.

Iowa City, though forty years old, has never her its buildings numbered. The work has just been done by the Iowa City Republican, on its own responsibility and at its own expense.

The corner stone has been laid in San Francisco of what is intended to be the largest sugar refinery in the world. It is to be of brick, ten stories high, to cover eight blocks of ground, and will cost over $1,000,000.

The Tennessee supreme court has rendered a decision holding that the present taxing of the district government is liable to a suit on the debts of the old city of Memphis. The city of Memphis, it will be remembered, after borrowing money right and left and getting as deeply into debt as possible, voted to surrender the city charter and become a village again, expecting in this way to swindle its creditors.

Bernard McKenley, an alleged pickpocket, was arrested at Lynn, Mass., last Friday, and ordered to recognize in $1,000 for trial at the October term of the superior court. It is said that he is a professional New York thief, and has been following Barnum's circus through New England. He is the man who picked a lady's pocket of $30 in an Eastern railroad car one afternoon recently, between Boston and Salem, and escaped by jumping from the cars while they were going at a high rate of speed, near Swampscott station.

New Hampshire Items.

Beattie's steam saw-mill at Lancaster was burned on the 4th inst., with the passenger and freight depots of the Boston, Concord & Montreal railroad, ten cars, a large house occupied by two families, a large lot of lumber, and many thousand cords of wood. Loss $30,000.

There was a sharp frost at Contoocook, Monday night.

Alonzo Phillips of Campton attempted to board a moving train at Concord, Monday forenoon, but fell, and had both legs crushed and received other injuries which will probably result fatally.

Joel Batchelder, aged seventy years, of Northwood, hung himself in his barn on the 5th inst.

The will of John H. Swift bequeathes $6000 to the St. Paul's school in Concord.

The First Baptist society of Hyde Park, Mass., has extended a call to Rev. Geo. S. Easterbrook of Amherst.

Rev. Mr. French, of Ludlow, Vt., has accepted a call to Charlestown.

Vermont and Colorado Mining Co.

Attention is called to the advertisement of the Vermont & Colorado Mining company, whose treasury stock is now placed on this market by the well-known house of Goff, Hastings & Co. The property is a portion of that formerly owned by the Gold Hill Mining & Smelting company, and upon which the latter company expended some $18,000 or $20,000 last year in developments. It is well located, and as prospect property cannot be excelled, it is explained there was some slight disagreement among the managers of the Gold Hill company, and that Edward H. Goff of the well known firm of Goff, Hastings & Co., president of the Boston Gold & Silver Mining company, was requested to accept the presidency of the old company. Mr. Goff concluded that he would not hazard his reputation as a successful mining manager, which he had acquired in building up the business interests of the Boston Gold & Silver Mining company, as well as other enterprises, in connecting himself with the management of the company, although he felt that the property was valuable, unless his ideas of the best way to work it could be adopted. This was agreed to, and the property was divided, one-half to the Vermont & Colorado Mining company, the other half to the Boston & Sheep Mountain Mining company, Mr. Goff being elected president of both companies.

The excessive management of these companies being in the hands of such well-known mining men as President Goff and Lieutenant-Governor Tabor, of Colorado, and with an old and experienced miner, such as Superintendent Gowenlock at the mines, there can be no question about the property being well and faithfully worked, with a view to placing it on a paying basis. The management, in placing the development stock on the market at the exceeding low price of fifty cents for $10 shares, think they have a right to be deemed fair, progressive and desirous of letting the new stockholders a mass handsome profits. With such an offer as this the stock should be taken in a few days' time.

Speaking of Superintendent Gowenlock's appointment and the prospective value of the property, the Summit County Times of Kokomo, under date of May 21, says:

"Since Superintendent Gowenlock's appointment as manager of this company's claims, he has made arrangements to concentrate the principal part of the work of the Little Pearl claim, near the Zollars line. Hitherto all of the work has been prosecuted above the known ore bodies. The fact established by development in the Robinson is that the same ore body lies under these claims. The ore chute running directly across the Robinson property does not strike the Gold Hill claims until it leaves the Robinson end lines. Superintendent Gowenlock will immediately begin the development by sinking a shaft on the lower end of the claim aforesaid, which shaft, according to least two miles of the ore will be at ing pay ore. About three shifts of men will be employed. Some of the finest galena float has been found in the American Girl and Dauntless lodes of the Gold Hill company at depths not exceeding ten or fifteen feet. These claims are situated on the extension of the Bartlett mountain, east of Kokomo.—Boston Traveller.

The property owned and controlled by this company comprises 160 acres of rich mineral lands, from which large amounts of free gold have been taken in the old style of washing with rockers, besides four lode claims which have been considerably developed during the past year, and show good indications of rich silver veins.

The location of this property is unsurpassed, being near the celebrated "Robinson Consolidated," "White Quail," "Aftermath" and "Wheel of Fortune" mines, in the Ten-Mile Consolidated Mining District, and as prospect property is as valuable as any in Colorado.

Development work is to be actively and vigorously pushed, under the experienced management of Thos. Gowanlock, one of the most intelligent and experienced mining superintendents in Colorado.

A limited amount of Treasury Stock for promoting above works and purchasing machinery will be sold for a few days at 50 cents per share.

AROUND HOME.

Two persons were baptised at Noble's island on Sunday last by Rev. John A. Goss, pastor of the Christian church.

Gilmanton Eaton, of Seabrook, aged twenty-four years, and married, was drowned at the beach in that town on Sunday.

The schooner Grace Choate, Robinson master, arrived at Tredick's wharf on Monday with 25,000 lbs. of split fish, from a three week's trip to Cashe's. She reports fish plentiful, but bait scarce.

Capt. J. B. Maling of Kennebunkport, who purchased of Capt. Levi Downs the wreck of the schooner Mary E. Caswell, formerly of Portsmouth, has hauled her out on the ways at Kennebunkport, and will repair her.

The steamer James Sampson was taken off the line on Monday evening for repairs, and will not make her regular trips between this city and Kittery for several days. Due notice will be given when she resumes.

The corner stone of Christ church will be laid with masonic honors on St. John's day, June 24th, by M. W. Frank A. McKean, grand master of New Hampshire, he having accepted an invitation on behalf of the Grand Lodge to be present and perform the ceremonies.

Four scows arrived at this port on Monday afternoon, in tow of the tug Mattie Sargent, from Newburyport. They have been employed on the Merrimac river at Haverhill for some time past, and are to be used in clearing the obstructions from the Swamscott, below Exeter.

The weirs at the mouth of the harbor received another shaking up by the sea last week, a dozen large rents being made in the netting of the seaward one; the Mitchell weir was not so much injured, and was repaired on Sunday, in time to capture several hundred mackerel and about twenty barrels of bait-fish on Monday.

The Exeter News-Letter severely condemns the associated press agent in that town, and the special correspondents there of the Boston Herald and Haverhill Bulletin, for the sensational reports sent out concerning the recent trouble between the faculty and some of the students of the academy. It intimates that all three of the correspondents referred to wear the same hat.

Workmen were engaged during the latter part of last week in getting ready for service the steam launch Gypsy, which has been hauled up at the Raynes shipyard since early last autumn; the house with which she was covered during the winter was removed, the paint touched over, and other work done to put her in good and good-looking condition. She is the steam pleasure-boat of the hotel Wentworth, and it is said will during the coming season be in charge of Capt. Frank Rowe, formerly of this city but recently of Salisbury, Mass.

Men have for some days past been at work at the artesian well of the Eastern railroad near the station in this city, putting down pipes so that water can reach the pumps only from a depth of over two hundred and fifty feet. Cement was some time ago placed around the large pipe at the point where it enters the drilled hole, so that the surface water from the well cannot enter it, and the well has been arched over with brick and covered with earth. Since the surface water was shut off from the pipe it is said that the locomotives have experienced no trouble from using the water taken from the service tank.

P. S. & P. R. R. MEETING.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Portland, Saco & Portsmouth railroad was held in the company's hall near the station at Kittery, on Monday forenoon. The attendance of stockholders was not quite as large as usual. The meeting was called to order at eleven o'clock by President E. B. Phillips, of Boston. Mr. Barrett, clerk of the corporation, read the call.

On motion of Henry J. Stevens, Esq., of Boston, a ballot was then taken for seven directors, pending which the president made a verbal statement to the stockholders respecting the condition of the road and the improvements that had been made during the past year. He stated that a large number of steel rails had been laid and were now being laid, and that within three weeks from the present time the work would be completed and the entire line of this road would be of steel. Several bridges had been rebuilt, and one new passenger station erected; and in many other respects the property had largely increased in value since the last annual meeting. The obligations which became due to this corporation from the Eastern railroad, in the shape of dividends, had been promptly met.

The committee who had been appointed to receive, sort and count the votes for directors then made the following report:

Whole number of votes cast, 2816; necessary for a choice, 1409; all of the votes were cast for the following gentlemen, and they were declared elected directors for the year ensuing: Elijah B. Phillips, Alfred P. Rockwell, William B. Bacon, Samuel C. Lawrence, George P. King, G. E. B. Jackson, Stephen J. Young. The board is the same as it was last year, with the exception of Mr. Young, who is a new director and takes the place of Hon. T. B. Brown of Portland, who died since the last previous meeting. Mr. Young lives in Gardiner, Me., is a man of large property, a director in the Maine Central railroad, and treasurer of Bowdoin college.

The meeting then adjourned, and most of the stockholders returned to Boston in a special train which left this city at one o'clock in the afternoon.

TAX ON ALE.

It is said that a bill will be introduced at the present session of the legislature to tax the product of breweries twenty-five cents per barrel, on ale. Can it be that our wise legislators will impose a tax upon a necessity like ale, while the luxurious, gaudy prints of the Cocheco, and the brilliant delaines of the Amoskeag, are permitted to capture the hard earnings of the females of the land?

It has been decided by the supreme court that the capital in express companies having been taxed, the earnings of these companies could not also be taxed, as that would be double taxation. The United States government taxes the product of breweries in the nature of a license to do business, and whether the learned lawmakers can enact something which Judge Doe will allow is constitutional, is what we are to see. If the law is passed our local brewers will have to compete with those of Massachusetts and other states at a disadvantage in this respect, as they now make a better article than is brewed elsewhere, though of course for some kinds of ale and lager better prices are paid for Portsmouth brews than for those of many other places.

THE NEW RAILROAD SCHEME.

The Boston & Maine railroad is seeking to establish a monopoly in Northern freight traffic and travel, which while the company professes to be willing "to develope the resources of the eastern part of the state" is designed simply to compel freight and travel to be confined to the Boston & Maine road. To-day the company carries coal, for example, from Newburyport to Newmarket, thirty-four miles, for $1.00 per ton, when if it came from Portsmouth the freight would be charged at a half a dollar per ton for less than two miles from Newmarket junction to Newmarket. Indeed, so excessive are the charges of the Maine road to its customers, who have no means of seeking relief by competition, that the cotton which comes by rail for the Newmarket company is teamed from the junction, rather than it should be carried by rail at the prices charged. It is this that suggests to the people at Laconia and north of that point, that any charter which gives the B. & M. R. R. a right to control the extension of the Dover & Winnepiscogee railroad, their branch line, without a fair share of competition at Dover, will in the end do no good.

The Concord railroad has expended large sums of money in this city, and the coal traffic over the Concord & Portsmouth railroad which is sought to be taken from us by Massachusetts roads, is important to our interests. We cannot afford to help a rival to this business—a rival which would continue as at present to take coal from Portland and Newburyport at less rates than it can be taken from this city, and transport it hundreds of miles just for the sake of preventing other roads from carrying it. It is stated that one of our coal dealers actually serves some of his customers within a dozen miles of Portsmouth with coal delivered at Newburyport and hauled by the Boston & Maine over thirty miles, without one cent of profit. A railroad with this kind of policy will not be likely to benefit Portsmouth by an increased power to take away, as it has done in times past, business which geographically belongs here.

CIRCUIT COURT OF THE UNITED STATES.

MONDAY, June 6th.

Geo. B. Sias vs. Roger Williams Ins. Co. Bill in equity, to rectify and reform a policy of insurance of $1900 on the buildings of Abram Cole of Gorham. The complainant's interest was that of mortgagee. A suit at law brought on the policy was tried, and a verdict was rendered May 1st, 1877, for $1627.50. The verdict was set aside and a new trial ordered. Plff. contends that his interest was known to B. C. Carter, whom it was contended was an agent under R. P. Staniels, the agent of the company at Concord. Deft. company denies that Mr. Carter was their agent. The buildings were burned July 29th, 1875. Plaintiff claimed that Carter had blanks, should solicit insurance, make application and be allowed from the funds of the company a commission of ten per cent for his services, and that the payment of the premium to Carter and receiving the policy from him made him their agent; that the premium when paid ceased to be Sias' property, and became the funds of the company, and that Carter was a local or sub-agent. The testimony in the equity suit having been presented, the case was argued by Samuel C. Eastman, Esq., of Concord, for the company, and by Wm. J. Copeland, Esq., of Maine, for the complainant. The deft. insisted that Carter was the agent of the plaintiff, not of the company; that though the policy was payable to Sias as his interest might appear, they did not insure him as mortgagee; that the existence of other insurance by Cole, mortgager, without consent of the company, vitiated this policy, and that equity would relieve the defendant in the premises; that Carter never claimed to be agent, but could not insure in the companies for which he was agent, but obtained it of Staniels, agent of another company; the company never authorized Carter to act for them, and knew nothing of him until after the fire. The plff. in reply insisted that Carter was the only person with whom he dealt, and the only agent known to the assured. Case submitted.

Patrick Hughes vs. Martha Elsher, formerly Martha Evans; action of covenant broken. It appeared that in July, 1869, Henry Evans died at Dover, leaving his widow as executrix of his will. Real estate was sold to Hughes by Mrs. Elsher as guardian of her children, the property consisting of a brewery, etc., for $10,000; $3500 cash was paid on Aug. 19th, 1870, and notes given for the balance; deed given with covenants usual in a guardian's deed under license, as provided by the New Hampshire statutes; mortgage was given to secure payment of the balance. The buildings were burned, and the plff. says that the covenants had not been complied with, because such an oath, sale at public auction, advertising, etc., as required, are not proved, and no title vested in the plff., and damages are claimed in ten thousand dollars. John R. Varney, register of probate of Strafford county, testified that the license did not appear on the records to have been returned, but that subsequent proceedings had been instituted to perfect the record as to the sale, etc. Considerable evidence, documentary and parole, was adduced on either side as to sale, etc., under the license. T. J. Smith testified that the oath was duly administered, and an auction sale was properly had. The plff. insisted that though there was no discharge or ouster, yet if the conditions were not fully complied with no valid conveyance has been made, and the plff. could recover as damages the purchase money paid; and that the records of the court of probate contain no evidence of these requirements having been complied with. The deft. insisted that the plff. had proved no case. The question tried by the court (jury trial being waived) was, did such sale take place? Neither the auctioneer nor the advertisement were produced at the hearing. The deft. resides in Jersey City, New Jersey.

The body of Theodore C. Blake, son of Rev. Joseph Blake, was recently taken to Wells for interment, he having been killed in Dakota by lightning a few days previously. He was twenty-three years old, and unmarried.

He was a native of Dover, a graduate of Dartmouth college and of Jefferson Medical college, Philadelphia, and during the war was hospital steward of the eleventh New Hampshire regiment of volunteers.

Books, Magazines, Etc.

It is interesting to know where the magazine writers come from. The July "Scribner" will have contributions from John Esten Cooke, Joel Chandler Harris, ("Uncle Remus,") Sidney Lanier, J. A. Macon, William Murfree, Sr., Constance Cary Harrison, George W. Cable, W. D. Howells, Harriet McEwen Kimball, Sarah D. Clark, George P. Fisher, Rose Hawthorne Lathrop, Charles Bernard, Maurice F. Egan, Albert Stickney, May Crosly Roper, Eugene Schuyler, S. B. Parsons, Jr., D. L. Proudfit, and H. W. Elliott. Of these, the first seven are southerners, the next six New Englanders, the next five New Yorkers. If the names of the reviewers were given, there would be accessions to the last two classes. There was, of course, no consideration of section in making up the number, but the recent increase of acceptable work from southern writers is said to be remarkable. Mr. Elliott is from Ohio, we believe, and happens to be the only representative of the west—a section which is continually doing good literary work in many fields.

The most important papers in the "United Service" for June are "Infantry," by Brev. Major Gen. J. Watts de Peyster; "Superstitions and legends of the sea," by Lieut. F. S. Bassett, U. S. N.; "The Austrian artillery," second paper, by Major J. P. Sanger, U. S. A.; "Decoration day, 1881," by Lieut. J. D. J. Kelly, U. S. N.; "Military impotence of Great Britain," from the "Nineteenth Century" magazine; "Should we buy or build our first-class merchant steamers?" by John A. Grier; "Types of vessels required for the navy," by Lieut. R. M. G. Brown, U. S. N. Published by L. R. Hamersly, & Co., Philadelphia; $5 per year; fifty cents per single number.

Had money not been unduly used at New Hampshire elections she would have been without such a long line of republican officials as she can now point to. The improper use of money is what has kept New Hampshire republican for so long a time, and Gov. Bell could not get any law prohibiting such use at elections passed by a republican legislature even if he wanted.—Boston Post.

In the language of the Post, "Here's richness!" There is already a stringent law in this state against the improper use of money at elections, and it was passed by a republican legislature. And every voter in New Hampshire, republican or democrat, knows that for many years past the "best hold" of the democratic leaders has been bribery at the polls.

—Jones: "I see Smith has taken to riding a bicycle. What on earth is he doing that for?" Robinson: "Oh, a very simple reason—to prevent Mrs. Smith from going with him!"

Frank Lacheur was arrested in Lewiston, Me., last Saturday, for bigamy. He was married in Lewiston about three weeks ago to Mary Johnson, whom he enticed from Lowell, Mass. BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb., 1873.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

Dear Sir:—I have used other preparations of Hypophosphites; but they do not compare with yours, which I think is the best medicine for the nervous system I ever used. Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites supplies matter for bone and blood, rendering it highly beneficial for feeble children.

Yours truly, W. T. HORNER.

The police of Newburyport one night last week captured three calves which were running loose in the streets, and put them into a cell in the station house. One of the bunks in that cell was occupied by a man arrested for drunkenness, and when he awoke in the morning with a swelled head and "hot coppers," and heard the bleating of the hungry calves and saw them capering about the cell, he was scared most to death, thinking, quite naturally, that he "had 'em" the very worst kind.

Woman's Wisdom.

"She insists that it is more important that her family shall be kept in full health, than that she should have all the fashionable dresses and styles of the times. She therefore sees to it, that each member of her family is supplied with enough Hop Bitters, at the first appearance of any symptoms of ill health, to prevent a fit of sickness with its attendant expense, care and anxiety. All women should exercise their wisdom in this way."—New Haven Palladium.

Frank Hart of Boston, who has won some notoriety as a "go-as-you-pleaser," was arrested in London last week, and held for trial on a charge of assaulting a woman and stealing twenty-five shillings from her.

News and Notes.

Sitting Bull, with forty lodges, has arrived at Qucappele, Winnipeg, and announces his intention of asking the Canadian government for a reservation. He wants to let his children live with the white people of that country, and be able to sleep soundly himself. His life, he says, was a miserable one on the American side of the line, and he is anxious to live in peace. He grieves over his sixteen-years-old daughter, who was stolen from him by her lover, and taken to the American side.

A terrific hail and wind storm passed over Deadwood, Dakota, on the afternoon of the 6th inst., doing great damage. Hail stones the size of hens' eggs fell for over two hours. One stone measured twenty-two inches in circumference. A whirlwind struck in Deadwood gulch, near the confluence of the Whitewood and Deadwood gulches, completely destroying four houses, killing one woman, the wife of John A. Wolcott of St. Louis, and seriously injuring Mrs. Thomas and her two young children. Hundreds of trees on the hillside were uprooted, and hurled in some instances a distance of over 500 feet. Telegraph poles were torn up for nearly a mile. The whirlwind separated before reaching the thickly settled part of the town, otherwise the damage would have been fearful.

There was an affray in Fayetteville, Ark., Sunday, between City Marshal Wm. Stieman and George F. Reid, which resulted in Reid being shot dead. There was an old fend between the men. Stieman was arrested, and threatened with lynching.

Charles W. Stickney, who murdered Montgomery T. Campan at the supper table of a boarding house in Denver, Col., and at the same time unintentionally killed Mrs. H. O. Devereaux, is a school teacher by profession, thirty-two years of age, and said to be a graduate of Harvard college.

Rufus Miller, a New Jersey farmer, placed an eyestone in his eye five or six years ago just before going to bed, and could not find it the next morning. A few weeks since, feeling something hard on the end of the little finger of his right hand, he peeled off the skin and took out the long-lost eyestone. So the story goes in the papers.

What are known as "jug trains" are now run every Sunday from Fort Scott in Kansas to Kansas City in Missouri. The fare is placed at a reasonable figure, and the trains are for the accommodation of the thirsty citizens who wish to go to Kansas City once a week and replenish their jugs. Since the prohibitory law went into effect in Kansas the express shipments of whiskey from Kansas City to Topeka alone have averaged $300 worth every day. A "jug train" is to be put on soon to run from Topeka to Kansas City.

A real tragedy was enacted in the Theatre Comique at Fort Scott, Kansas, on the 6th inst., Stage Manager Thompson being shot dead, Thomas Carney fatally wounded, and a negro shot in the leg. Jake Pecora was arrested as the murderer.

Old fishermen say they never before saw such numbers of menhaden as were seen off Montauk last week, the steamers averaging from 100,000 to 400,000 fish at a haul.

The Concord railroad and the Boston, Concord & Montreal railroad have engaged the services of a large number of lawyers throughout the state to oppose the Lake Shore extension. When this became known the promoters of the extension took the same steps, and now about all the first cla-s legal talent of the Granite State have been retained on both sides. From present indications it would seem as if the controversy over the affair is to be a heated one, neither side sparing their best efforts to gain their points.—Dover Democrat.

Books, Magazines, &c.

"Bump's Federal Procedure: comprising the title 'Judiciary' in the revised statutes of the United States, the rules of the Supreme Court of the United States, with forms and notes referring to all decisions relating thereto reported to Jan. 1, 1881—by Orlando F. Bump, author of Law and practice in bankruptcy, Law of patents, etc." Baltimore; Cushings & Bailey; sold by all law booksellers, at $6.50.

Mr. Bump's work upon bankruptcy is familiar to lawyers and officers who had business in the district courts and before registers in bankruptcy, under the late bankrupt law.

The practice in the federal courts is increasing largely throughout the United States. At one time lawyers unfamiliar with the rules and modes of practice in these courts, and perhaps living at a great distance from the places where the terms were held, would be likely to place cases in the hands of counsel near the court, and with those familiar in the details of practice which formerly, more than at present, was in many respects widely different from that of the state courts in which they practiced; but this is now changed. The practice in the federal courts consists of four branches, namely: admiralty, criminal, equity, and common law. The first of these has largely increased of late. Once it was confined almost exclusively to the Atlantic and Gulf states, but the commerce of the great lakes of the west has its contracts interpreted in the federal courts, and fresh questions come from the newly developed regions, which have become important in their mercantile consequence.

In the actions at law in the federal courts the practice conforms substantially to the practice in the courts of the several states, and the practitioner with his first case in the courts of the United States must inform himself as to how far the local rules have been adopted or changed by the law of the United States. This is what Mr. Bump's work aids in ascertaining. The various statutes and the notes of cases concerning the same are placed together in concise form, so that the book is not a treatise upon, but a digest of, the law and its construction by the courts down to the beginning of this year. It enables, by its classification and its copious index, the lawyer to ascertain as to every decision upon any especial statute, as well as the statute itself. The rules of practice of the courts of the United States here given are of great service, while forms in equity, admiralty, criminal pleading and at common law, prepared apparently with great care, are to be found. The index of cited cases is over fifty pages, while the general index is nearly as large. In short, here is a collection of statute law, decisions thereon, with the source of authority in each case, and over eighty-four pages of forms, so that judges or lawyers, officers of courts, or parties, can be informed as to the law, matters of practice, rules of evidence, jurisdiction of courts, and the very many questions concerning the federal practice with which so many men otherwise learned in the law are unfamiliar, and to whom a cause in the United States courts is often a severe ordeal, because without wishing to inform their clients of their want of knowledge, they grope their way through a case, relieved now and then by the kindly consideration of such judges as may have time and patience to await their movements. The Federal Procedure will be appreciated by all practitioners who have or are likely to have practice in the federal courts, and who wish to know as to rules, forms and other requisites in cases in these courts.

Ever since the "Cyclopædia of Education," by Kiddle and Schem, was issued, and universally accepted as a standard and indispensable book of reference for professional educators, it has been urged that this book be reproduced in form and price suited to a far wider sphere of usefulness, viz.: as a Manual for teachers and other persons earnestly interested in the education and instruction of their children. In compliance with this demand, an abridgment of the Cyclopædia will be issued in June, entitled "The Dictionary of Education and Instruction," embracing, with the necessary modifications and abbreviations, those articles which relate directly to the theory and practice of teaching as well as to home education. This smaller work—from which a selection of specimen-pages is before us—will be of essential service to teachers both in private and in public schools, for study as well as for reference. It will be welcomed by teachers in normal schools also, as a work which can be readily used as a text-book or reference-guide by their students. To those who take part in teachers' institutes, this compendium comprising instruction upon all the topics to which attention is to be called, will prove particularly valuable. A brief work like the "Dictionary," comprising the articles that relate to practical education, must likewise afford a convenient guide to such parents as do not wish to leave the instruction of their children exclusively to the school teacher, but are anxious to take an active part in it themselves, thus co-operating with the work of the school. The book will be sold at $1.50, a copy, which brings it within reach of all classes. E. Steiger & Co., New York, are the publishers, and we have no doubt the book will have a ready sale everywhere.

At Cheyenne, Wyoming, a case of marriage between a Chinaman, named Lee Chin, and a white woman, Mrs. Eva H. Lee, is attracting much attention. The statutes of Wyoming forbid such intermarriage, and the couple had the ceremony performed in Denver, Colorado. Mr. and Mrs. Lee Chin have been indicted for miscegenation. The Chinese consul at Denver, under direction of the Chinese ambassador at Washington, will contest the case in the courts. A full statement is being prepared for the Chinese ambassador to present to the state department.

The property owned and controlled by this company comprises 160 acres of rich mineral lands, from which large amounts of free gold have been taken in the old style of washing with rockers, besides four lode claims which have been considerably developed during the past year, and show good indications of rich silver veins.

The location of this property is unsurpassed, being near the celebrated "Robinson Consolidated," "White Quartz," "Aftermath" and "Wheel of Fortune" mines, in the Ten-Mile Consolidated Mining District, and as prospect property is as valuable as any in Colorado.

Development work is to be actively and vigorously pushed, under the experienced management of Thos. Gowanlock, one of the most intelligent and experienced mining superintendents in Colorado.

A limited amount of Treasury Stock for promoting above works and purchasing machinery will be sold for a few days at 50 cents per share.

Remember, full-paid $10 shares at 50 cents, which are likely to be worth from $2 to $5 per share within six months.

At the meeting of the Universalist society, Monday evening, Messrs. Edward E. Vaughan, Samuel Green and Oliver Ayers were elected wardens.

The schooner Satellite, Adderton master, arrived at this port on the 6th inst., from Cape Neddick with a load of wood for Abbott's brick-yard at Eliot.

Any person wishing to purchase a good two-seated pleasure wagon, or to hire such a vehicle for the season, can get what is wanted by applying to Mr. J. W. Moses.

Mr. Hiram Amazeen offers for sale his place on Badger's island, Kittery. It is within a few minutes' pull of the Portsmouth wharves, and is one of the most beautiful situations we know of for a summer residence.

A fellow giving his name as James Libbey, and claiming to be a member of a Baptist theological school, is travelling through York county, begging money to assist him in his studies. The Morning Star pronounces him a fraud.

The tax-bill of the Cocheco Manufacturing Co., of Dover, for 1881, is $19,-916.50; Sawyer's woollen mills pay $3,-488.64. The largest individual tax in Dover is paid by Jonathan Sawyer, whose tax (exclusive of that on the mills) is $1,648.74.

Mr. M. Garrity is now bottling for family use, and delivering to order free of expense, the excellent article of stock porter produced by the Portsmouth Brewing Co. This porter is fully equal to the best imported English porter, and is supplied at a much lower price.

A Rye correspondent writes us that the thermometer there was down to thirty-eight above zero at five o'clock Tuesday morning, and Jack Frost was on the rampage among the potato vines in the low grounds on the previous night, so that they had a decidedly wilted appearance in the morning; if not ruined, the crop will be put back several days. He adds, "—— old Veanor!"

The Dover cornet band has been engaged to furnish music for a Boston commandry of Knights Templar that will visit the Isles of Shoals on the 17th inst. The commandry will leave Boston on the 7:30 A. M. train, and will be met by the band in this city, from whence they will proceed to the Shoals, returning in time to catch the evening train for the Hub.

A hearing before the county commissioners took place in the town hall at Rye on the 6th inst., on the appeal of Woodbury Seavey from an award for land damages. John S. H. Frink, Esq., was counsel for Mr. Seavey, and Charles E. Batchelder, Esq., appeared for the selectmen of Rye. The hearing lasted several hours, and the decision of the commissioners was not announced at the close.

There is a milk farm in Portsmouth on the Greenland road, at the "Great Swamp." The proprietor, an emigrant from Erin's green isle, put up a rude cabin among the bushes some years ago, which has been metamorphosed into a nice house with a garden around it; a good milk-cart is daily driven into the city, and the thrifty proprietor has a dozen cows feeding along the road in charge of a herder. So much for economy.

Both masses at St. Mary's church, yesterday, were celebrated by the pastor, who announced that in future there would be three masses every Sunday. He is about to be assigned an assistant, Rev. Cornelius O'Callaghan, brother of Rev. Father O'Callagan of Portsmouth. We understand that the building of a church on the site of the New Hampshire house is now indefinitely postponed; and furthermore we learn that the New Hampshire house itself is to be used as a parochial residence for the present by Fathers Murphy and O'Callaghan.—Dover Democrat.

The ladies of the Universalist society will hold their annual strawberry festival and sale of aprons and fancy articles in their vestry on Thursday evening, June 9th. Cake, ice cream, etc., will also be for sale. The ladies would announce that there will be no lotteries, and that no one will be importuned to buy. There will be a photograph album on exhibition, and vocal music, with many other attractions. Doors open at seven; admission, adults fifteen cents, children under twelve years, ten cents.

RARE CHANCE FOR INVESTMENT.

Our citizens will be pleased to learn that the Kearsarge mill-site and the five lots contiguous thereto—nearly five acres in all—which property was recently purchased by a syndicate composed of some of Portsmouth's most enterprising and successful business men, viz.: Benjamin F. Webster, Frank Jones, Ezra H. Winchester, J. Albert Walker, Charles H. Mendum and William Ward, was not bought on speculation, as was supposed at the time, but will be held by these gentlemen for six months or more in the hope that some manufacturing enterprise may come to Portsmouth and avail itself of this splendid property, worth three times the amount of the purchase money, freed from taxation for a period of ten years, covered with valuable building materials, and in short unsurpassed for manufacturing purposes by any other property in the state. Parties desiring to engage in any manufacturing industry will find the gentlemen before mentioned willing to assume a fair share of the risks and expenses necessary to prosecute such an undertaking to a successful consummation.

THE LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEES.

Mr. Editor: A look over the list of the standing committees of the New Hampshire house of representatives shows that not a single chairmanship is allotted to Portsmouth, while Manchester has six chairmanships, Concord three, and Nashua, Dover and Keene one each. A writer in the Times would like to know why this is thus. I would tell him if I knew, but I don't; but I know that it was just the same in the last legislature, only more so, for Portsmouth then had not a single chairmanship, while Manchester and Concord had even a larger proportion of the whole number than they have in the present house. I think the speaker of the house must be a wag, for I see that he has placed on the committee on elections a representative from this city who represents one ward while living in another, notwithstanding the law insists that every member shall be a resident of the town or ward which he represents.

CURIO.

THE MARINE BICYCLE.

It is not likely that Major Urch's marine bicycle will ever take the transatlantic passenger trade from the big steamships, or supercede surf-boats as a means of rescuing the crews of stranded vessels; but we think it more than likely to become a popular craft on rivers, small lakes and other placid waters, as it is safe, speedy and easily managed. The major will, we have no doubt, make well by it; and we hope he may, for he is a genuine worker, and not a bit afraid of his muscle. When he put on the river the first machine of the kind he made, we gave a detailed description of it; but it has been greatly improved since then, and the following, from "Telzah's" letter from this city in the last number of the Bicycling World, will no doubt be of interest to many persons:

The craft as now constructed is twenty-six feet long, and the two air-tight catamaran floats, each seven inches wide, are fastened three feet four inches apart, upon and between which are the backbone, handle bar and pedals of the road bicycle; and the position, steering, and propulsion by the rider are identical. An inclined propeller shaft, running between the floats from the centre to the stern, is revolved by means of two bevelled gears, the larger wheel of which is connected with the pedal shaft. At the end of the propeller shaft is a two-bladed propeller, the motion of which can be at once reversed,—stopping almost instantly the headway of the boat, and enabling the rider to drive the craft backwards about as fast as forwards. Directly astern of the propeller is a peculiar-shaped rudder, connected by chains with the handle bar, which is placed in front of the rider, as in the road bicycle, and the course of the craft is directed by it either to port or starboard when running forward and backward. The handle bar is a new feature, having been found more practical, especially to bicyclers, then a steering wheel. Above the handle is an adjustable awning to protect the rider from the sun or rain, and it can instantly be changed into a sail, set at any desired angle. When in shoal water, beaching, transporting, or sailing, the propeller and its shaft can be instantly raised by the operator without leaving his seat. A gleaner, with composition prongs, placed in front of the propeller, prevents it from getting foul with floating seaweed and other obstructions.

The appearance of the swift-running craft on the river is very novel, and never fails to attract hundreds to the wharves and banks. As it floats nearly on a level with the water, the rider at a distance has the appearance of walking on the water, and a number of instances of yachtmen and seamen lowering their boats in the lower harbor and outside to rescue the floating mariner or venturesome landlubber have occurred. The first trip of the writer, last year, by the towns of Eliot and Newington to Dover point, created the same excitement that he did when, as pioneer bicycler, he explored the country villages and towns in this part of the state. The inhabitants along the river exhibited as much excitement and curiosity as did the copper-colored aborigines when Pocahontas Smith sailed his exploring vessel over the waters of the Piscataqua. Any one can manage the boat, it being perfectly safe, as it cannot be turned over, and even if all its ten air-tight compartments were broken it would still float.

Henry F. Wendell, the well known auctioneer, will sell at the Hart house, next to the old ladies' home on Deer and Russell streets, to-day, furniture and other household articles some of which may have an antiquity well worth the attention of those who appreciate such purchases.

Naval Affairs.

The Shenandoah was at Montevideo on April 29th.

The practice ship Dale arrived at Annapolis on the 2d inst., in tow of the tug Standish, and was put in commission on the 3d.

At first it was considered rather fast for English ladies to ride tricycles, but now that Queen Victoria and the Princess Beatrice ride, it is quite the thing. And so professors of the bicycle and tricycle abound in London, and the racing and chasing along the suburban roads at twilight, and the laughing and chatting as the iron coursers shoot by, give quite a new aspect to the solitary walks around London.

—The season approaches when the man who enjoys a morning nap gets up, puts his head out of the window, and tells the man in the next yard to quit running that lawn mower, if he doesn't want to have his red head thumped when the speaker gets down stairs.—Boston Post.

—Queer thing: Jones says that there is one thing about which he and his wife can never agree. When he says a woman is homely, Mrs. Jones always sees something interesting about her, and when he speaks of another as pretty, his helpmate will inevitably declare that she is positively ugly, or at least remark that she cannot for her part see where people's eyes are. Greater philosophers than Jones have pondered over this same problem during their whole lives, and died at last leaving it unsolved.—Boston Transcript.

Two Real-Life Pictures.

In a large city, a laboring man leaving a large saloon saw a costly carriage standing in front occupied by two ladies elegantly attired, conversing with the proprietor. As it rolled away he said to the dealer: "Whose establishment is that?" "It is mine," replied the dealer, complacently. "It cost $3,500; my wife and daughter cannot do without it." The mechanic bowed his head a moment in deep thought; then looking up with the energy of a man suddenly aroused by some startling flash: "I see it! I see it!" "See what?" queried the dealer. "See where for years my wages have gone. I helped pay for that carriage, for those horses and gold-mounted harness, for the silks and laces and jewelry of your family. The money I earned that should have given my wife and children a home of our own and good clothing, I have spent at your bar. My wages and of others like me, have supported you and your family in luxury. Hereafter my wife and children shall have the benefit of my wages, and by the help of God I will never spend another cent for drink. I see the mistake and the cure for it."

A brick-mason was drinking at the bar when the landlord's wife called the barkeeper to dinner. "What's for dinner?" asked the man. "Roast turkey," replied the woman. "Is there cranberry sauce?" "No." "Well, go make some; I don't eat turkey without cranberry sauce." The mason came to his senses. "Here's that man can't eat roast turkey without cranberry sauce, while my wife and children are often glad to get a herring. Whose money, I should like to know, provides this fellow with good things? Mine, and others as blind as I have been. Well! what's done can't be undone, but my money can't provide roast turkey for other men any more."

—It is now believed that the oleomargarine factories put hair in their goods, thus rendering it more difficult of detection than ever.

—Coffee county, Tenn., is being settled up by emigrants from Massachusetts. Of course they must find good grounds upon which to settle.

Don't Trust Them.

When you feel badly, and have pains here and there through your body that you don't know how to account for, it is the most foolish policy in the world to take the advice of people who say: "Oh! there's nothing the matter with you. Let yourself alone and you will come out all right." These folks know nothing about it, and may be trifling with your life. You may have kidney or liver trouble. Send right out to your druggist and get a bottle of Dr. David Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy" and then you will be all right, or write to the doctor at Rondout, N. Y.

James Heywood of Washington, Pa., a wife murderer, was captured in Kansas last week, and taken home on Sunday. He has another wife in Indiana, and boasts of having killed a man in Utah.

His Ignorance cost me $150.

I was sick abed for three months. The doctor said I had prolapsus uteri, which was untrue. He didn't try to cure me, but wanted to make a $1.50 every day. My uncle is a druggist, and he told me to turn the doctor off and try Sulphur Bitters. I did so, and five dollars worth of Sulphur Bitters cured me of general weakness and debility.—Mrs. S——, New Haven.

It is once more announced that the law officers in New York have information fixing the Morey letter conspiracy and authorship, and "arrests are expected daily."

The Best Remedy for Chapped Hands

Is Hegeman's Camphor Ice. It should be rubbed upon the part affected. The warmth of the skin will soften it sufficiently, under ordinary circumstances, but in extreme cold weather, it may be necessary to warm it by the fire. If the hands are badly chapped, apply every night, and protect the hands by wearing an old pair of kid gloves. Hegeman's is the best and most popular of all the Camphor Ices made. Hegeman's Camphor Ice is also a cure for sore lips, chapped face, and sunburn. It is compounded with glycerine, which renders it more emollient than any other Camphor Ice; it will be found a most soothing application to the face after shaving.

"Incomparably superior to the trashy articles which are palmed upon the public," is the verdict of Professor Duncan Campbell, M. D., L. L. D. (President Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons, Member General Council, University of Edinburgh, etc., etc.), in regard to the Liebig Co's Arnicated Extract of Witch Hazel. It cures piles, salt rheum, catarrah, rheumatism, neuralgia, painful monthly flow, sore throat, varicose veins. Beware of counterfeits. Sold in fifty cents and dollar sizes.

INTERNATIONAL Pavement Co.

FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS,

With a Bonus of Stock.

The pavement made by this Company has met with the highest favor, both in this country and in Europe, and it is considered to approach perfection more nearly than any other.

The Works of the Company are at Providence, R. I., and at Hastings, N. Y., and the needs of its business will soon require additional ones at Chicago and other large cities.

Negotiations are now pending with capitalists in London and Paris for the right to manufacture and use this pavement in those cities.

The Company requires additional means to extend the facilities for manufacturing, and offer for sale the second $100,000 of their six per cent bonds (convertible into stock) at par and interest. These bonds carry a bonus of stock, which is fixed for the present at fifty per cent.

THE RED MASK.

A Mocking Demon Stalking Abroad.

There are for many reasons, few diseases more to be dreaded than Erysipelas, and it has, not inaptly, been termed "St. Anthony's Fire." There is no disease which so completely deforms and disfigures the visage of the patient; and it may fairly be compared to a red mask thrown by a mocking demon over the human face. It is almost as dangerous as it is repulsive. Arising from a variety of causes, running its course with pain—it often ends suddenly in death. The old treatment consisted of blood-letting and the use of strong drastic purgatives. The substance of the enlightened modern treatment is all contained in Dr. Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy." Use this and you have taken the essential total of all the best physicians in the land could prescribe for Erysipelas. A case in point. Mr. S. B. Carpenter, of Grandville, N. Y., writes that he had for some time been afflicted with this disease in both legs, and has regained his health by the sole use of "Favorite Remedy." Other cases might be cited, did space permit. "Favorite Remedy" is also sure in its action in all other diseases of the blood. Ask your druggist for it, or address the proprietor, Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, New York.

Stealing a Hog.

A lawyer from this city attended the superior court of Stewart county, which has been in session during the week. In the progress of the court he was employed to defend a man who was charged with stealing a hog. The evidence was circumstantial, and the lawyer was particularly happy in detailing how often men had been convicted upon circumstantial evidence, and it afterward appeared that they were innocent. He recited a case in which a man was charged with murder. A man was killed, the accused was seen near the spot with a bloody knife in his hand and blood upon his clothing. It was also proven that the accused was a bitter enemy of the dead man, and all the circumstances pointed to his guilt beyond the shadow of a doubt. The presiding officer, Judge Hale, charged the jury and expected them to return in a few minutes with a verdict of guilty. They all agreed but one man, and reported the fact to the judge. He sent them out again, and the same thing was repeated for a number of times, and finally he discharged the jury with a severe reprimand. The judge was curious to know why the juror would not agree to the verdict, and sent for him, when he asked:

"Why was it that you would not find a verdict?"

"I'll tell you, Judge, upon one condition, and that is you must swear you'll never tell it."

The judge agreed to it, and he then said:

"I killed that man myself."

When Solicitor Grimes' time came he turned it very nice; he began his speech by saying that he fully agreed that circumstantial evidence should be carefully weighed. He did not believe that the above case was applicable to the one being tried. He did not believe that there was a man on the jury who would be guilty of stealing a hog, but if there was, and he had stolen the hog in question, he certainly would not censure him for finding the prisoner guilty.

At this point the lawyer got very much interested, and rose to explain to the court and jury that he did not intend that any such construction should be put upon his remarks, and hoped they would not think so. It certainly was not applicable, for they found the accused guilty of stealing the hog.—Georgia paper.

A New Fashion of Sleeping.

which is rapidly coming into vogue of husbands and wives occupying separate beds. The practice is said to be an European one, and is being received in New York with great favor. It has long been held by physicians that the habit of two persons occupying the same sleeping couch was a vicious one, as the superior magnetism of one would draw the vitality out of the other; and while one would awake in the morning refreshed and hardly able to drag the body around during the day. Acting upon this Europe-freshed with new energy, the other would awaken enervated and listless, pean theory, it is supposed that the dealers in beds and bedding have secretly organized a boom in their business, and knowing how a fashion will be followed by a people, they are preparing for a season of prosperity. But, be this as it may, there is little doubt that the fashion of sleeping singly has its good as well as bad points, and it will be hailed with delight by those husbands whose wives are troubled with charity feet. It will also come as a sweet boon to the tired wife whose husband is a beautiful dreamer and habitually kicks her out of bed as he yells: "I'll sell two thousand March at six seven-eights." But on the rich old husband, whose young wife is kept awake by his asthma, and who will avail herself of the new fashion for a night of undisturbed repose, it will fall with a leaden hand, and his supply of magnetism being cut off he will droop and die and leave his cash so much the sooner. There are, as we said, many good features which will recommend themselves to different people upon reflection. Acting upon the new fashion, it is said that landlords are already providing the bridal chambers in their hotels with two beds, thus aiming to leave nothing undone that will be conducive to the comfort of the guests. Upon the whole the new fashion is one possessed of great merit.—Peck's Sun.

Woman's Wisdom.

"She insists that it is more important that her family shall be kept in full health, than that she should have all the fashionable dresses and styles of the times. She therefore sees to it, that each member of her family is supplied with enough Hop Bitters, at the first appearance of any symptoms of ill health, to prevent a fit of sickness with its attendant expense, care and anxiety. All women should exercise their wisdom in this way."—New Haven Palladium.

Frank Bayham, wanted in Lowell, Mass., for the larceny of a watch six years ago, was arrested at the Everett mills in Lawrence, June 7th, where he was employed. Since the theft was committed he has served five years in the Maine state prison for larceny.

"Incomparably superior to the trashy articles which are palmed upon the public," is the verdict of Professor Duncan Campbell, M. D., L. L. D. (President Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons, Member General Council, University of Edinburgh, etc., etc.), in regard to the Liebig Co's Armicated Extract of Witch Hazel. It cures piles, salt rheum, catarrah, rheumatism, neuralgia, painful monthly flow, sore throat, varicose veins. Beware of counterfeits. Sold in fifty cents and dollar sizes.

News and Notes.

The Constitution left the Norfolk navy yard for Newport, R. I., on the 7th inst.

Dennis Doherty, twenty-five years of age, was drowned in a canal at Lowell, Mass., on the night of the 6th inst., while attempting to evade arrest by the police for being drunk.

Etta Almy of Woonsockett, R. I., got up a sensation a few days ago by trying to shoot herself, having had some trouble with Frank Carter. The bullet didn't come near her, but she nearly died of fright, and threw the pistol out of the window.

Jared Price, a well-to-do farmer of Reading, Pa., while suffering from undue religious excitement tried to hang himself, and failing, cut his throat from ear to ear.

The steamer Bristol ran down and sank a small yacht on Long Island sound on the night of the 6th inst. The crew of the yacht were saved.

Charles D. Kidder of Springfield, Mass., aged thirty-five years, a well-known travelling salesman for the Boston dry goods firm of Libby & Clark, was murdered at ten o'clock at night on the 7th inst. by his half-brother, Dwight Kidder, aged seventeen years. The aged father of the two men was recently allowed by the younger to go out on the street while very sick, and the elder called it gross carelessness; this enraged the younger, and on the night of the murder Dwight called at Charles' house and asked him if he was ready to take back his words. Charles told him to go home and tried to push him from the door, when the boy drew a pistol and shot Charles through the heart.

Mr. Jefferson Davis himself is now authority for the story that when he was captured he had on his wife's waterproof and shawl. So that historical fact is settled.

In the Lawrence, Mass., house of correction is a graduate of one of the first universities of the old world. He is probably the most learned man that an Essex county prison has held for years. Rum brought him there. Another prisoner there is serving his thirty-fourth sentence. Rum also started him on the down grade and has kept him there.

Ten druggists and liquor dealers in violation of the clause in their licenses pertaining to the selling of intoxicants to minors. The person who appears against them is said to be but seventeen years of age, and is a "spotter" from a detective agency in Boston. The parties arraigned waived the reading of the complaints, pleaded not guilty, and were held to appear for further examination.

Mary Casey, of New Haven, Conn., quarrelled with her lover, John T. Cogan, on the 7th inst., and Cogan shot her. She will recover, and Cogan will go to prison.

At Chesouing, Michigan, at a late hour on the night of the 6th, a gang of roughs attached to Hilliard & DeMotte's circus made a descent assault upon a crowd of people assembled at a dance, and commenced an attack, armed with clubs. Augustus Emery, a policeman, was pounded to death; Fred Wenzell was fatally injured; J. B. Griswold, the village president, was severely bruised; Charles Homer received a pistol ball in the face, and a dozen others were cut and bruised. Five of the gang were arrested, and with difficulty the people were restrained from lynching them. In all, thirteen arrests were made.

A letter from Russia states that about thirty army officers, including a colonel of the Imperial Guards, have been arrested the past month. Among the naval officers is a relative of Procureur General Nouravieff, who conducted the prosecution of Rousakoff and other nihilists executed for complicity in the murder of the Czar.

Ku-Klux outrages are reported from Petryville, Arkansas. Letters have been received by L. M. Harris, judge of the county court, and other prominent citizens, warning them to leave the county, or fire and gunpowder will be used against them, or a night attempt will be made to destroy the town by fire. A newspaper office was recently ignited, but citizens extinguished the flames and drove the incendiaries away before they applied the torch to other houses. Intense excitement prevails and blood will probably be shed, as the citizens are determined to crush the outlaws.

The board of aldermen of Lowell, Mass., up to the evening of June 7th refused to grant any licenses to sell liquor; on that evening they "went into executive session"—whatever that may mean—and granted one hundred and fifteen licenses, refusing no applications, though about an equal number remain to be acted upon. Two aldermen stuck to their prohibitory principles; but the mayor and two other aldermen, who had previously voted no license, went over to the other side. The following tariff for liquor licenses was established: First class, $400; second and third classes, $200; fourth class, wholesale $350, retail, $200; fifth class, $150.

A nitro-glycerine factory near Unionport, Westchester county, N. Y., exploded on the 17th inst., blowing an Italian to pieces and fatally injuring Wm. Ager, the owner.

At Arkansas City, Arkansas, on the 5th inst., a new elevated boiler exploded, killing the engineer, and badly wounding the fireman and two carpenters. The cause was insufficiency of water in the boiler, and the carelessness of the engineer.

At Jackboro', Tenn., June 6th, Rev. W. P. R. Newberry of Kentucky was killed by J. J. Oakes of Elk Valley. Oakes had eloped with Newberry's daughter, and married her. Newberry pursued, with four others, and surrounded the house where Oakes was; they approached the door with drawn revolvers, and Oakes met Newberry at the door, and shot him dead. The murderer is in custody.

At Pittsburg, Pa., June 7th, William Murphy, the divorced husband of Mrs. Newton McClarran, visited her house at Edgewood, and when Mrs. McClarran appeared threw his arms around her neck, and while thus embracing her drew a revolver and shot her in the back. He fired a second shot which entered her breast, and then blew out his own brains. Mrs. McClarran, it is thought, will recover. She obtained a divorce from Murphy on account of ill treatment, and subsequently married again.

It is said that the rise in the value of timber and mineral lands in Centre county, Pa., is simply enormous. Jamison, a Philadelphia banker, has, with a syndicate, invested $1,000,000 there. Mercer, a Boston capitalist, has purchased mining lands to the extent of $1,200,000. The Carnegies of Pittsburg had a company formed on the basis of the properties around Tyrone, especially Potter township, with a capital of $5,000,000. The Pennsylvania railroad company has purchased all the railroads and invested large sums in mining land, it is said $2,000,000. The Cambria Iron company recently paid $73,000 cash for the lease of 300 acres of brown hematite ores for twelve years. There will soon be no mineral lands to be had in that county.

The New York Indicator learns from reliable authority that the products of the grain producing states, principally in spring and winter wheat, will fall short 125,000,000 bushels from the yield of 1880, consequently the export trade in this article will be greatly reduced. A wheat crop in Illinois will fall short from thirty-five to fifty per cent, in Minnesota fully fifty per cent, in Indiana thirty-five to forty, and in Ohio from eighteen to twenty per cent from last year's production; and spring wheat will be twenty per cent less than the winter wheat crop.

Sarah C. Sauerbier of Philadelphia devised an estate worth $750,000 to four nephews and two nieces, entirely cutting off a fifth nephew, Charles Christman, who had formerly been her favorite. He determined to contest the will. He obtained citations for the six heirs, and went to their residence to serve the papers. A few minutes afterward he was flung into the street, having been beaten, scratched, and bitten. He infers that he will meet with some opposition in his suit.

Two members of the American Canoe association and the Lake George Canoe club, will start from Lake George at the close of the August meeting, on a canoe voyage of 12,000 miles. They will go to Troy, thence by the Erie canal to Buffalo, by the lake to Erie, by the Allegheny river to Pittsburg, down the Ohio and Mississippi and around the Gulf of Mexico, around the coast of Central America and to Cuba, and thence back to the Florida reefs and home by the Atlantic coast. They expect to be absent about a year. The voyage will be made in a double canoe, sixteen feet long, thirty-two inches beam, and fourteen inches depth.

A witness in an Ottawa court refused to be sworn on the old version of the Bible, and the judge allowed the use of a revised New Testament.

Two Wisconsin boys went to a menagerie and became filled with the idea of starting a beast show of their own, using such material as was within reach. They painted stripes on a white pony for a zebra, sheared the hind half of a big Newfoundland dog for a lion, cut off the forelegs of a calf for a kangaroo, and were about to make a tailless cat by chopping, when their father discovered them.

A Washington girl has highly interesting hair. Its color used to be a light blonde. Dr. D. W. Prentiss reports to the Smithsonian Institution that he gave her jaborandi, a Brazilian plant, as a cure for blood poisoning. Her hair soon began to darken, and in four months was almost black.

The Nazione, a newspaper of Florence, Italy, states that the Florentine police have discovered an extensive association of malefactors among the employes of the Roman railways, to whose operations are due many serious robberies of passengers and baggage. Twelve conductors and guards, and two of the principal receivers of stolen goods, have been arrested.

AROUND HOME.

The schooners Hattie Lewis, D. K. Ham and G. W. Raitt, of the brick fleet, were in the lower harbor "waiting for a slant" to run to Boston, on Wednesday.

A little boy named Holland, about three years of age, son of John Holland, who lives on Gates street, was severely bitten about the face and head by a dog, while at play on Wednesday evening. The brute was taken to the station house and shot.

In the case of Patrick Hughes vs. Martha Elsher, action of covenant broken, heard before the United States circuit court in this city on Monday, Judge Lowell held that the alleged breaches of covenant had not been shown, and found for the defendant.

The yacht Highlander has arrived at this port from the eastward—from Booth-bay, it is reported—having been purchased by Mr. Stephen Decatur. She has been taken to Kittery, where she will be put in the best possible condition under the superintendence of Mr. Richard Philbrick.

A French Canadian family of thirteen persons passed through Dover on the 7th inst., bound from Springvale, Me., to Newmarket. They had to wait at the Boston & Maine depot for a half hour, until the Portland train came, and the eleven children, the oldest of whom was fourteen years old, attracted a large crowd of people who never saw before such a cluster, all in a row, from eleven months to fourteen years old.

A lady who lives near the boundary line of Greenland and Stratham being desirious of procuring a new carpet for the hall floor of her residence, purchased a quantity of burlaps which had been used for baling purposes; her brother, who has been a painter in this city, sized and prepared it, and the lady painted the prepared "canvas" in rich colors and with artistic designs. She now has a carpet which excites the admiration of all her visitors, but nobody else can procure one like it.

A petition was presented in the legislature on the 8th inst., from citizens of Newmarket, asking that the Newmarket and Stratham bridge be made a free one. On the same day Mr. Hatch of Greenland presented the petition of Ichabod Goodwin and others, for a change of name of the Children's Home in this city to that of "Chase Home for Children." Mr. Laighton of this city introduced a bill to limit the liability of municipalities in actions for damages on account of personal injuries resulting from defective highways.

The steamer James Sampson is to have a new deck, new guards, and new stanchions and rail; she will have two strakes of oak, three inches thick, put in under her guards, and be placed in first-class order in every way. She opens as bright as the day she was built. The schooner Rover's Bride, at Call's wharf, is being made practically a new vessel; her main deck is in, and her quarter deck framed out. Mr. Warren Keen is supervising the repairs on both these vessels, and has the assistance of a number of the old ship carpenters and bosses.

Tuesday afternoon City Marshal Entwistle observed on the street three rather hard-looking boys, and questioned them as to whence they came. They replied that they belonged here, but could not tell in what part of the city they lived, so they were locked up to await developments. After being put in the cells they acknowledged that their first account of themselves was false, and said they belonged in Salem, Mass., and had come here to look for work, having made the passage on a freight train. A telegram was sent to the city marshal of Salem concerning them, but no answer having been received at noon on Wednesday, they were dismissed, and took their way up Market street. They appeared to be fifteen or sixteen years old, and did not look like hard workers.

Isaac Bayley, the Danbury man who was arrested at the instance of the N. H. S. P. C. A. for cruelty to his cattle in not providing them with proper food and shelter the past severe winter, was brought before Squire Webster of Danbury on Friday, the 3d inst., and bound over in the sum of two hundred dollars for his appearance at the October term of the supreme court at Concord. Several other cases of cruelty are awaiting trial, and it is to be hoped that the offenders will get the punishment they deserve.

The ladies of the Universalist society will hold their annual strawberry festival and sale of aprons and fancy articles in their vestry on Thursday evening, June 9th. Cake, ice cream, etc., will also be for sale. The ladies would announce that there will be no lotteries, and that no one will be importuned to buy. There will be a photograph album on exhibition, and vocal music, with many other attractions. Doors open at seven; admission, adults fifteen cents, children under twelve years, ten cents.

The Biddeford Times says "Miss Ida Blackwell of New York is matched for a twenty-five-mile go-as-you-please race with C. A. Bodwell of Sanford. The race to take place in Springvale."

Mrs. Samuel Stackpole, of "Berwick side," Great Falls, arose from her bed sometime between four and six o'clock on the morning of the 7th inst., leaving her husband asleep, and hung herself to a rafter in the attic of the house. Life had been extinct for some time when she was found. No cause is assigned for the rash act except that the unfortunate woman was subject at times to fits of despondency. She was sixty years old, and a woman much respected in the neighborhood in which she resided.

YORK CORNER, ME., June 6th.

Dam-ing is still carried on at the old mill-pond. I am told that quite a number of alewives, placed in the pond by Capt. Emerson, have departed this life, and "gone hence to be here no more forever." The laborers spell their dam with an "n."

The Christian church was opened for services yesterday. Two strangers were present; Rev. Mr. Philips of Epsom, and a listener who had not been there for seven years. Mr. Philips gave a very profound and interesting sermon from the words "And he said unto them, Sirs, what must I do to be saved." I am pleased to say that it was a most excellent one, delivered with a modest and fine oratory. One of his beliefs, however, as he stated it, would leave a mighty small company for jewels in the realms beyond the skies; or, at least, the representation from York would be small, and I think I may safely add Kittery, and the land of lawyers, South Berwick. In answer to the conundrum propounded by the jailor, our minister (who by the way is only on trial) says if a professor lies he is not saved; if intemperate he is not saved; if he gets angry he is not saved; and other "ifs," he is not saved. In listening and musing I thought the saved ones would be few, if his theory be correct. I was afraid he would say if a professor stole anything he would not be saved, but I am glad he didn't, for I know somebody would have fainted. But "all in all" it was a good sermon, well delivered.

The Marshall house is very near completion; carpenters, masons and painters worked yesterday (Sunday,) and are rushing the work. The poles are already erected for the reception of the telephone wire from the telegraph office to the Marshall house. P.

Bait that didn't Attract.

"See that gentleman yonder?" observed a man in Washington the other day; "he's a new member of Congress, and a man of great ability. I want to tell you about him. Fifteen years ago we were living in the same county, practicing law before the same courts. He had all the business he could manage, but he took to drinking, and gradually went down. We all felt a deep sympathy with him, because he was too good to throw away, and we decided to try an old plan on him. So four of us got together and moved off toward the nearest bar-room, where we knew we should find him. 'Come on in, Tom, and have something,' we said. 'Don't care if I do. Give me a little of the same.' While we were talking, one of the party managed to drop a small fishing-worm into his glass. We all drank except Tom. He took up his glass, looked at it carefully, then put it down. We rallied him on his cowardice, and he made another desperate effort, but he couldn't lose sight of that worm. 'What's the matter, Tom? Why don't you drink?' After a vacant stare he said: 'Well, I ain't thirsty,' and walked toward the door. I have been told, and I believe it, that this was his last visit there. He broke off from that day, and his natural talents shot up again like a cork."

What Modern Science Can Do.

While the proprietor of a restaurant in New York was standing behind the counter recently, catching flies for currant cake, and wishing that a little of the business wave that the eastern papers say so much about would slop over into his restaurant, as it were, a young man with a beaming smile on his face and a big box under his arm entered.

"Don't want any sleeve buttons, nor nothin'," growled the dyspepsia distributor, glancing at the box.

"No, nor I," said the stranger, affably, depositing the box on the counter and removing the lid. "But what you do want is the greatest invention of record-ed time — the restaurant-keeper's friend — the boarding-house keeper's salvation!"

"Roach poison?" said the steak stretcher, contemptuously.

"No, sir," retorted the young man, taking a handful of singularly-shaped objects out of the box. "Something that beats the phonograph and telephone all hollow. I refer to the 'Skidmore chop!'"

"What's that?"

"Why, it's the most economical device of modern times, and I'll prove it right here. Suppose you are serving a dinner to say six persons? Now, how many chops do you usually put on the table?"

"Well, about two apiece, say twelve."

"And how many are eaten?"

"Hum! about four."

"Exactly; that is about the average, as our restaurant statistics show. As a matter of course, however, you are compelled to cook three times as much as you need, to make a show. Now, if you could save six chops every dinner for a year it would amount to—"

"A fortune," said the man of cutlets, eagerly. "All we can do with 'em now is to work 'em over into hashes."

"Peace to your hashes," said the agent; "all this unnecessary waste is now prevented by the introduction of some dish of the patent Skidmore indestructible rubber chop, put up in packages of one dozen and warranted for five years," and the food economizer exhibited some lifelike imitations of cooked mutton chops.

"Looks like a good scheme," said the conductor of stews, thoughtfully; "but don't the customer over—"

"Ever tumble? Not in the least. He only notices that one chop is tougher than the other, and finally gets his fork in and chews ahead. The smaller ones come higher, as they are made of a little more limber article of rubber for lamb chops. Can't be told from the genuine by the naked eye. All you have to do is to grease 'em on both sides, warm 'em up a little, and serve them mixed in with the others same as usual."

"Seems like they are about as tender as the regulation kind," said the restaurant-anter, jabbing one with a fork. "Don't they ever get eaten by mistake?"

"No—no—that is, not now. We did lose a few that way when introduced, but now that we make the material tougher, it don't happen any more unless they will swallow them whole. Why, here's a specimen that's been in use in a Chicago eating saloon for years, night and day, and you can't see the first tooth-print in it yet."

"That settles it," said the restaurant-er; "I'll take a gross."

"I thought you would," said the chop agent, as he took down the order and emphatically declined an invitation for some lunch. "I will drop around in a few days and show you samples of some soft, white rubber lobsters we are getting up especially for the country trade—make the best article of indestructible salad ever known," and he shouldered his box and walked off in the direction of his hotel.

Wet Food for Horses.

A writer for the Live Stock Journal says of farm horses that they are obliged to work very hard, and therefore it is not only right and just, but for the best pecuniary interest of their owners, to see that they are well fed. And it seems best that they not only have good food and plenty of it, but also that it should be given to them wet. He believes a great many horses are permanently injured by being kept in the summer, when working, upon dry hay and meal.

Just what injury will result from this course of feeding cannot be foretold to a certainty; whether it will take the form of derangement of the digestive organs, or affections of the throat and lungs, will depend somewhat upon the natural tendencies of the animals, and the quality and conditions of the food they receive. But injury of some kind will be very likely to result. It is but little trouble to wet the food, and it is better and safer than it is to feed it to them dry.

For a horse that is at work most of the time, cut feed is the best which can be given. But if the hay is not cut, it pays to throw on a little water. Feeding dry meal has been highly recommended, and the writer tried it, but is not satisfied with the results; he thinks it is better to put the meal in a pail, and mix it with water.

Eight Gallons Apiece.

The New York Times, after giving the statistics of the consumption of spirituous liquors in Great Britain, adds:

"Astonishing as these figures are, they can be easily duplicated in this country. In the item of spirits, for instance, the consumption is steadily growing, instead of decreasing as in England, and has doubled within ten years. In 1870 the quantity of fermented liquors returned for taxation to the commissioner of internal revenue was, 6,570,000 barrels of thirty-one gallons each. During the fiscal year ending June 30, there were returned 13,347,000 barrels. That is to say, 414,000,000 gallons of fermented domestic liquors were made and drank in that twelvemonth by something over 50,000,000 people. An annual allowance of eight gallons of spirit to each man, woman and child is certainly ample, but to make the estimate complete there must be added all that was imported and all that was made on the sly."

—When a man begins to go down-hill he finds everything greased for the occasion, says a philosopher,—who might have added that when he tries to climb up he finds everything greased for the occasion, too.

New Hampshire Items.

A horse belonging to a farmer in New Durham was killed by the pay train of the Boston & Maine railroad at Davis' crossing, near Farmington, on the 6th inst. The horse was loose, and lying down; it was knocked from the track, and the train was quickly stopped, when it was found that one of the animal's legs and several ribs were broken, and Conductor Skinner ended the animal's existence with the contents of a revolver. Within an hour the remains were buried in a hole close by the track, and at the time nobody knew who owned the horse. The owner will now apply for damages.

The dwelling of Thomas J. Smith, in Woodstock, was burned on Saturday, May 28th; insured.

At a meeting of the officers of the New Hampshire State Agricultural association, held at Laconia on the 7th inst., it was decided to hold the next annual state fair in Laconia in connection with the Belknap County Agricultural association, on Sept. 20th, 21st, 22d and 23d.

In the house, on the 7th inst., notice was given of a bill to change the name of the State Reform school. A bill was introduced to amend the general law in relation to spirituous liquors, abolishing the spotter system.

—Considerable excitement has been aroused at Strasburg by the proceedings of a stranger, who makes his appearance at nightfall in the less frequented thoroughfares, armed with a double-edged poniard, and as soon as he perceives an unprotected female strikes her on the right breast with his weapon, inflicting a slight wound of from half to three-quarters of an inch deep. He has succeeded in stabbing fifteen women, upon each occasion taking flight before his victims had sufficiently recovered from their terror to raise an alarm. The imperial police authorities have made search for him. A large reward is now offered by the governor for the seizure of the bravo.

Centaur Liniment.

For symptoms indicated by indigestion, loss of appetite, nausea, sick headache, sour stomach, furred tongue, drowsiness, blanched lips, sallow complexion, pain in the side or back, eruptions, depression of spirits, nervous irritability and hysteria, and for building up the system, ash-tonic is unquestionably the most prompt and energetic remedy yet devised.

Samuel Murphy and wife, of Dexter, Me., are charged with maltreating town paupers and embezzling town funds, and the people of the town are much displeased.

From the Hub.

There is perhaps no tonic offered to the people that possesses as much real intrinsic value as the Hop Bitters. Just at this season of the year, when the stomach needs an appetizer, or the blood needs purifying, the cheapest and best remedy is Hop Bitters. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure; don't wait until you are prostrated by a disease that may take months for you to recover in.—Boston Globe.

THE RED MASK.

There are for many reasons, few diseases more to be dreaded than Erysipelas, and it has, not inaptly, been termed "St. Anthony's Fire." There is no disease which so completely deforms and disfigures the visage of the patient; and it may fairly be compared to a red mask thrown by a mocking demon over the human face. It is almost as dangerous as it is repulsive. Arising from a variety of causes, running its course with pain—it often ends suddenly in death. The old treatment consisted of blood-letting and the use of strong drastic purgatives. The substance of the enlightened modern treatment is all contained in Dr. Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy." Use this and you have taken the essential total of all the best physicians in the land could prescribe for Erysipelas. A case in point. Mr. S. B. Carpenter, of Grandville, N. Y., writes that he had for some time been afflicted with this disease in both legs, and has regained his health by the sole use of "Favorite Remedy." Other cases might be cited, did space permit. "Favorite Remedy" is also sure in its action in all diseases of the blood. Ask your druggist for it, or address the proprietor, Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, New York.

Tight-Lacing.

The circumference of the waist in a woman of medium height and dimensions measures, on an average—when not cramped and distorted—about thirty inches, but in those who have adopted tight-lacing it may measure no more than twenty inches, and sometimes even much less. Now, what becomes, in those latter cases, of the several organs contained within the chest and abdomen? They are, of course, compressed, and pushed and squeezed out of their natural shapes, and made to protrude in places where they have no business, because never meant to occupy such places.

It was intended by nature, as a matter of course, that the chest and abdomen should respectively hold their various contents in their allotted and relative positions, cupying certain portions of space, and having ample room for the due performance of their individual duties, without that jostling and interference with one another which necessarily accompanies disorder and bad arrangement. But, on the other hand, there is no vacuum or empty space in either of the two cavities—there is no region without its own particular organ or part; and each organ or part, though provided by nature with ample room for the needful and unobstructed discharge of its special function, has not yet much to spare.

When, then, any one particular organ is, by the system of tight-lacing, etc., unduly pressed upon and squeezed it must, like a man in a crowd—since it cannot get out of the way—be seriously hampered in its movements, and its important duties imperfectly discharged, to the no small injury and suffering sooner or later of the foolish self-torturer. And this in proportion to the unnatural pressure and squeezing to which the organ has had to submit. The excessive crushing, however, which results from this much-to-be-deplored custom, as the consequences arising from it, is not confined to one organ only, but it is transmitted to those lying in its immediate proximity—these having to bear the pressure from the organs to which are directly implicated, though they themselves may be entirely removed from the direct load.

The practice of tight-lacing brings about this crushing and displacement of organs most completely and effectually—hampering and thwarting them in the performance of their assigned and indispensable duties, and with the consequent production of a whole host of very serious troubles; later of are few natural diseases, indeed, which so thoroughly displace and jam and wedge together so great a number of the internal organs, and so generally disseminate among them incapacity for the discharge of their multifarious duties, as does this positively sinful practice of tight-lacing.

Shortness of breath, congestion of the liver, of the kidneys, etc., palpitation and subsequent diseases of the heart, faintings, bronchitis, indigestion, jaundice, obstruction of bowels, rupture, etc., are a few only of the many evils arising from the custom which we are so emphatically condemning; a list, one would think, quite formidable enough to cause the most thoughtless and the most fashion-beridden subject to immediately renounce all allegiance to a practice so fraught with mischief; and one, moreover, which has not a single redeeming point, even in the occasionally foolish eyes of the sterner sex, in its favor.—Good W rds.

—"I cannot sing the old songs," shrieked an amateur soprano the other night, and while she took in breath for the next line a young man, who had looked in for a moment, was heard to remark, casually, but emphatically, "You just bet you can't." It broke up the concert on the spot.

—Apropos of vaccination, says the London Truth, some members of a certain noble English household were desired to submit themselves to the ordeal of revaccination. The lymph was to be extracted from the arm of the infant son of the house. All to whom the operation was considered needful underwent the process quietly enough, until it came to the cook's turn. This cook, who was a brawny Scotch woman, steadfastly and positively refused on the ground that "no English blood should enter her veins." After much expostulation and delay she was vaccinated with lymph taken straight from a Scotch calf. Her arm alone took among those revaccinated, and with much triumph she asserts the fact as showing the unmistakable superiority of a "wee Scotch beastie" over a noble English lord.

When I Was Sick!

My room looked like a drug store, I had so many bottles in it. The more I dosed the worse off I was. Finally I paid my doctor and told him he needn't come any more. I was troubled with chronic rheumatism, and couldn't get out of bed alone. Six bottles of Sulphur Bitters cured me. —Fireman, Boston.

All efforts to procure bail for George H. Davis of Lynn, Mass., implicated with Dr. Green in the Chandler abortion case, have proven unsuccessful, and he still lies in Salem jail.

Brace Up.

There is serious meaning in this expression. That wearied step, languid eye and feeling of general lassitude, come from "spring sickness." Be assured, a serious, and perhaps, fatal disease is close in its wake. The system wants cleansing of winter impurities; the sluggish blood needs to be sent in swift and clear currents through the veins. "Favorite Remedy" will do this; it will give new vigor to the body, brightness to the eye, a glow to the countenance and elasticity to the step. One dollar a bottle. Every druggist has it. Dr. David Kennedy, proprietor, Rondout, N. Y.

FRIDAY, JUNE 10, 1881.

An Old Trick.

A great sensation was created in the assembly at Albany on the 9th, by Mr. Bradley, who stated that he had received $2000 to vote for Mr. Depew, and that he had handed the money to the speaker. The speaker said Bradley had handed him $2000. A committee of investigation was ordered, with power to send for persons and papers.

This "bribery" dodge—the charge that the other side has attempted bribery, and the showing of money to prove it—is getting a little stale. The first time it was tried was at an election of United States senator in a western state seven or eight years ago, and it answered its end, for the candidate whom it was intended to defeat was defeated.

The next time that we remember of its being used was at the time the Garcelon gang were attempting to steal the state of Maine, when Swan of Minot, the swindler, forger, perjurer and thief, arose in the house and charged Wallace R. White with having attempted to tamper with his virtue, at the same time producing the money which he swore White paid him. Mose Harriman of Kennebunk also swore that somebody had attempted to entice him from the path of rectitude and fusion, and we beleive also exhibited a large sum of money—a good deal more than all the principle he ever possessed was worth. As but very few persons believed the stories either of them told, no great harm was done.

That the stale device has been introduced in the New York legislature is not at all creditable to the inventive genius of the politicans of that state.

New Hampshire Legislature.

In the house, on the 9th, a petition signed by Mrs. Abby E. McIntire and 2327 other women, 1840 men and 374 minors, asking that a constitutional convention be called with a view to a constitutional amendment prohibiting the manufacture, sale or delivering of intoxicating beverages, was received and referred. Also a petition from citizens of Laconia for a charter for the "Lake Shore" railroad.

A majority of the judiciary committee submitted a report that the election of a United States senator at this session would be illegal; this report was accompanied by a resolution postponing the question to the next legislature. The report was tabled, to await the minority report.

News and Notes.

A fire broke out at Quebec at half-past ten o'clock on the night of the 8th inst., and before it burned itself out between 600 and 800 tenements were destroyed. The French Catholic cathedral on St. John street was destroyed.

Col. Fred Conkling says that $100,000 was paid to a member of the ways and means committee of the last Congress by the "sugar men" to prevent legislation concerning the importation of sugar. Mr. Conkling should give the name of the venal legislator who accepted the bribe, and not allow honorable men's names to be clouded by suspicion.

Deborah Dennett of Newburyport, a widow forty-five years of age, while intoxicated on the 8th inst. attempted suicide by jumping into the river, but was rescued by the police, who took her to the station house.

The First Religious society (Unitarian) of Newburyport on the evening of the 8th inst. installed Rev. Daniel W. Moorehouse as pastor. The sermon was delivered by Rev. M. J. Savage of Boston, and several other prominent clergymen took part in the services.

A series of remarkable outrages, such as poisoning and incendiarism, have caused a reign of terror in Westport, Little Compton and Tiverton, R. I. One man has had, within a year and a half, two hay-stacks burned, five cattle poisoned, and considerable property destroyed on his premises; and recently an infant son of Joze Silva died from drinking water taken out of a poisoned well, and three other persons suffered from the same cause. Messrs. George H. Gifford, C. M. Gifford and Cyrenious Bliss have also had cattle and horses poisoned, the author of the outrages being, it is suspected, a person whom the whole neighborhood dreads, but whom no one dares to accuse. All the crimes have been committed within a circle seven miles in diameter.

John Grant and Daniel McNeil, previously reported lost from the schooner Bellerophon of Gloucester, while tending their trawls on the Grand banks, arrived home on the 8th inst., having been picked up by a Canso schooner, transferred to a vessel bound to Bremen, Me., and by her put on board fishing schooner Constitution, bound to Gloucester.

The Boston Gazette says another exemplification has been added to the many instances of infelicity resulting from a marriage between an actress and one not attached to the theatrical profession, in the case of Mrs. Richard G. Haskell, formerly Miss Mary Beeto, who quitted her husband a few days ago, and departed from the city. Rumor is busy with many causes for this step on the part of the lady, chief among which are incompatibility of temperaments, and general disagreements. Mrs. Haskell is supposed to be in Brooklyn, N. Y.

The following camp meetings have been arranged to take place at Old Orchard beach this season: Faith convention, conducted by Dr. Charles Cullis of Boston, from July 28th to August 5th. Portland District camp-meeting, conducted by Rev. C. J. Clark, presiding elder, from August 8th to the 13th. National Christian temperance meeting, conducted by Hon. Sidney Perham, president, from August 13th to the 18th. Believers' meeting for Bible study, conducted by Dr. Brooks and others, from August 19th to the 29th.

A Murderer Hurt.

We commend the following, which comes from Thomaston, Me., under date of June 8th, to the careful consideration of those sentimental theorists who have such a high regard for the sanctity of human life that they insist that murder, however brutal and coolly planned, should not be punished by death:

"A bold attempt was made just after noon to-day by Samuel D. Haynes, the Rockland murderer, and William E. Bragdon, a common thief of Portland, to escape from the Maine state prison. All the convicts had passed out of their cells to the various shops, except Haynes and Bragdon, who remained behind, and when the yard was clear Haynes went to the inner guard room door with a parlor bracket and what appeared to be a bottle of mucilage in his hands, Bragdon following closely. He said to the guard on duty, Edward Barrows, that he wished to pass in the bracket. Mr. Barrows opened the door, when Haynes threw from the bottle some strong hartshorn liniment and black pepper into Barrows' eyes, completely blinding him. Haynes, gaining admission to the guardroom, made at once for the outer door, not noticing that Mr. Ira Northey, another guard, was on duty. Northey at once seized the Henry repeating rifle near at hand, and demanded of Haynes to stop, but the desperado, nothing daunted, made for Mr. Northey with a large bowie knife some eight or ten inches in length. Haynes did not take more than a step or two before Mr. Northey fired, hitting him in the right breast, the ball passing through the lung, coming out through the shoulder blade. Mr. Northey now turned his attention to Bragdon, who was close behind Haynes and had just put his head into the door, but as soon as he heard the report of the rifle he jumped back behind the door just in time to escape the shot fired at him by Northey. This was but the work of a few moments, and before another shot could be fired both men were secured. Haynes was taken to the prison hospital, and Bragdon put in solitary confinement. Haynes spits blood, and complains of feeling badly. His case is critical. On searching him afterwards a large bowie knife was found on Haynes, and his pocket was half full of black pepper. He also had an improvised key, with which he could have unlocked the outside guardroom door if he had not been stopped by the shot of the guard. Bragdon had two sharp knives in his pocket, and a large amount of black pepper. Great credit is due Mr. Northey for his proptitude on the occasion. Haynes is a desperate fellow, who killed his guard at Rockland a few years ago, for which he was sent to the state prison for life. This is his third or fourth attempt to escape from the prison, all of which plans involved the killing or maiming of the guards or watchmen."

As the only punishment for murder in Maine is imprisonment for life, and Mr. Haynes is already laboring under such a sentence, the only risk he runs in attempting to murder his guards is that they may kill him in self defence; should he succeed in killing them, he runs no risk of punishment at all. Nice, isn't it?

Naval Affairs.

Secretary Hunt has accepted the resignation of Commodore Jeffers as chief of the bureau of ordnance, to take effect June 30th. Commodore Jeffers will about the first of July visit Europe to examine and report upon the ordnance and torpedo service of the European navies, and upon the completion of this duty he will, at his own request, be placed upon the retired list of the navy.

As Umbrella's Vicissitudes.

Two years ago an Auburn man lost his umbrella, which was said to be the colossus of all umbrellas in the city. A year passed, and nothing was heard from the giant umbrella. One year ago Decoration day, the Auburn citizen saw the familiar umbrella sticking its handle head and shoulders above the crowd of others, in a corner, at Auburn hall. He promptly grasped his long-lost treasure. He flourished it around in the crowd for a while, and no one dared to claim it. Another year passed. On a late Sunday at church he left the big umbrella in the vestibule, during service, and it was captured again. Some person is apparently determined to have his his turn in carrying that umbrella.

Indian Wives of White Men.

According to prairie law, it is disreputable in a white man to abandon his dusky wife until she has grown too old to work for him. Then he may send her back to her tribe if he so elect. The obligation upon the wife is different. She may not desert her husband for another white man, but she may leave him for an Indian who wants to marry her, provided she have no children. If a squaw desires to abandon her husband, the Indian of her choice must pay back the price originally paid to her mother. He may abate no jot or tittle, and it is in such payment that the divorce is perfected. She then becomes a single woman, free to marry, but she cannot live in the vicinity inhabited by her former husband.

AROUND HOME.

Mr. Moses R. Hall of this city had a finger broken while at work on the navy yard on the 9th inst.

The schooner Maggie Cummings, Murch master, passed through the draw of Portsmouth bridge on Thursday, with a load of brick from up the river for Boston.

Major Urch has commenced putting fish in the aquarium, and will have it in readiness for visitors by the time the weather gets warm enough for the visitors to come.

The festival, apron sale and fair of the Universalist society will be continued this evening, at the vestry, with some changes in the programme. Miss Grace Varrell is expected to sing.

Lumber to the amount of over 300,000 feet has been landed on the Eastern railroad wharf at Noble's island within the last two weeks, and sent off in various directions for the use of the road.

Mr. Elvin Newton, of this city and Londoner island, Isles of Shoals, on the 8th inst. seined about a thousand nice mackerel off the islands, and brought them to this city, where they were purchased by Randall & Caswell.

A flag-staff was raised at the Farragut house, Rye beach, on Monday of this week, by Mr. Joseph C. Muchmore, the well known rigger, of this city. The lower mast is sixty feet long, and it carries a forty-foot topmast. The carpenter work was done by Mr. James M. Coleman of this city.

The tug Naumkeag was put on in place of the steamer James Sampson, to make the latter's trips to and from Kittery while she is undergoing repairs; but an accident to the Naumkeag having interfered with this arrangement, the Kittery point steamer Fearless has been substituted for the Naumkeag.

The fishing schooner Christie Campbell, lying at Tredick's wharf on Thursday last, was gaily decorated with flags in honor of the captain's marriage, which took place on the previous evening. The decorating was done by the schooner's crew, who shared out $128 each from the proceeds of her last trip, which was made in seven weeks.

A man named Patrick Haley, engaged in unloading coal from cars on the spur track at Jones' brewery, Thursday afternoon, was badly hurt through a cart-horse running away while the man was in the cart trimming the load. The animal ran the cart against a house, throwing the man out and overturning the cart and its load upon him, injuring him so it was feared he could not recover.

Capt. Bird, formerly master of the steamer Major at the time she ran between this city and the Oceanic hotel at the Shoals, has been placed in charge of the steamer Acushnet, plying between Boston and this city, of which boat he had before been pilot. Capt. Ray, late in command of the Acushnet, has been appointed assistant manager in Boston of the South Shore Steamship Co., to which company the Acushnet belongs.

Two men at Seabrook, N. H., set upon Gilman Eaton and beat and bruised him in a shameful manner. Later on they started toward him again, when, thoroughly frightened, Eaton ran to a neighboring river, jumped in, and was drowned. A coroner's jury have considered the case, and their verdict is "accidental drowning." It seems to us that the jury might at least have censured the men who were indirectly the cause of Eaton's death. Experience seems to teach, however, that next to a base ball game or a New York state election, there is nothing so hard to figure on in advance as the verdict of a coroner's jury.—Boston Post.

The Dover Democrat says: "The pay of the section hands on the Portsmouth & Dover railroad has been increased about ten per cent. It's about time for those other railroads around here to follow suit."

Miss Sarah J. Chandler, daughter of Civil Engineer B. F. Chandler, U. S. N., died at Norwich, Conn., on Saturday, June 4th, and was buried on Tuesday afternoon, the 7th inst., from the residence of her parents in Waverly, Mass.

The National band of Dover will hold a picnic in Pinkham's grove at Dover point on the 4th of July, when and where there will be music, dancing, racing, football, and probably a game of base ball between a Dover club and a nine from this city.

A despatch from Newmarket to the Boston Herald under date June 8th says: "The steam tug Naumkeag of Portsmouth, Capt. Amee, was run on a sand bank by the pilot here this afternoon, and bilged at low tide. All efforts to right her have been futile. She lies in a dangerous position, and is expected to fill at high tide. Aid has been sent for from Portsmouth."

N. H. S. P. C. A.

A regular meeting of this society was held at the office on the 6th inst. Reports from agents showed the following work accomplished during the month of May:

Old and disabled horses killed, seven; prosecutions, one; cases of cruelty investigated and warnings given, fifty-eight.

Eight charges of cruelty are now under investigation, and two cases are in process of prosecution.

HOMEOPATHIC MEDICAL SOCIETY MEETING.

The annual meeting of the New Hampshire Homeopathic Medical society was held at Concord on Wednesday of this week, a large number of physicians from different parts of the state being present. The meeting was very animated and interesting. An amendment was made to the constitution and by-laws, granting power to the censors to annual any license to practise medicine when it is found the holder of such license is not qualified, or that he obtained the license by fraudulent means. The meeting adjourned until autumn, after the election of officers as follows:

President, Dr. Keith of Franklin;

Vice Pres't, Dr. Donaldson of Portsmouth;

Secretary, Dr. Moore of Lake Village;

Librarian, Dr. Rogers of Plymouth;

Censors, Dr. Gallinger and Dr. Chase, of Concord, and Dr. Alexander of Fisherville.

Dr. Donaldson was elected delegate to the meeting of the American Institute, which will take place at Brighton beach, N. Y., June 18th.

MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

In Board of Mayor and Aldermen, regular meeting, Thursday evening, June 9th, Ald. Hall in the chair:

The monthly bills were approved.

A communication was received from Frank P. Cram, as chairman of the board of county commissioners, informing the board of aldermen that "the commissioners of Rockingham county, in the matter of widening the existing highway and laying out a new highway on the petition of Henry R. Stoddard and others, having widened and laid out the same have awarded damages" as follows: To Lucy Ann Noble, $25; to Samuel Wilson, $75; to Hannah E. Seavey, $125; to estate of George Raynes, $800; to Fred W. Rogers, $500. Total, $1525.

A communication was received from the Aqueduct Co. relative to the filling of reservoirs with water for fire extinguishing purposes.

The requests of John H. Slater and Mr. Russell for permission to sell petroleum and its products were granted.

Application of E. W. Cochrane for permission to make a driveway from his stable to Chestnut street, was referred to the committee on streets, with power.

Application of the Telephone Co. for leave to lay wires under the streets was laid on the table.

Adjourned for one week.

The Common Council met, but adjourned without transacting any business of importance.

THE LAKE SHORE RAILROAD.

The Concord correspondent of the Nashua Telegraph, after mentioning a grand mass meeting at Laconia in support of the Boston & Maine railroad's pet scheme, and the dire disaster which the resolutions adopted at that meeting predict to all persons who dare oppose it, says:

It is not likely, however, that the Concord, the Northern and the Montreal roads will tie their hands behind them while the Boston & Maine proposes to trap their through business, which is the main object aimed at. Railroads are particularly mortal, and there never was one yet that did not look out for its own interests. The Boston & Maine, which is a consolidated road from Boston to Portland, is as rich, powerful and grasping as any road need be, and its present movement is a scheme to enlarge its own field of operations at the expense of strictly New Hampshire roads. Threatening political death to men who favor a purely New Hampshire interest as against a Massachusetts and Maine interest will prove, it is safe to predict, an ineffective species of bulldozing.

New Hampshire Items.

Manchester is to have an $8,000 annex to its public library building; 120,000 volumes can then be accommodated.

Jerry McCarty, seventy-six years old, an employe in P. C. Cheney's paper mill at Manchester, was caught on the 7th inst. by a shaft which was making 150 revolutions a minute, and instantly killed, his brains being dashed out against a water tank. He leaves a widow and four daughters.

Lorenzo Hardy, a farmer of Litchfield, was shot on the evening of the 8th inst. by a tramp named Robinson. The weapon used was a shot gun, which was close to Hardy's throat when discharged, and his windpipe and the side of his skull were laid bare. His wounds were supposed to be fatal. The two men named, with two others, had been fishing during the day, and had imbibed "hard cider" freely.

At Concord, on the 8th inst., a writ of quo warranto to inquire by what right Francis B. Hayes of Boston, recently elected a director in the Concord railroad, holds his place, was filed in the supreme court by John H. Pearson of Concord, and Mr. Hayes was ordered to appear on the 10th to answer. This involves the question of the legality of the election of directors by the Concord railroad at their last meeting, under the minority law, when the "cumulative" vote of Mr. Pearson and his friends was not so counted.

The heavy frost on the night of the 6th inst. destroyed several hundred dollars' worth of strawberry vines in the garden of Smith Hill at Dover neck.

The will of the late Joseph Fowler of Durham leaves his estate of $8000, after deducting a few small bequests, to the Congregational society in that town.

The dwelling of Andrew and Warren Daggett, at Rochester, was burned June 7th by a fire which is supposed to have originated from a defect in the chimney. The barn and corn-house, a calf, two hogs, several harnesses and part of the furniture of the house were also burned. Loss $1800; insurance $1200.

The annual camp meeting at the Epping camp grounds will probably commence July 28th, though the arrangements are not yet fully perfected.

The body of Wm. Abrams, the river man who was recently drowned at Franklin, was found on Thursday, the 26th ult., within two rods of the Boscawen line, by a party of river men who were going down on a raft.

A young lady of New York city, who spent last summer in Bethlehem, has recently presented a very fine bell to the Congregational church in that town, which has been received and placed in the tower. It weighs 1850 lbs.

Books, Magazines, Etc.

"Blessed Saint Certainty:" a story by the author of "His Majesty, Myself," "Col. Dunwaddie, Millionaire," etc. Boston; Roberts Brothers; price $1.50. Portsmouth, for sale by Mercer Goodrich. Neither the title of this book nor the story will be likely to attract the average reader of fiction. The reverend author in his books abounds in ideas rather than plots, as for example his chapter on "the windy ways of men." There is evidence of vigorous thought in the writer, and the matter has the freshness of originality; the paths through which the reader is taken seem to have been before untrodden, and the pages are full of new and bright sayings. The book has already attained a large sale, and become prominent before those who read books for what they contain, and not simply "pour passer le temps."

"The Southern Law Review." One of the ablest of the many law periodicals in the country is the Southern Law Review, published bi-monthly by the Review Publishing Co. of St. Louis. The number for April—May has able articles upon usage and custom controlling or altering rules at law, breach of promise, married women's statutes, wives' real estate, and frauds in chattel mortgages, by L. A. Jones of Boston, whose work upon this subject has just been published. It also contains book reviews, with a digest of recent cases, giving the profession the information where the reports of each case may be obtained, with the name, date, and page of the journal in which such cases are reported. The subscription price of the Review is $5.00 per annum, in advance; single numbers, $1.00.

"Rosecraft: a story of common places and common people;" by Wm. M. F. Round, author of "Hal," "Child Marian abroad," and other stories. Boston; Lee & Shepard. Rosecraft is one of the stories of the present day where the lovers do not meet in Rome or saunter through the art galleries of Florence, or make love 'neath the sunny skies of Italy. Indeed, the story begins with a honeymoon instead of a season of pre-nuptial love. Several characters with diverse peculiarities are well delineated. The reader is not however deprived of the customary love making and resulting match which all good novels and plays contain, for in Rosecraft, as if to make amends for beginning the story on the threshold of married life, the author invites us to a double wedding just before the curtain falls. For sale by M. Goodrich; price, $1.00.

—Barnum's Zulu chief had the effrontry to ask for a week's leave of absence in order to go home and vote at the recent election in Indianapolis. — Norristown Herald.

—It is said that love conquers all things but a jumping toothache, that knows its business, and attends to it, can, for the time being, make a man forget that he ever loved at all.

Don't Trust Them.

When you feel badly, and have pains here and there through your body that you don't know how to account for, it is the most foolish policy in the world to take the advice of people who say: "Oh! there's nothing the matter with you. Let yourself alone and you will come out all right." These folks know nothing about it, and may be trifling with your life. You may have kidney or liver trouble. Send right out to your druggist and get a bottle of Dr. David Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy" and then you will be all right, or write to the doctor at Rondout, N. Y.

James Bazell, of Glendale, Mass., a freight brakeman on the Housatonic railroad, was killed by falling from a train at New Milford, Conn., on the 7th inst.

His Ignorance cost me $150.

I was sick abed for three months. The doctor said I had prolapsus uteri, which was untrue. He didn't try to cure me, but wanted to make a $1.50 every day. My uncle is a druggist, and he told me to turn the doctor off and try Sulphur Bitters. I did so, and five dollars worth of Sulphur Bitters cured me of general weakness and debility.—Mrs. S——, New Haven.

At New Haven, Conn., June 6th, a sixteen-months-old child of Mrs. Mary Baldwin was drowned in a wash-tub while the mother was hanging out clothes.

Is Hegeman's Camphor Ice. It should be rubbed upon the part affected. The warmth of the skin will soften it sufficiently, under ordinary circumstances, but in extreme cold weather, it may be necessary to warm it by the fire. If the hands are badly chapped, apply every night, and protect the hands by wearing an old pair of kid gloves. Hegeman's is the best and most popular of all the Camphor Ices made. Hegeman's Camphor Ice is also a cure for sore lips, chapped face, and sunburn. It is compounded with glycerine, which renders it more emollient than any other Camphor Ice; it will be found a most soothing application to the face after shaving.

A. A. Walker of Stratford, Conn., a tinware agent, disappeared April 29th, and his decomposed body has just been found. Supposed to be a case of suicide.

Important.

When you visit or leave New York city, save Baggage Expressage and Carriage Hire, and stop at Grand Union Hotel, opposite Grand Central Depot. 450 rooms, fitted up at a cost of one million dollars, reduced to $1 and upwards per day. European plan. Elevator. Restaurant supplied with the best. Horse cars, stages and elevated railroad to all depots. Families can live better for less money at the Grand Union Hotel than at any other first-class hotel in the city. tap15,82

FELLOWS' Compound SYRUP OF HYPO-PHOS-PHITES

THE REFORMER AND VITALIZER OF THE BLOOD.

FELLOWS' COMPOUND SYRUP OF HYPO-PHOS-PHITES

Is composed of ingredients identical with those which constitute Healthy Blood, Muscle and Nerve, and Brain Substance, while life itself is directly dependant upon some of them.

By increasing Nervous and Muscular Vigor, it will cure Dyspepsia, feeble or interrupted action of the Heart and Palpitation, Weakness of Intellect caused by grief, worry, overtaxed or irregular habits, Bronchitis, and Wasting of the Lungs.

It cures Asthma, Neuralgia, Whooping Cough, Nervousness, and is a most wonderful adjunct to other remedies in sustaining life during the process of Diptheria.

The expenditure of brain power too early or too severely in children often results in physical debility; the use of Fellows' Hypophosphites exerts a singularly happy effect in such cases.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitute for this under any circumstances.

Daily Chronicle.

A Heavy Verdict.

The referees' verdict in the case of the Manchester & Keene railroad] vs. the city of Keene, a suit brought to recover a gratuity, is as follows: "The plaintiffs are entitled to recover a sum of $128,951.58, and interest from December 8, 1878, subject to the defendants' exceptions." The referees find the resolutions passed by the city of Keene, November 7th, 1874, of a gratuity amounting to $128,951.58, upon the condition of the road being completed for use December 1, 1878, are binding upon the city. They also find that the road was completed December 1, 1878, and that the plaintiffs are entitled to recover. It is one of the heaviest verdicts ever recovered in the state, and will probably cause Harrisville and other towns, that have neglected paying gratuities voted until this case was settled, to settle up and get out of court.

New Hampshire Items.

Elder Henry Cummings, widely known as for many years a leading member of the Enfield family of Shakers, was married on Monday evening, the 6th inst., to one of the sisters of the family, Miss Churchill. This is "suspending the rules" with a vengeance and quite possibly presages the disruption of the family.

John Donovan of Bellows Falls, Vt., who was to have been married at Keene on Wednesday, the 8th inst., failed to put in an appearance, and Wednesday evening he was found wandering about near Fitzwilliam, and insane.

In digging a trench for the water works on Davis street, Plymouth, a vein of lead of extra purity and good quality was revealed. The discovery has caused considerable excitement, as the place is near a small hill that may contain a rich mine.

Last summer Miss Ada Hill, daughter of Otis Hill, of Loudon, saw a matrimonial advertisement in one of the New York papers. She answered the advertisement, a correspondence ensued, followed by an exchange of photographs. Week before last the gentleman wrote he should be in Loudon on Tuesday. He arrived about one o'clock P. M., at her house. They were well pleased with each other, and were married that afternoon by Samuel B. Lovering, Esq. They started for his home in Vineland, N. J., the next morning. He is reported to be a man of means. All is well that ends well.—Concord People.

Why Not?

One of the most convincing temperance lectures ever given was that of the poor woman whose husband spent all his means at the drum-shop. Said she, "I want the chance to supply you with your drink. I want to sell to you, and save the profit. I am compelled to go in rags and have the poorest to eat, while the saloon-keeper's wife has the grandest shawls and bonnets and silk dresses, with fine furniture and the best for the table. Let me sell to you, and I will have all this. I will get a keg of beer or a cask of whiskey, whatever you may prefer, and sell to you at so much a drink,—the same price you pay the saloon-keeper." The experiment was tried for a while, when the husband himself saw how much money he had been throwing away, and concluded not to make any further purchases of any one. But his wife had already gained a nice bonnet and dress, and other comforts of life. Other women whose husbands drink would do well to make the same offer.

—The other day Speaker Sharpe of the New York assembly ordered "the gentleman in the gallery" to "take off his hat during prayer-time." The members laughed, and the speaker discovered he had been addressing his command to a young woman in a Derby hat.

Woman's Wisdom.

"She insists that it is more important that her family shall be kept in full health, than that she should have all the fashionable dresses and styles of the times. She therefore sees to it, that each member of her family is supplied with enough Hop Bitters, at the first appearance of any symptoms of ill health, to prevent a fit of sickness with its attendant expense, care and anxiety. All women should exercise their wisdom in this way."—New Haven Palladium.

—Matilda, a colored servant, on being told to pack up and leave, blubbered dreadfully and refused to be comforted. The lady of the house tried to comfort her, telling her not to give way so; that she might call in on Sunday and see the family. "Taint dat ar. I jess can't help bellerin'. I always bellers when I quits a place. I has worked for some of de lowest-down, meanest folks on Galveston island, but when I comes to leab I allers bellers—and de meaner dey is de louder I bellers. Bohoo! Bohoo!"

"Incomparably superior to the trashy articles which are palmed upon the public," is the verdict of Professor Duncan Campbell, M. D., L. L. D. (President Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons, Member General Council, University of Edinburgh, etc., etc.), in regard to the Liebig Co's Armicated Extract of Witch Hazel. It cures piles, salt rheum, catarrah, rheumatism, neuralgia, painful monthly flow, sore throat, varicose veins. Beware of counterfeits. Sold in fifty cents and dollar sizes.

Portsmouth Chronicle.

SATURDAY, JUNE 11, 1881.

New Hampshire Legislature.

In the afternoon, on the 9th, Mr. Robinson of Concord presented to the house a minority report from the committee on judiciary, holding that it is the right and duty of the present legislature to elect a United States senator. On motion of Mr. Chandler, the majority report and resolutions were taken from the table, by a vote of 99 to 81. After remarks by Gen. Marston, Mr. Dole of Lebanon, Gen. Stevens and others, the consideration of the majority resolution was postponed to eleven o'clock Friday forenoon.

In the senate, on the 10th, several bills were read twice and referred, among them being one to repeal the act taxing express companies. The opinion of the supreme court, in answer to the enquiry of the senate, was read, that opinion being that the present legislature should elect a United States senator.

In the house, after the introduction and reference of a batch of unimportant bills, the credentials of all persons claiming seats in the house were referred to the speaker and clerk, who were directed to put upon the roll the names of all whose certificates of election were in due form, where the town is entitled to such representation under the census of 1880. Mr. Quint of Dover called up the special order for the day, which was the resolution from the judiciary that it is not expedient to elect a United States senator this session. Mr. Green of Hopkinton strongly opposed the resolution, and Mr. Quimby of Hanover supported it. Mr. Quint desired all the information procurable, and on his motion the house adjourned until two o'clock P. M.

The opinion of the court, which very strongly sustains the position of those who insist that the present legislature should elect a senator, is signed by Judges Doe, Foster, Stanley, Allen, Smith and Clark. Judge Blodgett declines to make any answer or express any opinion.

The afternoon sessions in both houses were short, and when they adjourned it was to Monday evening, the 13th.

The New York Senatorial Fight.

The voting on the 9th inst. was as follows: For the short term, Conkling 25, Jacobs 49, Wheeler 23, Rogers 14, Cornell 16, all others 17. For the long term, Kernan 50, Platt 29, Depew 58, Cornell 8, all others 13.

Two votes were taken on the 10th, for each term, the last one resulting—for the short term, Jacobs 47, Conkling 33, Wheeler 21, Rogers 17, Cornell 11, Lapham 11, all others 8. For the long term, Depew 54, Kernan 48, Platt 28, Cornell 9, all others 9.

News and Notes.

About 1500 families were rendered homeless by the great fire in Quebec; five lives were lost, and property to the amount of $2,000,000 was destroyed. Gangs of thieves roamed about during the fire, stealing at will, the police being powerless to prevent them. The church of St. John, with its decorations, was valued at $150,000.

Supt. Kimball of the life-saving service has been receiving during the last two weeks the resignations of a large number of keepers of life-saving stations. The reasons given by these keepers for resignation is meagreness of salary paid them. They how receive but $400 a year, which they regard as poor compensation for the hardships and responsibility of their positions. Mr. Kimball is much troubled over the prospect of losing the services of a large number of experienced men.

A rain storm of unusual severity, Tuesday night, the 7th inst., did considerable damage to cross roads and bridges at Wheeling, West Va. Nearly all the trains were delayed. A family named Straub, living on Glen's Run, were swept away in the night, the mother and five children being drowned and the father carried on a log to an island, where he was found insensible.

The Norway Advertiser and the Oxford Democrat, of Maine, have this to say of Dr. Green, the alleged Lynn abortionist: "Dr. Green operated as a homeopathic physician in Norway, South Paris and Bethel, before going to Massachusetts. He kept in debt all the time, victimized almost all who trusted him, and finally went through insolvency, or rather commenced proceedings, and failing to furnish the necessary deposit, was ruled out of court."

Steamers John Hanna and St. John were racing on the Mississippi river, on the evening of the 8th inst., when the former blew up, killing five or six of her crew, and badly injuring as many more.

Wm. McQueen, who last April killed his wife at St. Louis, Mo., was last Thursday found guilty, and sentenced to two years in the penitentiary. James Banks, a negro, who killed his wife a year ago at St. Louis, pleaded guilty on Thursday, and was sentenced to life imprisonment. Banks is seventy years old.

Diphtheria has become epidemic at Ludington, Mich. One hundred and twenty children have died recently in a population of 4,000 people. The schools are closed, and special policemen are stationed at houses where sickness exists, to prevent ingress and egress.

An unsuccessful attempt was made to blow up the town hall in Liverpool, England, on the night of the 9th inst.

Naval Affairs.

The tug Mayflower was put in commission at Washington on the 6th.

The orders of Comdr. James T. Graham to command the Alliance have been revoked, and he is ordered to remain in command of the Passaic. Comdr. Geo. H. Wadleigh is ordered to command the Alliance, which vessel will sail for the northern seas in search of the Jeannette on the 15th inst.

The Revised Testament.

The Detroit Free Press gives the following as the opinion of Brudder Gardner, president of the Lime-Kiln club, on the revised New Testament:

"I take pleasurse an' satisfaction," said the president as he held up a parcel, "in informin' you that a citizen of Detroit, who does not car' to have his name menshun'd, has presented dis revised edishun of de Bible to de Lime-Kiln Club. We do not open our meetins wid prayer, nor do we close by singin' de Dozology, but neberdeless I am suah dis gift will be highly appreshated by all. Dar has bin considible talk in dis club about dis revised edishun. Some of you hab got de ideah dat purgatory has all been wiped out an' heaben enlarged twice ober, an' I have heard odders assert dat it didn't forbid lyin', stealin' an' passin' off bad money. My friends, you am sadly mistaken. Hell is jist as hot as eber, an' heaben hasn't got any mo' room. In lookin' ober some of de changes las' night I selected out a few paragraphs which hab a gineral b'arin.

Fur instance, it am jist as wicked to steal watermellyons as it was las' y'ar or de y'ar befo', an' de skeercer de crap de bigger de wickedness.

No change has bin made in regard to loafin' aroun' de streets. De loafer am considered jist as mean and low as eber he was, an' I want to add my belief dat he will grow meaner in public estimashun all de time.

De ten commandments am all down heah widout change. Stealin' an' covetin' an' runnin' out nights am considered jist as bad as eber.

I can't find any paragraph in which men am excused from payin' deir honest debts and supportin' deir fam'lies.

I can't fin' whar a poo' man or a poo' man's wife, white or black, am 'spected to sling on any particler style.

Dog fights, chicken liftin', polytics, playin' keerds fur money, an' hangin' aroun' fur drinks, an' all sich low bizness am considered meaner dan eber. Fact is, I can't fin' any change whateber which lets up on a man from bein' plumb up an' down squar' an' honest wid de world. Dey have changed de word 'Hell' to 'Hades,' but at de same time added to de strength of de brimstun an de size of de pit, an' we want to keep right on in de straight path if we would avoid it. Doan' let any white man make you believe dat we's lost any Gospel by dis revision, or dat Peter or Paul or Moses hab undergone any change of sperrit regardin' de ways of libin' respectably an' dyin' honorably."

—A story is told of an old gentleman who always took notes of his minister's sermons, and on one occasion read them to the minister himself. "Stop, stop!" said he, at the occurrence of a certain sentence; "I didn't say that." "I know you didn't," was the reply; "I put that in myself to make sense."

—Judge, severely: "How do you know the defendant is a married man? Were you ever at his house?" "No, sir." "Did anybody ever tell you they were married?" "No, sir; but when I see a man and woman come to the same church regularly for three years, occupy the same pew, and have a hymn book apiece to sing out of, I don't want to see no marriage certificate. I can swear to their relation all the time." Verdict for the plaintiff.

AROUND HOME.

The Wentworth house steam launch Gypsy was floated last Thursday night, and looks gay enough in her new suit of paint.

Our friend "Citizen" is respectfully informed that he is at perfect liberty to read whatever paper he pleases, provided he comes honestly by it.

Auction sale of furniture, bedding, carpets, refrigerator and lawn mower, and other articles, at the auction rooms No. 16 Congress street, this forenoon, commencing at ten o'clock. See advertisement.

To-night, or rather to-merrow morning, there will be a total eclipse of the moon, which will afford an excellent excuse for stopping out of bed until a late hour. The eclipse will begin a quarter of an hour after midnight; total obscuration will be reached at 1:17 o'clock, and will continue until 2:30.

George W. Randall, at the Central market, on Friday was exhibiting a very handsome halibut which measured eight feet in length, and weighed two hundred and fifty-six pounds when ready for the cutting block. This fish was taken off Boon island on the afternoon of the previous day, by a little schooner boat hailing from Cape Neddick, and it was more than an hour after the fish was hooked before it was landed safe on board.

Mr. Moses R. Hall of this city, whom we reported in the CHRONICLE of Friday morning to have had a finger broken at the navy yard on the previous day, had the finger referred to cut off instead of broken. Mr. Hall is a blacksmith, and in some way got his finger on a piece of iron at the moment a sledge descended upon it, and the member was cut off in as clean a style as it could have been done with a chisel and mallet. The wound was dressed by the surgeon of the yard.

The steamer Fearless on Thursday evening last took out to the Appledore house a single passenger—a gentleman who arrived from the westward, insisted on going to the Shoals, and paid liberally for the accommodation. The little steamer made the run from her slip in this city to the landing at the Shoals in one hour and five minutes, and on the return was abreast of Whalesback light in fifty-five minutes from the time she left the island; she rolled her gunwales under once in a while, but made good weather of it most of the time, and showed herself to be a good sea boat.

The body of Philip McFaul, who was drowned from the steamer Acushnet at the Gas Co.'s wharf some weeks ago through falling overboard, as was supposed in a fit, was recovered on Friday last by Mr. Alfred R. Goodwin, who found it floating in the middle of the river, and the tide being then on the flood, towed it to Sise's wharf. The corpse was very much decomposed, and was identified by a certificate of character given McFaul by the officers of the steamer Worcester, on board which vessel he had been employed for a considerable time; the certificate very strongly recommended him as being a steady and reliable man. In the pockets of his clothing were found a little money and some Catholic emblems. The body was placed in the receiving tomb to await the action of the relatives of the deceased, one of whom arrived from Boston in the afternoon.

The San Francisco Morning Call of May 3d devotes a column to an account of the marriage of Mr. C. M. Gerrish, of Port Townsend, Washington territory, and Miss Nellie Garcia, daughter of Mr. F. Garcia of Oakland, Cal., opposite San Francisco, the wedding taking place at the residence of the bride's parents on the evening of April 27th. Mr. Gerrish is a native of this city, and left here with his parents for the Pacific coast in January, 1864, he being then but a small boy; since then he has become one of the leading business men of his adopted city. The bridal party left San Francisco for Port Townsend by steamer on the 30th of April, and were met off Point Discovery by a United States coast survey steamer, which conveyed them to the point, where a dinner party and reception was given in honor of Mr. Gerrish and his bride.

The tug Naumkeag, previously reported in trouble near South Newmarket, was towing a vessel down when she took the ground not far from the wharf, and hung there until the flood tide, when she filled; we are informed that she did not bilge, as at first reported. The tug Ann brought the Naumkeag's tow down on Thursday afternoon, and when she left South Newmarket the Naumkeag had a gondola alongside, to aid her in getting afloat. The Ann was to have towed up the scows and dredging gear for clearing out the Swamscot river on Friday, had the weather been favorable, but postponed the job to a more convenient season on account of the storm.

Information received in response to enquiries sent to leading farming districts throughout Rockingham, Strafford and York counties, relative to the effects of the frosts of the present week, show that very severe damage has been done to the crops. In a majority of places replanting has been necessary, while in remaining places there will probably not be over half of the average harvest. Farmers report the present month as the coldest June for many years.

The Boston Journal of June 10th says: "The subscriptions to the Boston allotment of the Michoacan Syndicate stock was entirely taken up on the opening of the books at noon yesterday at the office of Ransom, Eldridge & Straine. The total subscription before the closing of the books being in excess of the amount offered, the stock will have to be pro-rated." A few shares of the Portsmouth allotment can still be obtained of O. M. Knight.

A son of Harmon Spinney of Eliot was thrown out of a team at Eliot Neck, a few days ago, and had an arm broken.

Miss Lydia Trape, of Kittery, had a fall a few days since, and was seriously hurt.

LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEES.

Mr. Editor: A writer in the CHRONICLE of the 8th inst., referring to the fact that Portsmouth has not a single chairmanship of any of the standing committees of the present New Hampshire house of representatives, says:

A writer in the Times would like to know why this is thus. I would tell him if I knew, but I don't; but I know that it was just the same in the last legislature, only more so, for Portsmouth then had not a single chairmanship, while Manchester and Concord had even a larger proportion of the whole number than they have in the present house.

"Curio's" knowledge of the composition of the committees in the "last" legislature must be very infinitismal, or else he wilfully proverts facts for the purpose of making an item in which he can make a fling at one of our best citizens who is a representative to the "Great and General Court," and who it is suspected is not quite right on the senatorial question,—that is, to suit "Curio." The manual of the New Hampshire General Court of 1879 shows that Portsmouth had two chairmanships, viz.: Benj. W. Curtis, of committee on asylum for the insane, and George W. Pendexter, of committee on military accounts. Manchester had two and Concord one less than they have in the present legislature, instead of a "larger proportion of the whole number than in the present house." "Curio" attempts to mingle wit, and says thus:

I think the speaker of the house must be a wag, for I see that he has placed on the committee on elections a representative from this city who represents one ward while living in another notwithstanding the law insists that every member shall be a resident of the town or ward which he represents.

The constitution of New Hampshire is greater than even "Curio," and we recommend that he study for half a day Article 14 of the Form of Government. Perhaps he may coincide; if not—well, doctors disagree, and so do lawyers sometimes. ELMO.

THE CONGREGATIONAL CONFERENCE.

The annual session of the Rockingham Conference of Congregational and Presbyterian Churches was held in the 1st Congregational church at Derry, Rev. D. W. Richardson pastor, on Tuesday and Wednesday, June 7th and 8th.

B. Humphries. Epping, Rev. J. H. Stearns; 1st church, B. F. Clark; delegates, 2d church, Rev. J. S. Otis, John J. Bell. Greenland, Rev. Edward Robie, D. D. Hampstead, Rev. Albert Watson; delegate, Dea. William Sanborn. Kensington, Rev. Mr. Titcomb. North Hampton, Rev. T. V. Haines; delegates, Dea. J. B. Leavitt, W. H. Philbrook. Plaistow, Rev. Joseph Kyte; delegates, Giles Merrill, Sherburne C. Sleeper. Rye, Rev. J. W. Kingsbury. Salem, Rev. G. A. Perkins. South Seabrook, Rev. Wm. A. Rand. Stratham, Rev. A. B. Peabody; delegates, Phinehas Merrill and D. Ramsdell. Windham, Samuel Campbell, delegate.

The conference opened at 10:30 o'clock A. M., Wednesday, with a prayer meeting led by Rev. Mr. Pike; which was followed by a sermon on Romans 12th, 4th and 5th verses, by Rev. Lyman White. After the sermon, John J. Bell of Exeter was chosen moderator, and A. B. Peabody scribe; nominating committee, Rev. Mr. Pike of Atkinson, Dea. Leavitt of North Hampton, Rev. Mr. Kyte of Plaistow, Dea. Merrill of Stratham, Rev. Mr. White of Deerfield. The conference then adjourned to Association hall, for dinner.

Resuming at two o'clock in the afternoon, the reports of the churches were made; and a memorial was received from the Women's Temperance Alliance, which was referred to a committee. Then followed a discussion on "The fellowship of evangelical churches—its importance, and how promoted," participated in by Rev. Messrs. Robie, Stearns, Kingsbury, Watson, Page, Kyte and Haines. The question of "meeting for church fellowship" was referred to a committee consisting of Rev. Messrs. Robie, Kyte, Haines and Stearns, and Dea. Leavitt, who reported

That the conference accept the invitation of Brother Kyte of Plaistow to meet with his church in the autumn, at such time and with such exercises as he may appoint and arrange. And the committee would recommend that this meeting be followed by other fellowship meetings, the services at each to be arranged by the pastor of the church inviting.

Messrs. Tenney, Robie and Merrill were appointed a committee to report resolutions on the death of Rev. Charles Packard, late of Windham. They reported the following:

Missing the presence of our beloved brother Packard, heretofore so uniformly present at all meetings of the Rockingham County Conference of Churches, the members now present do gladly express and record their grateful remembrance and high appreciation of his faithful, long and consecrated services in all departments of church labor.

Rev. Messrs. White, Watson and Kyte, and Dea. Merrill, were appointed a committee to draw up a reply to the memorial of the Women's Alliance, and reported as follows:

We hereby extend our sympathy to the Women's Christian Temperance Alliance, and heartily endorse the recommendation to discontinue the use of fermented wines at the communion service. We also recommend that the president and secretary be authorized to sign the petition (in behalf of the conference) to the Evangelical Alliance, for the devoting of one day during the week of prayer to the cause of temperance.

The evening session was opened with prayer by Rev. Mr. Kingsbury of Rye, which was followed by a discussion on "How to make our Sunday school work more effective," by Rev. Messrs. Haines, Reed, D. W. Richardson, Stearns, Peabody, Perkins and Kyte, Dea. Leavitt, and Bro. B. F. Clark.

The Wednesday morning prayer meeting, at 8:30 o'clock, was led by Rev. Mr. Kyte. The conference session commenced at 9:30, with Rev. T. V. Haines in the chair; discussion on "How may our churches secure the presence and work of the Holy Spirit?" by Rev. Messrs. Tenney, Watson and Wm. A. Rand, and Bro. S. C. Sleeper of Plaistow. The business meeting was held at 10:30, when the report of the treasurer, Rev. A. B. Peabody, was read and accepted.

[At 10:30 the ladies withdrew to the vestry of the church, and held a session of the Rockingham County Woman's Missionary Society, at which Mrs. Edward P. Kimball of Portsmouth presided. Reports were read from the different auxiliaries; and Mrs. H. C. Knight of Portsmouth read a letter from the missionary, Mrs. Leach.]

The nominating committee reported as follows: The next meeting of the conference will be with the 2d church, Exeter; preacher of opening sermon, Rev. Albert Watson of Hampstead; prayer before communion, Rev. Wm. A. Rand of South Seabrook. Rev. Messrs. Robie, Pike and Peabody were appointed a committee on home missions. After the women's meeting there was a discussion on the question "How can the pulpit and pew best unite their efforts in reaching the masses?" opened by Dea. J. R. Leavitt of North Hampton, (for fifty years a member of the New Hampshire Conference,) and continued by Bros. Underhill, Sleeper and Pike, and Rev. Messrs. Kyte and Rand.

Dinner was served at noon, in Association hall.

Services in the church at 1:30. The moderator of the meeting returned the thanks of the conference to the people of Derry for their generous hospitality. Rev. W. A. Rand preached from Titus, 2d chapter, 11th and 12th verses; this was followed by the communion, and the session of the conference then ended. Although not largely attended, yet it was filled with good things.

Centaur Liniment.

Invaluable to families, and owners of horses Sold everywhere.

—How many men there are who think they are making themselves popular when they are only making themselves ridiculous.

Castoria.

—Everybody is merciful toward himself, but he can't conceive why other people should make a blunder or commit a wrong.

Ash-Tonic;

A perfected purifyer of the system. In 1-2lb. bottles; 75 cents. For dyspepsia, the many forms of liver complaint, impure and impoverished blood, and functional derangements attendant upon debility. For symptons indicated by indigestion, loss of appetite, nausea, sick headache, sour stomach, furred tongue, drowsiness, blanched lips, sallow complexion, pain in the side or back, eruptions, depression of spirits, nervous irritability and hysteria, and for building up the system, ash-tonic is unquestionably the most prompt and energetic remedy yet devised.

—"What is love?" asks everybody; and somebody replies: "It is a feeling that you don't want another feller going round with her."

From the Hub.

There is perhaps no tonic offered to the people that possesses as much real intrinsic value as the Hop Bitters. Just at this season of the year, when the stomach needs an appetizer, or the blood needs purifying, the cheapest and best remedy is Hop Bitters. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure; don't wait until you are prostrated by a disease that may take months for you to recover in.—Boston Globe.

—The slang word "crack" (as, a "crack" regiment) is a corruption of "crepo," to boast of. It is English university slang, and was in common use in Shakespeare's time.

An Experience of Twenty Years in selecting Whiskies enables the proprietors of the G. O. Taylor Old Bourbon to guarantee this brand as being what it is represented—an absolutely pure Whiskey. Sold by leading druggists and grocers.

—The young lady in the novel who "tripped lightly down the stairs" to meet her lover used court plaster for her injuries.

Cheerfulness, courage, and great activity of intellect, are engendered by Fellows' Syrup of Hypophosphites, and its capacity of imparting power of endurance to the brain and nervous system, is shown in its property of sustaining persons through mental difficulties.

—"Do you keep any Hamburg edging?" asked a timid miss. "Not if we can sell it," was the pert reply of the clerk. He kept some that day.

New lungs cannot be made by medicines, or the skill of physicians, but the old ones can be strengthened and preserved by the use of Adamson's Botanic Balsam, a sure cure for coughs, colds, asthma, and all diseases of the lungs. Price, 35 and 75 cts.

—A recent dental authority says: "Sugar does not injure sound teeth, but, on the contrary, improves them by assisting the solution of the food which supplies lime for their nourishment. Sugar sometime causes pain in decayed teeth. As creosote relieves an aching tooth by coagulating a film of albumen over the nerve, so sugar may cause a tooth to ache by dissolving the albumen by which the nerve may be protected. Negroes, who eat large quantities of sugar, have beautiful teeth."

Important.

When you visit or leave New York city, save Baggage Expressage and Carriage Hire, and stop at Grand Union Hotel, opposite Grand Central Depot; 450 rooms, fitted up at a cost of one million dollars, reduced to $1 and upwards per day. European plan. Elevator. Restaurant supplied with the best. Horse cars, stages and elevated railroad to all depots. Families can live better for less money at the Grand Union Hotel than at any other first-class hotel in the city. ap15,eod

THE RED MASK.

There are for many reasons, few diseases more to be dreaded than Erysipelas, and it has, not inaptly, been termed "St. Anthony's Fire." There is no disease which so completely deforms and disfigures the visage of the patient; and it may fairly be compared to a red mask thrown by a mocking demon over the human face. It is almost as dangerous as it is repulsive. Arising from a variety of causes, running its course with pain—it often ends suddenly in death. The old treatment consisted of blood-letting and the use of strong drastic purgatives. The substance of the enlightened modern treatment is all contained in Dr. Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy." Use this and you have taken the essential total of all the best physicians in the land could prescribe for Erysipelas. A case in point. Mr. S. B. Carpenter, of Grandville, N. Y., writes that he had for some time been afflicted with this disease in both legs, and has regained his health by the sole use of "Favorite Remedy." Other cases might be cited, did space permit. "Favorite Remedy" is also sure in its action in all other diseases of the blood. Ask your druggist for it, or address the proprietor, Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, New York.

Opinion of the Supreme Court.

TO THE SENATE OF NEW HAMPSHIRE:—The undersigned have received an attested copy of the resolution of your honorable body, requiring the opinion of the Supreme court upon the question whether the existing legislature has the power and right to elect a person to represent the state in the senate of the United States for the term beginning March 4, 1883.

The first inquiry is, whether this is an important question of law on which the senate is authorized to require opinion of the court. It is evidently a question of law, and an important one; and it is none the less such a question because it is in our judgment free from all difficulty and doubt. It is a question of law necessary to be determined by the state senate in the performance of its duties as a branch of the legislature. We see no reason to doubt that it is constitutionally entitled to our opinion. In giving such an opinion, the justices do not act as a court, but as the constitutional advisers of either branch of the legislature requiring their opinion; and it has never been considered essential that the question proposed should be such as might come before them in their judicial capacity. 126 Mass. 566; 53 N. H. 641.

The Senate of the United States shall be composed of two senators from each state, chosen by the legislature thereof for six years.—Constitution of the United States, art. I, sec. 3.

The right of each state is not merely to be represented by two senators, but to be represented by two senators chosen by its legislature.

The legislative duty of chosing senators is comprehended in the state right of being represented by senators chosen by the legislature. The senatorial term is six years—"chosen by the legislature for six years," is the language of the constitution. The primary right of the state is not to be represented five years and nine months, or any other part of each senatorial term, by two senators chosen by the legislature, but to be represented during the whole of each term by two senators so chosen; and the manifest constitutional duty of the legislature is to elect senators at such times that the state may be represented by two senators, chosen by the legislature thereof for six years.

The constitution of the United States is the supreme law of the land, and so long as it remains in force in its present form there can be no power, state or federal, legally capable of depriving a state of the right which the constitution has conferred upon it, or of relieving the legislature from the duty which the constitution has imposed upon it, and there is no more power legally to suspend the right and duty for a day than for six years or forever.

The next legislature, having no official existence until June, 1883, cannot elect a senator for the full term of six years, beginning March 4, 1883. Therefore the refusal of the present legislature to elect a senator for that term, would be a violation of the constitutional right of the state to be represented by two senators—"chosen by the legislature thereof for six years." Such a refusal leaving the state for three months represented by only one senator chosen by its legislature, would be as plainly unconstitutional as similar refusals leaving the state for all time without any senator so chosen.

If by an aggressive act of any federal or state power the states could be constitutionally deprived of their senatorial rights, for any part of a senatorial term, there would be no limit of the disfranchisement to which they would be liable. If a state can be constitutionally deprived of the right to have its vote given in the senate, by members chosen by its legislature, it can be constitutionally deprived of its voice and vote in both houses of Congress, expelled from the Union, or reduced to the condition of a conquered province. Its natural rights would not be legal rights, in the ordinary sense, if they can be legally taken away without cause, without fault, without trial, and without remedy. A resolution of the federal senate, or a Congress refusing to admit to their seats any more senators from New Hampshire, chosen by its legislature, for six years, would, if carried into effect, violate the constitutional right of the state, but would not release the legislature from their electoral duty. The performance of that duty would show that the state did not assent to its own disfranchisement.

When a vacancy happens by resignation or otherwise during the recess of the legislature, the executive may make a temporary appointment until the next meeting of the legislature, which shall then fill the vacancy. Art. 1, sec. 3.

This power of filling vacancies by appointment is not a limitation of the right of the state, or the duty of the legislature.

It is the constitutional right of the state that no vacancy shall be caused by the refusal of the present legislature to choose a senator for six years.

The federal senate is the judge of the elections of its own members; and the legal presumption is, that it will admit a person duly qualified and legally elected. It is not and cannot be bound to a contrary course by any action that has been or can be taken by itself or by Congress.

Its published proceedings and debates furnish satisfactory evidence that it would admit a member chosen by the present legislature, and that the doctrine of disorganization, equally hostile to the rights of the states and the perpetuity of the union, is not held by that learned and honorable body; but if it should turn out that we are mistaken in this, the electoral duty of the present legislature would not cease to be a constitutional one.

Congress has power to prescribe the time and manner of holding elections for senators. Article I, section 4. And it has exercised that power. Rev. Stats. U. S., Sections 14, 15.

But as Congress cannot legally violate the constitutional right of the state to be represented by two senators chosen by the legislature, and as that right would be violated by the refusal of the present legislature to elect, it not necessary to inquire into the validity of the act of Congress. But having examined the act, it may not be out of place to express the opinion that it is constitutional because it cannot be fairly construed to be a denial of the constitutional electoral duty of the present legislature. Section 15, prescribing the manner of election, has no bearing on the present question, which is a question of the time only. Section 14 fixes the time. It provides, in substance, that a senator shall be elected by the legislature which is chosen next preceding the begining of a senatorial term.

The legislature here intended is a body of men who are the legislature before the beginning of the senatorial term, and not a body of men who will be the legislature if they are alive, three months after the beginning of the term.

The legal meaning is easily and clearly settled by two elementary rules of interpretation. The first rule is, that the evil intended to be removed is strong evidence of the remedy intended to be provided. The evil was the election of senators at too early a day by a legislature that was not the latest one that could elect for a full term of six years. The remedy was the fixing such a time that the duty of electing for the full term should fall upon the latest legislature that could perform the duty. The other and equally decisive rule of interpretation is that Congress as a legislative body is presumed to have intended not to infringe constitutional rights, and to make a law that would be valid. The application of these rules leads to the conclusion that Congress meant a legislature competent to perform the duty of maintaining the state right by electing a senator for the full term, and not a legislature incapable of performing that duty.

Congress has not power to prescribe the form of the state constitution, or to fix the time when the legislature shall be elected, or when its official term shall begin, or disfranchise a state for not making such a constitution as Congress approves.

The constitution of the state is constitutional and valid, and the state cannot be legally deprived of its right to have senators elected by its legislature for full terms on the ground that the election of the legislature of June, 1883, occurs in November, 1882.

Not having had an opportunity carefully to consider the question submitted by the Honorable Senate, and also being in doubt whether it is one upon which the opinion of the court may properly be required, under the constitution, I make no answer and express no opinion.

When I Was Sick!

My room looked like a drug store. I had so many bottles in it. The more I dosed the worse off I was. Finally I paid my doctor and told him he needn't come any more. I was troubled with chronic rheumatism, and couldn't get out of bed alone. Six bottles of Sulphur Bitters cured me. —Fireman, Boston.

Augusta, Me., is to have a free postal delivery system, with eight mail carriers. Augusta has only 8,000 inhabitants, and therefore Lewiston with 20,000, Auburn with 10,000 and Biddeford with 14,000 are indignant.

Brace Up.

There is serious meaning in this expression. That wearied step, languid eye and feeling of general lassitude, come from "spring sickness." Be assured, a serious, and perhaps, fatal disease is close in its wake. The system wants cleansing of winter impurities; the sluggish blood needs to be sent in swift and clear currents through the veins. "Favorite Remedy" will do this; it will give new vigor to the body, brightness to the eye, a glow to the countenance and elasticity to the step. One dollar a bottle. Every druggist has it. At Pittsfield, Mass., on the evening of the 9th inst., as Edward A. Loftus was walking on one of the back streets, in company with a young lady, three youths who were sitting on the roadside, one of them named John Feeley, rolled or threw stones after Loftus, who says he told the boys several times to stop it, and because they did not he drew a revolver and fired toward them, as he says to frighten them. A bullet struck Feeley over the left ear, penetrated the outer plate of the skull, and flattened against the inner plate, inflicting only a scalp wound. The escape from death was a narrow one. Loftus was held in $300 for trial. He has before been assailed in the same locality, and has had full provocation for his shooting.

Gov. Churchill of Arkansas has sent the commander of the state militia, Gen. Newton, to Perry county, to report upon the alleged Ku-Klux outrages there. At Little Rock, on the 10th inst., the report was that great excitement prevailed in Perry county. The desperadoes were well armed, and declared they would not allow the banished citizens to return. The county assessor and two other citizens of Perry county reached Little Rock that day, claiming they had been compelled to flee for their lives. They were captured and roughly handled by their captors, who threatened to hang them, but they managed to elude their guards, and reached Little Rock in a deplorable condition, their feet bleeding and torn, having walked the entire distance barefooted. Great indignation exists among the law-abiding portion of the community. Governor Churchill it is said will adopt summary measures to put down the outlaws.

AROUND HOME.

The steamer Hudson, which left this city some weeks ago for Troy, N. Y., has arrived at her destination.

The schooner Anna M. Nash arrived at Doane's wharf on Friday last with two hundred and five barrels of mackerel.

If somebody would put a bucket of water in the "fountain" on Congress street, it might become possible to get a drink there.

Tug Naumkeag came down from Newmarket on Sunday morning, having received no injury from grounding at that place last week.

It is reported that wealthy parties from Chicago are negotiating for the purchase of the gold and silver mine on the Nathan Paul farm at Eliot.

Mr. Charles Call of Kittery, a skilled farmer who was last season employed by Mr. John Thaxter on Cutts' island, is this year employed on the Burnham farm, Gerrish's island.

Garrett Cunningham, teamster for the Portsmouth Brewing Co., died quite suddenly on Friday night, about midnight. He was driving his team but a few days before his death.

A family from Illinois arrived at the Tower cottage near Foss' beach, Rye, on Thursday last. Company has also commenced to arrive at the boarding houses in the south part of Rye.

Mr. Oliver L. Frisbee of Kittery Point, who is to be clerk of the Appledore house at the Shoals this season, arrived home last week from Bates college, at which institution he is a student.

Samuel H. Bradley, the New York legislator who created such a sensation last week by declaring that he had received $2000 as a bribe to vote for Depew for United States senator, is thirty-eight years old, and a graduate of Phillips academy at Exeter.

The storm of Friday made a very heavy "general average" among the lobster pots set outside this harbor, and once more made some big holes in the netting of the weirs off Gerrish's island. The weir men must make some good takes during the summer, in order to have the balance sheet look well next fall.

Miss Fanny Robinson Chase, daughter of the late Capt. Charles H. Chase of this city, graduated at the Mount Vernon Seminary of Washington, D. C., on Wednesday evening of last week. Interesting commencement exercises were held at the Foundry Methodist Episcopal church, Miss Chase reading an original essay entitled "Heroes of to-day."

Rev. John F. Adams, of Greenland, died on the 11th inst., at the ripe age of ninety-one years. Mr. Adams had been on the superannuated list of the Methodist church for fifteen or twenty years, and at the time of his death was probably the oldest preacher in New England, with the exception of Elder Moses How, who will be ninety-two years old next August if he lives. It is believed that Mr. Adams commenced to preach before Elder How did.

Mr. John Card, of Newcastle, was taken into custody by the police on Saturday forenoon, on the supposition that he was not in his right mind. He was found by E. C. Spinney, Esq., of Kittery, in his garden, at an early hour Saturday morning, thinly clad and wet through. Mr. Spinney took him into the house and kept him until after daylight, when he came to this city, and was followed by Mr. Spinney, who notified the police of his probable condition, and they cared for him.

First Lieutenant F. E. Dodge, attached to the Twenty-third U. S. Infantry, was detailed on a board to fix the price of old pattern clothing to military prisons in the Missouri department, last week.

Barnum's circus passed through this city for the eastward at an early hour Sunday morning, on two very long freight trains. A large and select assortment of small boys assembled at the depot to assist.

The total eclipse of the moon came off on Saturday night as advertised, soon after midnight. It was a very well managed affair, but would have drawn a larger audience had the exhibition commenced at an earlier hour.

Lizzie Atkins of Waldo, Me., a girl sixteen years old, employed as a domestic in the family of Theodore P. Knights, a sewing-machine agent in Dover, charges him with having foully wronged her under the most aggravated circumstances, during the absence of the other members of his family. He was arrested on Friday evening as he was preparing to leave the city.

Benj. W. Hoyt, boot and shoe manufacturer of Epping, has made an assignment to the cashier of the Newmarket bank. Mr. Hoyt's failure is due to losses suffered through the recent burning of his manufacturing establishment. He was insured to the extent of $42,000—$12,000 being on the factory and $30,000 on the stock—but his loss was more than double that amount.

The concert given at Music hall for Mr. Harlow's benefit was repeated in Dover last week, and the Republican says "all the pieces were rendered in a manner entirely pleasing to the appreciative audience present. We heard nothing but expressions of great satisfaction at its close. The managers are deserving of great praise for presenting such a rich musical treat to our citizens." It says Miss Edith Wendell was in fine voice, and "sang with great power and fine effect;" that Miss Fannie Hoyt, the violinist, "met with a splendid reception, played splendidly and was loudly applauded;" and that "the singing by Miss Grace Varrell, the petite soprano, was wonderful for its distinctness, its sweetness of tone, and the gracefulness of gesture attending it."

Frank E. Brewster, about eight years old, son of George H. Brewster, was waiting at the "know-nothing" station Sunday forenoon in anticipation of seeing Barnum's circus train go by, when the 10:25 train from Boston arrived, and as usual came to a stop. The boy got upon the rear platform of the hinder car to ride into the depot, but before arriving there the train had attained such speed that he thought it was bound right through to the eastward, and in consequence he jumped off when near the signal station, and was very seriously hurt. He was taken home insensible, and was found to have received a bad gash on the crown of the head, and injury to his brain was feared. Dr. Potter was called to attend the case. We are informed that it is quite a common custom for boys to jump on the trains at the "know-nothing," and ride into the station; if so, one or two of them had better be conducted to the police station when they are caught at it.

WRECK.

The schooner Coral, of Bucksport, Me., 69.23 tons register, S. H. Cole master, bound from Bangor to Haverhill, Mass., with a cargo of 400,000 laths, was totally lost off York beach during the gale of the 10th inst. It was noticed by the master at eight o'clock in the morning that the schooner was rather "logy" in her motions, and it was soon discovered that she had sprung a leak. An attempt was made to reach Portland harbor, but the wind and sea were so nearly ahead that the attempt was soon abandoned, and a course was shaped for Wood island, the captain intending to get into Biddeford pool; but the first land seen through the fog was Cape Porpoise, and nothing then remained to be done but to run for this harbor. The vessel kept settling by the head, and sail after sail was shortened until when about two miles east of the Nubble, at eleven o'clock in the forenoon, the schooner became waterlogged and went over on her beam ends, breaking off the mainmast. The crew escaped in their boat with nothing but what they stood in, and landed on York beach to the eastward of the Nubble; they came to this city on Saturday, and proceeded to their homes by rail.

On Saturday a part of the schooner's hull was ashore on Sea point, Gerrish's island, Kittery, and fragments of the vessel, broken spars and laths were scattered all along from the point to Brave Boat Harbor and beyond. The Coral was formerly owned at Kittery Point, having been bought by Capt. Thomas Clarkson; she was for some time commanded by Capt. Jesse E. Frisbee, of the point, but was sold years ago to parties at the eastward, who put her into the lumber trade.

Over three hundred persons visited Sea point on Saturday and Sunday to view the wreck, but only small pieces of it were to be seen. Nearly one hundred thousand laths have been gathered which went ashore at that place; the rest are supposed to have drifted westward.

A SAD STORY.

About four o'clock yesterday afternoon a middle-aged lady belonging in Portsmouth came into the city marshal's office, and stated that a young girl named Clara Blanchard, fifteen years old, whom she had employed as a domestic at her home in Portsmouth, had left her service and taken with her a shawl, hat, and gold ring, the whole valued at $85, and that she had good reasons to believe that the girl was in this city. She then gave a description of the girl, and left. About an hour after, Marshal Taylor and Assistant Marshal Janvrin proceeded to a certain house at the upper part of the city, and there found the girl with the stolen goods in her possession. She was taken to the station, and the goods returned to the lady from whom they were stolen. The young girl pleaded and begged her not to prosecute her, saying that she had never been arrested before, and out of pity for the girl, the lady resolved to let her go free. The lady had been gone but a few minutes when a despatch was received from Malden by Marshal Taylor, saying that a young girl whose description exactly fitted the one under arrest was wanted at that place for the larceny of a large quantity of goods, and so the marshal resolved to keep her, and sent a telegram to Malden officers to come on and see if she was the one; and Officer Blanchard of that town arrived this morning, and found that she was the person wanted. She protested her innocence for a short time, which did no good, and so, seeing that the game was up, she confessed everything. She is a very pretty girl, about fifteen years of age, and her real name it seems is Clara Grover, although she has gone by the name of Blanchard and Ward at the different places where she has stopped. She ran away from her home in Lynn, where she belongs, a few years ago, and since then has, as she states, been living in houses of ill-fame, or as a domestic in private families. During the winter just passed she lived in a house of ill-fame in this city, after which she went to Portsmouth and lived with a family, and was arrested for theft as stated. She was taken to Malden on the noon train.—Newburyport Herald, June 10th.

The superior court of York county at the last session granted twenty divorces, the largest number ever granted at one term, it is said.

Alma Allen, aged twenty-two years, of Saco, by undue influence it is said persuaded Margaret Brown, not quite fourteen years old, to marry him. The girl's parents are very indignant.

New Hampshire Items.

A trial of a new machine gun, invented by Elihu Wilder of Manchester, inventor of the knitting machine, was made at lake Massabesic last Thursday. It has five barrels and is fed from the top, and fires 1000 shots a minute. On the occasion of the trial the gun was directed across the lake, and with the aid of a field glass the balls were seen to strike at a distance of two miles and within a radius of ten feet. The gun has been manufactured by Mr. Wilder for tests ordered by the British government, and will soon be taken to London.

Charles H. Gibbs, a well known butcher of West Lebanon, was killed on Friday in the vicinity of West Hartford, Vt., by a kick from a fractious horse, which he was aiding an acquaintance to harness to a carriage.

Col. D. M. Clough, the "corn king" of Canterbury, has forty acres planted this season, over-thirty-five being corn. He has over twenty acres sown to oats, making sixty acres under the plow, which makes as good a show as many western farmers can make. The colonel wintered 115 head of cattle, eight horses, over 100 sheep, and about twenty hogs. His ox team consists of twelve large oxen. All of this stock is fed from a farm that twenty years ago kept but twenty head of cattle.—Manchester Union.

A Trick on Albany Solons.

The New York Hour says there is no wonder the legislators at Albany look with disfavor upon the modest request of the Elevated road to be absolved from paying its lawful tax to the state. It will be remembered that the Metropolitan Elevated railroad company played a sharp trick on the Albany Solons last year. The five-cent fare bill was before the legislature and had every chance of being passed, when a well-known lobbyist confided a secret to the "boys." He told them that, if the bill failed to pass, the stock of the road would, naturally enough, advance. This was a sufficient hint. Wall-street firms suddenly became loaded down with orders from Albany to buy the stock on margins. The bill, which had, up to the advent of the lobbyist, every chance of passing, was defeated by a large majority, and the "boys" made ready to gather in the harvest. There was great surprise, therefore, when it was discovered that the stock had fallen, instead of risen. It was discovered that Cyrus Field had heard of the legislative purchases, and had made up his mind that a favorable moment had arrived to unload a large block of his stock at good prices.

How Drinking Causes Apoplexy.

It is the essential nature of all wine and spirits to send an increased amount of blood to the brain. The first effect of taking a glass of wine or stronger form of alcohol, is to send the blood there faster than common, hence the circulation that gives the red face. It increases the activity of the brain, and it works faster, and so does the tongue. But as the blood goes to the brain faster than common, it returns faster, and no special, permanent harm results. But suppose a man keeps on drinking, the blood is sent to the brain so fast, in such large quantities, that in order to make room for it the arteries have to enlarge themselves; they increase in size, and in doing so, they press against the more yielding, flaccid veins which carry the blood out of the brain and thus diminish their size, their pores, the result being that the blood is not only carried to the arteries of the brain faster than is natural or healthful, but is prevented from leaving it as fast as usual; hence a double set of causes of death are set in operation. Hence a man may drink enough of brandy or spirits in a few hours, or even minutes, to bring on a fatal attack of apoplexy. This is, literally, being dead drunk.—Dr. Hall.

Don't Trust Them.

When you feel badly, and have pains here and there through your body that you don't know how to account for, it is the most foolish policy in the world to take the advice of people who say: "Oh! there's nothing the matter with you. Let yourself alone and you will come out all right." These folks know nothing about it, and may be trifling with your life. You may have kidney or liver trouble. Send right out to your druggist and get a bottle of Dr. David Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy" and then you will be all right, or write to the doctor at Rondout, N. Y.

A race in lapstreak boats has been arranged between Wise of Riverside and Edward Hanlan of Toronto, Canada. The race is for $1,000 a side, and to come off in six weeks from date on Toronto bay. Course, five miles in length, with turn. A deposit of $500 a side has been made.

His Ignorance cost me $150.

I was sick abed for three months. The doctor said I had prolapsus uteri, which was untrue. He didn't try to cure me, but wanted to make a $1.50 every day. My uncle is a druggist, and he told me to turn the doctor off and try Sulphur Bitters. I did so, and five dollars worth of Sulphur Bitters cured me of general weakness and debility.—Mrs. S——, New Haven.

The Best Remedy for Chapped Hands

Is Hegeman's Camphor Ice. It should be rubbed upon the part affected. The warmth of the skin will soften it sufficiently, under ordinary circumstances, but in extreme cold weather, it may be necessary to warm it by the fire. If the hands are badly chapped, apply every night, and protect the hands by wearing an old pair of kid gloves. Hegeman's is the best and most popular of all the Camphor Ices made. Hegeman's Camphor Ice is also a cure for sore lips, chapped face, and sunburn. It is compounded with glycerine, which renders it more emollient than any other Camphor Ice; it will be found a most soothing application to the face after shaving.

M. M. Stoughton and George Hubbard of Rutland, Vt., were fatally injured last Friday by the breaking of a scaffolding. They fell forty feet to the sidewalk, and were picked up unconscious. Stoughton died in about five hours, and Hubbard cannot survive.

New lungs cannot be made by medicines, or the skill of physicians, but the old ones can be strengthened and preserved by the use of Adamson's Botanic Balsam, a sure cure for coughs, colds, asthma, and all diseases of the lungs. Price, 35 and 75 cts.

A man named Harman and his son were killed by lightning last Thursday, in Anne Arundel county, Md. Another man had his thigh broken, and several others were stunned by the shock. They were strawberry pickers, and had taken refuge from the storm in an old building.

Important.

When you visit or leave New York city, save Baggage Expressage and Carriage Hire, and stop at Grand Union Hotel, opposite Grand Central Depot; 450 rooms, fitted up at a cost of one million dollars, reduced to $1 and upwards per day. European plan. Elevator. Restaurant supplied with the best. Horse cars, stages and elevated railroad to all depots. Families can live better for less money at the Grand Union Hotel than at any other first-class hotel in the city. tap15,81

Daily Chronicle.

The investigation made by the state department into the detention of the American schooner Washington off the Cuban coast last spring by a Spanish man-of-war, has resulted in a sharp issue of facts between the commander of the schooner and the Spanish government. It is largely a question of latitude and longitude, and the Spanish government maintains that the affidavits of the American captain and mate are not correct.

An apparently wealthy, educated and refined young lady registered at a hotel in Montreal as Miss Fisher of New York, about two weeks ago. On Wednesday of last week she attempted suicide by shooting, but failed to kill herself. She refused to tell who she is or why she shot herself. She is abundantly supplied with money, and her toilets are of the richest description.

A Boston girl visiting in Machias, Me., writes home that she is shocked to find that many young ladies there are forming the foolish and injurious habit of smoking cigarettes. She says: "You know we always had a high opinion of the Maine girls, and the knowledge of this lessens my respect for some of them. They can hardly realize what a hoydenish and unladylike appearance it gives them, yet some seem pleased to appear over-bold and dandyfied, not caring for the remarks made about them."

A Springfield, Mass., clergyman appeared in his pulpit on Sunday morning arrayed in an exceedingly short study gown, trimmed with red. Oblivious of the astonishment of the flock, he coolly marched across the platform and back again, not discovering his grotesque appearance until the head usher passed him up what purported to be a notice, but which contained the words, "Wouldn't you better change your coat?" He did change it without any perceptible delay.

It is said that Hon. Lionel Sackville West, at present British minister to Spain, will succeed Sir Edward Thornton as minister to the United States.

A lady in Washington has had her hair changed from a light blonde color to pure black, from several months' use of jaborandi, a Brazilian plant, administered to her as a remedy for blood-poisoning. Whether the new color will be permanent or the new growth be of the original color, remains to be seen, and the result is looked for with much interest.

—A little Pittsfield girl, called up for recitation in Sabbath school, repeated these lines: "'Tis sweet to court, but oh how bitter, To court a girl and then not get her." Result: Great merriment on the part of teacher and scholars, which the little girl did not appreciate.

Woman's Wisdom.

"She insists that it is more important that her family shall be kept in full health, than that she should have all the fashionable dresses and styles of the times. She therefore sees to it, that each member of her family is supplied with enough Hop Bitters, at the first appearance of any symptoms of ill health, to prevent a fit of sickness with its attendant expense, care and anxiety. All women should exercise their wisdom in this way."—New Haven Palladium.

The whaling schooner Edward Lee, Sparks master, of Provincetown, Mass., was spoken off Cuttyhunk on Saturday, and reported that some time previously she sent a boat's crew after a whale, and after making fast to it the boat and its occupants suddenly disappeared; sailed about the locality some time, but no traces were discovered. The weather was so bad that it was impossible to board the schooner to obtain further particulars. The man in charge of the Edward Lee appeared to be a Portuguese, and it is thought that the captain may have been one of those who perished.

"Incomparably superior to the trashy articles which are palmed upon the public," is the verdict of Professor Duncan Campbell, M. D., L. L. D. (President Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons, Member General Council, University of Edinburgh, etc., etc.), in regard to the Liebig Co's Arnicated Extract of Witch Hazel. It cures piles, salt rheum, catarrah, rheumatism, neuralgia, painful monthly flow, sore throat, varicose veins. Beware of counterfeits. Sold in fifty cents and dollar sizes.

It is estimated that there are at least ten railroad brakemen killed throughout the country every day. This is probably too high an estimate, but a great many are killed or injured during a year, and brakemen find it difficult to get their lives insured. Of the brakemen of freight trains it is said that only about twenty-five per cent die a natural death, and that the average life of a brakemen after he goes on the road is about ten years.

The Supreme Court Opinion.

The Times, commenting upon the opinion returned by the Supreme court in answer to the enquiry of the senate as to whether the present or the next legislature of the state should elect a United States senator, says:

Of course this opinion will be looked upon by all as a mere political expression, commanding the respect of nobody any further than it falls in with the line of action one wishes the legislature to pursue. We had hoped the court would held itself aloof from the mere partisan controversy going on about the senatorship, as well it might. Nothing tends so much to destroy respect for the courts and to render them unfit to decide righteously the questions that properly come before them, as the facility with which they are everywhere made mere bobs to political kites—at one time construing law in accordance with its exact letter, and at another giving it such latitudinarian scope as to permit anything to be done or not done, as will please the party or ring to which they owe existence.

The leaders of the democratic party in this state very naturally desire to have the election of a United States senator to succeed Mr. Rollins postponed to the next legislature, for the reason that the present legislature is strongly republican, while the next one may possibly be democratic—there is no telling what two years may bring forth—when a democratic senator would be chosen. The likelihood of a democratic victory in this state in 1882 is infinitetimal; but it is a bare possibility, and that is enough to make the postponement of the senatorial election desired. This accounts for the indignation of our brother of the Times, at the opinion of the judges so strongly and unanimously supporting an election by the present legislature. Had the supreme court as strongly pronounced against an election by the present legislature, we venture the assertion that our neighbor would have detected only the purest patriotism in its action, instead of partisan corruption to please a "ring."

But we are somewhat at a loss to tell just where the "ring" is which the court has prostituted itself to please. Three of the seven judges are democrats; the court "owes existence" as much to the large fraction of the republican party which strongly desires postponement, as to the other large fraction of the party which desires present action; and the section of the party which desires postponement, and which is antagonized by the opinion of the court, includes a very large proportion of the most prominent, able and trusted of the party's leading men. The opinion of the judges may not be sound in law, but we see no reason to accuse them of having dishonorably used their high position in support of any partisan "ring."

News and Notes.

American race horses have carried off the grand honors in Europe this spring. First Pierre Lorillard's horse Iroquois won the great race of England, "the Derby;" and on the 12th inst. Mr. J. R. Keene's horse Foxhall won the grand prize of 100,000 francs at Paris.

News has been received of a fight in the southwestern part of Texas, between citizens and cow thieves. Eight men were killed and a number wounded.

Charles Sutter, A. D. R. Zugler, and a white man, name unknown, died of sunstroke in New Orleans, La., Saturday. These are the first cases in that city this year.

Scout E. A. Allison, who has been instrumental in bringing into camp many of Sitting Bull's Sioux, reports Sitting Bull 170 miles north of the United States line, in Quappelle, Manitoba, where he and his followers are obliged to make all sorts of shifts for a livelihood. Allison believes the Yanktonnais at Poplar creek are guilty of much of the devilry for which the Sioux are blamed, and thinks they should be sent to their Dakota reservation. The Sioux it is reported are intending to send several of their chiefs to Washington to apply for a stated reservation, where they may live and die in peace, and without hardships such as they now suffer.

At Honeywell, Kansas, Sunday afternoon, Andrew D. Robeson, a nephew of Ex-Secretary of the Navy Robeson, was killed by lightning, which stripped him of his clothing, melted his watch chain, and badly tore his face and body.

Rain fell copiously in the valley of the Ohio river nearly all last week, causing a flood and vast damage all along the river from Pittsburg to Wheeling; crops and live stock were destroyed, and many buildings injured, while travel on some of the railroads was entirely suspended. The loss is estimated all the way from $200,000 to over a million.

During the summer months Mr. Rand, the lessee of the north mill, proposes to thoroughly drain the pond once a week by fastening open the tide-gates, hoping by this means to obviate in a great degree the annoyance experienced from the pond during hot weather for many years past. As Mr. Rand is under no obligation to do this, and will lose a tide's work of the mill every time the pond is drained, he merits commendation for his public spirit. It is to be hoped that the plan will work well, and reduced the famed "mill-pond nuisance" to the smallest possible dimensions.

At St. Joseph, Mo., on the 12th inst., a German named Reinheimes was taken from jail by a party of twenty men, and hanged. He stole a horse and stabbed the animal's owner, in Atchison county on the 5th inst.

Mrs. Quincy Gardner and Mrs. James Bryan had a war of words at Klaston, N. C., Saturday morning; their husbands came along, each took up the quarrel on behalf of his wife, and both drew dirks. The women endeavored to make peace, but the men fought until Gardner fell to the earth in a dying condition, and Bryan, badly wounded, took to the woods.

A tornado and rain-storm did great damage in southwest Missouri and Lyon county, Kansas, on the night of the 9th inst. The town of Americus, Kansas, was almost destroyed, every building in it being more or less injured, and the growing crops in the neighborhood were ruined. The town of Seven Star Springs, in Barry county, Mo., was swept away by a waterspout, which carried off all the houses, tents and animals; a man, three women and seven children were also swept away, but all fortunately lodged in bushes, and were rescued some hours later.

Japhet Fennimore, aged eighty-six years, of Retreat, N. J., committed suicide one day last week by taking Paris green. He had previously made two unsuccessful attempts at self-destruction the same day, first jumping into a creek, and then down a well.

Haynes, the ruffian who was so handsomely shot down by Mr. Northey, the guard at the Maine state prison at Thomaston, during the former's attempt to escape last week, is in a critical condition, and will probably die; he says he was determined to escape, if he had to kill a dozen men to effect it. Guard Barrows, in whose eyes Haynes threw hartshorn and pepper, is doing well, and will recover the use of his eyes.

The inquest on the death of Charles D. Kidder, who was murdered by his brother, Dwight Kidder, Jr., at Springfield, Mass., was held Saturday. Important testimony was given by Mrs. Catharine Kidder, the prisoner's mother; George H. Blelock, who occupied a house between that of the two families interested; Mrs. Ann Williams, sister of the murdered man's wife, who was visiting the family at the time of the sad affair; Norah Griffin, servant in the victim's family; and Mrs. Sarah Kidder, widow of the deceased. Young Kidder, it is said, "is in a most unhappy state of mind over this sad affair."

A gang of masked "regulators" in Rockingham county, N. C., utilized the eclipse of the moon Saturday night in a novel fashion, by taking from jail at Greensboro, during its continuance, a negro named John Taylor, and hanging him. The victim was charged with having outraged a white woman on the previous night.

The Providence & Worcester railroad has increased the wages of brakemen from $1.62 to $1.75 per day.

John Griscom, of Chicago, is conducting another idiotic fasting experiment; he has abstained from food for seventeen consecutive days out of forty-five, the number he proposes to fast. He isn't dead yet, we believe.

On Thursday evening last, in Montague county, Texas, a wagon containing Mr. W. B. Hutchinson, his family and a Miss Cox, was struck by lightning; Miss Cox and Miss Lizzie Hutchinson were instantly killed, Mrs. Hutchinson fatally hurt, and the other occupants of the carriage stunned.

At Arkadelphia, Ark., last week, a white boy named Pleasant Gray, aged thirteen years, shot dead a colored boy named Russell, of about the same age.

Robert Paragoe, while bathing in the river at New Orleans, Saturday, was drowned. His brother, Lovell Paragoe, in attempting to rescue him, was also drowned.

A boy named More, nine years old, fell from a ladder on which he was playing in New Bedford, Mass., Sunday, and broke his neck, causing instant death.

Judge Kingsbury of Litchfield, Ill., and several other prominent citizens who were instrumental in sending a man named Isaac Wilson to Jacksonville as an insane patient, are now apprehensive for their personal safety on account of Wilson's escape from the asylum. He has frequently threatened to kill them all. This is his second escape. He attempted to assassinate Judge Kingsbury some time ago.

Postmaster-General James believes that the post-office department can be made to yield a handsome revenue to the government within the next two years, if not sooner.

AROUND HOME.

Wages on the Portsmouth & Dover railroad have been increased ten per cent.

A book agent, now canvassing this city and the navy yard, has sold nearly 1200 volumes of a single work.

The schooner Water Lily, of Eliot, arrived from Gloucester on Monday, for salt, having disposed of twenty-six thousand pounds of salted fish at that place.

Bishop Nealley of Portland, Me., in the absence of Bishop Niles of New Hampshire will administer the rite of confirmation at St. John's church in this city on Sunday, the 26th inst.

The tug Ann left Charles E. Walker's wharf on Monday morning for the "oxbow," Exeter river, having in tow a train of five scows to be used in the improvement of the Swamscott.

Henry Peyret & Son, wholesale wine dealers, formerly of Portland, Me., and recently in business in this city, have removed to Manchester, the firm having leased a store on Manchester street in that city.

It is said that a coasting schooner went ashore near Odierne's point on Friday night, but got off next day without assistance and with trifling damage, and proceeded on her way eastward. Her name is not given.

The schooner Isaac Somes, Taylor master, with 225 barrels of mackerel, and the Daniel Marcy, Nickerson master, with 265 barrels, both bound for this port, were reported from Harwichport, Cape Cod, on the 12th inst., as having arrived at that port previous to the 10th.

There is no fun in going down the river by the little tide-way, and on attempting to return to find the channel bare and have to row some six miles on the outside of the Newcastle shore to get home, as several parties had to do on Monday. It seems that the breakwater does not deepen that passage, as it was predicted it would.

The beach from Hampton to Salisbury was thickly strewn with laths on Saturday and Sunday; one man living near Salisbury beach picked up sixty-eight bundles, and a lot was gathered from the beach at Seabrook. These were probably part of the cargo of the schooner Coral, through it is possible some other vessel lost her deckload in the bay during the gale of Friday.

The schooner Addie & Hattie arrived on Friday morning from the eastward with about twenty-five hundred lobsters, which were disposed of within three hours of her arrival. Lobsters are getting scarce, though not depreciating in quality. Last week there were eighteen smacks cruising among the islands in Penobscot bay for cargoes, and averaging about six thousand lobsters to a vessel.

On Saturday Mr. William F. Fernald and his son were riding home in a buggy, and when near the Eastern railroad depot the shafts disengaged and swung the carriage around, throwing both inmates out. Mr. Fernald escaped uninjured, and his son received but a slight scratch on his face. The horse took to the railroad track, leaving the buggy just beyond the depot, and went off the track at Dover street, where he was stopped. The buggy was somewhat damaged, but the horse was not hurt.

A very large lobby from this city is in attendance at Concord, giving advice to our Solons in the senatorial matter. The republican delegation from this city, is understood to be equally divided respecting the propriety of an election this year. The democratic delegation is united.

There was a large public meeting in Dover on Saturday evening, in support of the charter for the Lake Shore extension of the Boston & Maine railroad. Zimri S. Wallingford, H. H. Hart, Col. Charles M. Murphy and others spoke earnestly in support granting a charter for the proposed new road.

POLICE COURT.

MONDAY, June 13; Batchelder, J.

Thomas Marshall, for drunkennass, was fined $3, costs $6.90. For not paying, he was sent to the county house of correction at Brentwood.

SOUTH POND RACES.

A number of the south end boys, seeing no prospect of anything particular taking place in this city on the 4th of July, have "patched in" and raised quite a respectable purse to be offered in prizes for the winners of a series of races to be held on the south pond and in its vicinity on that day. The races will include a pair-oared race on the pond, for which there are nine entries, which will necessitate the pulling of the race in heats, as but three boats can race on the pond at one time; a tub race, for which there are five entries; possibly a marine bicycle race; then a sack-race on the bridge, a three-legged race, and a potato race.

BODY PICKED UP.

About half-past ten o'clock, Monday forenoon, as Abram Perkins and his son, of South Seabrook, were engaged in hauling their lobster pots, they discovered the body of a man floating in the water about three-quarters of a mile off the mouth of Hampton river, and picked it up and landed it at Smith's dock, near Robbins' mill, Seabrook. The selectmen were notified, and sent for N. H. Robie, Esq., of Hampton Falls, coroner. Dr. D. W. Colcord examined the body, but could find no marks of violence; an inquest was deemed unnecessary, and the body was buried in the cemetery near the Methodist church, Rev. Wm. A. Rand performing the funeral service. The friends of James Boyd, who was drowned in October last, viewed the remains but pronounced them not to be his.

The body was that of a person twenty-five or thirty years of age and about five feet nine inches in height, and with the exception of the face and left hand was uninjured; it appeared as if it had been buried in the sand, and was possibly washed out in the late gale. It was dressed in dark hip-pants, and black diagonal-cloth vest, with two pairs of stockings on the feet, the outer ones being striped; there was on the right foot a No. 7 rubber boot, newly tapped. A dark blue flannel shirt, knit under-shirt and drawers, and a Cape Ann sou'wester, completed the dress; the drawers had the letter "P" on them, worked with red cotton thread; and on the shirt were four stitches about three-quarters of an inch long, made with woollen yarn. The hair was dark, and the teeth very regular, and perfect except that one was broken. Patterns of the cloth of the garments, and the sou'wester and boot, were preserved for identification.

The Value of Rye.

It is a question on many eastern farms whether the Indian corn crop pays. So many things pay better, and western corn is so cheap, that many have given up raising. But rye is growing in importance in the vicinity of all large towns, by the great demand for the straw for bedding, and for manufacturing purposes. For the last four years we have sold the straw at an average price of $20 per ton, falling but little short of the average price of hay. If only a ton can be raised to the acre, in addition to fifteen bushels of grain, it makes quite a handsome income for an acre of land. The labor on the crop is small, and comes at a time when other work is not pressing.

We use rye as a cleansing crop for old pastures. Most pastures that are not grazed by sheep tend to relapse into brush. Patches of whortleberries, blackberries, sweet fern and other shrubs extend year by year until the grass dies out. Something may be done to suppress the growth of bushes by persistently mowing with a bush scythe, but this must be followed up yearly, and is quite as expensive as the ploughing and cropping with rye. The plough and harrow, with the growing of rye for two years, effectually destroys the brush, and gives a clean pasture for several years.

The land is ploughed in August, and the rye put in with a harrow, not later than the 10th of September. We have used to great advantage a half-ton to the acre of fish scrap, fresh from the factory. It is drawn upon the ground, and composted with surface mould a few weeks before-hand, and then spread broadcast upon the field and harrowed in. A second cross-harrowing covers the rye. The advantage of this early sowing is that the plants become well rooted before frosts come, and they survive the winter in good condition. In the spring we sow clover and red-top before the frosts are gone. Much of this seed catches and furnishes good fall feed, after the grain crop is harvested.

The expense of ploughing is about $2 an acre; of sowing and harrowing twice, $2; of harvesting with the horse reaper, $2, and the threshing, done by job, one-eighth of the grain, which will not vary much from $2, making $7 for labor, and about the same for manure. The grain will just about cover the cost of the manure and labor, leaving the straw clear profit. This is more highly esteemed for bedding by the livery-stable keepers than any other kind of straw, and is also used to a considerable extent in the manufacture of paper. The price varies from $15 to $25 a ton, according to the location and facilities for market. The advantage of the rye crop is not confined to the value of the rye straw, for the grass is increased for several years, which means more milk, butter, cheese, beef, wool, lambs and mutton. If the farmer is wise he will keep his pasture clear of brush by grazing with sheep at least in the alternate years. The labor for the succeeding rye crop will be lessened by a clean pasture.—American Agriculturist.

—"I believe in nothing," said a weak, self-conceited fellow to Gilkerson. "Well," said Gilkerson, after looking at him a while, "I believe you do."—Puck.

—A dandy didn't like the new pantaloons he had received from his tailor, so he told the artist who built them: "Look here, I can't use those trowsers. I wanted them for a dinner party, and they are so tight I can't walk in them." "Well," growled the tailor, "if you don't get to be any tighter than the pants, you won't find any trouble in walking."

—"Your mind is in a twilight state," observed the good man. "You cannot differentiate the grains of mistrust from the molecules of a reasonable confidence. You are travelling the border land, the frontier between the paradise of faith and the arctic regions of incredulity. You are an agnostic." "Divil a bit," said Pat, with mingled amazement and indignation; "I'm a dimmycrat, ivery inch o' me."—Brooklyn Eagle.

—The disposition on the part of male birds to carry on a flirtation with some other female, while their mate is setting, may be observed by watching one in a flock of common tame pigeons. While his mate is employed in her maternal duties, her lonesome partner resumes the same loud cooing that was heard while he was choosing his mate. The delight which he always expresses when some young, unmated female, hearing his call, alights on his standing place, is very evident. That constancy for which doves have been proverbially celebrated is a trait of character which belongs only to the female.

A Sharp and a Flat.

"Plin" White, a notorious sharper who thirty years ago swindled William L. Hall, a hotel keeper of New York, out of $50,000 by a confidence trick, was arrested in that city on Sunday, charged with swindling the same man out of $2,500 on the previous Saturday. He called upon Hall a few days ago, told him he had made a fortune and wished to repay the $50,000, but his property was tied up, etc. Hall, who is now seventy years old, on Saturday gave White $2,500 on a batch of worthless bonds, and was to have given him more money on Sunday had not the swindle been discovered.

The location of this property is unsurpassed, being near the celebrated "Robinson Consolidated," "White Quail," "Aftermath" and "Wheel of Fortune" mines, in the Ten-Mile Consolidated Mining District, and as prospect property is as valuable as any in Colorado.

Development work is to be actively and vigorously pushed, under the experienced management of Thos. Gowanlock, one of the most intelligent and experienced mining superintendents in Colorado.

Does Co-operative Insurance Insure?

State Insurance Commissioner Pillsbury, an acknowledged authority on matters pertaining to insurance, in his report presented to the legislature at this session thus remarks concerning

CO-OPERATIVE INSURANCE COMPANIES.

Having dwelt at some length upon what are termed the regular life-insurance companies, a brief notice of the form of insurance, which is receiving considerable attention at this time, may be expected. I should much prefer to rest upon what I have heretofore said upon this subject, and bide my time; but inquiries are so frequently pressed upon me for information in regard to them that I cannot well do less than present a few developments of recent experience. I do not wish to be understood as aiming at friendly societies existing within Free Mason, Odd Fellow, or other similar organizations, that contribute, on the death of a member, for funeral expenses and temporary relief. This is pure benevolence, and is therefore commendable.

Several of the states now require co-operative insurance companies, under their various names, to make sworn annual statements to their insurance departments. The last published report of the insurance commissioner of Pennsylvania contains twenty-three of these statements. Leaving out of these the "U. B. Mutual Aid Society," which has some exceptional features and an accumulated fund, we have twenty-two companies, all organized since 1870. They closed the year covered by the report with 17,226 members. Four among the oldest of these companies fell off during the year, in membership, 1,006. The cash collections from all sources amounted to $281,565.64, of which sum $141,576 were paid for death claims, and $139,989.64, or, nearly one-half, were absorbed in salaries and expenses. The commissioner well says: "If the managers of these companies expect to commend them to the public as economical substitutes for regular life insurance, they must present a better record than this." Seventeen of this class of companies, some of them, however, within the "friendly societies" above named, have failed in Pennsylvania during the last five years. Since the publication of this Pennsylvania report, Mr. Hudnut, a statistician of New York city, has tabulated all the sworn statements of co-operative insurance companies made in this country during six years prior to 1880. This covers thirty-two companies, although they were not all in operation at the commencement of the period.

Space here can only be afforded to give the averages of the first and last years of this period, with a few totals. The year 1874 had an average membership of 11,728, and the year 1879 had 38,236. Deaths in 1874, 106, and in 1879, 459. Deaths per 1,000 in 1874, 9.03, and in 1879 11.76. Receipts from members in 1874, $186,137.60, and in 1879, $1,051,743.89, the total receipts for the six years having been $4,098,860.96. Death losses paid in 1874, $124,863.61, and in 1879, $705,686.18, with a total for the six years of $2,723,359.69. Expenses in 1874, $46,471.57, and in 1879, $295,234.69, with a total for six years of $1,189,704.21, or, as will be noticed, $53,524.37 more than half the total payments made on death claims. So much for the economy of this system. The average cost to members to insure $1,000 in 1874 was $13.43, and in 1879 was $17.52. This shows an increase in six years of 30.04 per cent. Comment is unnecessary. I leave it for the advocates of this form of insurance to calculate how long it will take, at this rate of increase, to carry the cost of insuring $1,000 above the rates charged by regular life companies. I have here given, without the least cherished feeling of hostility, the results of actual experience compiled from the sworn annual statements of the officers of these companies tabulated. They are not selected companies, but embrace all that had made such statements during the period covered. The state of Ohio now requires sworn annual statements. The field, therefore, for statistics will hereafter be still larger.

Governor Cornell, of the state of New York, in a recent message vetoing a bill to admit cooperative insurance companies to do business in that state, uses the following language:—

"There has lately been published a list of 129 of these institutions which failed during the last five years. In Ohio, a report was recently made by a legislative committee, showing that from 1870 to 1880 ninety-six co-operative companies were organized (in Ohio,) of which fifty-six failed. Of those remaining, the income for 1879 was $269,314, death losses $175,706, and expenses $132,863, making total disbursements of $310,657, and showing an excess of $46,300 in expenditures over the receipts for the year." More than one-half the receipts were absorbed in expenses alone. It is evident, therefore that no good but probably much harm would result from the enactment of this bill into a statute."

Much similar additional official testimony might be added, but lack of space forbids.

It is found that the average age of the members of these co-operative companies at the organization is about forty, and that future acquisitions average about the same. At the end of the first year the original members will then average forty-one. The acquisition of new members will of course reduce this average; but, however large this acquisition may be, it cannot possibly reduce the average to what it was at the organization. In course of years, if the company survives long enough, the average age of the members will be fifty, and so to sixty. Will new members join such a class to carry those advanced in years through? Will they not rather, if the system continues, join younger companies, or form new ones, to avoid frequent assessments, and thus leave those who have paid longest and most to receive less and less to the vanishing point? Since no provision is made for advancing years, failure is inevitable. Pauperism in old age results from improvidence in youth, or failure to lay in store for future needs. Co-operative insurance companies will not prove exceptions to this rule. The talk about new blood is simply begging the question. Every new member brings his liability with him, and must be paid, too, if the system has any equity. He comes in to win for himself, not with the benevolent idea of carrying the old members ahead of him through.

Members must die early to win, and whatever these pay in less than their equitable share, those who live on must pay more than their share, until the last man, whose heirs get nothing. Regular life companies provide for the last man as well as the first, as they go along. They do not depend on new members. The fact that a few members, dying first, get considerable sums for the payment of a few dollars is trumpeted abroad to advertise and recommend the scheme; but a moment's application of ordinary common sense explodes the theory. If two thousand men are to receive $2,000 apiece, $4,000,000 must be paid in, and at least a third as much more, to cover expenses, according to the actual experience of the best of these co-operative companies. Nothing can be drawn out that is not paid in by somebody. They have no patent machine for creating money, nor "widow's cruse" to draw from. The contribution box is the sole reliance, and people soon tire of this, especially when the frequency of the calls must unavoidably increase. Then the inflated bubble bursts. There is no element of life insurance in the scheme. It is simply based on the principle, "Get what you can as early as you can, and let the devil take care of the hindermost." Quite a number of this class of companies organized in Pennsylvania, Ohio, and other states have applied for admission into this state recently. Having no funds of any amount, they cannot comply with our laws as I understand them, consequently my answers to their applications accord with my convictions.

Don't Trust Them.

When you feel badly, and have pains here and there through your body that you don't know how to account for, it is the most foolish policy in the world to take the advice of people who say: "Oh! there's nothing the matter with you. Let yourself alone and you will come out all right." These folks know nothing about it, and may be trifling with your life. You may have kidney or liver trouble. Send right out to your druggist and get a bottle of Dr. David Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy" and then you will be all right, or write to the doctor at Rondout, N. Y.

—The Duke de Nemours once sent his steward to call upon an artist, on whom he wished to confer a snuff-box as a mark of his approbation, to ascertain if such a present would be acceptable. The offer was received with enthusiasm. "Where shall I send it?" asked the envoy. "Oh, if you would be kind enough," replied the grateful artist, "to pawn it on the way, you can let me have the money."

Arrested!

Charles A. Dailey was arrested last evening for stealing from the drug store of Shiefman, a bottle of Sulphur Bitters. Before the court this morning, upon being asked why he should steal it, he stated that his mother was troubled with rheumatism, and that it was the only medicine that helped her, and being out of money and work was the cause of his stealing. As this was his first offence he was put on probation.—Newark News.

The Concord Fight.

A caucus of the republican members of the legislature was held in Concord on Monday evening, and a sharp discussion ensued over a resolution introduced by Mr. Greene of Hopkinton, as follows:

Resolved, That it is the sense of this caucus that the legislature should proceed to-morrow to the election of a United States senator for the term of six years beginning March 4, 1883.

Gen. Marston, Hon. Wm. E. Chandler, Ex-Gov. Harriman, Gen. Aaron F. Stevens and others opposed the resolution, and said they would not vote either for or against so unprecedented a measure; and they and the other gentleman who argue that the present legislature has no right to elect a United States senator did not vote, so the resolution passed without a dissenting voice.

The caucus adjourned to meet at eight o'clock Tuesday morning for the purpose of nominating a senator to succeed Mr. Rollins; and Gen. Stevens invited all who did not believe in this action of the caucus to meet in a parlor of the Eagle hotel at 8:30 o'clock, to consider the situation. Many prominent men asserted that they would not be bound by the action of the nominating caucus.

The caucus met on Tuesday morning as per adjournment. Mr. Robinson of Concord moved that no nomination be made until the main question, whether an election should take place or not, be decided by the legislature, and Mr. Greene supported it. It was stated by one of the anti-election members that if no nomination was made, and the legislature decided to elect, the antis would then go into caucus to nominate. The caucus then dissolved.

The senate on Tuesday voted, fourteen to ten, to elect a United States senator, and a ballot was had as follows: E. H. Rollins seven, Harry Bingham five, Isaac N. Blodgett two, J. W. Patterson two, J. J. Briggs two; Frank Jones, Charles Doe, Alonzo H. Quint, Bainbridge Wadleigh, Charles H. Burns, Aaron F. Stevens, one each.

In the house, after the introduction of several bills, the majority report of the judiciary committee was taken up, the question being upon the passage of the resolution not to elect a senator at this session. On the motion of Mr. Quint of Dover to strike out the word "not," 100 voted in the affirmative and 165 in the negative. In the afternoon the house refused to proceed to an election, 182 to 118.

News and Notes.

The largest jam of logs ever known on the Kennebec river has lodged at Carratunk falls at Solon, Me., extending a mile above and filling the bay below the falls. One hundred river drivers are at work, the logs being blown out with Atlas powder, and over a thousand spectators, it is estimated, are there daily. Two large drives coming from above are increasing the jam very fast. On Sunday last three brothers, named Huggins, sat on the rocks below the falls, watching the river drivers. A log came over the falls, swung around, and knocked one off. Another sprang to save him, and both were thrown among the logs directly under the falls, and drowned. One of them was thirty years of age, and leaves a wife and child; the other was twenty-two years old, and unmarried.

J. Flanagan and M. McDermott were drowned at White Mills, Pa., by the upsetting of a boat, Sunday.

Teresa Fowler, keeper of a bagnio in Providence, R. I., was arrested Saturday night on a charge of enticing two young girls from Boston for vile purposes. She was held in $3,000 for examination.

Mr. David Waif, eighty-four years of age, a highly respected citizen of Oxford, Mass., committed suicide Sunday while his family was at church, by hanging himself in the cellar of his residence. He had been afflicted with rheumatism for several years, and was losing his eyesight, which probably unsettled his mind.

Simeon Cushman, aged sixty-nine years, hung himself at Bath, Me., Sunday night. Fear of being taken to the poor house was the cause. His first wife committed suicide some years ago. His second wife, with whom he has not lived of late, resides in Lawrence, Mass.

In Newburyport, Monday, William H. Danforth was brought before the police court charged with over-driving and cruelly treating a horse he hired of George Lucy on Sunday afternoon. He was found guilty, fined $25 and costs, and sentenced to three months in the house of correction besides. He appealed, and was held in $300 for the superior court.

Charles Putnam of Dalton, Mass., twenty-six years of age, is under arrest for outrage upon Agnes Revoid, a girl of fourteen years, whom he invited to ride with him from Dalton to Adams on Sunday last, and twice assaulted on the way.

Michael J. Hostein, aged fifty-six years, and Michael H. Hostein, his son, aged thirty, were suffocated by foul air in a well at Frederick City, Md., on the 13th inst. The son went down first, and was overcome and fell into the water; the father went down to rescue him, and also perished.

S. B. Walker of Auburn, Me., who had been missing for twenty-four hours, was found drowned in his well on Monday morning. He was about sixty-five years of age.

The Philadelphia Times states that the Catholic Total Abstinence union, Sunday, recommended all local unions to send delegates to the Boston convention in August.

Joseph Hennessy, the seventeen-years-old boy who hung himself in a shop in Providence, R. I., last week, was a hungry devourer of dime novels.

—"Waiter, here's a fly in my tea." "Thank you, sir; I didn't notice it." Lay down a check for five cents extra.—Boston Post.

AROUND HOME.

We are informed that Mr. Adolph Girard, foreman of the Portsmouth Shoe factory, is seriously ill.

The gondola Alice, loaded with coal for South Newmarket, was swept against the Portsmouth bridge by the tide on Tuesday, but sustained no material damage.

Mr. William C. Ham, familiarly known as "Billy," who has been spending his vacation in this city and Concord, returns to his duty in the Boston custom house to-day.

The steamer Acushnet, on her trip from Boston to this port on Tuesday, stopped at the Isles of Shoals long enough to land a lot of stores for the Appledore and Oceanic hotels.

Mr. David Burke towed in on Monday afternoon the spar buoy belonging off Goat island point. The spar is nearly fifty feet long, and had two fathoms of chain attached to it when picked up. It broke from its anchorage as Mr. Burke was coming up the river.

Mr. Clarence B. Mason of this city, who for some time past has been in the employ of the Old Colony railroad, some threeweeks ago had two of his fingers badly jammed in coupling an engine on to a baggage car, and it is feared it will be necessary to amputate one of them. Mr. Mason is now on a visit to his friends in Portsmouth.

Mr. C. W. Knowles, recently telegraph operator at the Eastern depot in this city, has been transferred to Salisbury, Mass.; and Mr. Robert Kennedy has been transferred from the latter office to the position of night operator at the station in this city. Mr. Joseph Corey of this city, son of Mr. James A. Corey, engineer on the Eastern road, has been appointed day operator at Lynn depot, Mass.

Mr. Samuel H. Marshall had returned from a ride on Monday evening, and was assisting his wife from the buggy, when the horse took fright, and in his efforts to get away knocked Mr. Marshall down. Mrs. Marshall, who understands driving a horse, secured the reins, and after a short run, and with the assistance of Mr. Woodbury Lord, the horse was stopped before doing any damage.

During the summer months Mr. Rand, the lessee of the north mill, proposes to thoroughly drain the pond once a week by fastening open the tide-gates, hoping by this means to obviate in a great degree the annoyance experienced from the pond during hot weather for many years past. As Mr. Rand is under no obligation to do this, and will lose a tide's work of the mill every time the pond is drained, he merits commendation for his public spirit. It is to be hoped that the plan will work well, and reduce the famed "mill-pond nuisance" to the smallest possible dimensions.

John Sherry, of Newmarket, on Monday night stole from his wife's sister, Miss Lizzie Morgan, with whom he and his wife were boarding, seven hundred dollars, and escaped before the theft was discovered. He is said to be a drinking man, is five feet nine inches tall, with heavy grey moustache and eyebrows, pug nose and dark complexion. He had on a light mixed cloth coat, dark pants, and felt hat. His age is about forty-five years. It is to be hoped he will be arrested before he disposes of the money, as it is the savings and hard earnings of years of labor. Parties were in this city on Tuesday searching for him.

Portsmouth capital is being liberally invested in mining stocks.

Mr. Pinkerton of Boston has been appointed master mechanic of the machine shops of the Eastern railroad in Portland.

Mr. Frank Webber, formerly of this city, is baggage-express messenger of the steamboat train on the Old Colony railroad.

A bridal party from Dover, occupying five carriages, attracted considerable attention as they drove about our streets on Tuesday afternoon.

Two men on Barnum's circus trains, which passed through this city on Sunday for Bangor, were struck by a low bridge at Kennebunk, one of them being so badly hurt that he was taken to the Maine General hospital on arrival of the train at Portland.

The beautifully-situated forty-acre farm of Thomas E. Foye, in Newington, with the buildings thereon and the standing grass, will be sold by auction on Monday next, the 20th inst., to the highest bidder. The property may be sold in lots to suit purchasers.

Capt. Levi Downs started for Boothbay, Me., Tuesday, to oversee the rigging of his new fishing schooner, the "Albert Woodbury," which is to be rigged while on the stocks. He was accompanied by Mr. Frank Cook, and they will bring the schooner around to this port on their return.

This day, June 15th, at the store on Daniel street recently occupied by Charles E. Akerman, the entire stock of groceries on the premises will be sold at auction by Mr. Wendell, the sale commencing at ten o'clork A. M. A partial list of the goods which will be offered may be found in another column.

A gentleman who met Mr. Benj. W. Hoyt of Epping on Saturday, and held some conversation with him relative to his boot and shoe manufacturing establishment, recently destroyed by fire, says there is a prospect the industry will be re-established in Nashua. Mr. Hoyt informed our informant that he had received flattering inducements to locate here, and thought well of the place.—Nashua Telegraph.

Senator Blair of New Hampshire predicts that Senator Rollins will be re-elected by the New Hampshire legislature with practically no opposition.—Boston Herald.

We doubt if Senator Blair holds any such belief, inasmuch as he expressed to a prominent republican in this city not long ago, an opinion that the present legislature could not elect without an enabling act by Congress.

A book agent canvassing this city and the navy yard, has sold nearly 1200 volumes of a single work.—Portsmouth Cor. Manchester Union.—Chronicle.

We do not exactly understand what idea our neighbor intends to convey by that unique "credit." If it means that we took the item from the Manchester Union's correspondence, its statement is a falsehood, for we never saw anything of the kind in that paper, and doubt if it ever appeared there. We wrote the item from information given us at our desk.

Theodore P. Knight of Dover, the sewing-machine agent charged by Melissa Achorn, a domestic in his family, with having outraged her during the absence of his wife and family, has been held for trial before the supreme court. As the police court cannot admit to bail a person charged with this offence, Mr. Knight has been lodged in jail. The house in which Knight's family lives is occupied by several other tenants, none of whom heard any outcry or sound of a struggle on the night the offence is alleged to have been committed.

Miss Laura E. Dixon, of South Eliot, who graduated with honor from the New Hampton Literary Institution in the class of '79, is meeting with success as a teacher of music in the institution. Miss Dixon is in every way fitted for the position, and by her superior musical talents and thorough discipline is waking a general interest. The ease and precision which mark her public efforts elicit much praise. It is hoped that Miss Dixon will accept a re-engagement the coming year, for by her departure the institution would lose a very faithful and valuable instructor.

The "back-boys" in the mills of the Pepperell and Laconia corporations at Biddeford struck for better pay one day last week, and not getting it, left work in a body. On Monday the strike assumed more serious proportions, about two hundred hands, nearly all weavers, coming out for an increase of fifteen per cent in their wages; they claim that they have been working eleven hours a day and tending from six to eight looms each, and making but ninety cents a day. It is feared there will be a general strike unless the trouble is ended by concession on the part of the corporations, which as yet evince no disposition to accede to the demands of the strikers.

Chronicle Correspondence.

AT SEA, off Virginia Capes, June 12.

I had always supposed that the best place from which to view an eclipse, next to the small end of the telescope, was out on the broad ocean; and therefore when I purchased in Norfolk last evening of the Old Dominion line, a ticket for New York, I included also the privilege of being called in time to witness the eclipse of the moon between twelve and two o'clock this morning. The Wyanoke, commanded by Capt. Geo. W. Couch, a veteran steamship master, was advertised to leave Norfolk for New York at six o'clock P. M., at which time her passengers, numbering about fifty, were promptly on board, but long after the appointed time for departure barge after barge of truck arrived, and thousands of barrels of cabbages, peas, cucumbers, etc., were received on board. Some idea of the immensity of this freight traffic may be gleaned from the fact that this line loaded a freight steamer in the forenoon, which sailed at three o'clock P. M., for New York, and afterwards filled the passenger boat in the afternoon, crowding the upper decks and approaches to the cabins, and keeping the passengers six hours after the time for starting. It would seem that a second line to New York, which would like the Boston line start its steamers at the advertised time, would take the passengers. But the O. D. is a monopoly which makes large profits for its owners, pays enormous salaries to a relieving of its managers, and does not especially care for the convenience of its passengers, when it loads its freight boats with dispatch and detains its passenger steamers regardless of the rights of its patrons.

But the eclipse is what I intended to speak of. Just as I appeared on deck, Luna, as if ashamed of her midnight irregularity, endeavored to conceal her face behind a passing cloud; but as spectators began to disappear from the deck and I alone remained, the clouds disappeared, and the advertised programme was gone through. I sat on the deck in the warm June air and had the spectacle apparently all to myself. An eclipse seen at sea is pretty much the same thing one contemplates from the land, and on this occasion the calculations of the astronomers were verified as correct.

But to return to sublunary things; one can hardly realize the immense amount of what is commonly known as "truck" which is produced at this season of the year within a few miles of Norfolk. The farmers send to the port of Norfolk in small boats, lighters, barges, steamers and crafts of every size and description, barrels and boxes of early grown vegetables; these are laden into steamers bound for Boston and Baltimore, New York, Philadelphia, Washington and other cities, and it would seem there was no limit to the production. Large steam saw mills prepare boxes which contain a part of these shipments, and barrels are piled tier above tier on the wharf at Norfolk, ready for every steamer. The Wyanoke has sixteen thousand barrels and boxes of the newly-gathered growth, which to-morrow morning will be sent out from the market of New York to supply the provision dealers within a radius of hundreds of miles of the Empire City. The amount of freight upon this article of carriage is enormous, and thus the north is helping to encourage the agricultural interest of the Old Dominion, and at the same time to supply the Yankees with the luxury of early vegetables long before local gardeners could produce them. The extended railway enterprises of Norfolk, added to the fact that her people have at last discovered that practical northern men with good business minds and purposes are of more consequence to them than state pride and boasted antecedents, have already begun to give Norfolk an importance as a cotton-shipping port and a place for export of other commodities, which yearly increases its importance, and shows a change for the better almost as striking as the fact that the district in which Norfolk is situated, after long efforts to obtain a fair count, is now represented in Congress by a republican member. Naval Affairs.

Rear Admr. C. R. P. Rodgers on the 13th inst. assumed the duties of superintendent of the naval academy, relieving Rear Adm. George B. Balch, who will assume command of the Pacific squadron.

The Powhattan arrived at Newport, R. I., on the 12th inst., from Hampton roads, with the Constitution in tow. The Portsmouth and Saratoga, also from Hampton roads, arrived at Newport on the same day.

Patrick Lynch and his clerk, John C. Murphy, of Lowell, Mass., were fined $100 and costs each, on Monday, by the police court in that city, the former for keeping liquor for sale of without license, and the latter for selling. Both appealed. This is the case where the seizure amounted to $10,000 worth of liquor. Mr. Lynch has engaged Gen. Butler to defend him in the superior court. He made no defence at this time.

Two young men seized a woman just as she was about jumping into the Niagara falls, Saturday, and took her to a hotel, whence her friends were notified. She proved to be insane.

The New York Senatorial Fight.

The third week of the contest opened on Monday with the following vote: For the short term, Jacobs 26, Conkling 24, Wheeler 16, Rogers 12, Cornell 8, all others 13. For the long term, Depew 36, Kernan 27, Platt 21, Cornell 6, all others eight.

On the 14th the vote was, for the short term, Conkling 31, Wheeler 23, Jacobs 50, Rogers 21, all others 26. For the long term, Depew 55, Kernan 51, Platt 26, Cornell 10, all others 9.

New Hampshire Items.

George F. Robinson, the tramp who shot Lorenzo Hardy at Litchfield last week, has been arrested and jailed. He is a worthless fellow, with a reputation for ruffianism.

Miss Annie Finn, a respectable young woman of Manchester, died in Boston a short time ago from the effects of an abortion. The police have not succeeded in discovering the author of her trouble, nor the person who performed the criminal act which caused her death. She was twenty-two years of age.

The store of S. S. Aiken & Co., with contents, at East Weare, was burned Sunday morning. Cause of fire unknown. Loss, $2,000; insured $1,500.

A mass meeting of the citizens of Alton was held on Friday night in favor of the Lake Shore railroad. The enthusiasm was very marked, and strong resolutions were adopted. The people of Belknap county are said to be very much in earnest in this matter.

Brace Up.

There is serious meaning in this expression. That wearied step, languid eye and feeling of general lassitude, come from "spring sickness." Be assured, a serious, and perhaps, fatal disease is close in its wake. The system wants cleansing of winter impurities; the sluggish blood needs to be sent in swift and clear currents through the veins. "Favorite Remedy" will do this; it will give new vigor to the body, brightness to the eye, a glow to the countenance and elasticity to the step. One dollar a bottle. Every druggist has it. Dr. David Kennedy, proprietor, Rondout, N. Y.

During the usual exercises at the San Francisco sand lots on Sunday, Dr. O'Donnell, who runs every Sunday an opposition meeting to Kearney, in the course of his harangue produced the British and Chinese flags, and rolling them in a bundle burned them on the platform.

Dr. Holman's aid is that of every legitimate physician, who, in writing a prescription, makes it his first business to select the best combination of elements that he can find for the desired purpose, let the cost be what it may. His experience with the Pad led him to give unusual attention to the invention of a useful Plaster; and we risk nothing in saying that he has enabled us to present the best Plaster ever offered to the people.

At Kansas City, Mo., during a wind storm on Saturday night, a five-story hotel, partly finished, was blown down, and two girls injured. Jarbor's foundry was wrecked, a scow was upset and two men drowned, and four freight cars were blown from the track on the iron bridge across the Missouri river.

Rescued from Death.

William J. Coughlin, of Somerville, Mass., says: "In the fall of 1876 I was taken with a violent bleeding of the lungs followed by a severe cough. I soon began to lose my appetite and flesh. I was so weak at one time that I could not leave my bed. In the summer of 1877 I was admitted to the city hospital. While there the doctors said I had a hole in my left lung as big as a half a dollar. I was so far gone at one time a report went around that I was dead. I gave up hope, but a friend told me of Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs. I laughed at my friends, thinking that my case was incurable, but I got a bottle to satisfy them, when to my surprise and gratification, I commenced to feel better. My hope, once dead, began to revive, and to-day I feel in better spirits than I have the past three years.

I write this hoping you will publish it, so that every one afflicted with diseased lungs, will be induced to take Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs, and be convinced that consumption can be cured. I have taken two bottles and can positively say that it has done more good than all the other medicines I have taken since my sickness." Sold by all druggists.

A convict named Wood brutally killed Wash. McDaniel in the Dale county (Georgia) coal mine, beating him to pieces with a sledge hammer and coal pick, for $20. McDaniel had been convicted of murder, but his sentence was commuted to life-imprisonment. He died protesting his innocence of the crime.

How it Was!

At the battle of Gettysburg I was shot through the left leg and was sent to the hospital. The army surgeons relieved me but pronounced my case incurable. It discharged pieces of bone, and for years I have suffered with a running sore. I tried everything which my limited means would allow, and experienced no relief until I tried Sulphur Bitters. I am now almost well, and shall continue their use.—Old Soldier.

The village of Ludington, situated on Lake Michigan, was visited by a most destructive conflagration on Saturday night, which nearly wiped out the entire business portion of the town.

Eminent physicians indorse Adamson's Botanic Balsam as the safest and most effectual remedy for coughs and colds ever discovered. Sold by druggists and dealers at 35 and 75 cts.

A Washington special says it is rumored among army officers that the President has received a private telegram from Gen. Miles saying that the court martial recently held in New York had sustained the charges against Whittaker, the colored cadet.

Important.

When you visit or leave New York city, save Baggage Expressage and Carriage Hire, and stop at Grand Union Hotel, opposite Grand Central Depot; 450 rooms, fitted up at a cost of one million dollars, reduced to $1 and upwards per day. European plan. Elevator. Restaurant supplied with the best. Horse cars, stages and elevated railroad to all depots. Families can live better for less money at the Grand Union Hotel than at any other first-class hotel in the city. 1m|15,82

Physicians

Messrs. Seabury & Johnson, Manufacturing Chemists, 21 Platt St., New York:

Gentlemen:—For the past few years we have sold various brands of Porous Plasters. Physicians and the Public prefer Benson's Capcine Porous Plaster to all others. We consider them one of the very few reliable household remedies worthy of confidence. They are superior to all other Porous Plasters or Liniments for external use.

Benson's Capcine Plaster is a genuine Parmaceutical product, of the highest order of merit, and so recognized by physicians and druggists.

You will be disappointed if you use cheap Plasters, Liniments, Pads or Electrical Magnetic toys.

With a Bonus of Stock.

The pavement made by this Company has met with the highest favor, both in this country and in Europe, and it is considered to approach perfection more nearly than any other.

The Works of the Company are at Providence, R. I., and at Hastings, N. Y., and the needs of its business will soon require additional ones at Chicago and other large cities.

Negotiations are now pending with capitalists in London and Paris for the right to manufacture and use this pavement in those cities.

The Company require additional means to extend the facilities for manufacturing, and offer for sale the second $100,000 of their six per cent bonds (convertible into stock) at par and interest. These bonds carry a bonus of stock, which is fixed for the present at fifty per cent.

The property owned and controlled by this company comprises 160 acres of rich mineral lands, from which large amounts of free gold have been taken in the old style of washing with rockers, besides four lode claims which have been considerably developed during the past year, and show good indications of rich silver veins.

The location of this property is unsurpassed, being near the celebrated "Robinson Consolidated," "White Quail," "Aftermath" and "Wheel of Fortune" mines, in the Ten-Mile Consolidated Mining District, and as prospect property is as valuable as any in Colorado.

Development work is to be actively and vigorously pushed, under the experienced management of Thos. Gowanlock, one of the most intelligent and experienced mining superintendents in Colorado.

A WELL KNOWN LADY

SPASMS.

Mrs. S. A. McIlwain, of Fergusonville, Delaware county, N. Y., writes: "Only a few days before I commenced using the "Favorite Remedy," in one of my spasms and sinking spells, my friends thought I was dead, and gave up the attempt to restore me to consciousness. I am confident that if I had not taken your medicine. "Favorite Remedy," during my periods of critical illness I should never have recovered. * * * That the Lord may bless you and increase your means of doing good is my daily prayer, and may many yet unhappy raise the "Favorite Remedy" and its discoverer."

THE RUBY RIVER.

To keep the blood pure, is the principal end of inventions and discoveries in medicine. To this object probably no one has contributed more signally than Dr. David Kennedy, of Rondout, New York, in the production of a medicine which has become famous under the title of the "Favorite Remedy." It removes all impurities of the Blood, regulates the disordered Liver and Kidneys, cures Constipation, Dyspepsia, and diseases and weaknesses peculiar to females.

☞ When inquiring of your druggist for this new medicine, avoid mistakes by remembering the name, Dr. David Kennedy, "Favorite Remedy," and the price, which is only one dollar a bottle, and that the doctor's address is Rondout, New York.—Ed.

Naval Affairs.

Paymaster Samuel T. Browne, lately attached to the Powhattan, died at Newport, R. I., June 15th.

Commander Montgomery Sicard was on the 14th inst. appointed chief of the bureau of ordnance in the navy department, vice Commodore Jeffers, resigned. He will enter upon his duties on the first of next month. Commander Sicard is at present on duty at the Boston navy yard. He is a native of New York, and stands at the head of the commanders' list. He will soon be promoted to be a captain.

Alive in a Coffin.

Welcome Gurney, formerly of South Abington, Mass., while on the way from Texas to Nebraska last March, experienced such a severe attack of hemorrhage at Creston, Iowa, that he was removed from the train. He appeared to be sinking rapidly. On the following morning he was thought to have passed away, and in his pocket was found a letter from his sister, Mrs. Plant of South Abington. His body was placed in a casket, and at once started for South Abington, and at the same time a letter was sent by a lady who was acquainted with the circumstances, which was received by his sister in due time. But when the train had reached Chicago, a noise was thought to proceed from the casket. After this was reported the coffin was opened, and, strange to relate, Mr. Gurney was found to be alive, and was immediately cared for. His sister has since received several letters from him. He is still in Chicago, but consumption has fastened upon him.

New Hampshire Items.

Michael Butler of Suncook, a man fifty years of age, is under arrest on a charge of villainous conduct toward his own daughter, a girl twenty years old. The unfortunate girl is in the last stages of consumption.

The Manchester police have discovered that the person responsible for the trouble of Mary Finn, the girl who died in Boston recently from an illegal operation, was an hostler named Edward Powers, who has fled to Canada.

Charles Emery's house at North Monroe was burned on the night of the 13th inst., with its contents; loss $400; insured $200.

Chester M. Tuttle, M. D., of Littleton, a member of the state board of agriculture, has made a report on the infected swine at the Fabyan house. Quite a number of hogs have already died there, whose death Dr. Tuttle attributes to blood poisoning caused by breathing a foul atmosphere. As many as thirteen head are reported to have died one night at the Fabyan, and others are diseased. The epidemic has appeared at the Crawford house, where one death has occurred. The scourge is both contagious and infectious. The appearance of this plague has created considerable alarm among farmers in that section, and the state board of agriculture is using its full authority to stop the spread of the disease.

Haunted Me.

A workingman says: "Debt, poverty and suffering haunted me for years, caused by a sick family and large bills for doctoring, which did no good. I was completely discouraged, until one year ago, by the advice of my pastor, I procured Hop Bitters and commenced their use, and in one month we were all well, and none of us have been sick a day since; and I want to say to all poor men, you can keep your family well a year with Hop Bitters for less than one doctor's visit will cost."—Christian Advocate.

Caleb Vanpelt, aged twenty-three years one of the champion double scullers of Elizabethport, N. J., was struck by lightning on the 14th inst., and killed while in a boat on Newark bay with a boy. The latter escaped, though the boat was shattered.

The legislature in convention on the 15th elected A. B. Thompson of Concord secretary of state, Solon A. Carter of Keene state treasurer, Parsons B. Coggswell of Concord state printer, and George E. Lane of Exeter commissary general.

The New York Senatorial Fight.

Voting on the 15th inst.: For the short term, Jacobs 49, Conkling 31, Wheeler 25, Rogers 18, Cornell 10, Lapham 10, all others 8. For the long term, Depew 54, Kernan 50, Platt 27, Cornell 10, all others 10.

Well Cared For.

The nomination of Hon. Wm. E. Chandler of the Statesman by the republican legislative caucus for the office of State Printer, marks a return of the office to the capital. Col. J. B. Clarke it is understood was willing to stand aside for the Statesman establishment. Mr. Chandler being a member of the house of representatives, the nomination is made in the name of Mr. P. B. Coggswell, a worthy member of the printing fraternity, and one of the editorial staff of the Statesman.

Now the senatorial question is disposed of, if some good place that would satisfy Capt. Stevens could be agreed upon, and with Mr. Jenks as State Reporter, perhaps the Statesman would not deem it necessary to send a man to this navy yard to argue with an employe there as to how much better his chances for retention may be if he subscribes to the Statesman rather than to continue to take the GAZETTE or the Journal.

Mr. Geo. E. Jenks, formerly of the Statesman, and late supervisor of the census, desired to be a candidate for Secretary of the State, but Mr. Chandler thought this might be overdoing the thing, and properly withdrew his name in caucus; and Maj. A. B. Thompson was renominated without a hint of a bolt.

News and Notes.

The treasury circular to collectors and surveyors of customs throughout the United States, now being printed, enjoins upon those officials strict watchfulness of excursion steamers against overcrowding. The circular says extra efforts should be made on Sundays and the 4th of July.

Silas M. Waite, the bank wrecker of Brattleboro', Vt., was taken into the United States court at Vernon, Vt., on the 15th inst., pleaded guilty to making false returns under the national bank act, and was sentenced to the house of correction for six years.

The famous miscegenation case, where in a Chinaman and white woman were indicted for intermarriage, the ceremony having been performed in Colorado, was decided at Cheyenne, Wyoming, on the 14th inst., by Chief Justice Sener. The court held that the marriage being legal in Colorado it was legal in Wyoming. The defendants were discharged. A serious outgrowth of the case is that the Chinamen in Cheyenne have ostracised the bold groom, Lee Chin, and claim that he disgraced their race by marrying a white woman.

A party of boys were bathing at the Follett bridge in Adams, Mass., on the 12th inst., when the bridge, which was badly rotted, gave way, burying beneath it one of the party, a boy named Hanlon, who had both his legs broken, and it is thought sustained serious internal injuries.

At Montville, Conn., Monday night, June 12th, Miss Jennie Parker, aged twenty-six years, by mistake took internally an external application for a throat trouble, and died in an hour, the wash containing cyanide of potash.

Monday night, June 13th, an armed crowd of twenty-five men from Franklin county, Ark., friends of a murdered woman, Mrs. Emory, took possession of the Dover, Pope county, Ark., jail, and hung Cal. Emory, the murderer, whose death sentence Gov. Churchill a few weeks since commuted to twenty-one years' imprisonment in the penitentiary. Emory resisted, and was shot in the head. It is supposed he was dead when hung. This was the third attempt to lynch him.

A letter from Hong Kong, China, May 6th, says: "The intelligence from Pekin says the youthful emperor has been suffering from small pox for twenty days, and is in a critical condition, the court physicians have little hopes of his recovery. The empress is expected to recover; over one hundred nurses have been employed to feed her with their milk."

The schooner Alice Oakes, which went ashore on Ipswich bar, Mass., during the gale of June 10th, floated off on the night of the 13th, and was towed into Newburyport next day. She is not much damaged, and none of her cargo was lost.

A wagon containing J. Creswell, his wife, two children and three neighbors, was struck by a freight train at Raymond, Ill., late Monday night, the 13th inst. Mrs. Creswell, both children and her brother were thrown under the engine, and all four instantly killed. None of the others were seriously hurt.

Most of the engineers, brakemen and conductors on the northern division of the Old Colony railroad have been examined by a railroad official in the employ of the company, in regard to color blindness and short-sightedness. William M. Cowing, for a long time conductor on the morning train running between New Bedford and Boston, has failed to meet the test in regard to short-sightedness.

The catalogue of Phillips academy at Andover, Mass., for 1880-81, shows that 240 pupils are enrolled and that they represent twenty-four states and territories, and four foreign nations, which is doubtless the widest patronage of any school of its class. Among its pupils Massachusetts furnishes 74; New York state, 37; Pennsylvania, 20; Connecticut, 18; New Hampshire, 14; Maine, 13; New Jersey, 14; Iowa, five; Missouri, Delaware, Ohio, Minnesota, China, four each; Louisiana, West Virginia, Illinois, three each; Vermont, Colorado, Oregon, Bahama islands, Turkey, two each; Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Nebraska, Wyoming territory, Wisconsin and Austria, one each.

Information comes from De Witt county, Texas, that parties from Gonzales and De Witt counties have been engaged for some time in driving off cattle to the Rio Grande. Several weeks since a party of citizens organized and proceeded west, and when near Fort Ewell were fired upon, and one of the party, named McCoy, killed. After burying McCoy they proceeded home, reorganized a very large force, and are now en route to the scene the of killing, determined to put an end to the deprodations.

An unusually interesting group of pictures will appear in the July "Scribner" in an interesting article by Mr. W. C. Brownell on "The Younger Painters of America." The first picture is by Mr. Sargent, a pupil of Carolus Duran, who has just taken a prize in the French Salon. Then follow Maynard's portrait of Frank D. Millet, and pictures by Maria R. Oakey, Mrs. Whitman, Miss Knowlton, and Miss Cassatt. Among the notable pictures in this number is a portrait of Dr. Dollinger, by the famous Lenbach, of Munich.

Miss M. M. Gillett, a law student at Washington, D. C., has been appointed by the president a notary public for the District of Columbia. This is the first instance where a woman has received such an appointment.

Indianapolis during the last six months has had the most remarkable religious revival in its history, no less than 2,000 converts having been made. Much of this result is due to Rev. Thomas Harrison, known as the "boy preacher."

It is proposed to erect a colossal image of the Virgin Mary, twenty feet high, on the summit of Cape Trinity, Saguenay river, Canada. On the head of the figure will be an enormous star, from which an electric light will cast its beams.

—It is an encouraging sign of improvement in public taste to know that the youth who formerly squandered his time over dime novels now reads the circus programmes with a keen relish.

—An attorney at Lafayette, Ind., made the discovery recently that one of the members of the recent grand jury was not a freeholder. The paper says, "this destroyed the virtue of nearly four hundred indictments." He must have been a very vile man.

Clerk Adams, of the national house of representatives, has placed the name of Delegate Cannon, of Utah, upon the roll, though his competitor, Mr. Campbell, has a certificate from the governor of the territory, and Cannon has none. Mr. Campbell is indignant, and has written a letter to the clerk, in which he says that Mormon money may have prevailed before in Washington, but the rascal who takes it now must face a public exposure. The question arises whether a clerk who overrules the only evidence recognized by law in making up the roll of delegates, will be likely to be governed by law in making up the roll of members. The republican majority is small, and the opportunity is tempting.

AROUND HOME.

The schooner Martha Nichols, Eaton master, arrived on the 15th with 218 tons of coal for C. E. Walker & Co.

The Methodist society had a very successful strawberry festival in their chapel on Daniel street, Wednesday evening.

A petition is being circulated about town, asking the legislature to grant a charter for the proposed railroad from Alton Bay to the Weirs. It has been quite numerously signed.

Mr. Albert E. Grover has leased Flagstaff hill, Christian Shore, and will go into the raising of hens on an extensive scale. He is putting up some small buildings now, and will erect larger ones next autumn.

Among the bills introduced in the legislature on the 14th inst. was one to aid the shipping interests, by Mr. Laighton, and a joint resolution in favor of the Portsmouth Trust & Guarantee Co., by Mr. Hoyt.

Upon the question of the election of a United States senator at the present session of the legislature, the delegation from this city voted as follows: In favor of electing, Messrs. Hawkes, Freeman, Laighton and Peirce; against it, Messrs. Ryder, Hoyt, Coffin, Cunningham and Treat.

The schooner W. B. Keen, commanded by Capt. Henry Becker of Newcastle, came in on the 15th inst. with between four and five thousand mackerel, quite large and fat, taken on the morning of that day between the Shoals and Whalesback. The fish were purchased by Geo. Herbert & Co., and Randall & Caswell. On the same day Mr. Elvin Newton brought in fourteen hundred mackerel, also taken in the vicinity of the Shoals.

The Appledore house at the Shoals is now open. Steamer Appledore made her first regular trip on Wednesday of this week. Capt. Albert Rand, a skillful pilot and a gentlemen well known to the visitors at the Shoals, is as usual in command of the steamer this season. The boat has been put in capital order, and looks invitingly attractive. The Oceanic opens on the 25th inst. On Friday the Appledore carries Joseph Warren Encampment of Knights Templar to the Shoals, where the Sir Knights will dine, returning in the afternoon boat.

A very brilliant and largely attended wedding took place in the Unitarian church on the evening of the 15th inst., when Dr. Edgar Morton Jewett was joined in marriage with Miss Florence Parker Sise, youngest daughter of Col. William H. Sise, our present mayor. The floral decorations at the altar were prepared in good taste, the couple being wedded beneath a gracefully turned arch, from the centre of which hung a floral horse-shoe, typical of the good luck which every one wishes the happy pair. The other decorations were in keeping. It was one of the most numerously attended weddings celebrated in our city for many a day. The ushers were Messrs. A. P. Preston, Wm. R. Foster, Wallace Hackett, and A. W. Purbeck of Salem. In the evening a reception was given at the mayor's residence on Islington street.

Business at the north mill, now the only grist mill in the city, has so much increased of late that it is contemplated to connect the part of the building now used as a grist mill with the portion formerly used as a planing and sawing mill, and putting in the latter a corn-cracker, which will give the use of the set of stones in the main mill now used for cracking, for grinding meal. It is also proposed to put in a new turbine wheel in place of the one broken about eight years ago, so as to use the set of stones which have been lying idle since that time.

The steamer James Sampson went on the marine railway at Kittery on Wednesday afternoon of this week, to complete the extensive repairs which were commenced about ten days previously.

Walter O. Shute and George Shute, brothers, of Newmarket, have a sportsman's house on Footman's island, at the entrance of Great bay, and have shot over six hundred birds, and gathered about three hundred bushels of oysters, this season.

Mr. John D. Swain of Nashua, formerly of this city, and a member of Portsmouth Commandery, No. 47, United Order of the Golden Cross, has been elected supreme treasurer of the Supreme Commandery of the United States, assuming the duties on July 1st.

The assignee's sale of the grocery stock of Charles E. Akerman took place at the store on Daniel street recently occupied by Mr. Akerman, on Wednesday forenoon of this week, Mr. Wendell being the auctioneer. The attendance of buyers was large, and the goods generally brought very fair prices.

The old fence on State street enclosing the rear of the Lyman estate has within a few days been replaced by a new one. The part of this estate on State street was once owned by Jeremiah Mason, who had the recently-removed fence erected about the year 1808. Mr. Mason also imported and had set out the now lofty and beautiful English ash trees on the grounds, which are the finest of the kind, if indeed not the only ones, in the city.

On Tuesday forenoon, the 14th inst., the strikers at the Pepperell and Laconia mills in Biddeford met and chose a committee of five to wait upon the agent of the companies, to present their case and demand an increase of fifteen per cent in their wages. The committee, on visiting the agent, was received very courteously, and informed that the demand would not be acceded to, but that the companies would pay as much as was being paid in other places. Parties were in Biddeford on the 13th from Fall River, Mass., for the purpose of organizing a spinners' and weavers' union, and said they would return to provide for the organization of the strikers.

"Harper's Magazine" for July has a very interesting table of contents, according to custom. The first article is a description of Oporto and its vineyards, with thirteen illustrations, and there are papers on the "Old Dutch Masters," with six illustrations; the "White mountains," fifteen illustrations; "Life at Rideau Hall," with portraits of the Marquis of Lorne and his royal consort, and interior views of Rideau hall never before published; "A Day in Africa," a description of a day's adventures in Tangier, by T. B. Aldrich, with five illustrations; "Law and Gospel," a story by E. E. Hale; "First Appearance at the Odeon," a poem by James T. Fields; "A Bicycle Era," with five illustrations; and other articles and poems, besides the usual editorial departments. It is an unusually interesting number. Moses Brothers and W. G. Myers have it now ready for delivery, at their stores on Congress street.

The mystery surrounding the burning of Mrs. Mary Gilman in the house occupied by her at Kittery Point on the morning of June 2d, is again being vigorously investigated, suspicious circumstances in connection therewith having come to light, showing conclusively it is said that the triple crimes of murder, robbery and incendiarism were committed. The position of the body when first seen, with the head apparently badly battered, together with the failure to find the bones of one of her arms; the inability to discover the least vestige of the valuable silver which the lady was known to have in the house, and which she always kept in a closet directly over a cistern in the cellar, into which it must have fallen when the fire reached that part of the house; these facts, together with the knowledge that for some days previous to the fire Mrs. Gilman had stated that she was expecting to receive a considerable sum of money, and that a strange man was several times seen lurking in the immediate vicinity, leaves no doubt of crime in the minds of those best informed as to the circumstances.

POLICE COURT.

WEDNESDAY, June 15; Batchelder, J.

Frank Powell was brought up for being drunk. He signed the pledge, and was let off on probation.

B. F. Russell, charged with keeping for sale kerosene oil that had not been inspected, had his case continued to Thursday morning, giving his personal recognizance in $100 for his appearance at that time.

Payment of Pensions.

Referring to the pension agency at Concord, the Monitor says it may be of interest to pensioners to know that all vouchers received at the pension office in that city up to eleven o'clock A. M. on the 9th inst. were disposed of before the close of business that evening, and that checks for the same should have been received by all pensioners, save in the more remote parts of the district, the next day.

The total number of payments upon the current quarter, which became due on the 4th inst., has been 16,296, of which 15,660, amounting to upwards of $430,000, were made during the first four days of last week. This is at the rate of nearly 4,000 in number, and upwards of $100,000 in amount, per day. But to more fully comprehend the amount of labor, to say nothing of the care and responsibility involved in making such rapid payments, it should be understood that at least a dozen different processes are necessary in the case of each voucher, after the receipt, before the check in payment, together with a voucher for the following quarter, is in readiness to be mailed to the pensioner. The promptness with which payments have been made from the Concord agency cannot fail to be satisfactory to pensioners.

Col. Whitford, the agent who has the combined duties performed by agents in three other states before the consolidation of the agencies, seems to manage the affairs of the agency in the most expeditious and satisfactory manner, and is doubtless the right man in the right place.

Boston.

The New England resident, as returning from New York he passes en route from the Old Colony to the Eastern railroad stations, feels a pride in Boston. After the repulsive slovenliness and filthy appearance of New York, it is a relief to ride through streets appearing spick span clean, as if the appropriation for street cleaning had not been used to enrich some political circle. The business streets of Boston, no less than her avenues of domestic refinement, are attractive, which every stranger notes. The good order, cleanliness, and well kept condition of the public thoroughfares, prominent or obscure, are alike noticeable; and it is a relief after beholding the manner in which dirt is trumps in Gotham, to witness the clean and attractive condition of Boston. Good old Hub! The New England men outside your rim are proud of you. May your shadow never be less.

The Boston Daily Advertiser will commence publication in quarto form, with cut leaves, on the fourth of July. The paper will be arranged in such a style of make-up than every reader can at once select the kind of information most sought for. If the Advertiser could only discover that there was any place in New England besides Boston, it would with its enterprise and good taste be regarded as the best paper published on Court street.

A Boston Publisher in London.

The following extract from a private letter dated London, May 29th, just received, has sufficient public interest to warrant its publication: "Mr. H. O. Houghton, of the firm of Houghton, Mifflin & Co., has been in London during the month of May, and has had unusual courtesies extended to him, as one of the great publishers of America, and especially as the founder of the Riverside Press, whose productions attracted so much attention at the Paris Exposition. By way of returning some of the English civilities, Mr. Houghton invited the principal publishers and a few authors to meet Mr. Lowell, the American minister, and on his left sat Mr. John Murray. Then came Tom Hughes on the one side, and on the other Francis Bennoch, the intimate friend and constant correspondent of Hawthorne. Norton Longman, representing the great house under the old sign of the Ship in Paternoster Row, sat opposite Mr. MacColl, the editor of the Athenaeum. Among the others present were Mr. Tribner, Mr. Rivington, of the firm of Sampson Low & Co., Mr. Edmond Routledge, Mr. Whittaker, Rev. Joseph Cook of Boston, Mr. Henry Stevens of Vermont, etc. What was said and what was eaten seemed to give satisfaction, and need not be repeated any further than that the result was a contribution to the better understanding and better feeling between the authors and the publishers of both sides of the Atlantic."—Boston Advertiser.

—A man with a gruff voice rushed up to the first floor of a New York store, put his head into A. Folkers' jewelry room, and yelled: "Package for you down stairs. Come and sign the book." He slammed the door and ran down stairs. Mr. Folkers followed, and found neither man nor book at the door. When he got back to his room again, he found the safe door, which he had left unlocked, standing open, and a case with eleven watches missing. The watches belonged to customers. The case was found up stairs, but the watches were gone. So was the partner of the gruff young man. The jeweller paid $200 for his lesson.

A Powerful Ocean Current.

An observation made recently by a vessel passing round the Cape of Good Hope is of great interest, as elucidating the "Gulf stream" of the Southern Hemisphere. This vessel—the Lorenzo, Captain Henderson—which arrived at Boston on the 2d inst., reports that on April 2d, while east of Cape of Good Hope, she encountered a hurricane from the northwest, and for fifty-eight hours, ten of which she was under bare poles, she was drifted by the Agulhas stream as much as eighty miles to the westward in a direction contrary to the gale. The Agulhas stream has long been known as the most powerful ocean current south of the Equator, and this observation attests its mighty and majestic flow. Nautical writers have recorded a storm which forced back our own Gulf Stream and caused it to inundate the Florida keys, but in the case of the hurricane off the Cape of Good Hope the Agulhas stream was more than a match for a gale blowing over eighty miles an hour. A similar instance of a ship carried by the Japan stream a distance of ninety miles in about three days in the teeth of a northeast gale, has been well authenticated, and, while the last reported case is a more remarkable manifestation of the power of an ocean current, it is probably not exaggerated.

From its great volume and velocity as a warm current, bearing the enormous heat stores of the equatorial Indian ocean into the Antarctic Basin, the Agulhas stream, as Captain Bent suggested in 1872, "would probably afford the best avenue toward the South Pole." If the Italian Antarctic expedition announced for this year succeeds in getting off, this suggestion may prove profitable, as by following the drift of the Agulhas stream into the south polar area the advance can probably be longer maintained in open water, and a higher southern latitude attained, than on any other course.

Vermont & Colorado Mining Co.

The subscriptions to the treasury stock of the Vermont & Colorado Mining Company, in the hands of Messrs. Goff, Hastings & Co., is meeting with splendid success, the stock being rapidly taken up by conservative investors, who have faith in the executive management of the company. Superintendent Gowanlock writes that development work is progressing favorably, that the titles to the property are now made secure by United States patents, and he thinks he is sure of opening up pay ore in a short time, which if accomplished, will make the stock a splendid investment at the prices it is now selling for. Intending subscribers should make application immediately, before the price is advanced. The company's advertisement appears in another column, to which we would call especial attention. Mining is a safe business if pursued with the same care and industry as merchandising, banking, or any other legitimate pursuits. It is also a creator of solid wealth. The profits on gold and silver mining since the discovery of gold in 1848 on the Pacific coast amounts to about eighteen per cent per annum. The miner of the precious metals does not exchange, he creates. What he takes from the earth has instant and intrinsic value. The dollar he brings to the surface is another dollar added to the wealth of the world.—Boston Sunday Globe.

Ash-Tonic;

A perfected purifyer of the system. In 1-2lb. bottles 75 cents. For dyspepsia, the many forms of liver complaint, impure and impoverished blood, and functional derangements attendant upon debility. For symptoms indicated by indigestion, loss of appetite, nausea, sick headache, sour stomach, furred tongue, drowsiness, blanched lips, sallow complexion, pain in the side or back, eruptions, depression of spirits, nervous irritability and hysteria, and for building up the system, ash-tonic is unquestionably the most prompt and energetic remedy yet devised.

A San Francisco despatch says all the canned meats and soups for the Arctic exploring steamer Rodgers, shipped from New York, were found totally unfit for use, and others were purchased to supply the deficiency.

Prejudice Kills.

"Eleven years our daughter suffered on a bed of misery under the care of several of the best (and some of the worst) physicians, who gave her disease various names but no relief, and now she is restored to us in good health by as simple a remedy as Hop Bitters, that we had poohed at for two years, before using it. We earnestly hope and pray that no one else will let their sick suffer as we did, on account of prejudice against so good a medicine as Hop Bitters."—The parents.—Telegram.

Oporto Vineyards.

We pass pretty villas and more stately palaces on the water's edge, for Oporto is behind us now, and we are rowing up between vine-terraced banks toward the famous port vineyards. They are too far away for us to reach them to-night, but somewhere farther up this wild river the grapes are growing hot in the Quinta de Vesuvio. We heard the resonant blows of the coopers as we walked through the streets of Oporto, beating down the strong iron hoops that are to girdle ribs of oak and heart of fire; and if we should follow far enough that schooner of casks, we would reach the Alto Douro, and find ourselves surrounded on all sides by "The vine, boys, the vine!

A roamer is she
O'er wall and tree,
And sometimes in very good company."

Such a visit in the time of the vintage, when the peasants troop down the terraces bearing upon their heads baskets overflowing with the purple clusters, would be well worth the trouble; but now we will row down the river instead, and landing at Villa Nova de Gala, visit the warehouses of the wine-merchants, where we will find port of any required date, ripening and changing from dark red to the brown madder esteemed by amateurs. Here, too, we will find the white wines Dedo de Dama, or lady's finger, and Muscatel de Jesus. We are accustomed to think of port-wine as the unadulterated, Simon-pure blood of the grape. It may, therefore, shock us a little to find elderberries and prune syrup are added to give it the dark color which the English demand; molasses and alcohol to add sweetness and dryness; and that it is considered a perfectly legitimate process to add a dash of vitriol to cut the germs of decay existing in such a rich, fruity wine, and to enable it to cross the ocean without spoiling. The information is disenchanting; it is like a glimpse at Cette, near Marseilles, where any desired wine is manufactured to order, with the appropriate tint, flavor, bouquet, and counterfeited label, correct stamp on the inside of the cork, and cobwebs on the exterior, and all so cleverly as to deceive a connoisseur. From forty to fifty thousand pipes of port-wine are annually exported from Oporto, and over two-thirds of this goes to England.—L. W. CHAMPNEY, in Harper's for July.

Treasure Hunters.

About eighty-one years ago, or in the last year of the last century, a lumbersome old Spanish man-of-war, with 900,000 gold dollars and a wealth of jewels stowed away in her strong boxes, struck a reef near Montevideo at the mouth of the Rio de la Plata, and went to the bottom. Since then the waves of the ocean have sung a dirge over the wreck, and buried it beneath alluvium twenty feet deep. The old salts who sailed by this hidden treasure, would shift their quids and swear by the spanker boom that they would like to locate the wreck; but, beyond this, no steps were taken to discover its sub-marine grave. One old tar, Captain Charles A. Jones, of this city, who has spent years in raising wrecks on the South American coast, thinks he has nearly placed the man-of-war, and such is his faith in his divination that he has had constructed a tight little steamer, supplied with the requisite machinery, and will sail in quest of the treasure. This craft, which cost $75,000, will lift anchor in a few days, and sail for the tropics. In addition to the crew of twenty wreckers, and engineer Charles J. Marsh, of New York, the services of marine divers will be employed in seeking the treasure. Captain Jones says his vessel is supplied not only with all the necessary machinery to clear away the accumulated mud, but with every appliance to prosecute the work with diligence.—Phila. Record.

—The latest elopement took place at Aurora, Ill., when four horses ran away with Forepaugh's sea-cow.

—Avery Green, a wealthy farmer of Hannibal, N. Y., went into his sick wife's room and asked her if she wanted to live any longer. She answered that she did. "Well," said he, "I don't know as I do. We are paying out money all the time for doctoring, and it don't amount to anything." He took his revolver, went into his orchard and fatally shot himself through the head.

Brace Up.

There is serious meaning in this expression. That wearied step, languid eye and feeling of general lassitude, come from "spring sickness." Be assured, a serious, and perhaps, fatal disease is close in its wake. The system wants cleansing of winter impurities; the sluggish blood needs to be sent in swift and clear currents through the veins. "Favorite Remedy" will do this; it will give new vigor to the body, brightness to the eye, a glow to the countenance and elasticity to the step. One dollar a bottle. Every druggist has it. Dr. David Kennedy, proprietor, Rondout, N. Y.

—A young painter says, with an air of sincerity, "I don't want to brag, but I cherish a humble conviction that I possess all the excellences of Raphael and Michael Angelo without any of their defects." "But," says one of the auditors, "in that case you are superior to them both." "Thanks, old fel!" says the artist, pressing his hand warmly.

At the battle of Gettysburg I was shot through the left leg and was sent to the hospital. The army surgeons relieved me but pronounced my case incurable. It discharged pieces of bone, and for years I have suffered with a running sore. I tried everything which my limited means would allow, and experienced no relief until I tried Sulphur Bitters. I am now almost well, and shall continue their use.—Old Soldier.

News and Notes.

Haverhill, Mass., has a lively pair of horses, owned by the city, and bought not long ago to haul a steam fire engine. About the last of April they ran away with the engine, smashed an express wagon belonging to a Mr. Bartlett of Newton, N. H., and the wagon of a Newburyport store dealer, and severely injured their driver. On the 15th inst. they ran away with a dumpcart to which they were harnessed, smashed the cart and hurt the driver badly and perhaps fatally, and broke the leg of a horse belonging to a Mr. French of Freemont, N. H., the latter animal having to be killed.

Two large warehouses in Brooklyn, N. Y., were burned on Wednesday afternoon, the 15th inst.; loss $600,000. Two workmen perished in the flames.

On Tuesday afternoon, the 14th inst., lightning killed two boys under a tree near Williams bridge, Westchester county, N. Y. A house near by was partly demolished and a horse killed at the same time, and several inmates of the house injured, one fatally. In New Jersey the lightning killed several horses, and damaged many houses. On Long Island the lightning killed several horses and cows, set fire to two houses, and burned two barns.

At Newark, N. J., June 15th, Robert Martin, a machinist aged fifty years, shot his wife dead and fatally wounded his three-years-old daughter. He was arrested.

The failure of E. P. Cutter & Co., of Boston, iron and metal commission merchants, is announced. Estimated liabilities $500,000, of which $100,000 are due New York, and most of the rest to iron furnaces in Pennsylvania.

Mays and Overholz, two famous "road agents" of Idaho, under life sentence, passed through Chicago for Auburn, N. Y., on the night of June 14th, it being necessary to give them safer quarters than is afforded in Idaho prisons.

W. H. Williams and W. R. Brown, two wealthy cattle men, charged with robbing the United States mail near Gainesville on June 3d, have been indicted by the federal grand jury at Dallas, Texas. The bail was fixed at $10,000 each.

Hugo Von Mallapert, a clerk in Chicago, committed suicide on the evening of June 14th by jumping from the top of the water works tower, 160 feet high, to the ground, killing him instantly. It is ascertained that the suicide was the son of the present chamberlain of the Emperor William of Germany, and his family name is Malapert Von Neuville, of Frankfort-on-the-Main, one of the oldest German families, which has held a number of leading positions in the empire.

Advices received at San Francisco from the islands of Fiji state that more difficulties with the natives are reported from the interior. The French vessel Aurora and the British schooner Venus are charged with piracy and kidnapping of natives. At the trial at Levuka there were thirteen witnesses to the latter charge, including natives of Pentecost, Ambrym, Malacolo, Aoba, Api and Santo. The evidence was one long narrative of seizure by force of arms, firing on natives, violent detention of visitors, running down and swamping of canoes, and otherwise obtaining men by fraud and treachery. It is said that the carver of the Aurora has been that of a systematic slaver and pirate; that on a former voyage Neclezo, the captain, murdered Malcolm, a native, by shooting him through the head, while trying to escape by swimming from the vessel, on board which he had been kidnapped.

A despatch from St. Johns, Newfoundland, says that the Hunter Linton lighthouse at Fort Pendre, the resort of hundreds of American fishing schooners for bait, has been burned.

The strike in the Pepperell and Laconia mills at Biddeford began with the "clock boys," a lot of children from ten to sixteen years of age, who should not have been employed in the mills at all. In many cases the children are compelled to support their parents when they should be in school. They have no sense of responsibility, and went out in a body, without notice and without complaint. It was only after they had been out a week, that a demand for increased pay was made at the suggestion of professional agitators from Fall River, Mass. The remedy for this trouble is to employ hereafter only grown persons. Work in the mills is now almost wholly stopped, the strikers of the back boys and spinners having forced the other employees to lay by for lack of manufacturing material.

The Stone-edge Cottage at Long beach, York, has been rented by Dr. Hill of Dover, N. H. Mr. E. Hodgsdon of South Berwick is putting an addition to his house near the Sea Cottage. Mr. Chas. Sawyer of Dover is having his house painted on the Bluff. The Sea Cottage has been put in fine condition with painting inside and out, and has been open for the last three weeks, with quite a number of boarders. Bishop Jagger and family are among the guests.—Biddeford Times.

New Hampshire Items.

There were seventy-one births returned to the town clerk in Laconia for the year ending March 31st. Of these ten were Irish, thirty of French and thirty-one of American parentage.

Thomas Malone of Newartstown was practicing with a rifle on the 6th inst., when the cartridge exploded, forcing the powder into his only eye, he having lost the sight of the other one previously.

A sad accident occurred at Dr. Coolidge's residence in Bristol a few days ago. Mrs. Coolidge had just laid her infant daughter, four weeks old, in a chair, cleared out a cupboard and removed the screws that held it in place. She ascertained to her satisfaction that it was safe to leave it thus, but only a few minutes later the jar of walking across the room caused it to fall; the edge of the top struck the child on the head, killing it almost instantly.

An incendiary fire on the night of June 15th destroyed a wooden building in the rear of the Masonic temple at Concord, owned by George Clough and Mrs. R. N. Corning, who lose $1,200, and occupied by Whittemore & Kimball as a planing machine and steam mill, who lose $2,000, and by Miller & Sanborn, carpenters and builders, who lose $800; no insurance.

Stirring the Waters.

A gentleman of this city furnishes an interesting point in connection with the recent revision of the New Testament. It will be observed that the miraculous stirring of the waters of the pool of Bethesda, as told in the fifth chapter of St. John, has been omitted by the revisers. This was done because from the documents in the two committees there was reason to believe the story was spurious, and had been unwarrantably inserted in the translation of the original. The part omitted reads: "For an angel went down at a certain season into the pool and troubled the water; whosoever then first after the troubling of the water stepped in was made whole of whatsoever disease he had."

This stirring of the waters, which in the early days of the church had been ascribed to supernatural causes, constantly occurs at a spring in Kissingen, Germany, and is due to natural conditions. The medical qualities of the spring are strongest when at a periodic time the surface of the water is stirred by a curious effervescence resembling the action of boiling. It is believed that from such a spring originated the insertion of the alleged miracle in the New Testament.—Phila. Record.

—There is a certain family whose heads do not attend church as regularly as they should, but they send the oldest boy every Sunday, to keep up appearances. Last Sunday the head of the family said: "Go dress yourself, boy; it's time for you to go to church." "I would like to know," responded the boy sulkily, "why I am the only one in this family who has got to be religious?" "Because you need it most, you scoundrel—that's why!" thundered the stern parent, feeling for the young martyr's hair.

AROUND HOME.

The steamer Acushnet had on her last trip a full cargo of freight to and from Boston.

The corner stone for the new Episcopal church at the west end was carried to the grounds on Thurday.

Col. Sise, who had been confined to his home by illness for about a week, was able to be out on Thursday, and presided over the board of aldermen at their meeting that evening.

A meeting of the citizens to consider the proposed extension of the Dover & Winnepisoogee railroad is called for this evening at eight o'clock, at the Common Council room. See adv't.

The schooner E. A. Creed, with one thousand bushels of charcoal, was to have been towed to the Shoals on Thursday last, but the wind proved too boisterous for her to attempt the trip.

St. John's Lodge of Masons has accepted the invitation of the trustees of Christ church to participate in the ceremony of laying the corner stone of the church edifice with Masonic honors, on St. John's day, June 24th.

The Roxbury Horse Guards, Capt. C. A. Young, have arranged for an open-air concert by Higgins' band, of Boston, at the Rockingham house on Thursday afternoon of next week, commencing at one o'clock. The programme includes seven numbers.

The sloop Carrie Tyler, with twenty-three hundred mackerel, and the Little Jennie with two thousand mackerel, came into this port on Thursday, being the first arrival of netters this season. The fish were caught off Newburyport, and were quickly sold.

The Concord railroad has proposed to build a spur track from East Epping to the camp ground, if the camp-meeting association will buy the right of way and obtain the necessary legislation. There is thought to be no doubt that the people will be conveyed to the grounds by rail this year, as the work of grading will be slight.

The horse harnessed to C. L. Brown's store wagon was frightened by a locomotive whistle while at the west end, Thursday noon, and the driver being absent at the moment, ran away. The horse soon arrived in front of the store with the forward wheels, having left the wagon body and hinder wheels on the road. The wagon was not greatly damaged, and the horse not at all.

Class day exercises were had at Miss Morgan's school on Thursday afternoon of this week. In the evening a reception was given, at which was a large attendance of the friends of the pupils, and others interested in the welfare of the school. Miss Morgan starts on the 2d of July in the steamer Furnessia, Capt. Small, for Glasgow, Scotland, and with some of her pupils and other friends will spend the vacation in a summer tour in Europe.

Joseph Warren Commandry of Knights Templar, of Boston Highlands, leave Boston for this city in a special train at half-past eight o'clock this morning, arriving here at half-past ten. They will be met at the depot by the Dover band and a delegation of the officers and past officers of De Witt Clinton Commandry of this city, and escorted to the steamer Appledore en route to the Shoals, where dinner will be served, the visiting commandry returning in time to reach Boston at an early hour in the evening.

The annual meeting of the Seamen's Aid society, postponed on account of the storm on Friday last, will be held this (Friday) afternoon at four o'clock, at No. 8 State street. Members will please atend.

Next Sunday will be the eventful 19th of June, eventful at least for the year 1881. On that day the planets will be in perihelion, that is they will be, at the same time, at the points of their orbits nearest the sun. What the effect will be can only be conjectured.—Times, 16th inst.

We know perfectly well what the effect will be; the world will go to smash—that's what. We should not promulgate this information were it not that we desire to notify the man who borrowed $2 of us five weeks ago—he wanted to borrow $10, but we couldn't seem to find that sum around—which he promised to return next day but has not yet repaid, that this is his last chance to weather the place called "Hades" in the revised translation; he's so close to it now that his lee jib sheet is smoking.

The annual state convention of the Ancient Order of Hibernians of New Hampshire was held in Grand Army hall, Dover, on the 14th inst.; forty-seven delegates were present, representing divisions of the order located in Concord, Manchester, Nashua, Keene, Portsmouth, Dover, Suncook, Newmarket, North Walpole and other places. The secretary's report shows that there are now 529 members of the order in this state, against 410 last year, a gain of one hundred and nineteen. The treasury contains $4,647 against $2,800 last year, an increase in that time of $1,847. Thomas Garvey of Dover was chosen county delegate for Strafford county, and Patrick O. Mahoney of Portsmouth delegate for Rockingham county.

The beach of Plum island, at the entrance to Newburyport harbor, is strewn with laths, shingles and lumber generally, from the life-saving station to Emerson's rocks; and on Wednesday and Thursday of this week several teams were at work saving the wreck stuff, and making a good thing of it. The laths are supposed to have been part of the cargo of the schooner Coral, wrecked off York beach on the 10th inst., but the shingles and lumber must have come from some other vessel, as the Coral carried laths only. The fishing schooner George J. Tarr, of Gloucester, carried into that port on the 13th a deckload of shingles, which she picked up off Chatham, Mass., where she reported them as floating about in large quantities—probably some vessel's deckload, swept overboard in the gale that destroyed the Coral.

On Thursday forenoon last, as Mr. Henry P. Colson was training a valuable young horse belonging to Dr. F. E. Langdon, having the animal at the Eastern railroad station to get him accustomed to the sight and sound of the locomotives and trains, the breeching of the harness broke, and the horse became unmanageable and ran down Vaughan street. On the corner of Vaughan and Hanover streets he collided with a wagon belonging to Mr. Gee Pickering of Newington, upsetting it and breaking one of the shafts, a spoke in the wheel, and the seat. Mr. Pickering saw the horse coming, drew up on one side of the road, and jumped out on the sidewalk. Mr. Colson was thrown out; and the horse, breaking one of the shafts of the carriage, cleared himself from it, and proceeded down Vaughan street into Congress street, and had hardly turned the corner when he ran into the market wagon belonging to the Wentworth house, striking his head against the wheel, killing him instantly. Dr. Langdon was much attached to the horse, and would not have parted with him for any sum within the bounds of reason; the animal's commercial value is said to have been about $500.

THE LAKE SHORE RAILROAD.

Col. Andrew H. Young of Dover, collector of internal revenue, was called upon at his office in the custom house on Wednesday by several gentlemen with a view of their ascertaining the intentions of the projectors of the contemplated extension of the Boston & Maine railroad from Alton bay to Laconia.

Col. Young stated that he was fully convinced that the Boston & Maine management were not only desirious but determined to reach deep water transportation; that the company were not only willing but anxious to make suitable connections with the Portsmouth & Dover railroad at Dover, and to erect an elevator for shipping grain at Noble's island or at some other suitable point upon the Piscataqua; that the corporation was willing that there should be inserted in the proposed charter such a clause as should give the P. & D. R. R., of which Col. Young is a director, every facility for receiving from and sending to the Dover & Winnipeseogee railroad freight and passengers without unnecessary delay, with a provision that if the managers of the lines controlling the P. & W. and P. & D. railroads could not agree upon all the details of connection, the differences which might arise should be finally settled by the board of railroad commissioners. He also stated that the B. & M. railroad were ready at once and proceed with the construction of the road, which would largely tend to develope the eastern section of the state, without diminishing the capital of the residents on the line of the road by calling upon them for subscriptions, or obtaining the loan of the credit of any town or city whose inhabitants would be benefitted by its construction.

Col. Young assured the gentlemen present that this golden opportunity was appreciated by the residents of Belknap and Strafford counties, and from the assurances which the friends of the project had received there was little doubt that the legislature would without hesitation grant the charter asked for.

POLICE COURT.

THURSDAY, June 16; Batchelder, J.

B. F. & C. E. Russell, charged with keeping uninspected kerosene for sale, were held in $100 each to answer at the October term of the supreme court.

Elijah Eaton, a seaman, was fined $3, costs $6.90, for drunkenness. Paid.

Joel Foster, a seaman, was up on a charge of drunkenness. He denied that he was so very drunk, alleging that he was trying to get his captain, who was intoxicated, on board his vessel. He was let off.

John Macauley, for one drunk, was fined $3, costs $6.90.

MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

In Board of Mayor and Aldermen, regular meeting, Thursday evening, June 16th, Mayor Sise in the chair:

Petition of John S. Sides for permission to open Warren street to repair a drain was granted.

A communication was received relative to the manner in which petroleum is inspected, charging carelessness; referred to Ald. Vaughan and Hazel.

Bills for repairs of Sagamore bridge were approved and ordered paid.

Committee reported favorably on E. W. Cochrane's petition for permission to make a drive-way from his stable to Chestnut street, Mr. Cochrane to put up and maintain a rail to protect street passengers. Adopted.

The mayor announced that he had called a meeting of citizens at the common council room on Friday evening, to consider the proposed Lake Shore railroad.

A communication was received from the Common Council, notifying the aldermen that unless the board had business to bring before them, the council would adjourn in five minutes.

The mayor stated to the board that it was necessary to meet bills against the city amounting to $100,000, on which it was important to save interest.

The aldermen notified the council that business would be sent down in fifteen minutes.

A motion was made that the aldermen recede in regard to the appropriation for a reservoir on Court square, whereupon a discussion ensued, followed by a vote on the motion, which failed to pass, the vote standing three yeas to five nays.

Balloted for collector of taxes for the ensuing year:

Whole number of vote,	8
Necessary for a choice	5
William S. Hadley had	5

And Mr. Hadley was declared elected.

Voted that the city clerk notify the banks of this city that the board is ready to receive proposals for the loan of such monies as may be needed.

Adjourned for one week.

MAIL CARRIAGE.

The second assistant postmaster general has invited bids for the mail carriage between the Eastern railroad station and the post-office in this city. We presume the carriage between the Concord station and the post-office is also intended to be let to the same contractor. There are eighteen mails on week days, and the Sunday afternoon mail to Boston, to be carried. The post-office department requires the transportation to be made with dispatch and punctuality, and will pay only a fair price for the work. Bids are to be received by the postmaster up to Tuesday, the 21st inst It is highly probable that ere long the department may find it advantageous to transport these mails by its own means of conveyance.

A petition to the legislature is being circulated in this city and throughout the state, asking for the passage of a general railroad law such as has already been enacted by three-fourths of the states of the Union. The petition sets out that such a law will be promotive in its effect upon "the improvement of transportation, the developement of manufactures, the employment of capital within the state now seeking investment otherwheres, the building up of manufacturing towns, the promotion of agriculture, the revival of commerce, the increase of population, the removal of pernicious influences from the halls of legislation, and the general advancement of the material interests of the state." There will be a strong effort made to pass this law, a similar enactment having been adopted is nearly every state. If it will tend to remove the pernicious influence referred to it will be a great benefit to the state, and save the railroads large sums now foolishly disbursed in "taking care" of members of the legislature by the threadbare politicians who do so much sitting 'round at Concord during the session of the General Court.

Albert Rand, leaves Jones' wharf, near the foot of Deer street, for these favorite and widely-known ocean resorts, daily, (Sunday excepted,) at 11 o'clock A. M., and 4½ o'clock P. M. Returning, leaves the islands in season to connect with the morning and evening trains on the Eastern railroad for Boston and the west. A Yarn About Colonel Tom Stott.

An excellent story is told of him in connection with an officer of the army who distinguished himself during the civil war by invariably establishing his "headquarters in the saddle" when disaster threatened his commands. Col. Tom Scott, though remarkably fine-looking, and, to use a good English word, a distinctly "personable" man, was noted throughout his life for his carelessness of the more elaborate elegances of dress. When he visited the southwest officially during the rebellion he was frequently taken for a hanger-on in the army on account of his modest and unpretentious carriage and the negligence of his costume. He had occasion to visit General Pope at his headquarters at New Madrid, Mo. General Pope is greatly addicted to profanity and violence of manner, and was particularly so at that time. Col. Scott entered the headquarters, with the remark: "I should like to see General Pope on business." "See my adjutant!" roared out Pope. "My business is with General Pope in person." "Blank blank your business; see my adjutant, I tell you." "My name is Scott, and ——." "I don't care whether your name is Scott or Jones, or Smith or Brown. See my adjutant, blank blank you." "As I was about to say, my name is Scott, and I wish to see you on government business. I have the honor to be assistant secretary of war." Pope's demeanor underwent a revolution, as he said in the blandest manner: "I beg your pardon, Colonel; I had no intention to be rude, but there are so many loafers in camp, and they annoy one so much that I am sometimes put out of temper. Be good enough to take a seat, and have the kindness to inform me of your wishes." Colonel Scott entered at once upon the business in hand, making no reference whatever to Pope's outrageous behavior, and acting just as if the occurrence had not taken place.—N. Y. World.

—It was not a pigeon on the chimney of the jail of Menard county, Illinois, as the sheriff supposed when he fired at the object, but the head of a prisoner who had climbed up the flue to escape.

—Mathieu's youngest daughter asked her sister for a new pen, which the latter refused her. "O!" cried the child, "you meaner are this year than you were last!" "Why, of course; I'm a year older."

Don't Trust Them.

When you feel badly, and have pains here and there through your body that you don't know how to account for, it is the most foolish policy in the world to take the advice of people who say: "Oh! there's nothing the matter with you. Let yourself alone and you will come out all right." These folks know nothing about it, and may be trifling with your life. You may have kidney or liver trouble. Send right out to your druggist and get a bottle of Dr. David Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy" and then you will be all right, or write to the doctor at Rondout, N. Y.

—"Paul," exclaimed the fair daughter of a bonanza king, addressing one of her suitors, "Paw has settled $500,000 on me, and I thought there'd be no harm in telling you." "Florinda," he said, nervously fingering a few nickels in his waistcoat pocket, and striving to hide the evidences of the profound interest which the communication excited, "Florinda, do you think I'm so sordid as to let such a consideration affect me?" "No," she added, nonchalently, "I didn't suppose you'd care much, so I engaged myself to Mr. Slacker last night."

Arrested!

Charles A. Dailey was arrested last evening for stealing from the drug store of Shielman, a bottle of Sulphur Bitters. Before the court this morning, upon being asked why he should steal it, he stated that his mother was troubled with rheumatism, and that it was the only medicine that helped her, and being out of money and work was the cause of his stealing. As this was his first offence he was put on probation.—Newark News.

—In the Connecticut state prison a man has just died, says the Hartford Courant, whose brutal murder of a young boy named Langworthy, several years ago, created much sensation. Just before his death he confessed the crime which he had heretofore denied, and said that he was maddened by cider when he killed the boy.

Rescued from Death.

William J. Coughlin, of Somerville, Mass., says: "In the fall of 1876 I was taken with a violent bleeding of the lungs followed by a severe cough. I soon began to lose my appetite and flesh. I was so weak at one time that I could not leave my bed. In the summer of 1877 I was admitted to the city hospital. While there the doctors said I had a hole in my left lung as big as a half a dollar. I was so far gone at one time a report went around that I was dead. I gave up hope, but a friend told me of Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs. I laughed at my friends, thinking that my case was incurable, but I got a bottle to satisfy them, when to my surprise and gratification, I commenced to feel better. My hope, once dead, began to revive, and to-day I feel in better spirits than I have the past three years.

I write this hoping you will publish it, so that every one afflicted with diseased lungs, will be induced to take Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs, and be convinced that consumption can be cured. I have taken two bottles and can positively say that it has done more good than all the other medicines I have taken since my sickness." Sold by all druggists.

—The famous Inman Steamship company, although English, are quite American in enterprise. The new patent Brunswick swinging berth, now being placed upon their steamers, bids fair to revolutionize the whole system of transatlantic travel. It is claimed that with this wonderful invention seasickness is to become a matter of history, and the increase of ocean traffic in consequence is beyond conjecture.

Important.

European plan. Elevator. Restaurant supplied with the best. Horse cars, stages and elevated railroad to all depots. Families can live better for less money at the Grand Union Hotel than at any other first-class hotel in the city. apr13,82

The property owned and controlled by this company comprises 160 acres of rich mineral lands, from which large amounts of free gold have been taken in the old style of washing with rockers, besides four lode claims which have been considerably developed during the past year, and show good indications of rich silver veins.

The location of this property is unsurpassed, being near the celebrated "Robinson Consolidated," "White Quail," "Aftermath" and "Wheel of Fortune" mines, in the Ten-Mile Consolidated Mining District, and as prospect property is as valuable as any in Colorado.

Development work is to be actively and vigorously pushed, under the experienced management of Thos. Gowanlock, one of the most intelligent and experienced mining superintendents in Colorado.

FELLOWS' Compound Syrup of HYPO-PHOS-PHITES

THE REFORMER AND VITALIZER OF THE BLOOD.

FELLOWS' COMPOUND SYRUP OF HYPO-PHOS-PHITES

Is composed of ingredients identical with those which constitute Healthy Blood, Muscle and Nerve, and Brain Substance, whilst like itself is directly dependant upon some of them.

By Increasing Nervous and Muscular Vigor, it will cure Dyspepsia, feeble or interrupted action of the Heart and Palpitation, Weakness of Intellect caused by grief, worry, overtaxed or irregular habits, Bronchitis, Congestion of the Lungs.

It cures Asthma, Neuralgia, Whooping Cough, Nervousness, and is a most wonderful adjunct to other remedies in sustaining life during the process of Diphtheria.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitute for this under any circumstances.

SPASMS.

Mrs. S. A. McIlwain, of Ferguson'ville, Delaware county, N. Y., writes: "Only a few days before I commenced using the "Favorite Remedy," in one of my spasms and sinking spells, my friends thought I was dead, and gave up the attempt to restore me to consciousness. I am confident that if I had not taken your medicine. "Favorite Remedy," during my periods of critical illness I should never have recovered. * * * That the Lord may bless you and increase your means of doing good is my daily prayer, and may many yet unborn praise the "Favorite Remedy" and its discoverer."

THE RUBY RIVER.

To keep the blood pure, is the principal end of inventions and discoveries in medicine. To this object probably no one has contributed more signally than Dr. David Kennedy, of Rondout, New York., in the production of a medicine which has become famous under the title of the "Favorite Remedy." It removes all impurities from the Blood, regulates the disordered Liver and Kidneys, cures Constipation, Dyspepsia, and diseases and weaknesses peculiar to females.

☞ When inquiring of your druggist for this new medicine, avoid mistakes by remembering the name, Dr. David Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy," and the price, which is only one dollar a bottle, and that the doctor's address is Rondout, New York.—Ed.

Chronicle Correspondence.

CENTRVILLE, TENN., June, 1881.

On the morning of the 22nd of May my wife and I, in company with five others in the same team, started for New Hope, a place eight miles from here. We went to attend what is known as the "May Meeting." This is so called because this meeting is always held in May, by those who are named the Primitive Baptists. To attend this meeting, all sections of the country for miles around send their quotas. This place sent ninety-five by actual count, notwithstanding this "May meeting" occurs twice per year! All sorts of vehicles and means of locomotion are used to get to the place,—fine horses, fine mules, poor horses and mules, fine coaches, spring wagons and hacks, buggies and wagons without springs, having either spring seats or boards and chairs for seats. It reminds one of the description of the people going to the English Derby races, to see the people in motion on the road to the May meeting. I will give first some points of the Primitive Baptists' belief, and then will describe the May meeting.

They accept both Old and New Testaments in the Bible. They believe that the New Testament is to be their guide as far as it is given, and where the New Testament has not laid down any line of conduct, that the Old Testament law is in operation. They believe entirely in predestination, that what is to be will be. If a man is to be saved he will be, without the aid of preaching; and if he is to be damned, all the preaching in the world will not help him. Preaching is not for the purpose of reforming sinners, but for the purpose of teaching the scriptures. They do not believe in educated ministers, but that all men should be taught enough to read, write and cipher, and if they get much beyond these things they will get above religion; everything must be done in the primitive manner that it was during Christ's time; as a general thing they are opposed to improvements of all kinds. They take no stock in Sunday schools, and teach their children to do good by moral precepts. The manner in which they do all important transactions is by means of revelation. If one wishes to join their church it is not necessary for the person to confess any change of heart, but to tell his experience. This experience comes by revelation, and this revelation by means of a dream. Desiring to join the church they tell how the Lord appeared to them in a dream and told them it was time for them to join the church. The same experience has to be had when a couple of their church are to be married; also when a position in life is to be selected; and in fact all of their deeds are by this dream revelation. No infant baptism or child conversion belongs to their creed. Other points of their belief I will tell as I describe the meeting. They are a powerful sect in the country regions about, and their silent but powerful influence is felt in opposition to schools. As a people they are quiet, peaceable, industrious, and honorable and honest in their dealings. They believe in paying their debts, and if a member of their church is found to be a little roguish in regard to paying a just debt they show no compunctions of conscience, but turn them out of the church, not stopping to see what effect it will have on Brother B, or how Sister C will like it. They make their members toe the mark. It would be a good thing if other denominations copied their example in this.

New Hope, as I have said before, is eight miles from here, and situated in a grove of maple, sweet gum, beech, and elm trees. It answers more to a Methodist camp-meeting than anything else in the north, with this difference, that the Baptists never have preaching over two days at the longest, and generally only one day. The meeting is held under the shade of the trees. The seats for the most part are rails split from the trees, and without any backs whatever; also chairs which people have brought. The men sit on the left hand of the grove, and the women on the right. The pulpit in this case consisted of a little rail stretched between two trees. Back of the speaker was a seat upon which sat the "preachers" who were to preach in turn after the speaker then speaking finished. They do not have any set sermon, and all claim that when they begin to speak they do not know even their text. Some say that they do not even know the next word they are going to utter, but that the Lord gives them utterance, and that their hesitation in speaking is the spirit trying to gain utterance. The consequence was a jumble of words, to me without much meaning or connection. They had preaching all the morning, until noon; at noon the people, (except the Baptists, who fast on this day) having brought a lunch, partook of it in various parts of the grove. Lunch being over, my wife and I went to the church close by, to see for us the most novel sight of the day. It was the partaking of the sacrament, and the washing of the Saints' feet. Your correspondent kept his eyes and ears open, having secured a good seat. Before breaking the bread two long discourses and a prayer were made; the same thing was done before passing the wine. I suspect that the wine was extra good, or else they must have quite a taste for it, judging from the quantity that was drank on that occasion; they drank a large junk-bottle full of it, this bottle being used as the pitcher.—primitive again. The deacon at the last turned the tumbler, and drained it dry. Then came the event of the day. The members of this church called themselves "the Saints." Two large pans being filled with water from a bucket under the table, one is given to the men and the other to the women. A man grids a towel about his waist and gets down on his knees and washes his next brother's feet, and wipes them with the towel; the washed brother then girds the towel about his waist, and does the same thing to the next. While the brothers are washing, the same operation is going on among the women. While the foot-washing is going on the elders are talking, the saints are singing, the house is full of people and it is hot, and one Baptist sister is shouting how good religion is, and at the same time is pounding a sister on the back with one hand and shaking hands with the other. It was a wierd sight, and one that will long be remembered by your correspondent. The Baptist women were mostly without teeth, looked as if they had never cracked a smile since they were small girls, and were dressed in ginghams and with large sun bonnets. Yours, A. B.

By the use of Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites, the nerves regain their vigor, and the brain becomes clear and powerful. Indigestion and habitual costiveness almost always arise from weakness of the nerves and muscles of the stomach and bowels. In such cases, Fellows' Syrup of Hypophosphites has proved itself of the greatest service by inducing healthy persistalic action of the intestines. The evacutations soon become copious and healthy, without producing the effect of purgative medicines. *

Lee Faulkner, a dress-goods salesman in New York, was engaged to be married to a beautiful and accomplished young lady of Hartford, Conn., on the evening of the 15th inst., and all was made ready, but he did not appear. He left his home in New York at nine o'clock in the morning of the day set for the wedding, and has not returned. The lady is twenty-three years old, a daughter of Norman D. Hubbard, and has a comfortable fortune of her own.

Haunted Me.

A workingman says: "Debt, poverty and suffering haunted me for years, caused by a sick family and large bills for doctoring, which did no good. I was completely discouraged, until one year ago, by the advice of my pastor, I procured Hop Bitters and commenced their use, and in one month we were all well, and none of us have been sick a day since; and I want to say to all poor men, you can keep your family well a year with Hop Bitters for less than one doctor's visit will cost."—Christian Advocate.

Zion's Advocate says that the general expression of opinion on this side of the Atlantic is favorable to the revised version of the New Testament, though most critics would have preferred to see in the text the changes proposed by the American committee. Messrs. Fords, Howard & Hurlbert announce an American edition, edited by Dr. R. D. Hitchcock, in which these readings will be incorporated into the text. The book will be a long primer octavo, and will be copyrighted.

Bottled Lightning.

The successful storage of electricity for transmission in packages of any size to suit customers has been accomplished by M. Faure of Paris, and is attested by Sir William Thomson of the Glasgow university, who carefully measured the electric energy contained in a box recently sent him from Paris, and ascertained that there was no important loss. It is easy to point out valuable uses for this new reservoir. It can do for electric light supply what a house cistern does for domestic water supply, and steamships can be lighted from a stock of electric energy taken aboard at the start. Light-houses can be supplied with casks full of electricity, and keep up a tremendous glare with little trouble. Stage drivers and express messengers in the far west will no doubt find a bottle of lightning a good thing to blow a "road agent's" brains out with. A keg of it attached to a bank safe in such a way as to lift a would-be thief out of his boots, might work well. For torchlight processions during political campaigns it will be immense, as the stock of electricity can be carried in the hip pocket,—though this may not be entirely satisfactory, as the men who walk in political processions generally want the hip pocket for transporting lightning of the Jersey brand. No doubt other uses for the new invention or discovery will be found.

Two bicyclers who left Boston on their machines at four o'clock Friday morning, arrived in this city shortly after two o'clock, having stopped two hours on the way. They did not appear to be in any way distressed by the journey.

Hon. T. E. O. Marvin, president of the anti-cruelty society, returned on Thursday evening from a trip to the interior of the state, where he spent several days in investigating charges and prosecuting cases of cruelty to animals, in several towns.

In our report of the meeting of the city government on Thursday evening, published in Friday morning's CHRONICLE, we omitted to state that an invitation was received from the trustees of Christ church and accepted by the board, to take part in the exercises of laying the corner stone of the church on the 24th inst.

Mr. Charles S. Drown on Thursday last sent to Boston a yacht's foresail, made for one of the vessels of the Bunker Hill yacht club. He has this spring made thirty sails of various sorts and sizes, for persons in this city, Newcastle, Kittery, Boston and other places, and has not had one returned for alteration.

The Portsmouth Directory for 1881, complied and published by W. A. Greenough & Co., of Boston, can now be purchased at Willis G. Myers' bookstore at $1.50 per copy. The book contains 3551 names, an increase of one hundred and eighty-nine over the number recorded in 1879, when the last previous directory was issued; this increase of names indicates an increase of about 500 in the total population of this city since that time.

Some unknown thief or thieves on Thursday night of this week stole a wherry belonging to Ex-Mayor Marvin; the boat, which has been used as a tender for Mr. Marvin's sloop yacht "Julia," was moored alongside Russell & Odion's wharf, and both head and stern lines were cut at the boat, leaving the ends fast to the wharf. On the same night the lobby where the custom house boat's gear is kept was entered by force, and a fine compass stolen.

There is a little petroleum war going on in this city, of which the public have already heard something, two grocers having been before the police court for keeping uninspected petroleum for sale, and having in turn entered complaint before the board of aldermen against the manner in which petroleum is inspected by the city's inspector. The storekeepers allege that the inspector persists in boring holes in the sides of kerosene barrels, which injures them when returned to the wholesale dealers for credit, instead of taking what oil is needed for testing from the bung-holes, which would do no harm to the barrels and would answer every purpose.

Theodore P. Knight of Dover, accused of criminal violence toward a young girl, has been admitted to bail by Judge Doe in the sum of $500. This merely nominal bail indicates that the judge thinks the case a weak one.

Steamer Lottie, from Exeter, came down the river on Friday with a party of ladies and gentleman.

Mr. J. Watt, for several years past the night telegraph operator at the Eastern railroad station in Hampton, has resigned, and is succeeded by a Mr. Rowan of Newburyport.

R. M. Hobbs, for the past fifteen years superintendent of the Pepperell mills at Biddeford, has resigned that position to become agent of the Montreal cotton mills at Valley Field, Canada.

Haying has commenced. On Friday Mr. William Tarleton sold his crop, amounting to twelve cwt., to Mr. George H. Atkins. The crop was cut on Thursday, on Mr. Tarleton's place on Livermore street.

The schooner yacht Una sailed to the lower harbor on Friday, on what we are informed is her first trip since she was rebuilt. She is practically a new vessel, a very large amount of labor and material having been expended upon her since last autumn.

The schooner Helen F. Tredick arrived on Friday morning with forty-five thousand pounds of salted fish, and sailed in the afternoon for Gloucester to dispose of them at that place. The schooner Grace Choat came in on Friday with thirty-five thousand pounds of salted fish. The schooner Clara Bella brought in on Friday two thousand pounds of cod and haddock.

A party of about seventy-five gentlemen, ticket agents of railroads, with ladies, arrived in this city shortly after noon on Friday from Boston, on an excursion and tour of inspection tendered them by the Eastern railroad. The party lunched at the depot restaurant, and then took passage on the steamer Clara Batemen, Capt. Magraw, for the Appledore house, where they spent the night.

On Friday the high school was visited by President Marvin of the S. P. C. A., and by Dr. J. R. May, one of the directors of the society, who announced to the school that two gold medals had been presented by Mrs. Gov. Goodwin and Mr. A. O. Larkin jointly, to be awarded to the pupils of the school submitting the best two original essays on the subject of cruelty to animals, the decision to be announced and the award of medals made at the annual commencement.

On Thursday last, in the house of representatives at Concord, bills to amend the charter of the Home for Indigent Women, to alter the name of the Children's Home in this city to that of Chase Home for Children, and incorporating the Manchester Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, were read a third time and passed. Mr. Peirce of this city introduced a bill to prevent the spread of contagious diseases among cattle; this bill provides that the governor may appoint a commission when needed, who shall have power to kill affected animals, make regulations as to transportation, etc.; it was referred to the committee on agriculture.

Mr. Ball, agent for Greenough & Co., publishers of the Portsmouth Directory, is in town and engaged in the delivery of the books. The Directory contains 232 pages of matter, giving residences of inhabitants and a variety of information gathered from official sources as to corporations, societies, state and city government, courts, etc. Mr. Greenough, the senior member of the firm, is a Portsmouth man by birth, and his house publishes directories of thirty different towns and cities. The publication of this kind of books is a specialty with Messrs. Greenough & Co., whose system enables them to successfully produce directories in an accurate manner.

DRIVING ACCIDENTS.

A young gentleman who was out for a drive on Friday, having a young lady in his company, when returning to the city about sunset stopped at the pump opposite Mr. James S. Seavey's house on Lafayette road to give the animal a drink. In starting on again the hub of one wheel struck the trough, which startled the horse and caused him to make a slight jump, when one wheel went all to pieces, letting the front of the carriage down upon the horse's heels; both occupants of the carriage were thrown out, though fortunately no serious harm resulted to either, and the horse kept on until he reached Market square, where he was stopped. The carriage was not much smashed, but the horse was somewhat cut up about the legs. The team belongs to Mr. Henry Wendell.

Mr. Yeaton, who lives on the grounds of the trotting park, on Friday was riding in the vicinity of the Wentworth house when the spokes of one of the wheels broke, frightening the horse and throwing Mr. Yeaton out of the wagon, but not seriously injuring him. The wagon was badly broken.

THE CITIZENS' MEETING.

The meeting at the common council room, Friday evening, to consider the proposed extension of the Dover & Winnipeseogee branch of the Boston & Maine railroad to Laconia, was attended by many of our most influential citizens, and was called to order by Col. Wm. H. Sise, who was elected chairman, Wm. Russell Foster, Esq., being chosen secretary.

The resolutions passed by the board of aldermen were read.

A. C. Hoyt, representative in the legislature from ward one, reported the substance of a conference with the managers of the Lake Shore road scheme.

Senator John S. Treat said that he went to Concord in favor of the proposed road, but did not now believe they would do anything for Portsmouth.

Remarks were also made by R. C. Peirce, representative from ward two, Dr. J. F. Hall, A. A. Hanscom, William H. Hackett, Shirley B. Cunningham, representative from ward four, Collector A. F. Howard, J. Horace Kent, Dr. N. F. Folsom, Calvin Page and O. M. Knight.

Col. W. H. Hackett offered resolutions; Wm. R. Foster moved a verbal amendment, which was accepted, and the resolutions were passed, as follows:

Resolved, That we are in favor of the passage of such legislative enactments as will tend to the development of the business of the state toward its only seaport, and we urge the delegation from this city in the House of Representatives at Concord to use all honorable means to secure such enactments as will give to Portsmouth an immediate connection at Dover with the Dover & Winnipeseogee railroad in such manner that freight and passenger trains shall be run between Portsmouth and any other termini, without delay and at the same compensation at which the cars of other railroads are transported.

Resolved, That we disapprove of any attempt to bring about enactments under the guise of a General Railroad Law which will result in disturbing the railway investments of the state, or tend to promote the schemes of monopolists who have sought to control the railway property in other states under the guise of legislation professedly in the interests of the people, but practically for selfish purposes only.

These resolutions passed unanimously; the sentiment of the meeting was extremely strong against anything in the shape of a general railroad law.

On motion of Col. J. Horace Kent, a committee of three was appointed by the chair to draft such a clause to be incorporated in the charter of the Lake Shore railroad as shall protect the interests of this city from unjust discrimination. The chair named Col. Hackett, Judge Page and Wm. Russell Foster, Esq.; Judge Page declined, and A. F. Howard, Esq., was appointed in his stead.

Adjourned.

MURRAY'S CIRCUS.

The circus-going people of our city and vicinity are to be treated to a splendid show on Saturday afternoon and evening, June 25th, at Yeaton's field on Richards avenue and South street. The show is the New Murray's Circus, and is under management of John H. Murray, an old and well-known circus man, who frequently appeared here years ago, always giving first-class entertainments, but who has not visited this city for several years past. What the show is to consist of will be found in our advertising column. It may be said that this is a new departure for Murray, he having for a number of years confined himself to the circus, but this season he takes out, in connection with his circus, a grand menagerie of twenty-two cages filled with the choicest and rarest animals known to natural history. The "Wonkifimad" or what is it, the only one ever seen by man, is now greatly puzzling the leading naturalists of the country in trying to establish its pedigree. The "Maston Boque Torque" from the South Sea islands is another strange feature with this show. The museum is replete with curiosities from all parts of the world, and his aquarium is filled with many beautiful specimens of the finny tribe, from the New York aquarium. They will come in their own special train of twenty-six cars, each car being forty feet long, and nearly twice as large as the ordinary cars. In addition to the circus performance, which embraces the foremost riders of the world, Mr. Murray will introduce several new and original tricks with his stud of twelve Liliputian ponies, which seesaw, walk on stilts, drill together, etc. The street pageant will form a part of this big show; the famous coach of the thrice Lord-Mayor of London, "Dick Wittington," will be seen in this grand parade.

On the 16th inst. a committee of the Biddeford strikers waited upon the agent of the Pepperell and Laconia companies, and were informed that the companies would pay the weavers what will amount to about ten per cent advance; that the carders and spinners would not be advanced; and that if back boys were receiving more elsewhere, their pay should be raised in Biddeford. At a subsequent meeting of the strikers, the weavers expressed themselves as satisfied with the advance in their cases, but would not return to work until the advance was extended to the pay of all the striking operatives.

—In a railroad collision the other day, a young lady's old-style bonnet was crushed and dented in seventeen different places. She took it home, put a flower and two yards of ribbon on it, and now has a bonnet of the latest style worth eleven dollars and a half.—Norristown Herald.

Naval Affairs.

The steamer Standish, with the first class of cadet engineers, and the steamer Mayflower, with the second class, sailed from Annapolis on the 14th inst. The sailing ship Constellation, with the first and third classes of cadet midshipmen, sailed on the 16th; the Dale, with the second and fourth classes of cadet midshipmen, was rapidly getting ready for sea.

The gunboat Alliance, which sailed from Norfolk on the 16th inst. for the northern seas, is to cruise between Norway and Spitzbergen for four months, if she can get there, and stop there so long. In search of the Jeannette. The vessel has been placed in perfect condition. Her hull has been greatly strengthened with white oak, and armored fore and aft with iron to resist ice. The space usually occupied by her battery and munitions of war has been filled with an extra supply of coal and provisions. Among the stores is a set of thermometers furnished by the navigation division of the navy department, which will register seventy-five degrees below zero. It has been difficult to get a suitable crew; twenty-five men deserted within the last few days preceding her departure. The following is the list of officers who will accompany the ship on this perilous voyage: Commander, George H. Wadleigh; executive officer, C. H. West; navigator, C. P. Perkins; lieutenants, W. E. B. Delahay, J. P. J. Augur; master, M. K. Schwenk; midshipmen, F. B. Case, P. I. Werlick, E. Wilkinson, T. Worthington and C. H. Hill; chief engineer, G. J. Burnap; passed assistant engineer, J. George J. George of Newburyport, a blacksmith, sixty-four years old, was drowned early Thursday morning in a dock at that place, having probably fallen from a wharf during an attack of heart disease.

Prejudice Kills.

"Eleven years our daughter suffered on a bed of misery under the care of several of the best (and some of the worst) physicians, who gave her disease various names but no relief, and now she is restored to us in good health by as simple a remedy as Hop Bitters, that we had poohed at for two years, before using it. We earnestly hope and pray that no one else will let their sick suffer as we did, on account of prejudice against so good a medicine as Hop Bitters."—The parents.—Telegram.

Daily Chronicle.

A Village on a Palace Roof.

A queer story is told of the Winter palace of the Czar, which may be given as illustrating the great extent of the palace, and the possibilities of mischief it affords. In the time of Nicholas, the grandfather of the present Czar, a number of sentries were posted on the roof to guard against fire or foes. Finding the climate up there not altogether so comfortable as could be wished, this permanent watch at length contrived to convey to the roof the materials for a number of huts or cabins, which in course of time they erected under the shelter of the chimney stacks. So snug and cosy did they manage to make themselves that it at length occurred to the married men among them that, as there was plenty of room up there, they might as well enlarge their establishment. Accordingly wives and families, one after another, found their way out on the imperial leads. Several of the single members of the guard, finding such a tempting opportunity of setting up housekeeping economically, took wives to themselves, and after a while quite a considerable colony had sprung up.

How far the development might have gone on if the individuals composing this little village had been reasonably cautious and careful in their behavior it is difficult to guess; but the establishment of families among the chimneys of the palace led gradually to the accumulation of domestic animals. Fowls multiplied amazingly, and goats became numerous and flourished so well in the bracing atmosphere that at length it was suggested that a cow might conveniently be admitted to the farm stock. How the animal was elevated we are not informed, but it is stated as a fact that it was by some means hoisted to the roof, and was eventually the ruin of the community. The lowing of the cow came to certain official ears, and led to an investigation and the total breaking up of the queer little society.

Even at that time it is said that the Russian emperor felt so little confidence in his personal security that nobody ever knew in which bedroom he was going to sleep. A large number were always kept ready and unoccupied, and at bedtime the Czar would quietly slip into any one of them selected at the moment.

The Winter palace is described as the largest palace in the world, being one-third larger than that of the emperor of Austria, and unsurpassed in point of splendor. It is the residence of the Czar and his court during the winter, and stands on the left bank of the Neva, on the site of a house which, in the reign of Peter the Great, belonged to his high admiral, Count Apraxin, who bequeathed it to Emperor Peter II. It was so completely destroyed by fire in 1837 that it was necessary to rebuild it, and one of the not least remarkable facts connected with it is that its present form was the work of two short years.

A Countryman Astonished.

"Professor" E. C. Bassett of this city can tell many interesting incidents connected with his experience as a psychologist and a balloonist, but he was never taken for "old cloven-hoof" but once. This was on Talcott mountain, where he was making a cup of "French" coffee by the road. This was done by pouring a little brandy into a cup of cold coffee, and then setting fire to it. While he was so employed, a farmer came jogging by in his wagon, and hailed up to see what Bassett was up to. The latter invited the old man to take some coffee. The brandy was still blazing, but the more brilliant blaze of the noonday sun completely obscured the flame. The countryman alighted and asked for a match with which to light his pipe.

"I don't use matches," was Bassett's answer. "See!"

And Bassett held a piece of paper over the cup of coffee and it ignited instantly. He turned to hand the light to the stranger, and saw him clambering into his wagon.

"Get up!" shouted the man to his horse. "I never have dined with the Devil, and I don't propose to begin now." And he drove furiously away.—Hartford Times.

Brace Up.

There is serious meaning in this expression. That wearied step, languid eye and feeling of general lassitude, come from "spring sickness." Be assured, a serious, and perhaps, fatal disease is close in its wake. The system wants cleansing of winter impurities; the sluggish blood needs to be sent in swift and clear currents through the veins. "Favorite Remedy" will do this; it will give new vigor to the body, brightness to the eye, a glow to the countenance and elasticity to the step. One dollar a bottle. Every druggist has it. Dr. David Kennedy, proprietor, Rondout, N. Y.

—A young man who attended a Scotch revival-meeting for the fun of the thing, ironically inquired of the minister "whether he could work a miracle or not?" The young man's curiosity was fully satisfied by the minister kicking him out of the church, with the malediction: "We cannot work miracles, but we can cast out devils!"

At the battle of Gettysburg I was shot through the left leg and was sent to the hospital. The army surgeons relieved me but pronounced my case incurable. It discharged pieces of bone, and for years I have suffered with a running sore. I tried everything which my limited means would allow, and experienced no relief until I tried Sulphur Bitters. I am now almost well, and shall continue their use.—Old Soldier.

[Entered at the Post-Office at Portsmouth, N.H., as second-class matter.]

A General Railroad Law.

The question, somewhat suddenly, is brought before the legislature and the people of the state, as to the enactment of a general railroad law.

On the part of its advocates, it is claimed that such a law is beneficial because it will permit railways to be constructed whenever and wherever any corporation or set of men may desire to build them, that it leaves the state an open field for any such purpose, that it is beneficial to the public, and only opposed in its workings by existing railway corporations.

The fact that other states have enacted such a law is cited, and we of the Granite State are asked to follow their example. We have never believed in this latter argument. There was once a fox who lost his tail in a trap, and on meeting his foxy acquaintances he told them then the proper thing to do was to remove their tails! but the others failed to see the joke of the late wag.

The question for us in New Hampshire to determine for ourselves is what effect such a law will have upon our state. We have a population of 347,311, with over 1000 miles of steam railroads in operation, which is above the proportion of any New England state to the inhabitants or wealth of the respective states.

In every part of the state, not accessible by means of railway communication, the people have an opportunity to build roads where the face of the country permits or the prospective local business demands a line. It is only when a rival corporation seeks to interfere with the established business of another line, after it may have been built up by years of effort, that the consent of the general court is likely to be with-held.

There is a general law in Maine,—what are its results? Take the case of the Boston & Maine railroad. Some years since, its capital was invested in a profitable line, it had a surplus and no debt, and paid ten per cent annual dividends. But the combined follies of that road and its rival the Eastern, resulted in the building at an enormous outlay of the Boston & Maine "Extension" in Maine. The Boston & Maine then found a good source of income from the summer travel at Old Orchard beach, and would not take passengers from the Eastern railway reaching No. Berwick, where the tracks are so near that the same passenger station is used, but wanted all the Old Orchard business. The result is that under the general railroad law in Maine, the Eastern without asking any legislative enactment, will in about a fortnight have a spur track from their main line to Old Orchard beach, with every facility for doing a share of the business at this point, or under their business peace treaty arrangement, with their sly rival, ask for a pool of the earnings. It is said that in retaliation for this move the long suffering Boston & Maine will, under the general law in Massachusetts, seek to build a branch to Lynn, (the Eastern having been once compelled to pay a round price to buy a former branch which diverted its business from this, its best point,) to their line.

Now the state or the people of the state pay in the end for all these new "facilities." That is, if one road can carry the passengers and freight, and a second line is established, of course the carriage of freight and passengers pays for the cost of maintaining the extra accommodation.

For example, the Boston & Lowell railroad has been a rival to the Boston & Maine railroad. The Boston & Maine sought to poach upon the Boston & Lowell's territory, and built a line to Lowell; the Boston & Lowell retaliating, built a rival line to Lawrence. The old main line could have done all the business. Who pays the extra cost for the manner in which it is done now?

The railways of New Hampshire pay a reasonable income, in some instances, but should a general law be in vogue, this property would in the opinion of many of our soundest financiers be likely to become greatly deteriorated in value. The legislature must protect property invested under charters given under the supposition that rival lines would not be permitted to be built in such a mode as would diminish the value of roads constructed through regions where one properly managed line could successfully accommodate all the business, which the country near its own could produce.

The value of the railway property in a thickly settled region like parts of Massachusetts might not be diminished by increased number of railways, but in a state where the population of towns diminishes and where the increase is only in the cities, it is different. It is this that leads the reflecting person to consider what is the state to gain by giving permission to any set of men, resident or foreign, to injure our established property, when the policy of our railway managers has been to build new roads just as rapidly as the business warranted, as has been the case of the railways in the White Mountain region, for example. The state to-day has as many miles of rail as its people can afford, and new routes, which a general railroad laws would permit to be built, would be, not like the ill-remunerated and struggling lines which have done so much to bring summer travel into the state, but rather such opposition lines which might in the hands of unscrupulous men be a source of vexatious competition without adding one jot to the common weal.

News and Notes.

J. A. Bentley, commissioner of pensions, resigned on the 17th inst. His resignation is said to have been due in a large measure to the opposition to him among the soldier element of the country. Whether that opposition is just or not, and whether it was created by claim agents or not without cause, it does exist. The President has a vast amount of correspondence tending to show that there was a strong desire that a soldier should be placed at the head of the pension office.

"Bunker Hill day" was celebrated in the Charlestown district of Boston with considerable ceremony, on Friday last. The natives of Charlestown resident in New York city hung out flags and had a dinner; and in San Francisco salutes were fired from the forts and by militia batteries, and considerable bunting was displayed.

The latest Boston sensation, since the collapse of the "Ladies' Deposit," is the "Globe 'Spark Arrestor' Company," which is alleged to have gulled the business men about as extensively as the first named concern gulled the women.

Schooner Volunteer, on the passage from Boston to Gloucester, on Friday, came across a school of mackerel off Baker's island, and, stretching her seine, secured one hundred and fifty barrels. schooner Pathfinder landed three mackerel fares week before last. The new canning factory in Gloucester put up four hundred barrels of mackerel in forty-one hours last week.

At Newburyport, Mass., Patrick Fitzgerald has been bound over for trial in $1000 upon a charge of cruelty to his mother-in-law, Mrs. Harrigan. She was badly bruised by a poker.

Rudolph Oetter, cigar manufacturer in Conner's block, Hyde Park, Mass., upset an oil stove in his shop on Friday and set it on fire. The damage to his stock amounted to $700; insured $1,000.

A colored man named Henry Brown entered the house of Mrs. James Faulk at No. 23 Brewery street, Cambridge, Mass., last Thursday afternoon, and made an assault upon her while she was ill and in bed. After having been struck and choked Mrs. Faulk seized a goblet and struck her assailant a blow on the forehead, inflicting a severe wound. Brown was soon after arrested and taken to the police station, but the wound upon his head was of so serious a nature as to require his removal to his home.

William H. Canby, formerly of Salisbury, Mass., was hung at Colorado Springs, Col., on the 17th inst., for the murder of a man in Buena Vista, Col., last April. The murderer's real name is said to have been Wm. H. Salisbury; he is the fellow who was reported to be a nephew of Gen. B. F. Butler, a report which has been positively denied by the family.

Eliza Emerson, eighty-nine years old, drowned herself in a well at Auburn, Mass., last Friday. It would seem that after having lived so long she might have hung out a few days longer.

In the United States court at Fort Smith, Ark., on the 16th inst., five men were condemned to be hung on the 9th of September, for murders committed in the Indian territory

An Algiers despatch says insurgents have made a raid upon the Esparto factories near Saida, and robbed the employes, who are nearly all Spaniards, after which they set fire to their dwellings and other property. Many men, women and children are missing. It is stated that sixty wagoners were killed.

L. L. Huntington of Augusta, Me., had a copper piece dated 1788, which he said he would not part with for a good bit of gold, and Mrs. Smith of Corinth, Me., had a Massachusetts half cent, date 1787, which she considered worth a fortune. Both parties were considerably disgusted when informed by Ferguson Haines of Biddeford, the well known coin collector, that he would sell them coins like theirs at the rate of four for a dollar in the first case, and ten for a dollar in the second.

Trickett, the Australian oarsman, was saved from drowning in Saratoga, N. Y., last Thursday, by a party of rescuers from shore. He was practising a mile from shore when his shell broke into three pieces. The water was very rough, and a strong wind was blowing. He had gone down twice before he was saved.

At Munhall farm, near Pittsburg, Pa., the government has for a long time been experimenting on boilers, the expense it is said having amounted to at least $100,000. On Thursday of last week the boiler on which so much money has been spent was blown into a thousand pieces by Mr. D. C. Lawson.

One day last week a boat owned by Mr. Nathaniel G. Cobb, stone cutter, was stolen from her moorings by some boys, who broke her boom off by getting foul of the main boom of a schooner lying at the Eastern railroad wharf, and finally stove her. Two of the boys are known, and will be taken good care of when found; but up to Saturday night they had managed to keep out of sight of the police.

Mr. Daniel Mason, proprietor of the sawing and planing mill on Green street, purchased the pine logs which were cut in Great swamp last winter, and sawed them into 23,000 feet of lumber, the whole lot of which was worked up into box boards to be used here, mainly by the Portsmouth Shoe Factory Co. Between three and four thousand feet of oak logs cut at the same place are still held by the cutters.

There was one feat of ground and lofty tumbling at Barnum's circus in Dover on Saturday, which had not been announced on the bills. It was by an attendant from Portsmouth, and the performance had a marked effect in its results.

It is hardly necessary to remind our readers that the palatial steamers of the Fall River line are in their usual summer condition of attractiveness. The line is doing a large business at this season. The musical treat upon each trip is one of the many attractions of the route. Tickets are to be had at the Eastern railroad station in this city, and state rooms can be secured by telegraphing to the agent at No. 3 Old State House, Boston. The mammoth iron steamer building for the line will be in readiness for trips by another season.

In Gen. Marston's proposed excise law the first section of the bill levies an excise tax on all intoxicating liquors manufactured or sold in this state, except cider. The rate is one cent a gallon on wine, ale and lager beer, and five cents a gallon on all other intoxicating liquors. Wines, ale and lager beer sold in quantity less than ten gallons, ten cents a gallon; other liquors twenty cents a gallon. The excise is payable January 1st and July 1st. The tax is to be assessed by the State Board of Equalization, and is payable to the town treasurers. POLICE COURT.

SATURDAY, June 18; Batchelder, J.

Christopher Andrews, for drunkenness, was fined $3, costs $6.90. He was sent to the county farm in default of payment.

Naval Affairs.

The Rodgers (formerly the steam-whaler Helen & Mary) sailed from San Francisco for the Arctic ocean by way of Behring's strait on the afternoon of the 16th inst. There are now four vessels afloat in search of J. G. Bennett's exploring steamer Jeannette.

Captain William P. McCann has been detached from the command of the receiving-ship Independence, and ordered to command the Pensacola; Lieut.-Commander Oscar F. Hyerman from the New Hampshire, and ordered to the receiving-ship Colorado; Lieut. John C. Irvine, Master Albert Metz, Ensign William E. Whitfield, Mate L. B. Gallagher, Surgeon Benjamin F. Kidder, Passed Assistant-Surgeon John S. Bagg, and Boatswain Edwin J. Allen from the New Hampshire and ordered to the Wyoming; Lieut.-Commander James M. Forsyth from the receiving-ship Colorado and placed on waiting orders; Master F. B. Howard from the Kearsarge and ordered to the practice-ship Dale; Passed Assistant-Paymaster Henry C. Machott from the New Hampshire and ordered to settle his accounts.

The United States steamship Adams is reported as having arrived at Panama June 4th. It was expected that she would sail for Acapulco on the 11th inst.

Capt. Philip C. Johnson is ordered to command the school ship New Hampshire.

The Wyoming was put into commission at Norfolk, Va., on the 15th inst.; she is to proceed to Port Royal, S. C., to take the place of the New Hampshire as a receiving ship, the latter having been transferred to Newport, R. I.

Rear Adm. Bryson, commanding the South Atlantic squadron, reports to the navy department from Montevideo under date of May 14th that the general state of health on the Shanandoah and Marion continues good.

The "Caligraph."

Whatever saves time and labor, lengthens life. Accordingly the "Caligraph"—the latest improvement on the "Typewriter"—is the greatest life-lengthener of this half-century. With it one may transact his correspondence in one-quarter the time, and with one-tenth the exhausting labor required with the pen. It does away entirely with the nerve-racking "pen-paralysis," and the temper-ruining struggle with bad paper, scratchy pens, and clogging ink. With it a man can write a letter as easy as he can thrum on the desk-top with his ten fingers.

And it is always ready for work. It sits on the desk, occupying less room than a Webster Unabridged Dictionary. It can be put into operation as easy as picking up a pen, and from one year's end to another requires no more attention than changing the inking ribbon for a fresh one, from once to four times a year.

It is a special boon for the bad penman—a class numbered by millions—for it does away with his unreadable scrawls at once, as with it he cannot do otherwise than write neatly and legibly the moment he begins.

No one who has tried a caligraph has failed to like it, and vowed he would not do without one for any reasonable sum of money. All have declared that their facilities for doing business, their comfort, and their tempers, have all been vastly improved by the possession of this willing little servant.

The price has been reduced to about that of a good sewing-machine, thus bringing the machines within the reach of the most slender purse. No one whose business requires writing letters or papers, can afford to do without it. In any moderate business it will pay for itself in a few months.

For a catalogue containing full particulars, with descriptions, prices of machines, etc., write to the New England branch of the American Writing Machine Co., No. 36 Bromfield street, Boston, Mass.

The Salmon Falls Manufacturing Co., pays a dividend of four per cent July 1st.

A Scotch girl eighteen years old was recently turned out of her boarding house in Great Falls for unbecoming conduct, and was supposed to have gone to Biddeford, Me., but on the 16th inst. the other Scotch people of the town learned that she had not left the place, but had been enticed into a house of ill fame on Spring street. So a party of robust Scotch women, numbering forty or more, made a descent on the house, and demanded the girl; the keeper of the den denied that she was there, and the women were preparing to "clean out the coop" when the proprietor yielded and produced the girl, who was immediately sent out of town by her countrywomen, and warned not to return. It is supposed that several arrests will result from the affair.

The Free-Ship Controversy.

The free-ship men and newspapers are at it again, revamping the arguments of Professor Sumner, who published an article on the subject in the June number of the North American Review. The objective point is, of course, the navigation law which forbids American registry to foreign-built ships. The case of the Dutchman who wanted his money from the bank very much if he couldn't get it, but if he could, didn't want it all, well illustrates the position of the free-ship advocates.

They cannot get "free-ships," and therefore nothing else will satisfy them. It matters not with them that the cost of building in America is only fifteen or twenty per cent more than elsewhere; it matters not that prominent free-ship men themselves have said that free ships alone would be no benefit because of the greater cost of running them. These writers spend little time in discussing onerous tax laws, vicious consular emoluments and kindred burdens, which if removed, would put under a running more nearly on an equality with the cost of running foreign vessels; but they launch their invectives against a particular law, the repeal of which, as has been shown over and over again by the experience of other nations, and by the logical conclusions from premises furnished by our own experience, would bring no practical relief.

Not many shipbuilders, iron or wooden, own ships. They are not built because they cannot be run in competition with foreign ships; they cannot be run because of obstacles which "free ships" could not by any possibility remedy.

Why not stop this bickering over apparently irreconcilable differences, and free-ship and anti-free-ship men join hands and endeavor to remove the obstacles, local and national, which are recognized as such by all? A beginning has been made by Massachusetts, New York and Rhode Island in relieving certain shipping property from local taxation. Louisiana will follow suit when her legislature next meets. Congress cannot long withstand a united appeal for the repeal or revision of tonnage, admeasurement, consular and other laws. If all these fail, then an appeal for free ships will have vastly more force than it ever can have in this country under existing circumstances. The present method of conducting the controversy is not likely to be of service to either party engaged in it.—Boston Commercial Bulletin.

Don't Trust Them.

When you feel badly, and have pains here and there through your body that you don't know how to account for, it is the most foolish policy in the world to take the advice of people who say: "Oh! there's nothing the matter with you. Let yourself alone and you will come out all right." These folks know nothing about it, and may be trifling with your life. You may have kidney or liver trouble. Send right out to your druggist and get a bottle of Dr. David Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy" and then you will be all right, or write to the doctor at Rondout, N. Y.

—A milkman in Wisconsin city sold unwholesome milk, and he was arrested. Upon investigation it was found that his cows were healthy and his stables in good condition, but that the well needed cleaning.

Arrested!

Charles A. Dailey was arrested last evening for stealing from the drug store of Shieman, a bottle of Sulphur Bitters. Before the court this morning, upon being asked why he should steal it, he stated that his mother was troubled with rheumatism, and that it was the only medicine that helped her, and being out of money and work was the cause of his stealing. As this was his first offence he was put on probation.—Newark News.

—A quaint old army officer, in describing a new kind of gun which he had invented, said: "Many kinds of orgeance recurls backward. But my orgeance recurls, if anything, leetle forrid."

Rescued from Death.

William J. Coughlin, of Somerville, Mass., says: "In the fall of 1876 I was taken with a violent bleeding of the lungs followed by a severe cough. I soon began to lose my appetite and flesh. I was so weak at one time that I could not leave my bed. In the summer of 1877 I was admitted to the city hospital. While there the doctors said I had a hole in my left lung as big as a half a dollar. I was so far gone at one time a report went around that I was dead. I gave up hope, but a friend told me of Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs. I laughed at my friends, thinking that my case was incurable, but I got a bottle to satisfy them, when to my surprise and gratification, I commenced to feel better. My hope, once dead, began to revive, and to-day I feel in better spirits than I have the past three years.

I write this hoping you will publish it, so that every one afflicted with diseased lungs, will be induced to take Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs, and be convinced that consumption can be cured. I have taken two bottles and can positively say that it has done more good than all the other medicines I have taken since my sickness." Sold by all druggists.

—Little Jack has been a naughty boy, and his mamma says: "I shall give a sugar-plum to your brother, and none to you, in order to punish you." "Mamma," said the elder brother, eagerly, "hadn't you better give me the sugar-plum right away, so as to produce more effect upon him?"

Eminent physicians indorse Adamson's Botanic Balsam as the safest and most effectual remedy for coughs and colds ever discovered. Sold by druggists and dealers at 35 and 75 cts.

—"There's one thing I like about the new version," said old Blunderbuss. "That ere text about 'the boy being father to the man' is left out altogether. I always thought that was wrong end to." And he didn't know why the smile went round.

Important.

When you visit or leave New York city, save Baggage Expressage and Carriage Hire, and stop at Grand Union Hotel, opposite Grand Central Depot; 450 rooms, fitted up at a cost of one million dollars, reduced to $1 and upwards per day. European plan. Elevator. Restaurant supplied with the best. Horse cars, stages and elevated railroad to all depots. Families can live better for less money at the Grand Union Hotel than at any other first-class hotel in the city.

The property owned and controlled by this company comprises 160 acres of rich mineral lands, from which large amounts of free gold have been taken in the old style of washing with rockers, besides four lode claims which have been considerably developed during the past year, and show good indications of rich silver veins.

The location of this property is unsurpassed, being near the celebrated "Robinson Consolidated," "White Quail," "Aftermath" and "Wheel of Fortune" mines, in the Ten-Mile Consolidated Mining District, and as prospect property is as valuable as any in Colorado.

Development work is to be actively and vigorously pushed, under the experienced management of Thos. Gowanlock, one of the most intelligent and experienced mining superintendents in Colorado.

Remember, full-paid $10 shares at 50 cents, which are likely to be worth from $3 to $5 per share within six months.

FELLOWS'

THE REFORMER AND VITALIZER OF THE BLOOD.

By increasing Nervous and Muscular Vigor, it will cure Dyspepsia, feeble or interrupted action of the Heart and Palpitation, Weakness of Intellect caused by grief, worry, overtaxed or irregular habits, Bronchitis, Congestion of the Lungs.

It cures Asthma, Neuralgia, Whooping Cough, Nervousness, and is a most wonderful adjunct to other remedies in sustaining life during the process of Diptheria.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitute for this under any circumstances.

Mrs. S. A. McIlwain, of Ferguson ville, Delaware county, N. Y., writes: "Only a few days before I commenced using the "Favorite Remedy," in one of my spasms and sinking spells, my friends thought I was dead, and gave up the attempt to restore me to consciousness. I am confident that if I had not taken your medicine, "Favorite Remedy," during my periods of critical illness I should never have recovered. * * * That the Lord may bless you and increase your means of doing good is my daily prayer, and may many yet unborn praise the "Favorite Remedy" and its discoverer."

THE RUBY RIVER.

To keep the blood pure, is the principal end of inventions and discoveries in medicine. To this object probably no one has contributed more signally than Dr. David Kennedy, of Rondout, New York, in the production of a medicine which has become famous under the title of the "Favorite Remedy." It removes all impurities of the Blood, regulates the disordered Liver and Kidneys, cures Constipation, Dyspepsia, and diseases and weaknesses peculiar to females.

☞ When inquiring of your druggist for this new medicine, avoid mistakes by remembering the name, Dr. David Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy," and the price, which is only one dollar a bottle, and that the doctor's address is Rondout, New York.—Ed.

The Man Who Knows Everything.

Once in a while the man who knows everything comes to public grief. Such was the case with a loud-mouthed individual who some years ago was travelling through New Hampshire in a stage-coach, and was entertaining the passengers with his views as to the inspiration of the Scriptures. He had doubts as to the creation, did not believe in the miraculous passage of the Red sea by the Israelites, and was certain that the sun did not stand still while Joshua fought. On the last point he was particularly eloquent, and delivered a thrilling lecture on astronomy in general and the revolution of the sun in particular, winding up by saying:

"Darned if I believe that old Joshua hesitated about telling a whopper when he made his folks believe that he had a private dicker with the sun."

There was a quiet old gentleman in the corner of the stage who had listened to the rauter with his eyes closed in apparent slumber. But he was not asleep. The gentleman was Dr. Carlton Chase, Episcopal bishop of New Hampshire, and he had been quietly taking the measure of his man. At this point he roused himself, and said:

"Did you ever read the further explanation of this miracle, given in the twenty-third chapter of the Book of Zerubbabel?"

"Yes, I have," snapped the learned lecturer, "and it doesn't throw any light on it either."

A roar of laughter from the passengers showed that he had put his foot in it, although he did not know that there was no such book as Zerubbabel, and at the next station the coach was relieved from the presence of the man who knew everything.

An Old Story.

When Davy Crockett was in Washington he was one day sitting in a hotel toasting his shins, when a senator from Massachusetts entered. Approaching the old frontiersman the latter said:

"Crockett, a large procession of your constituents are marching up the street; you ought to go out and meet them."

Crockett hurriedly arose and went out upon the hotel steps, when a large drove of mules caught his eye. He quietly watched them until the last one had passed, and then returned to his seat by the stove. The Massachusetts senator was still there, and as the redoubtable Davy dropped into his chair asked:

"Well, did you see your friends?"

"Oh, yes," was the response. "They are looking remarkable well, too."

"Did you ascertain their destination?"

"Certainly, sir."

"And where they are going in such a solid body?"

Crockett turned to the senator with a quiet, calm expression, and replied:

"The blamed fools are all going down to Massachusetts to teach school."

And then they gazed a moment into each other's faces, and sadly walked up to exercise the barkeeper awhile.

"Scribner's" Poetry.

The poetry that is accepted for Scribner's Monthly is kept in a long drawer in a safe. Each poem is placed in an envelope, with date of receipt, and address of the writer. The envelopes are then placed in the long drawer, which is perhaps three feet long, and arranged according to subjects. First, come the poems that admit of illustration. These take up about two inches. Then there is an inch of "Winter;" then four inches of "Love;" then some miscellaneous subjects, taking up half an inch to two inches of space; and finally,—packed close,—there is about a foot and a half of "Spring!"

The "Charlies."

London half a century ago, then, was guarded by the poor old "Charlies," who were often sat upon, beaten, and even painted pea-green and lowered into areas by the "viveurs" of the period; by the horse patrol; by the beadles, headboroughs, and street-keepers, and by the "Robin Redbreasts." The latter clever officers were rarely employed on small matters; they were the Vidocqs of their day, and what they did not, like Vidocq, "put up jobs" in order to entrap the professional burglar. Their red waistcoats, which obtained their name, were carefully concealed under a variety of disguises, and altogether they did their work remarkably well. It must be remembered that Bow street runners had neither railroads nor telegraphs to aid them. They went armed with their little crown-topped staff and brace of pistols into the most dangerous company in London, and had many long night-drives in gigs, behind fast-trotting horses. Their business was always of a serious kind; in fact, the notion of employing police either to interrupt a prize-fight, to regulate street traffic, to see nervous ladies over crossings, or to catch stray dogs and lead them to a station-house by a string, would have appeared in a very comical light to our grandfathers. What fun George Cruikshank would have made of Policeman X at one end of a bit of twine and a forlorn puppy at the other! How would Townsend have looked on the chief who ordered him to go down to Six-Mile Bottom to stop a prize-fight? Probably his face would have turned as red as his waistcoat with indignation. In his time, too, there was no trouble with arresting pickpockets; they were simply kicked and cuffed, half-drowned under the nearest pump, and sent about their business like Welshers on a race-course. Townsend and the other men in red waistcoats never vexed their souls with such small deer. The red waistcoats, which had become an almost hereditary distinction, covered hearts swelling with the pride of caste as well as of profession. The ruddy ensign of authority descended from father to son. The Bow street runner, like a less useful kind of person, was born, not made; his baby limbs reposed on the Tyrian vesture; his plaything was the tiny baton with the crown at the top. As he grew apace his ear was attuned to tales of daring and skill; of dashing arrests made in the face of peril; of faint, almost imperceptible, clues, keenly caught at and patiently followed home.—All the Year Round.

Haunted Me.

A workingman says: "Debt, poverty and suffering haunted me for years, caused by a sick family and large bills for doctoring, which did no good. I was completely discouraged, until one year ago, by the advice of my pastor, I procured Hop Bitters and commenced their use, and in one month we were all well, and none of us have been sick a day since; and I want to say to all poor men, you can keep your family well a year with Hop Bitters for less than one doctor's visit will cost."—Christian Advocate.

Another Comet.

By intelligence received from the Warner observatory at Rochester, N. Y., it appears that still another comet has just been discovered by Dr. Gould, director of the Cordova observatory, Argentine Republic, South America. This comet is supposed to be the great comet of 1807, and is located in the constellation of the Dove, right ascension six hours, and declination south thirty degrees. It is not visible from this latitude, and it is not known yet that it will be, although it is likely to be, as the comet of 1807 was distinctly seen. "The planets in perehelion" failed to destroy the earth on the 19th inst., according to promise; now we shall have a chance to see what a big comet can do, in the line of scaring silly people.

The New York Senatorial Fight.

Voting on the 20th: For the short term, Jacobs 24, Wheeler 24, Conkling 23, Lapham 19, all others six. For the long term, Depew 37, Kernan 25, Platt 21, Cornell six, all others four.

News and Notes.

The barque New Brunswick, at New York from Plymouth, Eng., reports that on the 31st of May, when on the western edge of the Newfoundland banks, she passed a vessel of about five hundred tons, dismasted, waterlogged and abandoned, apparently lumber-laden, and but a short time in that condition. The wreck was in a very dangerous position for fishermen.

At Chismville, Ark., Friday night, after a Mr. Noble and his son had retired for the night some unknown assassin fired a shot into the bed-room, killing the younger man.

New Zealand despatches confirm the reported loss of the steamship Tararua on a reef off that coast, with all hands, over one hundred in number, including four ministers, delegates from New Zealand to the Wesleyan Methodist conference at Adelaide, Australia.

From Thursday last to Sunday, at New Orleans, there were seven fatal cases of sunstroke.

Newburyport had a little earthquake early Sunday morning, lasting several seconds.

Capt. Sparks, master of the whaling schooner Edward Lee, who with a boat's crew was recently reported to have been lost, the supposition being that they were taken down by a whale to which they had fastened, has telegraphed to Provincetown, Mass., from Pensacola, Fla., announcing the safe arrival there of himself and his men.

Diphtheria, which was extremely prevalent and fatal in Bellows Falls, Mass., some weeks ago, but was supposed to have been gotten under control, has broken out again in a worse form than before.

Patrick Steiner of North Adams, Mass., was on Friday last sent to the house of correction for six months, for inhuman cruelty to Mary Glenn, his adopted daughter.

Mrs. Catherine Healey, a saloon keeper at Hartford, Conn., who struck a drunken man named James F. Farrel a blow on the head with a bottle for refusing to leave her place on the 16th of March, was last week found guilty of manslaughter, and sentenced to jail for two years.

A young woman at Northfield, Conn., twenty years ago married a man named Pettie, who soon became dissipated, and abandoned her and her baby; but two years ago some money was left Mrs. Pettie, and her miserable husband returned like a penitent and lived with her till the money was gone. Since then she has lived alone, and last week was found dead in her house, the windows and doors having been closed for several days. Foul play is suspected.

Alvah O. Simpson of Lowell, Mass., died last week as the result of drinking oil of vitriol nearly two years ago in mistake for cider. He has pined away and died at last from starvation, not being able to take solid nutriment, and at the last none of any kind. He was a farmer, living on the outskirts of Lowell.

An unprecedented increase in the use of red one-cent stamps and blue two-cent stamps is reported at the post-office department. The increase is attributed to the new "wrinkle" with ladies, who have adopted the scheme of using one of each of the above denominated stamps on letters, instead of a three-cent stamp. The red, white and blue on the envelope,—the envelope furnishing the white,—is emblematical of "Union." It is also emblematical of a good deal of profanity on the part of the post-office clerks.

Lieutenant-Commanders Charles W. Kennedy and Joseph E. Craig, Lieutenant George E. Eaton, and Passed Assistant Engineer Alfred B. Canoza, have been ordered to duty at the naval academy. Lieut. Commanders Charles J. Train and Willard Brownson, Lieut. J. W. Burnette and Passed Engineer George H. Kearney, have been detached from the naval academy and placed on waiting orders.

In the office of the secretary of state of Maine may be seen the certificate of qualification of Alex. Dennett of Kittery as justice of the peace, executed before Mark Dennett, as dedimus justice, written in a clear, round, handsome hand, exhibiting none of the tremulousness of old age. Accompanying the certificate is a note stating that Mr. Dennett is ninety-four years old, and wrote the document without glasses, a truly remarkable achievement for one of such great age.—Biddeford Times.

Some excitement has lately been caused in the circle of "lone widders" and timid women generally by the reports of the unexplained, and as yet, unexplainable occurrences in the house of Mrs. Solomon Brooks, a blind lady who has resided in York for many years. She was awakened in the night by a shower of small beach stones. They seemed to be flying all about the room. She heard them rolling down stairs, falling from stair to stair; she shook them the next day from her skirts and other clothing. At the supper table they flew about her head so as to compel her to leave it, and cover her face to protect herself from injury. The wife of a neighbor who went in to witness the phenomena saw four stones flying about the room. As the blind lady and her visitor were the only occupants of the room at the time, and Mrs. Brooks was thoroughly frightened thereat, the mystery remains unsolved. What is it? Spirits?—Biddeford Journal Cor.

THE BIDDEFORD STRIKE.

At Biddeford two meetings of the striking operatives were held on Saturday, at the first of which a committee was appointed to wait upon the agent of the mills to get his final answer, and to report at an adjourned meeting, which was called for six o'clock P. M. At the appointed hour the committee informed the strikers that the agent had authorized them to say that he would get statistics of wages from different corporations in New England, and if wages were higher in those mills on the average, he would increase the wages of the operatives in the Laconia and Pepperell mills to the same standard. The question was then put to vote as to whether or not the strikers would resume work on Monday morning on the terms offered by the agent, and it was unanimously voted to accept his terms.

It was supposed that this action had ended the strike, and that the mills would start up in full on Monday morning; but on Sunday afternoon another meeting of the operatives was held, at which it was decided that the back-boys and carders would not return to their work; and as the mule-spinners cannot work without back-boys, and announced that they would not attempt to work with green hands at the back-boys' stations, a settlement of the trouble seems to be as far off as ever. By the course they have taken, it would appear that the strikers are not willing to regulate their wages according to the pay given in other places.

The Oldest Inhabitant.

Mr. George Donnell, of this city, was ninety-nine years old on Thursday, having been born in York, Maine, June 16th 1780. He came to Newbury when he was a boy and learned the rope maker's trade, in which he was engaged for many years. He has a large number of descendants, all of whom are of the most respectable in this vicinity. His grandchildren are grandfathers and grandmothers; and what is more remarkable, on Marlborough street, where he resides, also live, two of his first cousins, the elder of whom is younger than some of Mr. Donnell's great-grandchildren. Mr. Donnell retains his faculties to a remarkable degree; his senses are less impaired than those of many men thirty years younger than he, and his mind is clearer than with many twenty years younger. He is a remarkable instance of a vigorous and healthy old age. Yesterday Rev. Mr. Wallace and the session of the Old South church called on him, and administered the sacrament. Mr. Donnell has been a communicant at this church since 1818, a period of sixty-three years.—Newburyport Herald, 17th inst.

An Evidence of Prosperity.

An inspection of the establishment of Messrs. Dauchy & Co., cannot fail to impress one with the vastness of the requirements necessary to meet the demands of business men of all classes who have learned the value of newspaper advertising. This firm, having outgrown the limits of the office they have occupied many years at the corner of Fulton and Church streets, have already removed to 27 Park Place, corner of Church street, where they occupy an entire floor, extending through the block to Nos. 24 and 26 Murray street, a space of about fifty by two hundred feet. Their offices are complete in every detail. About fifty feet of the Park Place front is partitioned off for the counting room and private office, which are handsomely and substantially fitted up. Beyond the counting room the walls on both sides are covered from floor to ceiling with pigeon-holes for files of newspapers, and on one side of the room are a number of alcoves, extending ten or twelve feet, covered on both sides with pigeon holes, furnishing places for about 3,000 files. The intermediate space is filled with desks and tables used by the examining and recording clerks. The Murray street front is given up to the shipping department, Messrs. Dauchy & Co. being also manufacturers and dealers in printers' supplies of every kind.—N. Y. Tribune.

AROUND HOME.

Hon. Joshua G. Hall, representative in Congress from this district, was in town on Monday.

The schooner Grace Choate, three days before her arrival at this port, carried away her rudder owing to the irons being worn our.

The schooner Sarah Bruen, from Amboy, arrived on Monday morning with two hundred and ninety-seven tons of coal for Charles E. Walker.

The schooner yacht Una took a trip from the lower harbor around the Shoals on Sunday, and made good time. She sailed for New York on Monday afternoon, taking as a passenger Mr. Thomas H. Rider.

The improvements in Exeter river are pregressing favorably. The services of a diver and a large derrick are in constant requisition. Blasts are made wherever necessary, and it is expected that in a few days the river will be entirely clear between here and South Newmarket.—News-Letter.

The schooner Helen F. Tredick, which went from this port to Gloucester last week to sell a fare of salted fish, returned from there on Sunday, having disposed of her fish at $2.75 per hundred pounds. She will immediately fit out for another trip to Cashe's, for salted fish.

A special train of eight passenger cars passed through this city early Sunday morning, conveying the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, with their invited guests, from Boston to lake Maranacook on the Maine Central railroad, on the annual excursion of the brotherhood.

The ticket agents of the southern railroads and connecting lines spent Saturday at the Wentworth house, Newcastle, having returned from the Shoals in the morning. The visitors with their ladies took the Pullman train east on Satruday night, intending to go as far as Bar Harbor, Mt. Desert, and return to Boston on Tussday.

Sheriff Kent was called upon on Monday by one of the legal fraternity of Newmarket with a numerously-signed petition asking for the appointment of Jonathan Dustin of Barrington as a deputy sheriff of Rockingham county. Col. Kent intimated that he was opposed upon principle to the appointment of deputies in other counties, who might make it a practice to come into this county to transact business, as a matter of injustice to his local deputies; but that he would give the petition the consideration which the respectable character of the document required.

On Friday afternoon Mr. Henry A. Hunnefield was returning from a fishing trip in his whaleboat, and turned into the cuddy to sleep, leaving the boat in charge of his boy, who also fell asleep; and the boat having everything her own way, ran ashore on Odiorne's point, where she lay until Saturday, when she was got off and taken upon the beach below the Wentworth house bridge, not much improved by her banging on the rocks all night. To verify the old saying that "Misfortunes never come singly," on Monday morning as Mr. Hunnefield was taking pig iron from his boat up to the shore on his shoulders, having in one hand some fish hooks, he slipped on the rocks, and in saving himself from falling ran a hook into his hand, and was obliged to come up to the city to have it cut out. Mr. Hunnefield is an industrious man, but seems rather unfortunate.

The brig Eliza, Renault master, arrived at the Concord railroad wharf on Saturday with coal for the pockets; and on Sunday the schooner Mary, Magee master, arrived at the same place from Rondout N. Y., with 1680 barrels of cement for J. Albert Walker.

One of the most prominent objects to be see from the lower harbor is the big windmill with which the water from the artesian well at the Wentworth is forced to whatever point it may be needed. The tower on which the windmill is mounted is so high that it can be seen over the tree-tops in any direction.

Members of the Massachusetts Press Association, with ladies, to the number of about eighty in all, went to Portland from Boston over the Eastern railroad on Monday. The excursionists will visit Bangor, Mt. Desert, Portsmouth, Hampton and Rye beaches, Newcastle and the Shoals, before returning to Boston next Sunday.

The hotels at the Shoals are in full blast, and the electric lights at the Wentworth in Newcastle show brightly every night; the Marshall house at York beach is opened, with increased accommodations; the young man from the city is already writing up the sea-side resorts, and soliciting "ads" for the Boston papers, payable in board; thunder showers have set in, and the summer season may be said to have fairly begun.

A frame building has been put up on one of the Fishing islands in the lower harbor by Mr. Charles Hall, who had a tent at the same place two summers ago; the tent was used as a dining room by boating parties, and a shelter when caught down river by showers; and tonic, ginger beer and other summer drinks were kept on sale and freely called for. It is said the building now on the island will be applied to the same purposes.

A composition shoe for the U. S. S. Lancaster, weighing about four tons, was successfully cast at the navy yard on Monday. On the same day steam was raised on board the ship, and her engines worked for the first time, under the supervision of Chief Engineer D. B. Macomb; the trial was entirely satisfactory, no first trial of a ship's engine at this yard having ever been more so, and Chief Engineer Macomb could be pardoned if he felt a little proud of the way things worked. Mr. Henry Knights of Kittery was forenoon machinist in setting up the engines.

EASTERN RAILROAD.

The summer time-table of this road will go into effect on Monday, the 27th inst. Under it the morning White Mountain express train will leave Boston at 8:30 o'clock, reaching this city at 10:30; will stop here ten minutes, leaving at 10:40, arriving at North Conway at 1:45 and at Fabyan's at 3:15 P. M. Trains will leave Fabyan's at 10:10 A. M. and 2:45 P. M., reaching Boston at 5:10 and 8:35 P. M. The through time between Boston and Fabyan's will be two hours less than by any other route. The evening express for Boston will leave Portsmouth at 6:40 o'clock.

The passenger department has issued a pocket pamphlet of thirty-three pages, giving descriptions of routes to the mountains, Isles of Shoals, the ocean, beaches, Mt. Desert, etc., with new and admirably designed maps giving bird's eye views of the route, lists of hotels, boarding houses, excursion rates, etc. This shows one of the most expeditious modes of conveyance to the mountain region of New Hampshire, the Rangely lakes, Mt. Desert and other places of interest on the New England coast east of Boston. The facilities offered by the Eastern railroad for reaching these points are far in advance of those afforded by other roads, and an immense passenger traffic for the season of '81 will of course be done by this famous line.

MILITARY VISIT.

The Roxbury Horse Guards, Capt. C. A. Young, will arrive in this city at 12:30 o'clock P. M., Wednesday, and will be received at the railroad station by the Portsmouth Cavalry, Capt. E. D. Coffin. The latter will be drawn up on Deer street, west of Railroad avenue, and the visitors will mount on the same street, east of the avenue, on horses provided by the Portsmouth company. The line of march will be as follows:

Through Bridge, Islington, Cabot and Middle streets to Cass, countermarch, through Middle, State and Pleasant streets, Market square, Market street, Deer, Vaughan, Congress, Daniel, Penhallow, State, Pleasant, Court and Middle streets to Richards avenue, thence by South street and Sagamore road to the Hotel Wentworth at Newcastle. The ladies of the party, and invited guests, in barges, will join the cavalcade at Richards avenue.

In the evening, from seven to eight o'clock, Higgins' band will give a concert at the Wentworth; following which will be a reception and ball complimentary to our citizens by the Horse Guard, dancing commencing at 8:30.

The Guard will return to this city on Thursday in time to dine at the Rockingham, where the band will give a concert at one o'clock. The visitors will take an afternoon train to Boston.

SEAMAN'S AID SOCIETY.

The annual meeting of the Seaman's Aid Society was held last week at the Seaman's Home on State street, and was opened with prayer by Rev. Mr. McGinley. The secretary's report says:

A review of the year, even if it does not come up to our largest hopes, shows at least a good record of business at Home; 16,263 meals have been served, and a large amount of cooked food sold, and carried away—showing, we think, the urgent need of a cheap restaurant, where wholsome food can be had at reasonable prices; there have been 846 lodgers at the Home. For the last six months Mr. Loyne reports visiting 128 vessels of different grades, and distributing over 1000 publications and copies of the Bible, as opportunity offered.

Our annual subscription amounted to $119.50, the number of annual members being 103. We are thankful for the steadfast interest of the friends of this time-honored society, and hope in the future to make it more and more a centre of Christian influence and practical helpfulness.

Arrivals of vessels	1178
Carrying seamen	7228
With a fonnage of	140,000

Showing that this branch of business in our city is not wholly at a stand-still; on the contrary that the increase of our coal trade and fisheries are symptoms of more prosperous times. So let us make this institution a true friend to the man who casts anchor in our waters.

President, Miss E. H. Pearson;
Sec. and Treas., Mrs. H. C. Knight;
Managers, Miss Cutter, Mrs. F. E. Potter, Mrs. Jos. H. Thacher, Mrs. Silas Philbrick.

SHOW YOUR COLORS.

Col. Sise on Monday shew us a circular from the Maritime Association of the port of New York, setting forth that the association at their last meeting adopted a preamble and resolution to the effect that, as the bill abolishing compulsory pilotage on vessels under coasting license navigating Hell Gate has become a law, "Masters of vessels, in this and other ports, be requested to display their bunting on Wednesday, the 22d inst., in honor of the event." If we commanded a coasting vessel, or owned a timber-head in one, we should feel like keeping the colors flying for a week over the destruction of that infamous and oppressive swindling scheme, the compulsory pilotage at Hell Gate. That "Daylight robbery" by the Hell Gate thieves is at an end is ample cause for rejoicing on the part of the coasting interest.

ANOTER FRACAS IN EXETER.

A despatch from Exeter, dated Monday, says: "Last night at two o'clock the students, while giving their annual 'Exeter cheer' at the houses of the professors, were attacked in front of the residence of Prof. Tufts, by four policemen armed with pistols and clubs. Before the boys had time to realize what had happened two or three were knocked down and quite severely injured, and four were taken to the lockup and lodged till morning, when they were brought before Judge Bell, and the trial postponed till the parents of the boys could get here. Gen. Marston acting as bondsman in the meanwhile. Sympathy is with the students, as it is cutomary just before the close of the school to serenade the professors and have the usual bonfire. No damage was being done by the boys. One or two policemen received bruises."

He was stricken with pneumonia, and realizing that death was near, was last week married to the lady that she might receive his property. Two days later he died. His funeral took place Friday.

The steam launch of the British ironclad Monarch was blown up by the explosion of some gun cotton in the harbor of Tunis on Saturday; a lieutenant and one seaman were killed, and seven or eight other persons badly hurt.

Prejudice Kills.

"Eleven years our daughter suffered on a bed of misery under the care of several of the best (and some of the worst) physicians, who gave her disease various names but no relief, and now she is restored to us in good health by so simple a remedy as Hop Bitters, that we had poohed at for two years, before using it. We earnestly hope and pray that no one else will let their sick suffer as we did, on account of prejudice against so good a medicine as Hop Bitters."—The parents.—Telegram.

Five persons were drowned at Pleasant Valley, a short distance up the Hudson river from New York city, Sunday, by the breaking down of a steamboat wharf upon which they were awaiting the arrival of an excursion steamer.

Physicians recommend as a fine Bourbon Whiskey the G. O. Taylor brand, bottled by the old and honorable house of Chester H. Graves & Sons, Boston. For purity and excellence this whiskey is unsurpassed. To be obtained of druggists and grocers.

D. P. Moore, of No. 207 West street, New York city, is in trouble for using the mails to distribute circulars offering to sell counterfeit money. He was arrested at the Grand Central hotel by Wm. C. Sheldon, a clerk in the post-office at Williamsville, Mass.

By the use of Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites, the nerves regain their vigor, and the brain becomes clear and powerful. Indigestion and habitual costiveness almost always arise from weakness of the nerves and muscles of the stomach and bowels. In such cases, Fellows' Syrup of Hypophosphites has proved itself of the greatest service by inducing healthy persistalic action of the intestines. The evacutations soon become copious and healthy, without producing the effect of purgative medicines.

BRIGHTON CATTLE MARKET.

For week ending Wednesday, June 15.

Amount of stock at market—Cattle 2729; Sheep and Lambs 6809; Swine 15,367; Veals 180; number of western cattle 2516; eastern cattle 43; milch cows and northern cattle 170.

Prices of Beef Cattle per 100 lbs, live weight—Extra quality at to $6 87; first quality $5 62 1-2 to $6 25 1-2; second quality $5 12 1-2 to $5 50; third quality $4 37 1-2 to $5 00; poorest grades of coarse oxen, bulls, etc., $3 62 to $4 37.

Brighton Tallow 6c per lb.
Country Hides 7c per lb.
Country Tallow 4 to 4 1-2c per lb.
Calf Skins 18 1-2c per lb.
Northern Sheep and Lamb Skins $1.25 to $1 75 each.
Western Sheep and Lamb Skins $1 50 to $2 25 each.
Spring Lamb Skins 50c each.

Trade for beef cattle has been slow, and prices obtained for them not much different from those of one week ago. The quality of beef cattle from the west was not of the good a grade as that in at last market. The demand for extra beeves for shipments to Europe has been light, but one steamer in port to sail this week, the new steamer Missouri, which will be loaded by Messrs. Lingham & O'Brien with nearly, if not quite, 1000 head of cattle.

Working Oxen—Not much call for workers. A few pairs each week during the hot weather is all the markets require. We did not notice any in market this week.

Milch Cows—Extra $50 to $70; ordinary $20 to $48; springers $18 to $35 per head. The trade for milch cows has not been very lively for the past two weeks, and the number of extra ones offered on the market for sale has been small. We quote sales of 1 springer at $33; 1 do $32 50; 3 milch cows for $150 the two; 2 springers $57 each; 1 milch cow $37; 4 springers for $165 the lot; 4 milch cows $35 to $42 each.

Sheep and Lambs—Those from the west were mostly owned by G W Hollis and taken direct to the Abattoir to be slaughtered. Sheep cooling from 5 to 5 1-2c per lb, Lambs 8 to 8 1-2c per lb live weight.

Veal Calves—Those from Maine sold at 5 to 5 1-2c per lb live weight.

Swine—Prices of fat hogs remain unchanged, costing 6 1-2 to 7c per lb live weight landed at the slaughter houses. Spring Pigs $2 25 to $5 50 per head.

Important.

When you visit or leave New York city, save Baggage Expressage and Carriage Hire, and stop at Grand Union Hotel, opposite Grand Central Depot; 450 rooms, fitted up at a cost of one million dollars, reduced to $1 and upwards per day. European plan. Elevator. Restaurant supplied with the best. Horse cars, stages and elevated railroad to all depots. Families can live better for less money at the Grand Union Hotel than at any other first-class hotel in the city. 19p19,82

INTERNATIONAL Pavement Co.
With a Bonus of Stock.

The pavement made by this Company has met with the highest favor, both in this country and in Europe, and it is considered to approach perfection more nearly than any other.

The Works of the Company are at Providence, R. I., and at Hastings, N. Y., and the needs of its business will soon require additional ones at Chicago and other large cities.

Negotiations are now pending with capitalists in London and Paris for the right to manufacture and use this pavement in those cities.

The Company require additional means to extend the facilities for manufacturing, and offer for sale the second $100,000 of their six per cent bonds (convertible into stock) at par and interest. These bonds carry a bonus of stock, which is fixed for the present at fifty per cent.

The property owned and controlled by this company comprises 160 acres of rich mineral lands, from which large amounts of free gold have been taken in the old style of washing with rockers, besides four lode claims which have been considerably developed during the past year, and show good indications of rich silver veins.

The location of this property is unsurpassed, being near the celebrated "Robinson Consolidated," "White Quail," "Aftermath" and "Wheel of Fortune" mines, in the Ten-Mile Consolidated Mining District, and as prospect property is as valuable as any in Colorado.

Development work is to be actively and vigorously pushed, under the experienced management of Thos. Gowanlock, one of the most intelligent and experienced mining superintendents in Colorado.

Remember, full-paid $10 shares at 50 cents, which are likely to be worth from $2 to $5 per share within six months.

Daily Chronicle.

Books, Magazines, Etc.

The July "Atlantic" is a particularly brilliant and interesting number. "The Greek Play at Harvard," which has attracted so much attention, is described by Mr. Charles Eliot Norton, one of the most competent and accomplished of American scholars. The Boston Woman's Bank, which caused no little talk a few months ago, is the subject of two articles, one exceedingly pungent and amusing, by Gail Hamilton, who entitles her paper "The Gentlemen's Contribution to the Ladies' Deposit." Miss Dodge having put her foot into it vigorously defends her motives, insists that the Advertiser reporter was all wrong, that men allowed the defalcation in the city treasury of Boston to increase yearly while none could see it, and generally criticises in her sharp manner all who for a moment imagine Miss Dodge to have been duped into a bad investment for the sake of large interest. The other, entitled "Sympathetic Banking," is a remarkably clear and vigorous account of this astounding financial performance, by Henry A. Clapp, a Boston lawyer who evidently knows the whole thing by heart. These two articles cannot fail to be read with extraordinary interest. John Fiske has an essay of curious value on "What is Mythology?" H. H. continues her delightful Norway sketches in a paper, "Four Days with Sanna." Miss Sarah Orne Jewett, author of the charming "Deephaven" stories, contributes a similar sketch, "Andrew's Fortune," which is wonderfully true to New England country life, and it will be read by Miss Jewett's friends with no little degree of interest. It is certainly well written, and we wonder whether the authoress became booked upon "Sister Kelsons" from listening to her grandfather's talk about ships which were once built in the Quamphegan region, or whether it comes from the genial "Elisha," who was always ready to help suppress the rebellion, by furnishing the government dock-yards with ship timber all through the war. John C. Dodge, in a very interesting article points out the defects of "Trial by Jury in the United States." Mischief in the Middle Ages," by Elizabeth Robbins, is so engaging an article on so engaging a subject, that everybody will read it. Mr. Whittier contributes a thoroughly characteristic and therefore excellent poem "In Memory" of Mr. Fields; and Edgar Fawcett has a poem on "Wounds." The Contributors' Club is full of pleasing little essays; a descriptive sketch of the Books of the Month renders a very useful though unpretending service. This is evidently a "star" number of the Atlantic. Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Boston.

"Appleton's Journal" for July has appeared. Its contents are: Saints and Sinners, from the French, part 2d; Arab humor, part 1st; Babies and Science; the Two Prisoners, from the German of Prof. Richel; the Fortunes of Literature under the American Republic, by Geo. Edward Woodberry; Mrs. Lamb's history of New York city, a dialogue on public morality; One Year in a German Cooking School; At Home in Fiji; French family life and manners; Old Dreams, a poem; the Theatre in New York forty years ago; the Editor's Table, and Literary Notes. In the latter is a very just commendatory notice of Mr. John Albee's recently published book on Literary Art. The yearly subscription to Appleton's is $3.00.

W. B. Smith & Co.'s latest numbers of the "Satchel Series" are "Mountain Rambles," by Rev. J. W. Kingsbury, a clergyman of a neighboring town, and "Ethel's Perplexity," by F. W. Leggett. The latter is sold at twenty cents. For sale by M. Goodrich, and by H. B. Buzzell & Son, Market square.

The July number of the "International Review" is ready, and presents a variety of excellent articles. "The Army Question in Europe" is discussed by H. Von Holst, who concludes that to realize the dream of eternal peace the size of armies must be reduced, and the defences made more perfect. Edward Atkinson asks "What makes the rate of Interest?" and answers the question in his well-known lucid and interesting manner. Robert P. Porter, under the title "Eight Decades of a Century," considers some of the problems raised by the late census regarding the growth and character of our population. William Myall makes "The English Evolutionists" a subject for a most interesting article. "The Reform in Pronouncing Latin," is of special interest and value to college students and authorities. "Colonization" is an article by J. Lawrence Laughlin, on an important subject. "The First San Francisco Vigilance Committee," by Thomas C. Cary, is an article with the flavor of the Golden State about it, and will surely be read among the first in the number, which is, as a whole, a good and worthy one; not, perhaps, as brilliant as some of its predecessors, but well up to its standard. Published by A. S. Barnes & Co., New York, at $5.00 per year; fifty cents per number.

Lee & Shepard of Boston have published the revised edition of the new testament, being an accurate reprint from the authorized Oxford edition. It has marginal notes and references, and is neatly bound in English cloth; price $1.00.

"Scribner's Monthly" for July is an excellent number. It contains "The Younger painters of America," by W. C. Brownell; "A Song Before Grief;" "The Sea-Horse;" "A Day in the Marsh;" "The People's Problem;" "Mont Blanc;" "Dr. Dollinger and the Old Catholic Movement in Germany;" "Decoration in the 7th Reg't Armory;" and a lengthened variety of other interesting matter, comprising one hundred and sixty pages, with numerous illustrations, making one of the most attractive numbers of magazine literature ever issued. Terms $4.00 a year, thirty-five cents a number. Published by the Century Publishing Co., formerly Scribner & Co.

"The life of Voltaire," by James Parton; in two volumes, 8vo, with portraits and other illustrations. Boston; Houghton, Mifflin & Co.; price $6.00.

Mr. Parton's celebrity as a biographer was attained by his lives of Franklin, Jefferson, Burr, Jackson and others. He has devoted many years of unremitting labor, with constant study and unceasing research, to enable him to write a true account of Voltaire, whose career has been the subject of the admiration and aversion of mankind alike. In his attempt to be scrupulously exact and just, to give an impartial history of this remarkable man, the biographer has been obliged to go through an almost limitless sea of literature, among which, for instance, were volumes containing fifty thousand printed pages of his composition, including more than two hundred and sixty separate publications! The published correspondence alone of Voltaire now comprises more than two thousand letters, and the biographer, as he seeks authentic information concerning the subject of his work, constantly discovers additions to the wonderful mass of material. Recently have come to light new volumes, all full of interest.

Indeed, the wonder is how from such a broad expanse of material, the writer could compress into his twelve hundred and fifty pages all he desired to give us or deemed worthy of reproduction in the shape of biography. When it is remembered that of all men perhaps no one has been more generally discussed, criticised, wrangled over, represented and misrepresented, and in very many respects described with less regard for truth and candor, than Voltaire, it will be seen that Mr. Parton in his endeavor to ascertain and record the exact truth from the immense accumulation of irreconcilable statement, has had an ardous task in his years of labor.

Mr. Parton, as in his former works, presents an entertaining book. He begins with the youth of Voltaire, and in a continuous personal history keeps up an unflagging interest in his subject. While avoiding much of the coarser recital in which earlier sketches of Voltaire have abounded, the biographer is not blind to faults or oblivious of the darker shades of his pen portraiture. The book promises to be the leading book of the year—one which will be eagerly sought and read by all classes. There is so much in Voltaire's life which is a part of the European political, social and literary condition of the times in which he dwelt, that the work is in its results not only a rich personal biography, but to no small degree a history or recital of many of the important occurrences, opinions and public events of the eighteenth century. There is in the appendix a list of publications relating to Voltaire and his works, arranged according to dates or publication, with titles translated into English; and also fifteen pages devoted to a comprehensive index of the names of personages referred to in the volume. It is a most valuable work.

Brace Up.

There is serious meaning in this expression. That wearied step, languid eye and feeling of general lassitude, come from "spring sickness." Be assured, a serious, and perhaps, fatal disease is close in its wake. The system wants cleansing of winter impurities; the sluggish blood needs to be sent in swift and clear currents through the veins. "Favorite Remedy" will do this; it will give new vigor to the body, brightness to the eye, a glow to the countenance and elasticity to the step. One dollar a bottle. Every druggist has it. Dr. David Kennedy, proprietor, Rondout, N. Y.

"Hazel Kirke," which has had an unprecedented run at the Madison Square theatre in New York, is succeeded by "The Professor," which popular comedy we hope to witness at Music hall next season.

How it Was!

At the battle of Gettysburg I was shot through the left leg and was sent to the hospital. The army surgeons relieved me but pronounced my case incurable. I discharged pieces of bone, and for years I have suffered with a running sore. I tried everything which my limited means would allow, and experienced no relief until I tried Sulphur Bitters. I am now almost well, and shall continue their use.—Old Soldier.

News and Notes.

The mate and four men of the schooner St. Eustache arrived at Mazatlan, Mexico, in a boat on the 16th inst., and reported that on the passage of the schooner from San Francisco to Mazatlan the cook killed the captain, and on being confined in the cabin set fire to the vessel, perishing with her. The cook was a Chinaman. The schooner's cargo was valued at $70,000, and included a large quantity of giant and common powder.

At Marshall, Texas, June 19th, Robert Dill shot Isaac Verge dead, and then took to the cane-brakes. He was pursued by a sheriff and posse, resisted, and was riddled with bullets.

It has been ascertained that a tramp who was killed by a train in Topsham, Me., last week, was a son of the late Major General Rosseau of the Union army, and belonged in Louisville, Ky., where his mother now lives.

Sam Haynes, the Rockland murderer who was shot while attempting to escape from the Maine state prison a short time ago, unfortunately was not mortally wounded, and is now apparently as well as ever. He is quite jubilant over the notoriety gained by his murderous attempt to escape.

Four miles below Norwich, Conn., on the 18th inst., Charles Matthews and Walter Armstrong, aged respectively fourteen and eleven years, while rowing in a shell were upset by the propeller Delaware, and drowned.

The crops on some parts of Long island were badly damaged by a hail storm on Sunday evening.

Some parties attempted to wreck the up train on the Housatonic railroad near North Kent, Mass., Monday evening, by putting a large stone on the track; and the milk train south found a fence rail fastened on the track, in about the same place. Both were discovered in season to prevent damage.

There was considerable consternation at Ottawa, Ont., on Sunday morning, caused by a slight shock of earthquake, many supposing the prophecy that the world was coming to an end was about to be fulfilled.

Edward Brennan and his wife, a Mrs. Roberts, and a boy named Thomas Burns, were on Saturday arrested in Philadelphia for passing counterfeit silver coin, mostly half-dollars. The coins are excellently executed, and have been largely circulated.

A Biddeford man was before Judge Ross of that city on Friday, for pouring kerosene oil over a rat, touching a lighted match to it, and then turning the rat into the street, where the animal ran until overpowered by the flames.

The Biddeford Journal says that a Mrs. Allen, of Alfred, aged eighty years, with her husband, lived in the same house with her son and his family, but as two families. On Thursday, June 2d, the old lady went into the part of the house occupied by her son, and got into an altercation with her son's wife. The result was she fell on some small rocks, breaking her right arm in two places, and also her right thigh, from which injuries she died June 6th. After her fall she said her son's wife pushed her, and to the time of her death made the same accusation. An investigation has been had, and the woman bound over in the sum of $5000.

Rev. C. L. Plumer of Milton has received a call to become pastor of the Free Baptist church at Kittery Point.

Mr. H. P. Abbott, who runs what was formerly the steam brick-yard in Eliot, is now burning one kiln of bricks.

THE BIDDEFORD STRIKE.

On Monday morning the Pepperell mills began paying off, and at noon shut down entirely; it was understood that the company would transfer all of the operatives in their employ who wished to keep at work, to the Laconia mills, and not resume operations on the Pepperell until the strikers were ready to return to work, or their places were supplied by new hands. The strikers held a large meeting in the evening, and voted to hold out for their own terms. Over a hundred of them left for Canada and various parts of New England on Monday, and it was announced that many more had made ready to go on Tuesday. The strikers have organized, and appear as determined as ever not to resume work until their demands are granted.

—The death of a woman of Portsmouth, R. I., revealed the unexpected fact that for sixteen years she had kept a maniac son concealed in an attic room, attending to his wants herself, and never letting another human being see him.

—A mother had impressed upon her little boy the necessity of ejecting the skins of grapes, and a few days afterwards she told him the story of Jonah and the whale. "Did the whale swallow other men too?" asked the boy. "Well, I suppose he did," continued the mother. "And, mamma, did he spit their skins out?"

—There is a good deal of true nobility in children after all. "Jo" had accidentally pounded a new bump on the head of "Bert" with a base ball bat. "I'll tell you what, Bert," said he, "I'm going to have a show in my woodshed Saturday, and you can come in free. The other fellers will have to pay three pins." You're no idea how that reduced the swelling.

—When the boiler exploded in the saw mill near Oakland, the fireman was blown across the Youghiogheny river and 700 feet through a thicket, and buried head foremost under an old log. And he wasn't killed. But when they dug him out and restored him to consciousness, he asked how the mule got into the engine room to kick him. He couldn't believe it was a mere boiler explosion.

—Rev. Herbert Pelham, son of the Bishop of Norwich, England, lost his life recently in Switzerland by a very singular accident. He was staying with his brother at Glion on the Lake of Geneva, and in returning from an early walk they had to descend a steep and slippery grass slope; he was behind his brother, and is supposed to have stumbled, as he rushed close by where his brother was carefully picking his way, and disappeared over a cliff 240 feet high.

—The book-agent almost daily develops new and unexpected possibilities. A Boston paper tells of one of the meanest specimens of the class which we have ever seen mentioned. He has had a solid chunk of iron securely fastened in his trowsers, and when the indignant citizen kicks at him, the latter's foot comes in contact with the iron. The misapplication of the Scriptures which ensues would be a revelation to Talmage or to the revisers of the New Testament.

AROUND HOME.

Mrs. L. D. Spalding and Miss E. T. Spalding arrived home on Tuesday from an eight months' tour in the south of Europe.

The United States District court was not in session on Tuesday. Judge Clark having gone out of the district, Marshal Patterson adjourned the court for one week.

Large quantities of hard pine lumber are being landed on the Eastern railroad wharf this spring. One stick landed there last week measured sixty feet in length, and weighed 4700 lbs.

The semi-annual dividend on the Concord and Portsmouth railroad stock, due July 1st, will be paid on Wednesday, 29th inst., at the office of William H. Hackett, U. S. Court House.

Kate Emery and Margaret Johnson, two women who were caught stealing flowers from a graveyard, were taken to the county house of correction on Tuesday for non-payment of their fines.

Capt. Levi Downs expected to get his new schooner, built at Boothbay, Me., into the water on Tuesday. If he did, she will be around here before long, as she has been rigged while on the stocks.

The yacht W. H. Russell on Tuesday took to the Shoals a party of excursionists who visited the several islands, had a game of hooky with the fish, and a good time generally. The Russell has been fitted out anew this spring, and is in every way well adapted for excursion parties by the day or for weeks.

The 91st annual meeting of the New Hampshire Medical society was held in Concord on Tuesday, Dr. G. P. Conn, president of the society, presiding. The attendance was large, and there were present from this city Drs. Hall, Parsons and Jones. After the president's address, a report on practical medicine was read by Dr. D. W. Jones of this city, and Dr. John W. Parsons read a paper on puerperal convulsions. The society dined at the Eagle hotel. The evening session was devoted to a report on necrology by Dr. L. G. Hill of Dover, and obituary notices of deceased members. The election of officers takes place this forenoon.

The concert given in Music hall by the combined orchestras of Messrs. Harlow of this city, Reinwald of Dover and Eastman of Manchester, assisted by Mrs. Martha Dana Shepard, pianist, Miss Edith Wendell (soprano) and Miss Grace Varrell (petite soprano) of this city, vocalists, and Miss Fannie Hoyt of Newington, violinist, was repeated in Dover on the 9th inst., in Exeter on the 13th and in Manchester on the 15th, and was enthusiastically received by the audiences and heartily commended by the papers of each place. We have already given extracts from the favorable comments of the Dover papers, and those of Exeter and Manchester are equally complimentary. The Exeter Gazette says the concert "was certainly one of the most enjoyable entertainments given in Exeter for a long time;" that Miss Wendell "has a very sweet and powerful voice, and Portsmouth may well feel proud of her as a soloist;" that "the violin solo by Miss Hoyt showed that she had great promise for the future," that Miss Varrell "pleased all with her selections and was doubly encored," and "the entire programme was a success." The News-Letter says "the character of the concert was eminently popular, and we feel certain that few who were present will fail to attend should they favor us with another visit at a more auspicious season, and that the universal endorsement it has received will insure a large audience." The Manchester Union spoke of the concert as "one of the finest musical entertainments ever held in the city," and the Mirror also employed very complimentary terms in noticing it.

Capt. E. A. Tilton on Tuesday made us a call, bringing with him a pine box of very queer shape, containing the cocked hat worn by Captain Thomas Thompson June, 24th, 1807, when as Grand Master of Masons in New Hampshire he laid the corner-stone of St. John's church with masonic ceremonies. The box is lined in part with copies of the "Federal Orrery" and "Massachusetts Sentinel," papers published in Boston, both being dated 1799, which was probably the year in which the box was made, and quite likely also the hat. The remainder of the box's lining is a handbill dated 1793, setting forth that at Newport a theatre would be opened in a few days, the entertainment to consist of a comic opera, rope-walking, singing of ballads, reading of an essay, jig dancing, and a farce. The hat is still in a good state of preservation, though it was certainly worn seventy-four years ago, and is probably over eighty years old. It is to be seen in the window of M. Goodrich's store, corner of Market and Daniel streets.

POLICE COURT.

MONDAY, June 20; Bufford, J.

Ellen C. Farrell, otherwise known as Kate Emery, and Margaret Johnson, were charged with stealing flowers from the lot of Mr. George Bilbruck in Harmony Grove cemetery. They were found guilty, and fined $5 each, with costs of $4.71 in each case.

The Farrell woman was then arraigned for an assault, and fined $3, with costs of $5.73. The assault grew out of the flower-stealing business, the thief throwing stones at one of the two ladies who detected her and her companion, and calling her vile names.

TUESDAY, June 21; Batchelder, J.

John Sherry of Newmarket, for larceny of money from Bridget Sherry, his wife, was bound over in the sum of $500 to the October term of the supreme court. Not furnishing bonds he was committed to jail.

THE RAILROAD EXTENSION.

The committee appointed at a recent citizens' meeting to visit Concord relative to having proper provisions engrafted on the bill relating to the extension of the Dover & Winnepiseogee railroad were at the capital on Tuesday, and examined the bill. The friends of the measure profess a readiness to have inserted a clause which shall be satisfactory to the citizens of Portsmouth.

The following is section four of the original bill "in addition to an act to incorporate the Dover & Winnepiseogee R. R., passed July 1st, 1862:"

When said Dover and Winnepiseogee railroad shall be so extended, its tracks shall be suitably connected with the tracks of the Boston, Concord and Montreal R. R. and with the tracks of the several railroads in Rochester and with tracks of the Portsmouth and Dover railroad in Dover; and so remain connected until changed by mutual agreements of said railroads respectively, or by act of the legislature.

ROCKINGHAM COUNTY TEMPERANCE ASSOCIATION.

The next meeting of the Rockingham County Temperance Association will be held at Hampton beach, at the cottage of Geo. D. Dodge, Esq., on Thursday, June 30th. Rev. Mr. Cole of South Newmarket will deliver an address, on the subject "Where is the remedy?" after which a general discussion will take place. the meetings of this association have been largely attended, and the one to be held next week promises to be an extensive affair, as the beauty of the location will tend to draw many there. The association has decided to make this a picnic gathering, but Mr. Dodge has generously offered to furnish tea and coffee. To accomodate those desirous of attending from this city, barges have been engaged to carry a limited number of passengers there and back for fifty cents each. Seats can be engaged by leaving names with Mr. B. F. Thorndike, No. 20 Congress street, or at S. W. Webber's store.

THE WARRING COUNCILS.

Mr. Editor: The present state of affairs between the board of aldermen and the common council, calls to my mind a similiar occurrence not many years ago when the appropriation bill was held by the council for many weeks, in order to bring the aldermen into concurrence with the council's determination to elect a mayor to fill the vacancy occasioned by Hon. Horton D. Walker's death. The aldermen refused to meet in convention to elect, and the bill was kept in the hands of the council committee until the aldermen, after running the government on credit and fighting the election for several months, at last came to the council's terms, and—greatly to the surprise of the upper board—the aldermen's candidate, a member of the board, was elected by a nearly unanimous vote! The aldermen had all along feared that the councilmen had a candidate of their own, a fear which had not the slightest foundation in fact.

The same board did some other curious things. The evening the new mayor was elected the council passed the appropriation bill, and sent it to the aldermen containing an appropriation of eight or ten thousand dollars for a water-pipe from the north millpond to Hanover street, for fire purposes—a scheme which the aldermen did not countenance; but it was so late in the year that the aldermen passed the bill just as they received it, as soon as it could be read, and without any reference to committee, under suspension of the rules. But the aldermen did not put in the pipe—not any; though they did immediately go to work at building the Hanover street reservoir, for which no appropriation had been made, and later "repaired" the city building at a cost of ten or fifteen thousand dollars, after the council had unanimously refused to appropriate money for that purpose.

If I, as one who has been through the mill, might venture to give a word of advice to the councilmen, I would say, "Gentlemen, please allow the aldermen to have their way; let them do as they please with the money you appropriate—seeing that you cannot help yourselves, or control the expediture of a dollar. If you appropriate money for a reservoir, and the 'Honorable Board' concur, they will afterward build the reservoir or not, just as suits them, and forcing through of the appropriation will prove a barren victory. After the appropriation bill is passed, the common council becomes a nonentity. I do not refer to what should be, but to what is.

EX. C. C.

JOHN H. MURRAY,

Circus Manager, commenced the circus business as a general performer in 1848. He formed a partnership with George Holland in Dan Rice's circus, in 1852. They were known as the Roman Brothers. They were noted for style, finish and grace. During the existence of their partnership they always excelled in their specialities. In 1854, Murray and Holland went to California and South America, where they appeared in various theatres, and in the last-named country often performed their celebrated "Brother Act" between the acts of the opera. During '57, '58 and '59, they visited England with Howe & Cushing's United States circus. Friday evening, May 14, 1858, by special command, the United States circus entertained the Queen at the Royal Albrambra palace, Leicester square, London. Mr. Murray directed the entertainment, and besides appearing in the "Brother Act," and "Globe Perch" with Holland, introduced the comic trick mules, "Pete" and "Bartney," and directed the movements of the educated horse "Black Eagle." The Illustrated News gave a full-page illustration of the royal audience, with Murray and his intelligent steed. During 1860, '61, '62 and '63, he appeared with the leading circuses of the continent of Europe, including Rentz's, Carey's, Heeney's, Price's and Brenow's. On the death of Mr. Holland, Mr. Murray performed with George P. Hutchinson. In 1864 he was a partner with Stone, Rosston & Co.'s circus; in 1865, it was Stone, Rosston & Murray; 1866 to 1871, Stone & Murray's circus. In 1872, Den Stone withdrawing, Mr. Murray became sole proprietor and manager, and continued the same up to and including 1879, also visiting the West Indies and South America in 1876, '77, and '78. He has taken his circus to nearly every part of the world. He ceased the performance of athletic feats in 1871. At no time in the history of Murray's circus has it been so large as at the present season. It is the first time he has carried a menagerie, which is said to be a large and costly one. He will exhibit his combination of shows under three large and commodious canvasses, covering nearly two acres of ground, at Yeaton's field in this city on Saturday next, the 25th inst. For a list of the attractions with his show, look for the advertisement which is in another column.

A LOOK AHEAD.

We take from the Belknap Tocsin the following letter from Chicago, which shows how the energetic men of the live west contemplate a prospective railway development:

The contemplated railroad between Laconia and Alton will give an impetus to every branch of business in Laconia, as soon as the first sod is turned. To make this road independent of all other corporations, is the most important step to be taken at the start. The state has fostered and protected other roads up to the present time, so that their interests cannot suffer by the building of this road from Laconia to Alton, but rather some will be largely benefitted by opening a new avenue to the seaboard, which will place the great north-west some sixty miles nearer to tide water than at Boston and Portland. It is so manifest that Laconia must feel the effects of the new enterprise, that it does not require a word to make it clear to any one who is not interested in keeping up a monopoly in railroad interests. With the proposed opened to travel, capital will seek investment in Laconia, and prosperity will abound in every way.

For the grand old city of Portsmouth, with all its memories so glorious, with its culture, its patriotism, its wealth, the chance to double its population in the next decade is before it. To make it a seaport for the arrival of large steamers from Europe, laden with immigrants and merchandise, and returning with grain, cattle, sheep, and the dairy products of the great west, the initial step is to build the railroad from Laconia to Alton. The harbor, which is never closed by ice, which can float the largest steamers that cross the ocean, with terminal railroad charges which may be placed at the lowest figure, with wharves already built, by the erection of grain elevators, by the establishment of a stock-yard for the reception of cattle and sheep, would insure the arrival of a fleet of ocean steamers to her piers.

The city of Portsmouth could afford to make it a free port, by purchasing of private companies some of its wharf facilities, and forever dedicating them to commerce by making no charge for the facilities which they would afford. It would be a grand step to anticipate, by such a course, what is suggested should be done by the city of New York, as one of the many means to hold her supremacy as the metropolis of America. Where the grass has grown for years would be the step of busy industry; the merchant would find his recompense by increased sales, the mechanic would find new avenues to industry, and the laborer, constant employment. The capitalist of the old world would find it for his interest to direct his ship to the harbor where the advantages of a free port would be assured, and where every facility which any port in the United States could give would be found.

It would gladden the heart of many a Portsmouth boy, who has wandered far away from the scenes and memories which have gone with him to the end of the prairies and mountains of the west, to know that the dear old town at the mouth of the Piscataqua was about to shake off the lethargy of more than a generation, and assert itself as a seaport where the products of the old and new world should find a point of arrival and departure, commensurate with its geographical position, and whose facilities are unrivalled. Let the proposed road be built at once.

New Hampshire Items.

A rascally attempt was made to poison Miss Ella Surprise, in Manchester, on Monday, by sending her a pound of figs in which was placed a lot of Paris green, under pretence that they were sent her by a sister.

Prof. George H. Taylor, a native of Nashua, on the 19th inst. dropped dead of heart-disease in Amsterdam, N. Y., where he was principal of an academy. He married a daughter of Col. E. P. Emerson of Nashua, whom he leaves a widow with three children. He was a graduate of Dartmouth college, was a captain in the army during the war, and later a professor at the Theological seminary in Andover, Mass.

The first excursion train of the season went up Mount Washington on the 16th inst. It was run by special arrangement for a few guests from the Crawford and Fabyan houses, and regular trains will not be put on for several days. The railway is being entirely rebuilt before summer travel shall commence. No expense will be spared to make it absolutely safe.

Isaac W. Randall, aged sixty-two years, a carpenter in the employ of the Amoskeag company at Manchester, was caught in the belting of mill No. 4 on Monday, and his brains dashed out against a spinning frame.

Edwin W. Tolles, of Claremont, had a valuable horse stolen from his barn, Sunday night, together with wagon, harness, etc.

George Denacour, a French boy sixteen years old, was drowned in the Suncook river at Suncook on the 18th inst., while bathing.

A steam saw-mill in Jefferson, owned by Parker & Gates, and a shovel-handle and bobbin factory connected, operated by A. F. Mason, were burned on the 20th inst. Loss $10,000; insured.

Don't Trust Them.

When you feel badly, and have pains here and there through your body that you don't know how to account for, it is the most foolish policy in the world to take the advice of people who say: "Oh! there's nothing the matter with you. Let yourself alone and you will come out all right." These folks know nothing about it, and may be trifling with your life. You may have kidney or liver trouble. Send right out to your druggist and get a bottle of Dr. David Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy" and then you will be all right, or write to the doctor at Rondout, N. Y.

—The happiness of the human race in this world does not consist in our being devoid of passions, but in our learning to command them.

Arrested!

Charles A. Dailey was arrested last evening for stealing from the drug store of Shiefman, a bottle of Sulphur Bitters. Before the court this morning, upon being asked why he should steal it, he stated that his mother was troubled with rheumatism, and that it was the only medicine that helped her, and being out of money and work was the cause of his stealing. As this was his first offence he was put on probation.—Newark News.

—In this world, says Chamfort, you have three sorts of friends—those who love you, those who don't care a penny for you, and those who hate you.

Mr. Patterson Meant What he Said.

I hereby testify that my boy, ten years of age, was taken sick with typhoid fever, followed by congestion of the lungs. Dr. Dyer, an eminent physician of this place, stated that he thought the boy would run down with quick consumption. A Mr. Patterson told me that Coe's Cough Balsam was curing similar cases, and advised us to purchase it. When I carried it home, my wife laughed at me, but I knew that Mr. Patterson meant just what he said, and I determined to try it. Two bottles effectually cured him, so that now he is as tough and healthy as anybody.

LYMAN DOMAN.

Huntington, Conn., Aug. 29, 1866.

—Hutchinson, the menagerie man, says that when once elephants that have received instructions are chained back to their places they work at their tricks, apparently trying to perfect themselves in them. It is, Mr. Hutchinson says, more amusing to see them then than at any other time.

Have you these dangerous symptoms? Cough, pain in the side or breast, fever, short breath, night sweats, tickling rising or soreness in the throat, diarrhœa, nervous debility, asthmatic or bronchial affections; if so, use at once Adamson's Botanic Cough Balsam. Trial bottles, 10 cts.; larger bottles, 35 and 75cts.

—A recent visitor at Cologne asked what the curious figures on some beautiful carved oak stalls depicted, whereupon the guide, evidently proud of his English, replied: "Oh, Mr. Simpson." Further questioning elicited that they meant Samson and Delilah.

The remedial ingredients upon which Dr. Holman's Plasters depend for the wonderfully beneficial effects produced by them, constitute a new combination of absorbent remedies never before made, and known to our laboratory only. Holman Pad Co.

—Clara Folz, the San Francisco female lawyer, being told by the opposing counsel in court, that a woman's proper sphere was at home raising children, retorted with spirit, "A woman had better be engaged in almost any business than raising such children as you are, sir."

Important.

When you visit or leave New York city, save Baggage Expressage and Carriage Hire, and stop at Grand Union Hotel, opposite Grand Central Depot; 650 rooms, fitted up at a cost of one million dollars, reduced to $1 and upwards per day. European plan. Elevator. Restaurant supplied with the best. Horse cars, stages and elevated railroad to all depots. Families can live better for less money at the Grand Union Hotel than at any other first-class hotel in the city. [sp15,8]

The Works of the Company are at Providence, R. I., and at Hastings, N. Y., and the needs of its business will soon require additional ones at Chicago and other large cities.

SPASMS.

Mrs. S. A. McIlwain, of Fergusonville, Delaware county, N. I am confident that if I had not taken your medicine. "Favorite Remedy," during my periods of critical illness I should never have recovered. * * * That the Lord may bless you and increase your means of doing good is my daily prayer, and may many yet unborn praise the "Favorite Remedy" and its discoverer."

THE RUBY RIVER.

To keep the blood pure, is the principal end of inventions and discoveries in medicine. To this object probably no one has contributed more signally than Dr. David Kennedy, of Rondout, New York, in the production of a medicine which has become famous under the title of the "Favorite Remedy." It removes all impurities of the Blood, regulates the disordered Liver and Kidneys, cures Constipation, Dyspepsia, and diseases and weaknesses peculiar to females.

Swimming.

Every boy and girl should be taught to swim, and be trained to it. Most boys learn of themselves, while the reverse is true of most girls. This latter fact is a grave mistake. The mistake is more serious than formerly, because so large a portion of our population spend weeks or months every year at our watering places, because travel on river, lake and ocean, and sailing in boats and yachts for pleasure, have increased to such an extent. For these reasons, as well as others, a knowledge of the art has become a necessity. The lives that were recently lost in consequence of the collisions and burning of steamboats might most of them have been saved, had all the passengers known how to swim.

The mere consciousness of ability to swim, and the feeling of familiarity with deep water that it creates, would either prevent or greatly diminish the panics that are so disastrous in cases of accidents on the sea. Besides this, the inability to swim of persons who are in the water when a disaster has occurred greatly imperils the lives of those who can swim and are abundantly able to care for themselves; for the swimmers are often overpowered by the wild clinging to them of the luckless persons who are drowning near by. The time to learn to swim is in childhood and youth, and every parent should see to it that all his children become experts in the art. It is an easy art to learn. There are people who live in boats whose babies even swim like kittens.

Born in a Caravan.

One day, some time since, died James Bishop, aged eighty-three, from injuries received from burning, caused by an accident in his own caravan, which had been occupied by him without intermission for the last thirty-five years. He is supposed to have been the oldest showman in England, having started at the age of twenty, as a bandsman to an exhibition of giants, dwarfs and fat girls. He then became a partner with Atkinson & Gillman, proprietors of a menagerie that rivalled that of Wombwell. He was afterward proprietor of a performing seal, a Punch and Judy, and a fine art exhibition. I make a note of James Bishop to place on record the circumstance that, during the time he and his wife lived in their caravan, she gave birth to eighteen sons and two daughters, all of whom were reared in the caravan, and were educated by their father in the three R's, and brought up to various trades or to the musical profession. One of his daughters became the mother of Miss Selina Young, "the Female Blondin," who walked on a tight-rope across the Thames. The second daughter married a showman named Wortbehoek, and was mother to twenty-four children all of whom were born and reared in a caravan.—Notes and Queries.

Why Stone Walls are Damp.

The walls of a stone house and sometimes of a brick house are covered with dampness. This is due to the very same cause by which dew is disposed on grasses, or moisture on the sides of a glass or pitcher that is filled with ice water and is brought into a warm room. The walls are cold, and as stone is a non-conductor of heat they remain cold for a long time. When the weather changes suddenly from cold to warm, the air becomes filled with moisture, for the warmer the air the more moisture it will absorb. When this warm air strikes the cold walls the moisture is deposited on them from the air, which is suddenly cooled by contact with them, and as the warm air is continually coming in contact with the walls the dampness accumulates until it appears like dew upon them and pours down in streams at times. It is easily prevented. No plaster should be put directly upon brick or stone, but furring strips should be nailed to the wall and the laths put on these. Cellars are frequently made very damp in the same way by too much ventilation in warm weather. The warm air pouring in is cooled and its moisture is deposited on the walls and floor until they are so wet as to surprise the housekeeper, who wonders how it is the cellar will not dry, and the more it is dried the wetter it becomes.—New York Times.

The Leslie Assignment.

The final proceeding in the matter of the Frank Leslie assignment was taken yesterday. An order was entered acquitting Mr. Isaac W. England, the assignee, from all further obligation to the trust, and discharging and releasing the bondsmen who had become his sureties in the sum of $100,000, and cancelling their bond.

The case has been a remarkable one, and probably stands unparalleled in the judicial history of this state. It is peculiar in that it probably is the only instance on record where an assigned estate, instead of being sold in accordance with the provisions of the assignment, has been carried on by the assignee in the interest of the creditors for a period of nearly four years. The experiment was a hazardous one, but in this case it seems to have been attended with the best results.

The estate at the time it came into the possession of the assignee was inventoried at $75,000, and was encumbered by debts amounting to about $400,000. In less than four years the assignee has compromised with and obtained releases from all the creditors, and has turned over to the executrix of Frank Leslie, who had meantime died, an estate worth certainly not less than half a million dollars.

Though several millions of dollars passed through Mr. England's hands during his assigneeship, his accounts were passed without the challenge of a dollar.

In these days when so much has to be published about delinquent trustees, and estates absorbed in the process of administration, it is gratifying to find so conspicuous an illustration of a trust faithfully and wisely administered.—N. Y. Sun.

Haunted Me.

A workingman says: "Debt, poverty and suffering haunted me for years, caused by a sick family and large bills for doctoring, which did no good. I was completely discouraged, until one year ago, by the advice of my pastor, I procured Hop Bitters and commenced their use, and in one month we were all well, and none of us have been sick a day since; and I want to say to all poor men, you can keep your family well a year with Hop Bitters for less than one doctor's visit will cost."—Christian Advocate.

—A man rather below the medium height says that he cannot avoid being offended at any reference to his size, and relates how he was once utterly crushed in an argument. He had the best of it, and was walking the room the more strongly to lay down and emphasize his points, when the other fellow calmly remarked: "Sit down, Jones; you look taller sitting down." It made him so mad that he could not say another word.

The Referee Law.

The Concord legislative correspondent of the Mirror thus comments on the workings of this law:

There is a bill before the house to prohibit judges from serving as referees, and if this legislature has half the sense it is credited with it will pass. A bill abolishing the referee law altogether would be better, and a great deal more satisfactory to litigants and lawyers, but probably this is too much to hope for. This law has pretty much abolished trial by jury, and transferred the business of deciding disputes between parties to a little circle of judges' clerks and judges' favorites, who charge more than a jury of twelve common men would be entitled to, and get more out of the business than they do out of their legitimate calling. There are one or two judges who decline to sit as referees, but some of them use the courts as hot-beds in which to sprout cases which they can charge $25 per day for settling, "costs to be paid by the county." It is high time we paid our judges fair salaries, and relieved them of the necessity of running side shows.

It seems rather mortifying to our state pride that such an enactment should be required, but some of the judges have overdone this referee business. The reports of the supreme court are far behind those of any other state; cases decided long since have not been reported. The business of the courts has decreased, and while the judges have abundance of time to keep up their judicial work, it is spent in bringing up their stipends by referee's fees. It is greatly to the credit of some of the judges that they see the impropriety of doing this sort of thing, just as Judge Doe thinks the law about free passes on railroads applies to judges as well as to common folks, and always buys a ticket when he travels. The better way will be, if Judge Foster resigns, to get along with six judges, and pay them a fair salary, such as will allow them to pay their travelling expenses and give the railroads a fair showing before the court. The legislature might properly pass a law providing that no railway official should at the same hold the office of judge, and we are surprised that Mr. Pearson has not long since insisted upon something of this kind.

News and Notes.

Mr. Walter M. Hill, professor of chemistry at the torpedo station, Newport, R. I., has resigned. He will take charge of the nitro-glycerine works at Chester, Pa.

De Winter Dumas, a colored clerk in one of the departments at Washington, speaks half a dozen languages and is an expert shorthand writer.

The city authorities of Philadelphia consent to the firing of Chinese crackers on the Fourth of July, but prohibit other fire-works and toy pistols.

On the evening of June 20th, Mrs. Grover of East Richford, Vt., while crossing the Missisquoi river from the Canada side to the village was drowned. She was propelling the boat by standing up and pulling on a rope which is strung across the river for that purpose, when she lost her balance and fell overboard.

The royalties on the Brush electric light for the month of May put $40,000 into the pocket of the inventor.

In New York, June 21st, by order of Judge Daniels, on a warrant of attachment for $173,000 at the suit of Abram O. Jackson, the property of the Louisiana State Lottery company, M. A. Dauphin, Charles F. Howard and others, was levied on by the sheriff. The bank accounts of the same parties were also attached. It is supposed that similar actions are about to follow with other lottery dealers.

At Virginia City, Nevada, June 21st, Alexander Gazette while drunk attacked with a pistol his friends who were taking him home, and killed Joseph La Fregnier, seriously wounded C. Monjean and C. Langors, and shot himself fatally.

Prof. Goode, special agent in charge of the fishery division of the census, has just submitted his report upon the fishery industries of the Pacific states and territories. By the tables it is seen that of the 16,745 persons employed, 7910 are Esquimaux, Aleuts and Indians, and about 4000 are Chinese. There are 5547 boats and fifty-three vessels employed in the trade. The total amount of capital employed for vessels, boats, apparatus and outfits, and buildings and apparatus of manufacture, is $2,748,383. In the salmon trade alone $1,381,200 is employed as capital, while the product is valued at $3,389,934. The value of the whale fishery product is estimated at $3,649,310.

Homer Wellington of Cambridge, Mass., was on the 22d inst. sentenced to fifteen years in the Massachusetts state prison for the attempted murder of his wife by poison. The charge of murdering his child was not pressed.

Two children of Andrew Downing, of Aroostook Junction, Me., saturated a cat with kerosene oil, and set her afire. The cat ran under a barn, which was burned, with 500 bushels of grain, sheep and hogs, farming implements, etc. No insurance. The owner is justly punished for not bringing up his children better.

A Constantinople despatch says tents are being pitched before the sultan's palace, and under the shelter of these the trials of the persons accused of the murder of Abdul Aziz will take place. The indictment demands the degradation, exile or confinement in a fortress of Nehmid Pasha, Ruchdi Pasha, Midhat Pasha, Mahmoud Pasha, Damad Pasha and Nouri Pasha; death or hard labor for Fabri Bey, and death of two others. Nehmid Pasha and the Ex-Sheikh Ul Islam will not be present at the trial. The latter will be tried at Mecca.

The authorities at Madrid, Spain, have resumed raids on the gambling hells. A young man, son of a gambling-house keeper, who was arrested in act of laying a large petard, confessed that he was an agent of a vast conspiracy of persons, who for five months have alarmed Madrid, hoping thereby to force the authorities to tolerate gambling. In consequence of his disclosures twenty-seven persons have been arrested, and warrants have been issued against others.

A brush factory, six small houses and a twelve-tenement block were burned in Quebec on the 21st inst. The total loss was not over $5,000.

Miss Dorcas Webber of Biddeford was badly bitten some weeks ago by a ferocious dog belonging to a man named Buker, and died on the 18th inst. from the effect of the bites.

The Pepperell mills at Biddeford were shut down entirely on Tuesday, the 21st inst., the gates being kept shut and the bell remaining silent. The Pepperell company's monthly payroll has averaged about $40,000, and the Laconia company's about $30,000; the latter corporation was running about half its looms on the 21st. Fifty-five thousand dollars a month taken out of circulation in a small city must have a very damaging effect on business generally.

New Hampshire Legislature.

On the 21st inst., in the house, a number of senatorial bills of a private nature were passed. The approaching legislative fight over the railroad law and the Dover & Winnepesaukee railroad extension is the absorbing topic, and an immense lobby is already on the ground. It is claimed by the friends of the general railroad law that the action of the house will be favorable, while they have grave doubts about that of the senate. They say the senate, being a small body, can be more easily controlled. The house on the 21st took the entire matter of the general law from the judiciary committee, and placed it in the hands of the railroad committee. A petition signed by the Amoskeag Manufacturing company and other manufacturing companies and business firms of Manchester, praying for a general railroad law, was presented and referred, as was a remonstrance signed by Warren F. Daniell of Franklin and others. The Manchester petition was a very weighty one.

The hearing upon the Lake Shore railroad matter, before the railroad committee of the house, which was set for the evening of the 21st, was adjourned to next week.

Mr. Hatch of Greenland on the 21st gave notice of a bill to provide for the better protection of destitute and abused children; and Mr. Peirce of Portsmouth a bill amending the charter of the Portsmouth Aqueduct company.

New Hampshire Items.

It is said at Concord that Gen. Marston's bill for taxing the production of ale, etc., will be likely to pass, with certain modifications. It is stated that the liquor dealers out of the state, whose sales have been largely decreased by the consumption of ale and lager instead of severer drinks, are quite of the opinion that brewers ought to pay a tax. Indeed, the spirits will combine against the brews. How the objection is to be obviated that the imposing a tax is in some way to a certain extent recognizing the business of the manufacture as lawful, is not yet plainly demonstrated; but the fact seems evident that a strong effort will be made to carry the tax bill in some shape through the present legislature.

It is reported that Hon. Wm. L. Foster will shortly retire from the supreme bench. The bar in the northern part of the state generally desire Hon. A. P. Carpenter, of Bath, to be appointed a judge. He is one of the ablest lawyers in the state, and has many elements of character which go toward making an able judge.

New Hampshire has sixty-four savings banks, doing business with 87,379 depositors in 1880, and 96,881 in 1881. These banks have $52,097,734.71 on deposite, and their total assets are $34,329,433.50.

St. Paul's school of Concord receives a legacy of $6000 by the provisions of the will of the late John N. Swift of New York city.

Lillian Nutt, widow of Commodore Nutt, has applied for letters of administration on her late husband's estate. She is only nineteen years of age, and it will be necessary to appoint a guardian. The Commodore left but little property—a few articles of jewelry and clothing, valued in all at about $50.

Death from a Bite of a Spider.

On Tuesday of last week Charles H. Jellison, son of Frederick Jellison, who lives on the Hollis road, not far from the poor-farm, was bitten by a black spider, from the effects of which he died. On Tuesday morning when the boy came out of his sleeping room he informed his mother that a spider had bitten him. She turned down the clothes and found a black spider in the bed. But little notice was taken of the bite, which was just over one of his eyes. It commenced to swell, and on Friday they called a physician. At this time the boy's face was very much swollen; he was delirious, and his pulse had arisen to 160. The doctor gave his his opinion that the boy would live about forty-eight hours. He died on Monday morning. It was a clear case of blood poisoning. The boy was fourteen years of age.—Biddeford Times.

AROUND HOME.

Mrs. Theodate Pike, of Hampton Falls, a lady ninety years of age, fell down stairs on the 20th inst., and broke one of her legs.

A train of five covered teams, supposed to carry a party of gipseys, passed through this city on the 22d inst., en route for Dover.

The schooner Mayor Jones arrived at Deane's wharf on Tuesday of this week with one hundred and twenty barrels of mackerel.

On Tuesday forenoon, at Biddeford, a five-years-old son of Anthoine Petit was run over by a heavily-loaded team, and instantly killed.

The coasting vessels in port on Wednesday, the 22d inst., had their flags up in honor of the abolition of that ancient and oppressive swindle, compulsory pilotage through Hell Gate.

On Tuesday of this week the train from the west which ordinarily arrives here at nine o'clock in the evening was nearly half an hour late. There were twelve cars, including three Pullman cars, in the train.

The son of Mrs. Mary J. Gilman, who charred remains were found in the ruins of her dwelling at Kittery Point on the morning of June 2d, has offered a reward of $500 for the arrest and conviction of the person or persons who it is believed murdered and robbed her, and then set the house on fire.

A fast extra express train has recently been put on the Eastern railroad between Boston and Dexter, Me. It passes through this city at eight o'clock A. M., and carries three refrigerating cars containing fresh and salt water fish. The cars are of the monitor style, and handsomely painted and decorated.

It is a little singular that the managers of the Roxbury Horse Guard's reception at the Wentworth, Wednesday evening of this week, should have forgotten or omitted to send an invitation to the only gentleman in the city who holds a colonel's commission for services rendered in the war for the Union, and the only colonel's commission in the state, we believe, that is signed by Abraham Lincoln.

The schooner Thomas B. Garland, built at Bath, Me., by Goss, Sawyer & Packard for Dover and Portsmouth owners, will probably be launched on Saturday. She is intended for the coal trade and general freighting, and will be commanded by Capt. Gustavus Kelly of West Harwich, a brother to the captain of the C. H. Trickey. Mr. John R. Holbrook of this city is making the new schooner's sails.

The personal estate of the late James T. Fields has been appraised at $124,472.27. It consists of notes, bonds, and shares in the Bigelow Carpet company, Pepperell Manufacturing company, Kearsarge mills, and western railroads. There are also copyrights of his works. His house at Manchester, Mass., is valued at $8500; his estate on Charles street, Boston, at $17,900; furniture, books, etc., at $5500.

Mr. John Shea, son of Dennis Shea and formerly of this city, is doing an extensive business in the manufacturing of cement pipes in Dover. He is to make large additions to his buildings, and will add to his present occupation the selling of lime and cement. Mr. Dennis Shea, his brother, who lately left this city to take a position in Smith & Wesson's fire-arms manufactory in Hartford, Conn., got burned recently by the bursting of some barrels of coaline, but has recovered and is at work again.

To the State Printer, our thanks for the Manual for the use of the General Court and the other fellows.

The steamer Fearless on the 22d inst. commenced touching at Newcastle on her trips to and from this city and Kittery Point.

The fishing schooner Mayor Jones, for Boston bay, and the schooner Golden Gate, for Boston, sailed from Doane's wharf on Wednesday.

The schooner H. S. Boynton arrived at this port on the 22d inst. from New York, with one hundred and twenty tons of salt for C. Morris Tredick.

The schooner Addie & Hattie arrived on Wednesday of this week with a good fare of live lobsters. Capt. Davis reports lobsters as being very scarce.

The building put up on Fishing islands by Mr. Charles Hall for a dining-room and saloon is finished, and the establishment goes into operation to-day.

The schooner Helen F. Tredick left the lower harbor on the 22d inst. for Cashe's, for salted fish. The schooner Grace Choate will sail this morning for the same place, on the same errand.

About sixty feet of the pipe in the artesian well at the Wentworth house has been taken up, in order to stop the flowing in of water from a vein that is not as pure as that first obtained.

An industrious young man belonging in this city, but for a year or two past residing in a sea-coast town of Massachusetts, was desirous of taking as his wife a respectable and worthy young woman of the place; the girl favored the scheme, and her father only made objection as to time, urging that the young fellow should have a few hundred dollars ahead before he commenced business as a husband. Two or three weeks ago the lover invested thirty-five cents in some kind of a local lottery, and drew a piano valued at $300, which sum the managers of the lottery paid to him in lieu of the piano. Our young townsman now does his courting at his own home.

The class-day exercises of Phillips academy at Exeter were held in the chapel, on the afternoon of the 21st inst. The class history was given by Peter Burke of Milford, Mass.; the prophecy, by Joseph Adna Hill of Temple; the oration, by John Francis Holland of Milford, Mass.; the poem, by Marvin Merchant Taylor of Jefferson, N. Y. Ethan Allen, of Mumford, N. Y., was president of the day. At the close of the exercises the class gathered around the class tree, and cheered the different classes. Afterward, there was the usual rush for bouquets. In the evening a brilliant reception was held, which was largely attended. Music, day and evening, was furnished by Edmonds' band of Boston.

THE CAVALRY VISIT.

The Roxbury Horse Guard, Capt. C. A. Young, arrived in this city at half-past twelve o'clock on the 22d inst., as per previous announcement, and were received at the depot by the Portsmouth Cavalry, Capt. E. D. Coffin. The latter company had provided horses for the visitors, and escorted them over the advertised route, a platoon of police leading off. The cavalcade made a fine appearance and delighted the crowds of spectators.

After the march about the city the visiting company was escorted to the Wentworth, where they and their invited guests discussed a dinner gotten up in Capt. Hilton's usual excellent style. Capt. Young made an opening address at the table, and Higgins' band furnished excellent music during the repast, at the close of which Capt. Young called upon Past Commander Holmes for a speech, which was followed by toasts, responses to which were made by Mayor Sise of Portsmouth, Col. Andrew H. Young of Dover, Adj't. Gen. Ayling of New Hampshire, Asst. Adjt. Gen. I. F. Kingsbury of Massachusetts, Past Commander Geo. Curtis of the Roxbury Guard, Capt. Geo. W. Towle of Newcastle (for "The Portsmouth Cavalry,") Wm. R. Foster, Esq., Col. D. J. Vaughan, Gen. Chamberlain of Massachusetts, Past Comdr. A. P. Calder of the Guard (for "The Ladies,") Rev. James DeNormandie (for "The Clergy,") and Col. Wm. H. Hackett (for "The Press,") the closing speech being by Charles H. Sawyer, Esq., of Dover.

In the evening from seven to eight o'clock, a concert was given by the band; and at half-past eight a largely attended ball was opened, which was kept up to a reasonably late hour, the rich dresses of the ladies and the showy uniforms of the soldiers presenting a brilliant appearance.

The Guards come up to this city this forenoon and will dine at the Rockingham, where also a concert will be given by the band at one o'clock.

Warden of the State Prison.

People who know Captain David M. Earle, special sheriff of Worcester county, who was appointed by the governor on Saturday as warden of the state prison, say that the appointee is a fine man. Judge Devens recommends him highly, General Sprague adds his testimony, and as a soldier, a deputy collector of internal revenue, and as a sheriff's officer, the universal testimony is that Captain Earle is prompt, efficient, and of remarkable executive ability. He is offered a position where all this good reputation will be wiped out in a few years at the price of $3500 a year. If he is as prompt and efficient and of as good executive ability as he is represented, he will shortly be investigated by philanthropists and made to appear a tyrant, cruel and ferocious, as appears by examples in New Hampshire and Connecticut. If he steers clear of this rock he will find himself charged with inefficiency, lack of discipline, and very probably of using his office to make money out of the state. He will be expected to treat murderers and burglars and violators of women as if they were men enlisted under him as patriots; and if he succeeds to the satisfaction of the executive, the legislature and the people, he will be the paragon of wardens. If he were an intimate of ours we would advise him rather to saw wood or shovel gravel at a dollar a day than to incur the abuse which is sure to come at $3500 a year.—Newburyport Herald.

Quick Work.

A rapid piece of work was done lately at Bucyrus, Ohio, in replacing with an iron bridge an old wooden one. A scaffolding was first erected next the old bridge, and the new structure put together on it. Then all being in readiness and every part in place, the old bridge was removed and the new placed in position. This was accomplished in two hours and fifteen minutes. At 12:30 the last train crossed the old bridge, which the workmen commenced to remove. Then the new structure was gradually drawn into permanent position by means of two large windlasses, one placed at each end of the bridge, and each worked by four men. This operation occupied eighteen minutes. Then the connecting rails were laid, the roadway filled in firm, and at 2:45 the first train passed over the new bridge.

Regimen in Heart Disease.

At a meeting of the Association Francaise, at Rheims, Professor Potain presented his views on the diet to be followed in certain diseases, and pronounced the milk regimen as one especially efficacious in secondary diseases of the heart—simple hypertrophy or dilatation having a renal or stomachal origin. This regimen, he finds, modifies in the one case the condition of the kidneys, and in the other that of the stomach, in this sense, particularly, that it imparts to these organs a more complete repose; but in order to be really beneficial it must be absolute and prolonged—intervening usefully in cases of simple reflex palpitations, when this reflex disturbance originates in the stomach. Its diuretic action may prove of utility in cases of dropsy, especially, and perhaps exclusively, when the dropsy is the consequence of secondary renal disturbance, or of a phlogosis of the serous membrane.

—It is always better to keep out of a quarrel than to make it up ever so amicably after you have gone into one.

A Card.

The corner stone of the new Christ's Church, is to be laid Friday the 24th inst. at 3 o'clock p. m. by Frank A. McKean, Esq. the Grand Master of the Masons of the State, with the customary Masonic services. The procession will form on Market Square, and will move precisely at three o'clock.

The Trustees of the new church cordially invite the officers of the Army and Navy, all civil officers, the reverend clergy, and citizens generally, to join the procession and participate in the ceremonies of the occasion.

Citizens and invited guests are requested to assemble at half past two o'clock at the city rooms, where they will be waited on by the Marshal of the day, and assigned to honorable places in the procession.

Wearing her Honors Meekly.

A few nights ago a burglar entered a private residence on Sixth avenue, New York, and stole cautiously up stairs with the intention of ransacking the house. On reaching the first landing he observed a light in the front chamber, and while debating what to do a large woman in her night clothes suddenly descended upon him and seized him by the throat, forced him down into and through the hall, and opening the door pushed him into the street before he fully recovered his self-possession.

The story found its way into the newspapers under the head of "Heroic Repulse of a Burglar by a Woman," and the day following she was visited by a number of friends, who congratulated her on her courage.

"Gracious goodness!" was her response; "I didn't know it was a burglar. If I had I would have been frightened half to death. I thought it was my husband come home drunk again, and was determined he should not stay in the house in that condition."

—We have heard considerable about the habit girls have of sitting on one leg. It's a very bad one, particularly if the leg does not belong to the young lady.

Centaur Liniment.

Invaluable to families, and owners of horses Sold everywhere.

—A lady who, in consequence of great reverse of fortune, had been working for a fashionable milliner, says she is absolutely amazed to find to what an extent in the days of her wealth she was swindled in her bonnets and dresses.

Castoria.

—Emotional insanity, temporary fury and nervous excitement don't go down with jurors in Wisconsin in cases of murder. They hold that a man who keeps a gun loaded for three days to kill a person must know what he is about.

Ash-Tonic;

A perfected purifyer of the system. In 1-2lb. bottles; 75 cents. For dyspepsia, the many forms of liver complaint, impure and impoverished blood, and functional derangements attendant upon debility. For symptons indicated by indigestion, loss of appetite, nausea, sick headache, sour stomach, furred tongue, drowsiness, blanched lips, sallow complexion, pain in the side or back, eruptions, depression of spirits, nervous irritability and hysteria, and for building up the system, ash-tonic is unquestionably the most prompt and energetic remedy yet devised.

—The wise ones say that nothing is so hard to bear as prosperity; but most men would like to engage in some hard work of that description, just to have a practical illustration of the adage.

Prejudice Kills.

"Eleven years our daughter suffered on a bed of misery under the care of several of the best (and some of the worst) physicians, who gave her disease various names but no relief, and now she is restored to us in good health by as simple a remedy as Hop Bitters, that we had poohed at for two years, before using it. We earnestly hope and pray that no one else will let their sick suffer as we did, on account of prejudice against so good a medicine as Hop Bitters."—The parents.—Telegram.

—Worldly faces never look so worldly as at a funeral. They have the same effect of grating incongruity as the sound of a coarse voice breaking the stillness of night.

The location of this property is unsurpassed, being near the celebrated "Robinson Consolidated," "White Quail," "Aftermath" and "Wheel of Fortune" mines, in the Ten-Mile Consolidated Mining District, and as prospect property is as valuable as any in Colorado.

Development work is to be actively and vigorously pushed, under the experienced management of Thos. Gowanlock, one of the most intelligent and experienced mining superintendents in Colorado.

Daily Chronicle.

Chronicle Correspondence.

BRISTOL, GRAFTON CO., June 23d.

Mr. Editor: I must give a description of this out-of-the-way town if I can, although no pen can do justice to the varied beauties of this diversified landscape. The surface of the town is very uneven; almost every street runs up hill and some even seem to stand on end, thus giving every ambitious native who is desirous of rising in the world an opportunity to climb. From the summit of Sugar hill one can get a bird's eye view of the whole village, and a pamoramic survey of the beautifully diversified country which streches miles away on every side, except where here and there gigantic hills raise their rugged barriers to meet the clouds that seem to pile their vapory boulders in Titanic heaps upon their thunder-smitten heads. The roar of waterfalls, mingled with and subdued by the murmer of restless brooks as they fret their winding channels, rises to the ear like the distant rote of the sea as heard through the pines at Rye. So much for pictorial effect: now for business.

Bristol affords full scope for the energies of the farmer, manufacturer, merchant and miner. There are fully thirty manufactories of various products in the town, including wheel axles, straw-board, paper, woollen cloth, patent suspenders, buck-gloves, bedsteads, hose, sashes, blinds, and—I forget the rest of the list.

The Bristol Enterprise is worthy of its name, and its gentlemanly editor knows how to make a newspaper that people will read.

At a mountain northwest of Sugar hill is a mine rich in various ores, among others gold, silver and lead. There is already completed about 300 feet of tunneling, and a shaft between fifty and sixty feet in depth; and a recently found vein promises to be richer in minerals than any previously discovered. Prof. Shaler of Harvard college, who visited the mine as a government mineralogist and geologist, expressed a favorable opinion of its value, and sent various specimens to the department at Washington. The mine has been worked about two years, yet very little information has been given to the public, as the mine is owned by an exceedingly close corporation. The operations are being conducted under the superintendence of Dr. [illegible], a practical and theoretic mining engineer, who is personally interested in the mine. The doctor also owns a newly-discovered mica ledge on Carter mountain in New Hampton, about five miles from Bristol, from which he has taken mica rivalling for size, transparency and tenacity the best yet discovered in any country, and which can be rifted into sheets one tenth the thickness of letter paper. The value of such a discovery can be appreciated when it is known that mica has increased one-third in value within a year. Its use in various manufactures is rapidly increasing.

ROVER.

An Overdose of Indian Hemp.

A Lewiston young man, about twenty years of age, took fifteen grains of Indian hemp, Saturday evening. His idea was that Indian hemp was exhilarating, and that its effect would be the same as wine, or alcoholic liquors. He took such a large quantity, (one-half a grain to a grain being an ordinary dose) that it nearly killed him. He at first became delirious and then passed into a deep sleep. He had informed his folks what he had done, and they sent for a physician, in alarm. The doctor worked over him all night. At one time, the symptoms were so alarming that he feared the patient would die, and he called another physician. They succeeded in overcoming the effects of the drug, and the young man is now recovering. An experienced physician in this city states that a large class of young men have gained the impression from reading high pressure novels and flashy works, that Indian hemp is a valuable tonic and has some sort of wonderful effect on the system, whereas it should never be used, except by prescription.—Lewiston Journal.

Princely Plants.

The cut-flower business, another phase of horticulture, is perhaps greater in the United States than in any part of the world. Certainly the use of cut-flowers in New York, for bouquets, baskets, and other designs, is far greater than in London or Paris, and the taste shown in their arrangement here is vastly superior. It is estimated that millions of dollars were paid for cut-flowers in New York in 1880, one-third of which was paid for rose-buds. Immense glass structures are erected in the suburbs for the special purpose of growing cut-flowers to supply the bouquet makers of the city. Not less than twenty acres of glass surface is devoted to the purpose of forcing roses alone, during the winter months. At some seasons the prices paid for these forced rose-buds are perfectly astonishing. One grower, of Madison, New Jersey, took into New York three hundred buds of the crimson rose known as "General Jacqueminot," for which he received, at wholesale, three hundred dollars, and which, no doubt, were retailed at a dollar and fifty cents to two dollars each. A flower-dealer in Fourteeth street a few days before Christmas received the only four of this same variety of rose that were offered in the city, and found a customer for them at sixty dollars, or fifteen dollars apiece, or eight times the value of their weight in gold.—Scribner's Monthly.

Don't Trust Them.

When you feel badly, and have pains here and there through your body that you don't know how to account for, it is the most foolish policy in the world to take the advice of people who say: "Oh! there's nothing the matter with you. Let yourself alone and you will come out all right." These folks know nothing about it, and may be trifling with your life. You may have kidney or liver trouble. Send right out to your druggist and get a bottle of Dr. David Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy" and then you will be all right, or write to the doctor at Rondout, N. Y.

The indications at present are, so the fishermen say, that there will be a large catch of mackerel this season. A new enterprise has been started in Boston and Gloucester, and perhaps other places, which is growing to large proportions. Several hundred barrels of mackerel are daily put up, fresh, in one pound cans, and are meeting a good demand from all over the country, though principally from the west. The small mackerel are preferred for this purpose—such fish as are often thrown away as useless when the mackerel are running anyway large.

Arrested!

Charles A. Dailey was arrested last evening for stealing from the drug store of Shiefman, a bottle of Sulphur Bitters. Before the court this morning, upon being asked why he should steal it, he stated that his mother was troubled with rheumatism, and that it was the only medicine that helped her, and being out of money and work was the cause of his stealing. As this was his first offence he was put on probation.—Newark News.

FRIDAY, JUNE 24, 1881.

Another Comet.

L. T. Edwards, of Hawford college, Pa., E. L. Larkin, of New Windsor, Ill., and P. H. Thompson, of Bluffton, Ga., all discovered a large comet in the northeastern sky, on the morning of the 23d inst. It is believed to be the great comet of 1812.

New Hampshire Legislature.

In the house, at the morning session on the 22d, an ingenious method was adopted to get up an excuse for the members to neglect public business in the afternoon in order to join in the grand rush for the circus ground. A member of the house introduced a preamble and resolution to the effect that whereas [illegible] passed di[illegible] notice to take away our brother member M. B. Haynes, etc., be it therefore resolved that when the house adjourn this morning it be to meet to-morrow morning at ten o'clock. The proposition met with favor as a matter of course, and the preamble and resolution were unanimously adopted, in entire good faith. Only a minute passed, however, when some one discovered that by a peculiar coincidence the circus was in town, and immediately there was an attempt to reconsider. Such action, however, would be an exhibition of disrespect to the deceased member after the resolution had been adopted, and the motion was voted down; the gentleman who had been misled took the joke in good part, and immediately adjourned and purchased their tickets for the circus. The said deceased died and was buried some two months ago. The responsibility for this unique scheme is laid at the door of several newspaper men.

On the 22d a bill was introduced to incorporate the Hampton & Rye Beach narrow gauge railroad.

The act authorizing the Concord & Portsmouth railroad to construct a spur track to the Epping camp ground was ordered to a third reading.

News and Notes.

Thomas Garfield, uncle to President Garfield, and Mrs. Alonzo Arnold, a sister of Dr. Boynton and cousin of the President, were riding in a buggy about twelve miles from Cleveland, Ohio, June 22d, when the carriage was struck by a train. Mr. Garfield, who was eighty years old, was instantly killed, and Mrs. Arnold fatally hurt.

There were four fatal cases of sunstroke in New Orleans on the 22d inst.

At Grand Haven, Mich., early in the morning on the 22d inst., an attempt was made to lynch a man named Vaskamp, who murdered his employer a few weeks ago. Some dozen of the most respected farmers in that vicinity suddenly appeared at the jail, overpowered the deputy sheriff, and compelled him to give them the keys to the murderer's cell. They then went in and secured their proposed victim. The sheriff's wife, aroused by the noise in the absence of her husband from home, went to the spot, discovered the situation, closed the outside door of the jail, which the lynching party had left unguarded, and bagged the whole lot. She then sent a servant girl to ring the fire alarm, which called out the citizens and completely frustrated the whole attempt.

Charles Zofki, a German twenty-two years old and only two weeks in this country, was arrested in New York on the 20th inst. for sending to a firm of fancy goods dealers for $500, and threatening death if the demand was refused.

An unknown man a few days ago entered the yard of Wm. Dodd at Providence, R. I., and attempted to kidnap a boy three years old by putting him in a large basket. Mrs. Dodd and one of the neighbors saw the attempt, and running into the yard managed after a struggle to get the boy away from the man, who then made his escape.

A bold bank robbery was perpetrated at the First National bank of Detroit, Mich., at noon on the 22d inst. A small boy was sent into the cashier's private office, where the cashier and the president were engaged signing new currency, requesting him to step to the sidewalk to see a man. The cashier stepped out of the bank, leaving the president busily engaged signing sheets of currency. The man proved to be a stranger who desired a loan, and detained the cashier a long time. Meantime two confederates went into the private office; one boldly stepped up to the president, inquired for the cashier by name, and was told he would be in in a moment; the other scooped up a pile of signed bills, slipped them under his coat and quietly sauntered out, followed in a moment by his confederate. The amount taken was $2,080.

Elisha Sanford and wife, of Plainville, Conn., recently celebrated the 60th anniversary of their marriage. They have several children and grandchildren, and no death has ever occurred in their family.

There is said to be a haunted house at Bath, Me. Family after family have moved out after a few days' stay, things getting so fearfully unpleasant that they are unable to stop. The principal disturbance seems to be three distinct knocks after everything is quiet at night. The parties awakened from their sleep by the rapping try in vain to discover some cause for the disturbance, but as yet with no success. While the parties are awake nothing is heard, but as soon as they fall asleep the noise begins again. The matter is to be looked into at once.

The Porte has issued a circular pointing out that it has suppressed the local post-offices in Constantinople because of the facilities they afford for the transmission of revolutionary appeals, and calls upon the Powers to shortly abolish their respective post-offices in the interior of Turkey, and it says it hopes they will suppress the present service between Constantinople and foreign countries.

A Russian woman, recently arrested at Kiev for having in her possession a forged passport, proves to be "Yakimova," daughter of a priest, a participant in the attempt to murder the czar in 1879, and one of the tenants of the shop from which the Little Garden street mine was constructed.

THE BIDDEFORD STRIKE.

On the 22d inst. a committee of the strikers waited upon Mr. Howe, the agent, but no settlement of the difficulty was reached. The Pepperell mills remained entirely closed, while the Laconia was running 1,100 looms, an increase over the previous day. Reports from corporations running 125 mills had been received, showing that on the average the operatives are as well paid in Biddeford as elsewhere. At a meeting of the strikers in the evening it was decided not to go back, but to meet again the next night, when further reports were expected.

Peculiar Trunk.

A big Saratoga was shunted on a track at the union depot, and as it struck, one of the metallic corner-pieces flew across, while the artistic smasher grinned his satisfaction. The circumstance was not a notable one, save as it suggested to a man who was waiting the departure of a train, the adventures of a friend of his. The gentleman was a great traveller, and after observing the habits of the baggage-smashers in various countries, he had constructed a trunk of a peculiar pattern. It was as near the shape of an egg as the maker could frame it, and it was covered with sole leather. After one encounter with this trunk the smasher always treated it with respect. If it were tossed carelessly on the truck or floor of the car and other baggage piled upon it, the first jar would bring down the heap. In time the eccentricities of the peculiar piece were duly recognized, and no matter what the haste or confusion, it travelled safely on its shape, always on top, no matter how high the mountain of baggage was built. The egg-shaped trunk has already outlived a score of zinc-covered, metal-ribbed and corner-protected boxes, and still it is on the road, good for the owner's lifetime.

Drinking Too Much.

Drinking wine is a habit; so is drinking spirits, ale, cider, coffee and water. The last is thought a necessity; but to drink much is a habit. Some people drink little—not because their constitutions require less than others; it is their habit. These people never perspire so much as those who drink more. The more that is drank the more water passes away, or the system would suffer. As it is, the strain affects it. The skin, the kidneys, bowels, lungs, all are drawn upon. The result is, as may be naturally expected, exhaustion. For this reason, the man who drinks much water, particularly during the summer and in the hottest weather, is less able to endure fatigue. The water is of no benefit to him—that is the excess. It must pass away, and this requires an effort of the system, which is the sweating process. Had he not used the excess of water, he would not have perspired so; it would not have been there for the system to expel. It is a habit to drink water so much; a false thirst is created. We should drink only what is needed. The habit of drinking more will soon be overcome, and the person will feel much stronger and more capable of bearing fatigue. In winter little fluid is needed beyond what our food furnishes; in summer, some more, but not much.

BRIGHTON CATTLE MARKET.

Country Tallow 4 to 4 1-2c per lb.

Northern Sheep and Lamb Skins $1 25 to $1 75 each.
Spring Lamb Skins 50c each.

Trade for western beef cattle has been slow, and the quality of them was better upon an average than those in one week ago. There has been a fair demand for the best grades of cattle for shipment to Europe at prices ranging from 6 1-2 to 6 3-4c per lb live weight. Taking quality into consideration prices obtained for butchers' cattle have been about the same as those paid last week. From Maine there were a few milch cows and stockers, there being no beef cattle or working oxen among them.

Working Oxen—Not much call for workers. A few pairs each week during the hot weather is all the markets require. We did not notice any in market this week.

Store Cattle—Only a few in market. One lot of 24, average weight 1000 lbs, sold at 4 1-2c per lb live weight; 9 average weight 865 lbs, sold for 4c per lb live weight.

Milch Cows—Extra $55 to $70, ordinary $18 to $50; springers sold for $20 per head. We quote sales of 5 cows and calves for $200 the lot; 5 new milch cows at $40 each; 8 cows and calves for $146 the lot, 1 do $42 50; 1 do $38; 2 springers for $90; 1 do $33.

Veal Calves—Those from Maine sold quick; 35 for $6 50 each; 15 for $100 the lot; 48, average weight 130 lbs, for 5 1-2c per lb live weight.

Sheep and Lambs—Those from the west were all owned by butchers, costing landed at the Abattoir from 5 1-2 to 8 1-4c per lb live weight.

Swine—Prices of fat hogs remain unchanged, costing 6 1-2 to 7c per lb live weight landed at the slaughter houses. Spring Pigs $2 00 to $3 50 per head.

AROUND HOME.

Major Urch, accompanied by a lady, was out on the river on Thursday. The lady seemed to manage the marine bicycle with perfect ease and confidence, and apparently with but little effort.

Schooner Ev. Nichols arrived at this port on Thursday from Gloucester, having sold at that place thirty-three thousand pounds of salted fish. The schooner Nettie Adams was at Gloucester on Tuesday, with seven thousand pounds of salted fish.

A newly-invented self-tipping coal-tub for use in discharging vessels has been sent by the maker to Mr. J. Albert Walker, for trial. It will hold 1000 lbs. of coal, and if it works as the inventor claims it will, will save a large amount of labor.

Frank Foss of Greenland met with a severe and painful accident on the afternoon of the 23d inst. While chopping in the woods his axe glanced, cutting a long, deep gash in his left foot. He was taken to his home, where the wound was dressed by Dr. Junkins.

The service in St. John's church to-day will be at eleven o'clock A. M., when it is expected that Bishop Jagger, of Southern Ohio, will be present. The choir and music will be much the same as on Easter Day. Members of the Masonic bodies, and all others, are cordially invited to attend.

The Horse Guard came up to this city Thursday forenoon, and after a short march were reviewed in front of the Rockingham house. They dined at the hotel, and from one o'clock until two the band gave an open-air concert which was listened to by a large concourse of people. At three o'clock the company marched to the depot, and took the train for Boston.

The schooner John Girard arrived at the Concord railroad wharf on the 22d inst. from Rockland, Me., with lime and cement for J. Albert Walker; and the schooner Eloüise arrived at the same place from South Amboy on the 23d, with 210 tons of broken coal for the same dealer. The steamer Lancaster, with 1663 tons of coal for Mr. Walker, is now due.

Considerable quantities of strawberries grown in the open air have been brought into this market from Stratham, Greenland and Eliot this season, and but little later than those brought from the southward. Strawberries of all kinds this year seem to need a large amount of sugar to render them palatable, there having been no warm weather to sweeten them on the vines.

Messrs. Geo. T. Vaughan & Co., ship chandlers, have recently furnished to Laighton Bros. & Co. of the Shoals a number of handsome flags made of American bunting, which is now considered better than any of foreign production. The texture has long been regarded as superior, but flags made of it would fade in color until about two years ago, when a method of fixing the colors was discovered, and now American bunting is unrivalled. Nearly all the campaign flags raised during the last presidential election were of this material, and so far as color was concerned they looked as bright and new when taken in as when first hoisted.

The New Hampshire Medical society, at its recent session in Concord, voted to hold a semi-annual meeting of the organization at the Wentworth hotel, Newcastle, early in September. Dr. S. C. Whittier of this city was appointed chairman of a committee to make full arrangements. Portsmouth physicians were elected to serve as follows: On executive committee, and as a delegate to the American Medical association, Dr. J. W. Parsons; on committee to represent the society before the legislature, Dr. S. C. Whittier; as delegate to the Maine Medical society, Dr. J. F. Hall.

Mr. Charles Hall will welcome his friends at his new summer resort, Fishing island, Kittery, on Sunday, with a free plate of chowder.

The spring term of the South Berwick academy closed on the 21st inst., with an exhibition in the afternoon, and a reception in the evening; Reinewald & Taylor's orchestra, of Dover, N. H., supplied the music for the occasion. There were sixty-five pupils in attendance the past term.

Somebody has been telling our neighbor a wrong story. It was at one time intended to dock the Lancaster to shingle her bottom with copper, but it has been decided to have the job done by carpenters who will work in a diving bell.

Mr. William A. Vaughan, eighty-two years of age, will appear with the Freemasons to-day and assist in laying the corner stone of Christ church, wearing the same apron that his grandfather, William Vaughan, wore on the 24th of June, 1807, when as Grand Tyler of the Grand Lodge of New Hampshire he assisted in laying the corner store of St. John's church.

The Portsmouth Cavalry will compare favorably with the Roxbury Horse Guard. Some members of the latter organization evidently thought they were creating a tremendous impression here—and in some respects they did so. Generally, however, the members of the Massachusetts company appeared to be sensible and respectable men, and the officers were gentlemen.

FIRE.

At about six o'clock Thursday evening the fire department was called out, and on arriving at the junction of Hanover and Fleet streets found a threatening state of affairs, the stable of Floron Barri, the ell of the house owned by Andrew Jones and occupied by Henry Webber, the rear of George W. Ayers' house, and the back part of John W. Johnson's house, being all on fire. For a short time it looked as though the nest of wooden buildings in that immediate vicinity was doomed, but in a very short time after the firemen got on their streams the fire was under control; it was splendidly handled, and the chief engineer and department are entitled to much credit for their excellent work.

The furniture in the several houses was rushed out in a hurry, as it had to be if gotten out at all, and much of it was badly damaged. Miss A. D. Chapman, who occupied Mr. Johnson's house, lost heavily in this way, as did also Mr. Ayers and Mr. Barri. Sam'l Stringer and Frank B. Johnson also removed all their goods, Mr. Stringer's suffering badly in the removal. The barn, the Ayers house, the Jones house, J. W. Johnson's house and several minor buildings were all badly injured, and the total loss is estimated at $4000 to $5000, mostly insured. The fire caught in the ell of Mr. Jones' house, it is supposed from a defective chimney.

MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

In Board of Mayor and Aldermen, regular meeting, Thursday evening, June 23d, Mayor Sise in the chair:

Mr. Hurd was granted permission to open Austin street to repair a drain.

The mayor stated that a drinking fountain and trough was very much needed, which would cost $25 if a self-acting fountain, such as Mr. Ayers has a sample of, was procured. Referred to the committee on streets, to report.

Ald. Vaughan reported on behalf of a committee in the case of Russell and others regarding the inspection of petroleum, that a satisfactory method of inspection had been adopted.

The mayor announced that the trustees of Christ church would provide carriages for the members of the city government on the 23d.

Enquiry was made by Ald. Sanborn as to whether the Common Council was in session. The mayor said he had called the council, but that many of the councilmen belonged to the fire department, and on account of the fire early in the evening not many would be present.

Adjourned for one week.

NAVY YARD ITEMS.

Pay day at the navy yard, Monday of this week. Amount disbursed for civil labors, $23,374.72.

The commodore's steam launch has been lengthened, an elliptic-shaped stern taking the place of the former square one, giving four feet additional length on the top. Steam was raised on Thursday, and the launch was taken out on the river.

The Lancaster has her topmasts on end, and is being rigged. Over one hundred and sixty gallant officers of the navy have expressed a readiness to be "ordered" to the Lancaster, while but few seem anxious to go in the other two ships of her class to be put in commission at other stations. Davis Bros. of this city obtained some fine photographic views of the ship just before she left the dock basin.

On dit, that Civil Engineer Endicott is likely to go to League island, to be succeeded here by Civil Engineer Craven.

A CARD.

The subscriber hereby tenders his sincere thanks to Chief Engineer Marston and the members of the fire department, for their successful endeavors to save his property from fire on the 23d inst., and would also express his admiration for the manner in which the ugly-looking fire was handled. Had his house not been dismantled, the department should at least have had a cup of coffee, as well as his thanks. He also heartily thanks the police for aid rendered.

FRANK B. JOHNSON.

A Great Comet!

"Have you noticed how much bigger the comet is this morning?" This was the query addressed to us by Officer Nowell as we were on our way home at 2:30 o'clock this morning. In answer to our wondering response he pointed out to us in the north-eastern sky a magnificent comet, with a nucleus as large as a star of the second magnitude, and a tail as long as six diameters of the moon. This comet was seen at about 2:30 o'clock on the previous morning by all the officers on duty, but was then comparatively small and faint, so it must be nearing the earth at a rate of speed absolutely inconceivable. It has been suggested that a comet is to knock the world to smithereens; and being determined to have the item in case this should be the one, we hurried back to our office and wrote this. We have done our duty; now let the comet come on.

A Card.

New Hampshire Items.

The following are the officers elected by the New Hampshire Medical society for the ensuing year: Dr. H. B. Fowler of Bristol president; Dr. A. H. Crosby of Concord, vice president; Dr. L. B. Howe of Manchester, treasurer; Dr. G. B. Conn of Concord, secretary; executive committee, Dr. J. W. Parsons of Portsmouth, Dr. P. A. Stackpole of Dover, Dr. M. W. Russell of Concord; censors, Drs. George Cook of Concord, J. C. Eastman of Hampstead, D. S. Adams of Manchester, I. G. Hill of Dover, S. G. Dearborn of Nashua, J. W. Parsons of Portsmouth, G. W. Hatch of Wilton, C. W. Tolles of Claremont, C. R. Gibson of Woodsville, Hosea Palmer of Meredith; committee to represent the society before the legislature, Drs. Crosby, Eastman, Russell, Stackpole, Whittier, Cook and Adams. The semi-annual meeting of the society will be held at the Wentworth hotel, early in September.

The present outlook is that the depositors in the Ashuelot savings bank at Winchester will receive dividends to the amount of sixty per cent. The loss of forty per cent falls heavily in a majority of cases, from the fact of so many of those having money in the institution being poor people. The report that Albee, the late treasurer, burned by mistake, in 1870, $24,000 in United States bonds, is not true. Since the late treasurer's arrest he has made no statement of any kind concerning his crime. His defence will be insanity.

The fifth annual meeting of the New Hampshire Dental society was held in Concord on the 22d inst., and was well attended. The programme of exercises included the yearly address by the president, D. W. Edgerly of Farmington; an oration by A. M. Dudley, D. D. S., of Salem, Mass., and essays by William Jarvis of Claremont and E. B. Davis of Concord. C. W. Clement, of Manchester, is secretary of the organization.

Rev. E. C. Spinney, formerly of this state, was recently ordained a D. D. by the Central University of Iowa.

Col. James E. Larkin of Concord has gone to Cincinnati to commence his labors as internal revenue agent.

Brace Up.

There is serious meaning in this expression. That wearied step, languid eye and feeling of general lassitude, come from "spring sickness." Be assured, a serious, and perhaps, fatal disease is close in its wake. The system wants cleansing of winter impurities; the sluggish blood needs to be sent in swift and clear currents through the veins. "Favorite Remedy" will do this; it will give new vigor to the body, brightness to the eye, a glow to the countenance and elasticity to the step. One dollar a bottle. Every druggist has it. Dr. David Kennedy, proprietor, Rondout, N. Y.

Col. Cash, who murdered a man in a duel some time ago, was acquitted by a jury in Charleston, S. C., a few days ago.

How it Was!

At the battle of Gettysburg I was shot through the left leg and was sent to the hospital. The army surgeons relieved me but pronounced my case incurable. It discharged pieces of bone, and for years I have suffered with a running sore. I tried everything which my limited means would allow, and experienced no relief until I tried Sulphur Bitters. I am now almost well, and shall continue their use.—Old Soldier.

Mr. Patterson Meant What he Said.

I hereby testify that my boy, ten years of age, was taken sick with typhoid fever, followed by congestion of the lungs. Dr. Dyer, an eminent physician of this place, stated that he thought the boy would run down with quick consumption. A Mr. Patterson told me that Coe's Cough Balsam was curing similar cases, and advised us to purchase it. When I carried it home, my wife laughed at me, but I knew that Mr. Patterson meant just what he said, and I determined to try it. Two bottles effectually cured him, so that now he is as tough and healthy as anybody.

SPASMS.

MRS. S. A. McIlwain, of Fergusonville, Delaware county, N. Y., writes: "Only a few days before I commenced using the "Favorite Remedy," in one of my spasms and sinking spells, my friends thought I was dead, and gave up the attempt to restore me to consciousness. I am confident that if I had not taken your medicine. "Favorite Remedy," during my periods of critical illness I should never have recovered. * * * That the Lord may bless you and increase your means of doing good is my daily prayer, and may many yet unborn praise the "Favorite Remedy" and its discoverer."

THE RUBY RIVER.

To keep the blood pure, is the principal end of inventions and discoveries in medicine. To this object probably no one has contributed more signally than Dr. David Kennedy, of Rondout, New York, in the production of a medicine which has become famous under the title of the "Favorite Remedy." It removes all impurities of the Blood, regulates the disordered Liver and Kidneys, cures Constipation, Dyspepsia, and diseases and weaknesses peculiar to females.

☞ When inquiring of your druggist for this new medicine, avoid being misled by remembering the name, Dr. David Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy," and the price, which is only one dollar a bottle, and that the doctor's address is Rondout, New York.—Ed.

Naval Affairs.

Master M. A. Schufeldt, son of Commodore Schufeldt, has been ordered to New York city in connection with the publication of a narrative of the cruise of the United States steamer Ticonderoga some two years since. The Ticonderoga, Commodore Schufeldt commanding, made a cruise around the world in the interest of American commerce.

Lieutenant Thomas C. McLean has been detailed to represent the United States navy at the Paris Electrical Congress.

The United States practice ships Standish and Mayflower, with the naval cadets on board, arrived at Portsmouth, Va., June 22d. The Constellation sailed from Annapolis, Md., on the same date, for a cruise.

Passed Assistant-Engineer G. K. Kearney has been ordered to hold himself in readiness for sea service. Passed Assistant-Surgeon L. B. Baldwin has been ordered to the practice ship Mayflower.

Lieutenants Edward P. Wood, William H. Jacques, Andrew C. McMecham, Edward P. Bridge and James H. Dayton, Ensigns David Peacock, William G. Cutler and John H. Parker, Surgeon Daniel McMurtrie, Chief Engineer B. B. F. Wharton, Passed Assistant Engineer Arthur Price, Gunner Charles B. McGruder, Carpenter Josiah E. Kein and Sailmaker George P. Barnes have been detached from the United States steamer Quinnebaug and ordered to proceed home and await orders; Lieutenant Franklin Hanford is ordered to the United States steamer Pensacola; Master George H. Peters is ordered to the Constitution; Ensign W. R. A. Rooney is ordered to the Wachusett; Passed Assistant Paymaster Stephen Rand from the Quinnebaug, and ordered to settle his accounts.

The United States steamer Trenton, flagship of the European station, Rear-Admiral Howell commanding, will sail for the United States about the 10th of September, having on board the descendants of General Lafayette, who will come as guests of this government to take part in the Yorktown centennial ceremonies.

Life on the Ocean.

An extraordinary story of shipwreck is brought to San Francisco by the Pacific Mail steamship City of Peking, which left Yokohama on May 27th. On the following day, when about 200 miles from port and 100 from land, her officers saw a signal of distress flying from a dismantled craft. A boat was sent to the wreck and returned with nine Japanese sailors, who declared that they had been boating around helplessly for nearly six months. Their vessel, the Yeisho Maru, of eighty-six tons register, set out from Hakodadi on December 4th, with a cargo of beans, seaweed and oil-cake. For weeks afterward she was pursued by fierce gales, her mast was carried away, and the compass was swept into the sea with nearly everything else she had on board except the crew and the cargo. From that time the sailors subsisted on the beans and seaweed, securing fresh water by spreading out a piece of canvas whenever it rained. One of the crew, an old and infirm man, succumbed to the hardship and exposure, but the rest, though in a shockingly filthy condition when picked up, were in fair health. The passengers by the City of Peking got up a concert, and collected $143 for their benefit.

—A cottage at one of the best known and most fashionable of the seaside resorts has been rented to a California millionaire for $4500 for the season. A dozen years ago the same man was a street-car conductor in the city of San Francisco.

Haunted Me.

A workingman says: "Debt, poverty and suffering haunted me for years, caused by a sick family and large bills for doctoring, which did no good. I was completely discouraged, until one year ago, by the advice of my pastor, I procured Hop Bitters and commenced their use, and in one month we were all well, and none of us have been sick a day since; and I want to say to all poor men, you can keep your family well a year with Hop Bitters for less than one doctor's visit will cost."—Christian Advocate.

—The laugh was decidedly on a storekeeper the other day who was exhibiting his sleight-of-hand skill to several friends the special feature being a trick of pushing a piece of wire up his nose and apparently drawing it from the back of his head. "You see it passes through," he remarked, "without interfering with my brain." "There's no great difficulty in that," said one of his auditors. "Why not?" innocently asked the merchant. "Cause it doesn't follow in your case that any brain could be interfered with."

For Medicinal and Domestic Use, a pure Whiskey is often required. Ask for the G. O. Taylor Old Bourbon. It is a standard article. Druggists and grocers have it. Chester H. Graves & Sons bottle it.

Portsmouth Chronicle.

SATURDAY, JUNE 25, 1881.

Let Us "Investigate" Something.

It is stated that of the members of the legislature who have received annual passes from the Boston & Maine railroad, to facilitate their visiting Alton Bay and ascertaining the proposed locality of the commencement of the line of the "Lake Shore," nearly all have concluded to retain the passes, just to see if such a doucur will have any effect on their votes. Some years since, when the Boston & Maine and Eastern roads suddenly competed with great energy as to remembering law-makers in this respect, passes could be borrowed or hired for a trifle, as it was impossible for the conductors to identify proper holders, and this kind of travel was so heavy that the train officials had no time to examine single passes. It is suggested that Barnum's circus followed the B. & M. R. R. plan, in obtaining an adjournment the other day, while the show was in Concord. Why can't we have a bribery investigation in our state, as well as in New York?

Railroad Commissioners' Report.

The thirty-seventh annual report of the railroad commissioners of the state is issued, showing the total mileage of steam roads in the state to be 1,005.09, and of horse railroads 6.35 miles. The Boston, Concord & Montreal appears to be largest, (with branches,) 166.56 miles. The West Amesbury branch of the Boston & Maine road is the shortest in the state, 2.25 miles. The Manchester horse railroad is 2.50, and the Concord 3.85 miles long. It is needless to say that the Manchester folks will try and lengthen their road at once, so as not to be outdone by the Concord people in this respect.

The commissioners reproduce and discuss the law of '81, relating to taxation of railroads. They think that it is worthy of consideration to enquire if it would not be better for our railroads to develope the resources of New Hampshire rather than to bend their energies to contribute to the enterprise of Boston; discuss the freight and car lines for through traffic, and explain their workings; refer to the duties of making returns, etc., and submit sundry practical suggestions and recommendations, conceding that it would be a good idea to have persons acquainted with railroad property, not as required by law non-stockholders, for commissioners, who are obliged to have their stock transferred while in office, to other holders.

It is suggested that the office should either be abolished or be made of some value to the state. As at present constituted the commissioners take such information as the railway officials are pleased to give in their reports or otherwise, and in time it is submitted to the legislature as the result of "an examination," a farce which no board seems before to have had the good sense to condemn.

New Hampshire Legislature.

In the house on the 23d, a bill was introduced to provide for the enforcement of the general laws requiring the approval of the governor and council, railroad commissioners and legislature, to certain contracts of railroad companies, Mr. Chandler of Concord introduced a bill to punish the giving or receiving of illegal free passes on railroads.

Notice was given of a bill to be introduced on the 24th, which is of the utmost importance. The bill provides that it shall be unlawful for any judge of the supreme court to hold any stock, or place of trust or profit in any corporation in this state, which shall disqualify him from sitting in any case or matter which may come before him for official action; that if any judge of the supreme court shall after this act goes into effect, continue to hold any stock or place of trust or profit in any corporation in this state, it shall be deemed and taken ipso facto a resignation of said office of judge, and the governor and council shall proceed to fill his place by a new appointment; that no judge of the supreme court shall accept a free pass on any railroad in this state without the forfeiture of his said office; that the fares of the judges to and from the places in which they shall hold terms of court shall be paid by the treasurers of the several counties in which such courts may be held, on certificate of said judge of the court as to payment of such fares.

News and Notes.

A despatch from Little Rock, Ark., dated June 23d, says: "Advices from Fort Smith indicate that affairs in the Chickasaw and Chocktaw nations have reached a crisis. The United States cavalry at Fort Sill are ordered to report for duty to United States Agent Tufts at Muskogee. June 24th, to co-operate with the Chocktaw militia, under Gov. McCurtain, in removing the white intruders and their stock from the limits of the nation. The Chocktaw militia, 300 strong, will form a juncture with the United States troops at Fort McAllister. Great terror and distress exist. More than 300 families have crossed the border in the last ten days, leaving everything behind. The roads are lined with flying fugitives who have abandoned their cabins to the flames, the growing crops to destruction, and the stock on the ranches. A number of whites refuse to leave, and threaten to fight if force is used."

A sequel to the trial of Metheun's constable Mitchell, for the shooting of Maurice Sullivan in August, 1880, while Sullivan was stealing apples on the farm of Asa M. Bodwell, was given in the police court at Lawrence, Mass., on the 22d inst. Sullivan died, and at the late term of the superior court Mitchell was tried for manslaughter and acquitted. Among the witnesses against Mitchell were John Freeman, Jeremiah Reardon, John Fitzgerald and Michael Fitzgerald, who were with Sullivan when the affair occurred, and engaged in the fight with the officers. On the 22d, on a warrant sworn out by Asa M. Bodwell, in whose orchard they were when detected by the officers, and by Horace C. Whittier, the constable who assisted Officer Mitchell when the affair occurred, they were arraigned for assault and trespass, and were sentenced to pay fines of $20 and one-fourth costs each. They appealed, and furnished $200 bonds.

E. P. Shaw of Newburyport has been given a contract to furnish and place sixty thousand tons of rocks for the jetties at that place at $1.32 per ton.

Michael Early, twenty-two years old, was killed at Brockton, Mass., June 22d, through a hack he was driving being struck by a train. Two men in the hack were hurt, but not seriously.

Chas. B. Sawtelle of Cambridgeport, Mass., who has been in the drug business in Boston for several years past, fell dead on the 22d at the residence of Mrs. Charles H. Gibbs, in West Lebanon. His death was caused by dropsy of the heart. The husband of Mrs. Gibbs was killed on the 10th by a kick from a vicious horse, and Mr. Sawtelle was at the funeral.

A five-months' old child of Mrs. Fritz of Philadelphia, in the absence of the mother last Thursday morning, was attacked and frightfully bitten by rats, and died in the evening.

Nelson Dingien, Jr., ex-governor of Maine and editor of the Lewiston Journal, was on the 22d inst. nominated for Congress to succeed Hon. Wm. P. Frye from the second congressional district of Maine.

At Antioch, Ind., on the evening of the 22d inst., a mob of strikers refused to allow the men in the railroad shops to go to work; then they broke into a saloon kept by one Brabaker, who opened fire on them, fatally wounding three men and seriously wounding others. A justice of the peace named Dawson, while trying to quell the riot, was riddled with buckshot.

One hundred and fifty masked men at Danbury, N. C., on Monday night, the 20th inst., took E. Hairstone and J. Lindsey, negroes, from jail and hanged them. They were convicted for outrages on white women.

Henry Daniels of Troy, N. Y., has been sent to the penitentiary for six months for having imprisoned his idiotic child two years in a bare room. A reporter of the Troy Times unearthed the case and was the leading witness against Daniels.

—A Louisville observer has taken 1,000 notes of the conversation of passing young women. Out of that number 780 began with either 'And I said to him," or "He said to me," or "She told me that he said;" 120 referred to dresses or hats that were either "pretty lovely," or "just splendid," and the remainder were pretty evenly divided between comments on other girls, who were "horrid" or "stuck up and hateful," new novels, studies, the summer vacation and the latest scientific discoveries.

AROUND HOME.

Police Officer Shannon received an ugly cut in the face while lending aid at the fire last Thursday evening, a piece of glass, driven by a stream from a fire engine, striking him with such force as to stick into the flesh, requiring to be pulled out by hand.

In removing the rubbish from the cellar of the Frisbee house at Kittery, on the site where Committee Craven has recently built, was found a lady's shoe of ancient style, shaped like a Chinese pattern, with pointed toe. It is now in possession of Mrs. Chase, one of the descendants of the former owner of the place.

Miss A. D. Chapman, who was driven from her residence, No. 31 Hanover street, by the fire on the 23d inst., lost a gold watch during the fire. On Friday morning it was found in the ruins, not much damaged, by Herbert Ayers, son of Mr. George W. Ayers, who also was turned out of house and home by the fire.

The roads leading to the Burnham and Goodwin farms on Gerrish's island, Kittery, have been put in good order. Mr. Porter R. Emery had charge of repairing the Burnham road, and Messrs. Wadleigh & Drew of the Goodwin road. Several ledges which were in the road have been removed, and a large amount of filling-in has been done.

Portland Commandry of Knights Templar of Portland, Me., Leander Fobes eminent commander, arrived in this city about noon on Friday, with Chandler's band, the party numbering about 125, including ladies and the band. Barges were taken at the depot for Newcastle, the party stopping at the Wentworth, where they had a social dance in the evening.

A splendid crop of grass has been growing on the surface of the south pond for a week past, and on Thursday night the water of the pond was as "flagrantly odious" as Mrs. Partington's bouquet of roses. Unless the vegetation is cleared away before the 4th of July, the south-end boys will have to hire a mowing machine to go ahead of their boats before they start their boat-races that day.

There were seventy-five boarders at the Appledore house on Friday. The Oceanic opens to-day (Saturday,) and the steamer Pinafore will commence running between Appledore and Star islands on Monday. Capt. Joseph Haley, of the Pinafore, has been on a vacation for some days, visiting his friends in Haverhill, Mass., but will return in time to take charge of his boat on her first trip.

Charles E. Batchelder, Esq., for some years past judge of the police court in this city, is mentioned as the possible successor of Judge Foster on the supreme bench. Judge Batchelder is a young man of more than ordinary legal ability, and an industrious student in his chosen profession; he read law with Ex-Gov. Gaston of Massachusetts, whose professional ability is widely known, and who speaks of Mr. Batchelder in terms of strong commendation; and should he be appointed to the supreme bench would worthily fill the position.

Mr. Editor: Is it a part of the duty of the Portsmouth police to escort through our streets processions either of local or visiting organizations, when there is not even a pretense of a suspicion that any annoyance will be offered? If not, who has authority to detail the force for such "service" as escorting cavalry?

Again: The Times of the 23d inst. says, "Four of the regular police were on duty at the Wentworth house last evening." How long is it since it became the duty of Portsmouth to police Newcastle? That some official is assuming the exercise of a power he does not legally possess, is the way it looks to A CITIZEN.

Dog fish are reported as striking in thick in this vicinity, and mackerel have decamped.

The National Granite State bank at Exeter has declared a dividend of five per cent, payable July 5th.

The city Directory is for sale at Willis G. Myers' bookstore. All who have not already secured a copy of this work can obtain one there.

Paymaster Henry T. Wright is detached from the navy yard, and ordered to settle his accounts. Paymaster John F. Tarbell is ordered to the yard, July 5th.

Murray's circus this afternoon and evening. The best time for ladies and children to visit the show is in the afternoon, avoiding the crush at night, and seeing exactly the same performance as in the evening. See advt.

Portland Commandry of Knights Templar will leave the Wentworth this morning at nine o'clock, in carriages; alighting at Richards avenue, they will march to the music of Chandler's band through Middle, State, Pleasant, Congress and Vaughan streets to the depot, and take the cars for Portland.

The Massachusetts Press Association arrived from Portland by a special train between eight and nine o'clock Friday evening, and proceeded directly to the Wentworth at Newcastle in teams. They will remain at the Wentworth until Sunday, when they will scatter themselves along the beaches and at the Shoals.

In the list of hotels and boarding-houses in this vicinity which was published in the CHRONICLE of the 24th inst., we omitted to mention the hotel on Smuttynose island, Isles of Shoals, kept by Mr. Lemuel B. Caswell — a favorite resort year after year for those who have once patronized it, as is shown by the fact that every room in the hotel is now engaged.

Mr. Floron Barri acknowledges the services of the fire department and his friends who by their efforts saved his property from fire on Thursday evening last. In the collecting of his household goods, which were removed in great haste, he finds them uninjured, without a scar or dent, and would express to all who rendered him assistance his warmest thanks.

Mr. John Connors, driver for the Portsmouth Brewing Co., was thrown from his team on Friday afternoon when turning the corner at Franklin buildings, and seriously if not fatally injured. He was conveyed to his home and found to have sustained concussion of the spine; his legs were paralysed, as were also his arms below the elbows, and there was a dangerous internal hemorrhage. His recovery was considered hopeless.

Benjamin W. Hoyt & Co., boot and shoe manufacturers of Epping, have submitted to their creditors the following statement of their affairs: The liabilities aggregate $128,480; the assets consist of $24,592.12 in book accounts, $5,304.74 in stock and manufactured goods, $42,600 in insurance money, and $335 in horses, carriages, etc., making a nominal total of $72,851.86. These figures include $4,904.11 of bad debts, which, being subtracted,, leaves $67,927.75. The assets are thus about fifty-three per cent of the liabilities nominally, but it is thought that the creditors will not realize more than about thirty-five cents on $1.

BOSTON, June 20th.

There was a pleasant gathering of some of the "old boys" on Friday evening, June 17th, at No. 17 Upton street, the residence of Ex-Alderman Thomas J. Whidden, it being the 64th anniversary of his birthday. Mr. Whidden was not only the recipient of true friendly greetings and best wishes of his early associates, but of many valuable material tokens of love from members of his family—from one an elegant gold-headed cane, to steady his footsteps, when he shall become old, feeble or gouty. Time settles gently upon him, for he is as active and full of life now as he was forty years ago; long may he wave, for he is a prince of good fellows. One dear old associate was missed from our circle this year—Mr. B. P. Shillaber, whose presence always sheds a gleam of joy to all about him; though not present, having been confined to his house by sickness the year past, he sent his warm heart wishes in rhyme to Mr. Whidden, appropriate for the occasion. Among those present was that veteran expressman, C. C. Jackson, Ex-Mayor Marvin of your city, Lemuel Caswell, Charles L. Damrell, Samuel Beck, Howard Jackson, A. G. and S. H. Whidden, Gideon Beck, and others of early days. After a social intercourse with each other, the party was invited to the dining-room, where a bountiful spread was awaiting them, and two hours at the table were pleasantly passed by partaking of the good things provided, and living for a season in reviving bright spots in early life. B.

THE CORNER-STONE LAID.

The corner stone of the new Christ's (Episcopal) church was laid on Friday with impressive ceremonies, in presence of a large concourse of spectators, the general order of exercises being in accord with those at the laying of the corner stone of St. John's church on June 24th, 1807.

Preliminary services were held in the old church at eleven o'clock in the forenoon, when an historical and dedicatory sermon was delivered by Rev. Mr. Roberts of Exeter, a special choir furnishing choice music; the celebration of the holy communion closed the exercises in the church.

At three o'clock the Masonic procession was formed in front of Congress block, DeWitt Clinton Commandry of Knights Templar acting as escort for the Grand Lodge of Masons and subordinate orders. The line, which was headed by the American band of this city, at the city rooms was joined by the officers of the municipality and other guests, the following being the composition of the procession:

DeWitt Clinton Commandry.
St. Andrew's Lodge.
St. John's Lodge.
Architect with Plate.
Contractors and Builders of the Church.
Trustees.
Mayor and Aldermen of Portsmouth.
Common Council.
City Officers.
Military and Naval Officers.
All Civil Officers.
The Clergy.
The Grand Lodge of New Hampshire.
M. W. Grand Master.
Citizens Generally.

Among the officers of the Grand Lodge present were Grand Master Frank A. McKean of Nashua, Dep. Grand Master Alpheus W. Baker of Lebanon, Grand Senior Warden J. Frank Webster of Concord, Grand Junior Warden H. E. Burnham of Manchester, Grand Chaplain Henry Powers of Manchester, Grand Treasurer Joseph Kidder of Manchester, Grand Secretary George P. Cleaves of Concord, Grand Tyler Samuel W. Emerson of Concord, Grand Senior Steward Frank D. Woodbury of Concord, Grand Junior Steward George A. Bailey of Manchester, and Grand Marshal Joseph W. Hildreth of Manchester.

Hymn, by choir.

Placing of memorials in the receptacle, and sealing of the same, the memorials consisting of copies of the Portsmouth CHRONICLE, Journal and Times, a series of coins, and a silver plate engraved with the names of Mr. Marsh and the trustees of the church.

Oration by Grand Chaplain Henry Powers.

Hymn.

Benediction, by Grand Chaplain.

The procession then reformed, and returned to Market square, where the line was dismissed.

The new church is to be of stone, in the old English style of architecture, and is erected through the munificence of the late George M. Marsh, who besides devising for the building, provided for the furnishing of a baptismal font, bibles, prayer books, silver christening basin and communion service, organ in the right of the chancel, and bell; the remainder of the bequest to be invested, and the annual interest to be devoted to the poor of the parish. The will further provides that the parishioners of the church shall for at least five years defray the expenses thereof by voluntary contributions, and the seats be free. The cost of the edifice, outside of the devotional appurtenances, will be about $100,000; and it will be ready for dedication in about one year. The trustees of the church will add a chime of nine bells, and it is intended to make it one of the most attractive houses of worship in New England.

KNIGHTS OF HONOR.

At a meeting of Wentworth Lodge, No. 2162, Knights of Honor, held at Kittery, Me., Thursday evening of this week, the following officers were chosen:

Past Dictator, George Manent;
Dictator, Augustus Stevenson;
Vice Dictator, Usher B. Thompson;
Asst. Dictator, Leul L. Goodrich;
Reporter, T. J. Pettigrew;
Financial Reporter, Dennis M. Shapleigh;
Treasurer, J. D. Parker;
Chaplain, L. B. Gerrish;
Guide, George W. Daymon;
Guardian, Thos. L. Jose;
Sentinel, Salisbury H. Williams;
Medical Examiner, E. Q. Adams.

"Don," the well-known dog of Mr. John M. Hill, famous for his intelligence and ratting instincts, was poisoned by strychnine at noon to-day. Every antidote failed to save him. He was well known at the hotels and stores on Main street, having scoured their basements in his destruction of rodents. He was a cross of Scotch terrier and black and tan parents, was raised by the late F. W. Miller, of Portsmouth, from best blooded stock, and was about five years old. This is the third dog Mr. Hill has lost by poison.—Concord Monitor.

C. W. Greenleaf of North Berwick, in a note to the Boston Journal, says that he was elected a director of the Globe "Spark Arrester" company of Boston, which is alleged to be a fraudulent concern, without his knowledge or consent, and that he knows nothing of the affairs of the company.

New Hampshire Items.

There is great excitement in the towns around Lake Sunapee on account of an attempt to incorporate the Lake Sunapee Steamboat company. Petitions in remonstrance have been extensively circulated and forwarded to the state legislature.

Gov. Bell's staff has been announced as follows: Maj. Gen. Augustus D. Ayling of Concord, adjutant general; Brig. Gen. Elbert Wheeler of Laconia, inspector general; Brig. Gen. Marshall C. Wentworth of Jackson, quartermaster general; Brig. Gen. George E. Lane of Exeter, commissary general; Brig. Gen. Ezra Mitchell, Jr., of Lancaster, surgeon general; Brig. Gen. Francis C. Faulkner of Keene, judge advocate general; Col. Charles H. Sawyer of Dover, Col. William H. Stinson of Dunbarton, Col. Daniel C. Gould of Manchester, Col. Edward H. Gilman of Exeter, aides-de-camp.

—The man who digs a hundred feet into the ground for water gets a long well.

—"There is no disgrace in being poor," we are told, and we're glad of it, for there are enough other disadvantages about it without that one.

Ash-Tonic;

A perfected purifyer of the system In 1-2lb. bottles; 75 cents. For dyspepsia, the many forms of liver complaint, impure and impoverished blood, and functional derangements attendant upon debility. For symptons indicated by indigestion, loss of appetite, nausea, sick headache, sour stomach, furred tongue, drowsiness, blanched lips, sallow complexion, pain in the side or back, eruptions, depression of spirits, nervous irritability and hysteria, and for building up the system, ash-tonic is unquestionably the most prompt and energetic remedy yet devised.

—Carlyle being once asked the difference between a natural fool and an educated fool, replied: "Just about the difference between you and me, I suspect." The questioner was never able to determine which kind of fool he was.

Prejudice Kills.

"Eleven years our daughter suffered on a bed of misery under the care of several of the best (and some of the worst) physicians, who gave her disease various names but no relief, and now she is restored to us in good health by as simple a remedy as Hop Bitters, that we had poohed at for two years, before using it. We earnestly hope and pray that no one else will let their sick suffer as we did, on account of prejudice against so good a medicine as Hop Bitters."—The parents.—Telegram.

—A reporter of a San Francisco paper, who was compelled to describe the wedding of a hated rival who had carried off the girl he fancied, furnished the following account: "The bride was radiant in a beautiful lavender silk dress, with orange wreath and six-button No. 9 kid gloves, slightly burst in the thumbs. The groom was as straight as a black cloth suit, constructed by the best tailor on Tehama street, could make him; and as red in the face as was consistent with a pair of boots two sizes too small and a No. 13 collar encircling his manly 16 1-2 inch neck. Fortunately, before the ceremony was over, the restraining button on the back of his shirt flew out and saved him from strangulation."

The peculiar merits of Fellows' Hypophosphites are:

First. Unique harmony of ingredients suitable to the requirements of diseased blood.

Third. Its agreeable flavor and convenient form as a syrup.

Fourth. Its harmlessness under prolonged use.

—That was a good specimen of American wit in the reply made by the old settler who had lived in a city since it was a log cabin or two, to the young man who was putting him through a course of interrogatories. "You must have lived here a long time?" "Well, I reckon." "Why, how long?" "Ever since you came here?" "Young man," said the old settler, seizing the questioner by the coat lapel, "do you see that hill across the river?" pointing to a lofty peak; I kim here, sir, when that was nuthin' but a hole in the ground."

Have you these dangerous symptoms? Cough, pain in the side or breast, fever, short breath, night sweats, tickling rising or soreness in the throat, diarrhœa, nervous debility, asthmatic or bronchial affections; if so, use at once Adamson's Botanic Cough Balsam. Trial bottles, 10 cts.; larger bottles, 35 and 75cts.

—A young woman at Cape Girardeau, Mo., who had suffered from a husband's neglect, traced him to a bar room, where he was playing cards with several companions. Setting a covered dish she held in her hand down upon the table, she said, "Presuming, husband, that you were too busy to come home to dinner, I have brought you yours," and departed. With a forced laugh he invited his friends to dine with him, but on removing the cover from the dish found only a slip of paper, on which was written: "I hope you will enjoy your meal; it is the same your family have at home."

FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS,

The pavement made by this Company has met with the highest favor, both in this country and in Europe, and it is considered to approach perfection more nearly than any other.

The Works of the Company are at Providence, R. I., and at Hastings, N. Y., and the needs of its business will soon require additional ones at Chicago and other large cities.

Negotiations are now pending with capitalists in London and Paris for the right to manufacture and use this pavement in those cities.

The Company require additional means to extend the facilities for manufacturing, and offer for sale the second $100,000 of their six per cent bonds (convertible into stock) at par and interest. These bonds carry a bonus of stock, which is fixed for the present at 50 per cent.

The location of this property is unsurpassed, being near the celebrated "Robinson Consolidated," "White Quail," "Aftermath" and "Wheel of Fortune" mines, in the Ten-Mile Consolidated Mining District, and as prospect property is as valuable as any in Colorado.

Development work is to be actively and vigorously pushed, under the experienced management of Thos. Gowanlock, one of the most intelligent and experienced mining superintendents in Colorado.

Remember, full-paid $10 shares at 50 cents, which are likely to be worth from $2 to $5 per share within six months.

SULPHUR BITTERS

THE BEST AND GREATEST SPRING MEDICINE!

It will drive the Humor from your system, and make your skin clean and smooth. Those Pimples and Blotches which mar your beauty are caused by impure blood, and can be removed in a short time by the use of a few bottles of this great Spring Medicine. Do you feel nervous and irritable? Do you have Headaches with Pain in the top of the head? Do you have Indigestion and Constipation? Do your bowels need regulating? Do you have Dizziness, Ringing in the Ears, Sour Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Coated Tongue, Loss of Appetite, Cold Feet, Cold Hands, Cold Chills, Hot Flashes, Sudden Flushes of Heat, Burning in the Flesh, Sleeplessness, Nervous Debility, Low Spirits, Gloomy Forebodings, Dull Pain in the Back, Loss of Memory, Dull Sensation, Want of Energy, Want of Ambition, Want of Sympathy, Want of Interest in your usual pursuits? Do you have Cold Feet, Cold Hands, Cold Chills, Hot Flashes, Sudden Flushes of Heat, Burning in the Flesh, Sleeplessness, Nervous Debility, Low Spirits, Gloomy Forebodings, Dull Pain in the Back, Loss of Memory, Dull Sensation, Want of Energy, Want of Ambition, Want of Sympathy, Want of Interest in your usual pursuits? Why make yourself miserable? Why suffer with Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Constipation, Kidney Complaint, Nervous Prostration, Sleeplessness, Want of Appetite

Don't Trust Them.

When you feel badly, and have pains here and there through your body that you don't know how to account for, it is the most foolish policy in the world to take the advice of people who say: "Oh! there's nothing the matter with you. Let yourself alone and you will come out all right." These folks know nothing about it, and may be trifling with your life. You may have kidney or liver trouble. Send right out to your druggist and get a bottle of Dr. David Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy" and then you will be all right, or write to the doctor at Rondout, N. Y.

Charles L. S. Emery of Biddeford has been granted a patent for a slate-pencil sharpener.

Arrested!

Charles A. Dailey was arrested last evening for stealing from the drug store of Shiefman, a bottle of Sulphur Bitters. Before the court this morning, upon being asked why he should steal it, he stated that his mother was troubled with rheumatism, and that it was the only medicine that helped her, and being out of money and work was the cause of his stealing. As this was his first offence he was put on probation.—Newark News.

The Mutual Life Insurance Company.

We have examined somewhat at length the thorough report on the examination of the condition of the Mutual Life Ins. Co. of New York, made by the Deputy Superintendent of Insurance for the state of New York, and also by the Supt. of Pennsylvania, Mr. Peet.

This is not a mere superficial collating of figures, but an actual inspection requiring the expenditure of seven months time and the labor of eighty persons. The detail of the business from the organization of the company in 1843, down to the last month, has been carefully and scrutinizingly investigated. The real estate has been visited and appraised—indeed, everything has undergone a full and complete examination. Ninety-two millions of real estate, bonds, mortgages, loans and other property have been seen. Indeed the labor of the investigation can handly be appreciated save by a reading of the report, which treats of the condition of the property and shows the wonderful results of good management and sound financiering which have characterized the operations of this company.

Without going into details, we can assure the members of this company, some of whom are among our most sagacious and far-seeing citizens, that the Mutual Life shows a most wonderful exhibit of stability, wealth and sound management. After the attempt of rival concerns to prejudice persons seeking policies against this company, and in view of the many short-lived attempted substitutes for legitimate and permanent guaranty of indemnity, it is gratifying to see that we have in this country an institution conducted upon a broad, wholesome and salutary basis. Here have been members who for several decades have paid their annual premiums with confidence, and are yet proposing to continue in the same reliance, which has increased with years. It is the great insurance company of the country; and this examination, while it gives us no new assurance of the stability of the company, will in no small degree serve to inform new members, and those seeking to become such, either as a means of investment or for the welfare of their friends or families, that the management is one which courts exhaustive examination and bears the most vigorous scrutiny as to its affairs. We feel more confidence in thus speaking of this company, not by reason of the results of the recent examination alone but because we have had occasion personally to be informed from time to time as to its condition, etc.

It is always safe to "get the best." It is economical in matters of this kind to be insured in a company of acknowledged soundness, and with a capacity to guaranty insurance at the lowest rate at which it can be consistently afforded; and the career of thirty-eight years in which this company has existed, demonstrates in its results that there is no safer or better-conducted company of this kind in the world than the Mutual Life of New York.

The New York Senatorial Fight.

The monotonous voting continued without result all last week. The democrats early in the week abandoned Jacobs as a candidate to succeed Senator Conkling, and supported Clarkson N. Potter.

News and Notes.

Hard fighting is reported between United States troops and cattle-men on one side, and large bodies of Pahute Indians on the other, in Grand Valley, Utah, and southern Colorado. Eighteen or twenty of the cattle men are missing, and are supposed to be dead; and it is feared that all the settlers in Grand Valley have been massacred. Seven soldiers and a lieutenant are reported killed.

The steam tug Luke Hoyt sank alongside the wharf in Newburyport one day last week, and on Friday morning a diver employed in raising her nearly lost his life through a leak in the rubber air-pipe. He was insensible when hauled up, and was not able to stand for some time. A few moments more under water would have resulted in his death.

In the trial of Harriet Stone, aged fourteen years, charged with the murder of an infant left in her charge, which was last week four days in progress at Elizabethtown, Essex county, N. Y., the jury rendered a verdict of not guilty after being out ten minutes. The child defendant testified that she had been criminally assaulted by the father of the child which it was charged she had poisoned, and that the babe was murdered by its mother to furnish a pretext for a criminal charge against the prisoner; and the child's story was evidently believed by the jury.

Henry A. Grover, aged twenty-five years, of Foxboro', Mass., started from Attleboro' for Foxboro' last Thursday afternoon on a bicycle, but when within three miles of the place fell from the bicycle, struck his head against a stone wall, and was instantly killed.

Mrs. Mary Putnam died in Dexter, Me., on the 20th inst., in the 100th year of her age.

After a recent thunder storm Mr. B. F. Manter of Milo, Me., found thirty-three of his sheep dead under one tree.

Henry Bixby, a butcher at Essex Junction, Mass., in attempting to slaughter a bull with a sledge hammer on the 22d inst. missed the animal and was precipitated on to the bull's horns, when the infuriated beast turned upon the unfortunate man and gored him in a shocking maner. Bixby died shortly afterward.

Jas. Y. Christmas shot his brother-in-law, Wm. G. Whitney, at the residence of Mrs. Myra Clark Gaines in Washington on Saturday evening. Christmas is a son of Mrs. Gaines; the men have for years been engaged in business together, but of late Whitney has been living a very irregular life and had neglected his business. Christmas has been working very hard and living quietly. Whitney has been under the influence of liquor lately and has been very abusive to his mother and Christmas, and that cause and his neglect of business have led to long, heated discussion. On Saturday evening they were descending the stairs together when the quarrel was again renewed, when Whitney, who was excited with liquor, struck Christmas a violent blow, when Christmas drew his pistol and shot his brother-in-law dead. Christmas says he acted only in self defence, intending only to disable Whitney.

The driving wheel of the engine at the Victoria Mill in Newburyport burst on Thursday evening, doing great damage to the building. The company had ordered a new double engine and six new steel boilers for the factory, and it is thought doubtful if repairs will be made until these are put in next fall. If that be the case, the mill will have to be idle for two or three months, to the great detriment of the operatives.

Mrs. Nancy L. Parker, aged seventy-eight, of Lowell, Mass., attempted suicide by hanging Friday night, but was restored to life, although it is feared she will die from the shock. Her husband is said to have been a brother of Rev. Theodore Parker of Boston.

The celebrated trotting mare, Goldsmith Maid, has got a fine colt.

THE BIDDEFORD STRIKE.

The strike was reported on Friday and Saturday to be "petering out" fast, the Laconia mill having three pairs more of mules running at noon on Friday than were started up in the morning; most of the strikers were getting tired of being idle, and it was anticipated that all the machinery would soon be in motion.

AROUND HOME.

A new coal scale, with a capacity for weighing eight tons, was last week put in at E. F. Sise & Co.'s coal wharf.

Dr. John Stearns, whose residence is at the Campbell Cottage, near the Wentworth, has resumed the practice of medicine at Newcastle.

A valuable horse owned by Mr. Wm. Taylor was killed by an Eastern railroad train, Saturday evening, while feeding on the track near the powder house.

John Conners, the teamster who was so badly hurt by falling from his team at the corner of Congress and Fleet streets on Friday, died Saturday evening.

Schooner Adeliza, lying at Sise's wharf, is having a new foremast put into her. Mr. Wm. R. Martin furnishes the spar, and the rigging work is done by Mr. Joseph C. Muchmore. The schooner is also being calked, by Mr. Ben. M. Bailey.

The exercises of the graduating class of the high school will take place at the school-room on the afternoon of June 30th. The class will hold a reception at Franklin hall in the evening. The class numbers six, five of whom are young ladies.

The Newburyport Herald of Friday says: "The steam yacht 'Three Brothers' has been taken out of the marine railway dock, where she has been lying for the past eight months, and is to sail for Portsmouth immediately, having been sold to parties in that place."

The party of Gipsey's which left here for Dover on Wednesday of last week had been camped out at the gravel pit on Lafayette road, and were ordered by the city authorities to leave. It is said that two of our citizens who purchased horses of them got badly taken in.

In the summer arrangement of the Eastern railroad, now in operation, one additional train will be much appreciated, and that is an afternoon train leaving Portland at six o'clock, and reaching this city at 8:50. For a long time past most of the afternoon travel from Portland to this vicinity has been over the Boston & Maine road by way of Newmarket junction to this city.

A cricket match between the Arlington club of Lawrence, Mass., and the Portsmouth club, will be played on the grounds of the latter near Frenchman's lane in this city on the 4th of July, commencing at ten o'clock in the forenoon. A small fee of admission to the grounds will be charged. There will be dancing and other sports on the greensward at six o'clock in the afternoon; music by a local band.

The comet shew up finely on Saturday night, being visible from an early hour in the evening until daylight, except when obscured by clouds. The observers at Cambridge, Mass., have calculated its distance from the earth to be only 29,000,000 miles, but it is moving away from us at the rate of 300,000 miles a day, so there is little hope of our being able to catch it. The nucleus is supposed to be 1000 miles in diameter, the coma many times as much, and the tail four or five million miles long. It is believed to be the comet of 1807, whose return was not looked for before 1700 years. It will probably remain in sight for several weeks, gradually growing fainter to the eye until it disappears. It has already passed its point of extreme brightness.

The National Granite State bank at Exeter has declared a dividend of four per cent, payable July 5th.

The steamer Startled Fawn came into this harbor on Saturday with a party of fifty excursionists from Haverhill, Mass.

The annual graduating exercises of Brackett academy, at Greenland, occurred Thursday evening, the 23d inst. The graduating class was composed entirely of young ladies.

The whaling schooner Lizzie A. Robey was at the Shoals on Thursday last, hunting for whales. She has been engaged in this business all this season, and the captain of the schooner says that the whale which went ashore at Raggged Neck, Rye, was killed by him.

The driver of one of the Jones brewery teams on Thursday last carelessly drove under one of the guys of a derrick at the brewery, and was knocked off his seat to the ground by the guy, striking so heavily that he was made insensible, and did not recover consciousness for over two hours.

Some of the friends of Mrs. Gilman, who lost her life in the burning of her house at Kittery Point about the first of this month, have interviewed a medium, who disposes of the matter by stating that her death was caused by the flowing over of kerosene in a lamp which caught on fire, the flames spreading so quickly that she could not escape. That settles the mystery—with the believers of such evidence.

On Friday last Mr. John Brooks of Kittery was driving a team loaded with hay, when the horse, which belonged to Mr. Robert Gerrish, took fright and ran away, throwing Mr. Brooks off the hay into the road, the forward wheel going over him, and severely injuring his head and shoulders. The horse brought up against a barn, and received some hurts. He was put into his stall, and during the night got his fore feet into the crib, which was built up from the floor, and got cast, and in the morning was found in a condition from which he will not probably recover.

During the fire on Thursday evening last on the corner of Fleet and Hanover street, some of the cinders were blown as far as Mason's planing mill on Green street. The house of Mr. Richard E. Harvey, No. 3 Russell street, caught fire on the roof, but it was put out by Mr. Charles Foote and a Mr. Twombly. The house of Mr. Samuel W. Cottle, No. 11 Russell street, also took fire, but was put out by the assistance of Mr. Daniel F. Barrett. The residents in that vicinity were kept busy in extinguishing the burning cinders. Messrs. Foote and Barrett are flagmen on the Eastern railroad, and have in several cases of accident rendered valuable assistance.

Mr. Editor: In answer to a previous communication, relative to the propriety of putting the whole police force, on foot, in the front of a detachment of cavalry, as escort, I am informed that "it has always been a courteous custom with municipalities to tender police escort to processions, and while such service has not entailed any extra expense on the city it has been of great assistance in more ways than one." I see my error, and with proper humility acknowledge it; it is eminently proper that the police should escort a procession, even when it is composed of armed horsemen, who are popularly supposed to be able to clear a way for themselves. Like all new converts I am filled with zeal, and desire to have things done up brown; hence I would like to know why the processions of Friday and Saturday were not also escorted by the police in a body, as well as that of Thursday. True, it was not of so much importance to show the courtesy of the municipality to the many eminent men who took part in the Masonic procession as it was to do honor to a cavalry company, but that the circus procession should perambulate our streets on Saturday without the police in its front was too utterly horrid for anything. It is to be hoped that no such ommission will ever occur again.

GOOD PLACE TO REFRESH.

Travellers concede that of all the railway restaraunts in the country, none excel in point of thorough neatness, prompt service and inviting refreshments that the Eastern railroad in this city. A year's trial under the management of Mr. W. K. Hill convinces the projectors that the establishment of this place for the comfort and convenience of passengers between Boston and the east was fully justified. It was many years ago insisted by Ex-Supt. Prescott that such a place was needed at Portsmouth, and its excellent coffee and pastry have made for it a reputation extending from the British provinces to the extreme south and west. Just now its strawberry short-cake is one of its special delicacies, and long before trains reach Portsmouth one hears experienced travellers speak of the good things which await them at this station. The room certainly is attractive and cheerful, and the constant attention paid to cleanliness, not only as to everything seen which invites the hungry guests, but in the preparation of articles in the kitchen and pantry of the establishment, warrants the most perfect freedom in indulging in all that is offered. The gentlemanly superintendent of the rooms and his well trained assistants permit nothing to be wanting that can be found in a place of this kind, which is a credit to the road that has thus made ample provision for the entertainment of its patrons.

MOSES HOW.

Elder Moses How died in Cambridge, Mass., June 25th, in the 92d year of his age. He was born in Haverhill, Mass., Aug. 22d, 1789, and began to preach in Salem on the 10th of June, 1814. He came to this city in 1817, leaving here for New Bedford in 1819; returned to this city in 1826, and remained until 1837, when he again went to New Bedford. He was in charge of the Seamen's Betael at New Bedford from July 15th, 1844, to April 15th, 1859, since which time he has not had pastoral charge of any church. During his ministry he preached over 8000 times, attended more than 2500 funerals, and joined in marriage 3840 persons, or 1920 couples, up to 1844, at which time he took charge of the Bethel, where no ordinances were administered. He leaves two sons, one a professor in Dartmouth college, and the other a lawyer in Boston; his wife died about five years ago. He has a sister living at the age of over ninety-four years.

THE MERRILL WILL BROKEN.

In New York, June 24th, Surrogate Calvin rendered a decision refusing to admit to probate the will of Caroline A. Merrill, formerly of this city, who died leaving an estate valued at $500,000. The will is dated May 2d, 1871, and is witnessed by Cyrus W. Field and Benjamin Cartwright. After bequeathing small sums to relatives she gave $50,000 to the New York hospital; $50.000 to the Catholic Cardinal McCloskey or his successor, and the residue of her estate to Bishop Bacon of Maine. Moses Taylor and R. G. Rolston were appointed executors. Bishop Bacon having died, she executed a codicil in Rome on Dec. 9th 1875, wherein she bequeathed the residue of her estate to Cardinal McCloskey for charitable purposes. The will was contested by George Merrill, a nephew and alleged adopted son, and by other next of kin no nearer than he, putting in issue the mental incapacity of decedent, and undue influence of other persons. Testimony was taken by a commission in Europe and the west, and after thirty-eight sessions were held the case was submitted in the summer of 1880. The surrogate finds that, the will and codicil were executed by decedent while laboring under an insane delusion as to the character and conduct of her nephew, George Merrill. Had it been admitted, Cardinal McCloskey would have received over $500,000.

The decision of the court will be gratifying in the extreme to many persons, as there are quite a number of deserving relatives of Mrs. Merrill who are both morally and legally entitled to enjoy this estate, rather than it should be turned into the coffers of the Pope, who can afford to do without it.

ROCKINGHAM COUNTY AND THE SUPREME COURT.

The first re-organization of the courts in this state for political purposes was made in the year 1813, when the "superior court of judicature" was changed to "the supreme judicial court," and only one of the judges of the old court, Arthur Livermore of Holderness, was retained. The other two judges determined not to submit to the new law, claiming that it was unconstitutional. Of these one was Richard Evans, who was the last judge of our highest court appointed from Portsmouth. Professor Sanborn, in his "History of New Hampshire," thus describes the confusion which followed:

Richard Evans and Clifton Claggett, in the autumnal sessions of the courts in the counties of Rockingham, Strafford and Hillsborough, appeared and opened the courts as in former years, ordering the jurors to be sworn and clients to be heard. Thus two sets of judges were at the same time holding rival courts, each claiming supreme power under the state constitution. The lawyers, jurors and a majority of the people recognized the new court. In Hillsborough county the high sheriff escorted the old judges to the court house; while the new court, attended by his deputies, were obliged to perform the business before them in a school-house. Shortly after these judicial collisions, Governor Gilman called together the legislature, and Josiah Butler, sheriff of Rockingham county, and Benjamin Pierce, sheriff of Hillsborough county, were removed by address; and from that time the new court ceased to be interrupted.

William M. Richardson of Chester, chief justice of the Superior Court of Judicature from 1816 to 1838, was the last judge of our supreme court appointed from Rockingham county.

A FROG ON THE JUMP.

The Old Orchard Junction railway has run against a little bit of a snag. The progress of building the road was going along finely, with fair prospects of having the rails laid, and cars running within a fortnight. The rails have been laid for quite a distance, and three days ago a union was made with the Eastern, a frog having been put in. Wednesday, however, Roadmaster Snow of the Eastern, with a crew of men, took up the connecting rails and thus severed the union. On Thursday noon the managers of the Old Orchard Junction railway went up to the point where the two roads were to unite, and with a crew of men, and sundry red flags as danger signals, relaid the rails, and put in the frog again to connect the two roads. What will be the next action? We presume the directors on the little road will apply to the courts for an injunction should an attempt be made to again break the connection.—Biddeford Times, 24th.

The Portland Press of Saturday says men are now keeping guard over the frog, and will endeavor to prevent any further interference. The origin of the trouble seems to be something as follows; "The Boston & Maine company claim that in allowing a connection to be made with this new road before its completion, and in running freight cars out upon it, the Eastern company have broken their contract with them. The work on the new road was not interrupted, as they had sleepers and iron enough for immediate wants. About half of the track has been laid, and work is rapidly progressing. Sleepers and iron will probably be carried out upon it as before on the cars of the Eastern railroad, and no further trouble is apprehended."

Naval Affairs.

Barry is ordered to the Colorado.

Capt. Henry J. Bishop and Capt. Israel H. Washburn U. S. M. C., are members of a general court martial which convened at the New York navy yard Friday, the 24th inst., for the trial of Second Lieutenant T. G. Fillette, U. S. M. C.

Passed Asst. Engineer W. A. H. Allen has been detached from the bureau of steam engineering at Washington, and ordered to special duty connected with the Lancaster at this navy yard.

It is stated that Captain Bancroft Cherardi, late in command of the Colorado at Brooklyn, N. Y., will be ordered to command the Lancaster when she goes into commission in August.

An Ingenious Sufferer.

The Russian police do not like the students, whom they suspect of nihilism. This fact gives point to the following story:

A student walking on the banks of the Neva had the misfortune to fall in, and, as he was ignorant of swimming, proceeded to drown. The policemen near by continued their patrolling, keeping studiously deaf to his cries for help. At the last moment the drowning man bethought himself of a stratagem, and shouted as loud as he could, "Down with the czar!" In an instant there were five policemen in the water, and he was fished out and taken to the nearest police-station.

Not a Clear Case.

The cashier of a famous bank enters the private office of the president, nervous and agitated.

"Sir," he says, "I feel myself compelled a secret to disclose to you, though for months I have striven to conceal it."

The president turns pale, thoughts of embezzlement rushing upon him, and enormous sums dancing in his head.

"What is it?" he gasps.

"The fact is," the cashier continues, "I—I love your daughter."

The president breathes more freely.

"Ah, you love my daughter. Do you ever make any errors in your books, or in counting your cash? Find yourself abstracted, eh?"

"Never, sir!" with pride.

"Then, sir," the father says, with a superb wave of the hand, "I must decline to encourage your suit. You are not really in love."

Brace Up.

There is serious meaning in this expression. That wearied step, languid eye and feeling of general lassitude, come from "spring sickness." Be assured, a serious, and perhaps, fatal disease is close in its wake. The system wants cleansing of winter impurities; the sluggish blood needs to be sent in swift and clear currents through the veins. "Favorite Remedy" will do this; it will give new vigor to the body, brightness to the eye, a glow to the countenance and elasticity to the step. One dollar a bottle. Every druggist has it. Dr. David Kennedy, proprietor, Rondout, N. Y.

Mr. John C. Young of Belmont committed suicide last Saturday by cutting his throat. Deceased had been sick for a long time, with no hopes of recovery. He was forty years old.

How it Was!

At the battle of Gettysburg I was shot through the left leg and was sent to the hospital. The army surgeons relieved me but pronounced my case incurable. It discharged pieces of bone, and for years I have suffered with a running sore. I tried everything which my limited means would allow, and experienced no relief until I tried Sulphur Bitters. I am now almost well, and shall continue their use.—Old Soldier.

Daniel Carty, fifty-five years old, employed by the West Claremont Paper company, fell into a bleach tub of soda ash on Saturday, remaining there four minutes before being rescued. The bleach was so strong that it ate the flesh from his hips. It is feared he cannot recover.

Have you these dangerous symptoms? Cough, pain in the side or breast, fever, short breath, night sweats, tickling rising or soreness in the throat, diarrhœa, nervous debility, asthmatic or bronchial affections; if so, use at once Adamson's Botanic Cough Balsam. Trial bottles, 10 cts.; larger bottles, 35 and 75cts.

Patents have been issued to Wm. H. Abel of Bridgewater for a maching for manufacturing knit mittens, a re-issue; and to Franklin A. Tenney of Concord for an iron-bending machine.

H. R. STOUT, M. D.,
JACKSONVILLE, Fla.

Gen. Charles H. Burns, of Wilton, United States attorney for the district of New Hampshire, Edgar Aldrich, partner of Ex-Judge George A. Bingham of Littleton, and Ex-Judge Jeremiah Smith of Dover, are spoken of in connection with the vacant New Hampshire judgeship.

Mr. Patterson Meant What he Said.

I hereby testify that my boy, ten years of age, was taken sick with typhoid fever, followed by congestion of the lungs. Dr. Dyer, an eminent physician of this place, stated that he thought the boy would run down with quick consumption. A Mr. Patterson told me that Coe's Cough Balsam was curing similar cases, and advised us to purchase it. When I carried it home, my wife laughed at me, but I knew that Mr. Patterson meant just what he said, and I determined to try it. Two bottles effectually cured him, so that now he is as tough and healthy as anybody.

The Mormons.

Several weeks ago five of the daughters of Brigham Young, late head of the Mormon church, were expelled from the church for the crime of having gone to law with certain of the brethren who attempted to rob them. Afterward the elders wishing to make peace with the expelled litigants, sent a couple of "teachers" to interview them. They repaired to the residence of Miss Dora Young. What occurred there is told by the Salt Lake Tribune as follows:

"We want to see, Sister Dora, if you will not come back to us."

"I have received a note calling on me to appear to answer a charge; what would you do?"

"Oh," replied Brother Morris, "I should go by all means."

"But I won't do that," replied the heiress; "not for the world."

"Oh come now, Sister Dora; don't say that. If you have done anything wrong it will be forgiven."

"Yes, but I haven't done anything wrong. What have I done?"

"You had a suit with your brethren, didn't you?"

"Yes, and I wish to gracious I had another one."

"What, with the brethren?"

"Yes, with the brethren?"

"Don't say that, Sister Dora; we don't want to hurt your feelings, but—"

"And I don't want you to hurt my feelings. If you do you'll go out of my house a good deal livelier than you came in. I have stood just as much from the Mormons as I intend to bear, and if you two offend me in any way you will go out of that door, which a carpenter put there for just such people."

"Oh, we don't want to hurt—"

"Well, then, don't ask me to return to the church; you can't insult me worse than by requesting that."

"Sister, think of your father and mother, and—"

"Don't speak to me of my father, Mr. Morris," she interrupted; "you and the whole church know that my father, prophet though you called him, broke many a woman's heart. If it is required of me to break as many hearts and ruin as many women as my father did, if I should go back into the church again, and—"

"Oh, Sister Dora!" exclaimed the teacher.

"It's a fact, and you know it is a fact. You know that many of his wives died of broken hearts, and how did he leave the rest? Look at mother and look at all the rest of them! A religion which destroys and ruins women is of the devil. That's what Mormonism does. Don't talk to me of my father; but I'll tell you one thing, if my father were living at present you wouldn't dare to do what you are doing now. You wouldn't have stolen our money from us either. You profess to regard my father as a prophet, and you have John Taylor standing in my father's shoes, when you know he is the worst enemy my father had on earth. And around him are gathered those brave apostles, all swearing against father, while in his life-time they couldn't be servile enough. They are brave now."

The teachers were dumbfounded at the honest girl's estimate of her father, Brigham Young, and said nothing.

Spurious Bank-Notes.

The production of a spurious bank-note was first accomplished in the year 1758, and the daring genius who first conceived this royal road to fortune was one Richard Vaughan, a linen-draper in Stafford. The bank had been going for sixty-four years without ever experiencing the slightest trouble or apprehension in the matter, and would probably have gone on for many years more, but for the ill-starred ambition of this worthy to impress his fiance with a show of his wealth. He handed over to this lady a considerable sum in bank-notes, all of which turned out to be of his own manufacture. So novel and original a method of making a fortune would certainly have been eminently successful but for the awkward interference of one of the engravers whose services had been engaged upon one part of the note. He communicated with the authorities, and Mr. Vaughan's enterprise came to a tragic end.—English paper.

Don't Trust Them.

When you feel badly, and have pains here and there through your body that you don't know how to account for, it is the most foolish policy in the world to take the advice of people who say: "Oh! there's nothing the matter with you. Let yourself alone and you will come out all right." These folks know nothing about it, and may be trifling with your life. You may have kidney or liver trouble. Send right out to your druggist and get a bottle of Dr. David Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy" and then you will be all right, or write to the doctor at Rondout, N. Y.

—While the circus with "the most beautiful woman in America" was parading through Chicago the other day, the absurd cry was raised by a practical joker: "The $10,000 beauty has got loose!" The crowd ran away in every direction. Some women fainted, and one was thrown through a window, nearly killing a telegraph operator.

I Don't Want a Doctor!

I have tried them, and they have only swindled me. I have figured up what they cost me for the last four years; it was just $524.31. If I had it now it would be a fortune to me. This year my bill for medicine was only five dollars, for which I purchased six bottles of Sulphur Bitters. They cured me of scrofula after suffering four years.—Workingman.

—Queen Victoria's youngest son, Leopold, who was lately created duke of Albany, is described by an Indianapolis paper as "a skinny little cuss, with a turned-up nose, and whose mouth and front teeth remind one of a squirrel." The editor of that paper evidently never expects to visit England.

UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN.

—At Meriden, Conn., a young man and woman were married in 1879. On the bridal night the groom got so beastly drunk that the bride refused to live with him, and kept her word. She has just obtained a divorce. Sensible girl.

—A furniture dealer and a shirt manufacturer, in Philadelphia, have been fined $100 each in the United States district court for circulating advertisements of their business in the form of greenbacks.

Thy wonderous virtues, fadeless still,
Sanford's Jamaica Ginger doth allay.

—A Massachusetts death notice in the Springfield Republican says, "At New Salem, 15th, Emerson Goodenow, aged seventy-nine, father of three daughters, triplets, who are now married and mothers."

Dr. Holman's Pad works directly upon the liver through the pores of the skin, quietly, thoroughly, and without inconvenience, performing a most important function. It is honest, effective and harmless.

A Conspiracy Exposed.

Last November Dr. W. S. Weeks was tried by the superior court in Lowell, Mass., for conspiracy and blackmailing against L. W. Fobes, and on the testimony of Mrs. Carrie E. Andrews, with whom Fobes was found in dubious relations, was convicted. His counsel carried the case to the supreme court on exceptions, which have not yet been decided. Mrs. Andrews, as a party to the alleged conspiracy, was unable to obtain bail, and is lying in Cambridge jail. On June 22d Rev. C. D. Hills, pastor of St. Paul's Methodist church in Lowell, was notified that Mrs. Andrews would like to see him. He went to the jail, when she wrote and signed a document in which she said that Dr. Weeks was innocent; that there was no conspiracy such as she testified to in court, and that her testimony was given at the command of her husband, Joseph B. Andrews, who threatened to prosecute her for adultery if she did not swear to this story. The motive on the part of Andrews was to drive Weeks to furnish money to bail Andrews on a charge of horse stealing, for which he is now serving a three years' sentence. The prominent social position of Dr. Weeks renders this confession of Mrs. Andrews an important one. The papers have been placed by Mr. Hills in the hands of District Attorney Stevens, and the honorable discharge of Dr. Weeks is now but a question of time.

News and Notes.

A furious thunder storm did great damage in Washington, Monday evening. Ford's opera house, the city hall and many private houses were unroofed, trees and telegraph poles blown down, and cellars flooded.

Maurice Haley, foreman of the Dunbar Furnace Co. in the coal regions of Connellsville, Pa., was shot dead while standing in his own door Sunday night, by persons concealed in bushes across the road.

Two sons of Jared Smith of Eden, Vt., aged respectively eight and ten, were drowned in Eden pond Saturday afternoon, while playing upon some logs that were floating in the water. The younger fell in, and upon the elder attempting to rescue him, both were drowned. The bodies were recovered.

There arrived at St. Johnsbury, Vt., Friday evening, a man harnessed to a wagon, on which a woman was seated, and which he had drawn from Waterbury, a distance of fifty-seven miles. The motive for this performance was, as the man stated, a bet of $300 that he could not accomplish the journey in three days. It was done, however, in two days and a half.

A number of La Salle county, Texas, horse thieves were overtaken at Tordillo hill on the 26th inst. by some citizens, and a fierce fight ensued. The thieves being worsted they retreated, leaving one killed and one seriously wounded.

Bob White, a negro, killed Hugh Rigney with a paving stone at Pittsburg, Pa., Sunday evening, pounding his head with the stone until he was dead. They had quarrelled about a carriage, and Rigney had fired two shots at him from a revolver.

Justice Hicks of Rockland, Me., has issued a warrant charging Deputy Sheriff E. S. McAlister with negligently permitting Albert Freed, a prisoner held in the justice's court for larceny, to escape. McAlister is alleged to have been drunk, and left the lock-up unlocked. If the officer is convicted, the penalty is two years imprisonment or not over $500 fine. McAlister has been a deputy for several years, but his reputation is said to be very bad. He was on the Rockland police when the Lime Rock bank was robbed, and it is charged went off his beat to allow the burglars an opportunity to work.

Alvin Watson, a single man living alone three miles from Parkman Corner, near Bangor, Me., was found murdered in his dooryard on Monday, with fifty-two wounds on his body. Samuel Chadburn, a deaf mute, has acknowledged the crime, but suspicion points to others as being accessories.

Mrs. Jane Miller of Sturdevant, Ala., was on Sunday night sitting with her baby in her arms and her little son Thomas by her side, when a stroke of lightning killed her and the boy, leaving the infant unharmed.

Thomas Dietel of Lawrence, Mass., a German weaver, shot himself through the heart Monday, in a fit of drunken frenzy. He paid a fine in the police court in the morning for drunkenness. He was fifty-six years old, and leaves a widow and four children.

A German named George Schiller, employed in the Lancaster mill at Clinton, Mass., was drowned Saturday while bathing in the Nashua river. The deceased was aged nineteen years, and had been in this country but a short time.

Charles K. Patterson of Acushnet, Mass., while walking on the track of the Old Colony railroad, near Weir Junction station, Saturday night, was struck by the cars and instantly killed. The body was cut completely in two, and the lower portion horribly mangled.

William H. Canby, who was hung at Colorado a few days ago for a brutal murder, turns out to have been Wm. H. Salisbury, an adopted son of Charles H. Salisbury, formerly in the outfitting business at New Bedford, Mass.

A party of students and their girls fished in the forbidden waters of Newport pond, Me., last week, and were fined $75.

Willie Bernard, a young Frenchman from St. Francis, Canada, while bathing in the river at Waterville, Me., Sunday, was seized with the cramp and drowned before assistance could be rendered.

The fishing schooner Notice, Capt. Knud Markerson, which arrived at Gloucester on the 27th inst. from a bank halibut trip, reports that on the 14th inst. two of the crew, Peter Markerson, brother of the skipper, and Carl Olsen, went in a dory to visit their trawls on the southern part of St. Peter's bank, and failed to return to the vessel.

The National Banking System.

We learn from the office of the Controller of the Currency that during the present fiscal year—that is to say since July 1, 1880—no new failures of national banks have occurred. Apparently the minimum has been reached. The prediction of the friends of the national system was that its methods and restrictions, and especially the deposit of bonds to secure circulation, would operate as a perfect security to all holders of circulating notes; and it has been officially stated that no loss has in any case been sustained through holding notes of a national bank. Now that insolvency of such a bank has become so rare an occurrence, the merit of the system as respects security of noteholders must be deemed established. This result is largely due to the energy and efficiency of the controller in taking the steps prescribed for winding up embarrassed banks. It is also due in part to the stringent provisions of the law; without adequate powers conferred, the most earnest and honest administration could not hope to attain such success.

The question whether some measures could not be prescribed for the better security of depositors and shareholders may soon command the attention of Congress. At present, while noteholders are fully secured, the interests of depositors and stockholders are too much at the mercy of the action which the directors or managing officers may take. It may be said, indeed, with some truth, that the stockholders control the selection of directors, and that if they do not select honest and capable men they have only themselves to thank. Depositors, also, have less claim than noteholders to special legislative protection. They can judge for themselves what banks to select as depositories, and thus have some means of anticipating and avoiding losses by failures; while the public good eminently requires that bank notes should circulate from hand to hand without a necessity that each person should inquire into the condition of the bank. Yet the national banks enjoy some prestige, some recommendation, as it were, from the government to the public at large, which cannot fail in the minds of a majority of persons slightly acquainted with the details of the law, to attach to all departments of their business. The very celebrity which the system has obtained for complete security of notes tends to win the confidence of persons desiring to make deposits or invest capital.

Is this confidence deserved? Not so fully as it should be in some cases. The banking laws leave the corporate management, so far as the interests of depositors and shareholders are concerned, very largely to the directors; and if the directors are weak, supine or inattentive the whole practical management may easily pass into the hands of the president and cashier, or even come to be wielded by one of these almost alone. A recent grand jury presentment in Baltimore has called attention strongly to these deficiencies in the present system.—N. Y. Tribune.

The "United Service" for July has a variety of articles, some of them of positive value, and all possessed of interest. In the list are A Forgotten General, by Med. Director Shippen, U. S. N.; Our Militia—State or National? by Lieut. Col. Anderson, U. S. A.; Superstitions and Legends of the Sea; the Battle of Buena Vista; Duty in the Navy; Major-Gen. Geo. L. Hartsuff; the Austrian Artillery; Trials of Staff Officers; Notes for a History of Steam Navigation; editorial notes, and "service literature." L. R. Hamersly & Co., 1510 Chestnut street, Philadelphia; $5 per annum, single numbers fifty cents each.

AROUND HOME.

The schooner Daniel C. Baker came in on Saturday with 33,000 lbs. of kenched fish, and sailed on Sunday for Gloucester to dispose of her fare.

Nine-sixteenths of schooner Celia, of this port, 29.34 tons register, were sold by auction on Tuesday to Thomas S. Gay, at the rate of $1000 for the whole.

Stockholders in the Concord & Portsmouth railroad are reminded of their dividends to be paid to-day at the office of William H. Hackett, in the U. S. Court House.

The schooner Lone Star of this port, 6.31 tons register, has been purchased by the Donnell brothers of Cape Neddick, York, for $150; the papers were passed on Tuesday.

Capt. Joseph C. Muchmore is fitting an entirely new set of rigging for the schooner Rover's Bride, using the loft over the store of Mr. Samuel Hooper on Water street as a rigging-loft.

The schooner Mary Eliza, loaded with lumber and bound for New York, got ashore on Lawrence's point, Kittery, Monday night. The tug Naumkeag went down on Tuesday to tow her off.

Owing to the great accumulation of stone at the site of the new church, Mr. Holmes has stopped the working of the gondolas and teams employed in transporting the material, for about ten days.

The odor from the south pond, Sunday night, was much more powerful than satisfactory. Men were at work on Monday and Tuesday endeavoring to clear away the thick green scum from the surface—no easy job, as the stuff grows from the mud at the bottom.

At a meeting of the trustees of the public library, Monday evening, Maj. D. J. Vaughan was chosen secretary, and Robert E. Rich librarian. The meeting then adjourned to Friday evening, July 8th, at which time the report of a committee appointed to prepare rules and regulations for the government of the library, will be heard and acted upon.

When Mr. Floron Barri was driven from his residence on the corner of Fleet and Hanover streets by fire a few days ago, the persons engaged in removing the furniture were obliged to leave behind a nice piano, the fire and smoke being too much for them; after the fire was out the piano was found to be not greatly injured, and on Monday the instrument was shipped to the manufacturers in Boston, to be made as good as new.

The schooner T. B. Garland, built at Bath, Me., by Goss, Sawyer & Packard, for the Dover Navigation company, was launched on Saturday. She is 115 feet long on the keel, 126.5 feet over all, thirty-two feet beam, and eleven feet four inches in the hold; she will register about 330 tons, and will cost $18,000 when ready for sea, which will be early in July. This is the fourth vessel of the Dover Navigation Co.'s fleet.

Mr. John F. Bridge, in the employ of Randall & Caswell, fish dealers at the Spring market, on Tuesday fell overboard off a lobster car moored in the river near the market, and came near losing his life. He was drawn partially under the car by the tide, and (being probably unable to swim) caught hold of the under part of the car in such a manner that his head was under the water, in which position he remained until he was pulled out by the legs, considerable force being required to break his hold. He was insensible when rescued, and was somewhat injured across the breast, probably from the force used in pulling him out. He was taken to his home, no serious consequences being anticipated from the mishap.

James Hayes, of Portland, was run over and instantly killed on Monday night by the up train from Old Orchard beach to Saco. He was drunk, and lying across the track.

Since the death of Moses Emery of Saco, Increase S. Kimball of Sanford and Hiram H. Hobbs of South Berwick are the senior members of the York county bar; the former was admitted in 1832, and the latter in 1834.

George W. Pease of South Newmarket, of the firm of Pease & Conner, was thrown from his team on Monday through the horses becoming frightened, receiving probably fatal injuries. He is a prominent Mason and Odd Fellow, and about fifty years of age.

Under the heading of "4 useful member of society" the Boston Globe says: "Elder Rand, of the village of South Seabrook, is constable, justice of the peace, highway surveyor, preacher, organist, chorister and janitor for his church, and school committee of his district."

The schooner Nettie Adams, Burke master, which arrived below on Saturday, reports that on the 14th inst., Cape Ann bearing southwest by west, distant sixty miles, a derelict vessel of about two hundred tons was sighted, masts gone, hull mostly under water, and stern out. Lowered a dory and tried to make out the name of the wreck, but was unable to do so on account of the heavy sea running.

The fishing schooner Daniel Marcy arrived on Tuesday morning with 325 barrels of mackerel, all of which, with the exception of about twenty-five barrels, she took within two days of her arrival. On Monday she made a big haul between Cape Porpoise and Cape Elizabeth, and was obliged to throw away a lot of fish, having no room to stow them. The schooner Anna M. Nash, one week from the wharf, was in company with the Daniel Marcy on Monday, and sailed for Boston that day with 250 barrels of mackerel. The Daniel Marcy has landed three fares this season before the present one—two at New York and one at Boston. Many fresh mackerel have been brought into this market this season, taken to the eastward of the Shoals by drag-boats from Cape Ann.

A petition signed by Thomas Neil, Howe Call, Judge Batchelder, Albert Laighton, E. S. Fay and about 245 others, will be presented to the legislature this day, asking for the passage of a general railroad law. Annexed is the affidavit of Geo. A. Mudge that the petition contains the names of a large majority of the business men of the city of Portsmouth, and that quite a number of these have signed another petition, opposed to this petition, through a misunderstanding of the facts; sworn to before Mr. Call. Dr. Potter also certifies under oath that the petition contains the names of a large majority of the business men of Portsmouth. Franklin Cole also gives a similar affidavit. The petition has a few merchants upon it, but there are very many active business men and capitalists whose names are not there.

A fashionable wedding occurred at Newport, R. I., Monday evening, the bride being Mrs. Hattie C. Simes of Newport, who is well known in fashionable circles in Boston and vicinity, and the bridegroom Thomas S. Nowell, a wealthy merchant of Boston. The wedding occurred at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. Cottrell, on Thames street. There were no groomsmen or bridesmaids, Miss Fannie Nowell, niece of the bridegroom, and S. Parker Cottrell, brother of the bride, standing up with the happy couple. Rev. George J. Magill, rector of Trinity church, officiated. The presents were numerous, the bridegroom's presents being a check for $25,000 and the deed of a house on Commonwealth avenue, Boston. Among the guests from Boston were Mrs. Fenno Tudor, Henry Tudor, Channing Simmons and wife and W. Richardson and wife. A reception followed the ceremony. The newly married couple left town Monday night for New York, and will sail for Europe on their bridal tour on the City of Berlin July 2d.—Boston Post.

THE POLICE FORCE.

A writer in the CHRONICLE of Monday says:

I am informed that "it has always been a courteous custom with municipalities to tender police escort to processions, and while such service has not entailed any extra expense on the city, it has been of great assistance in more ways than one."

Citizen, who wrote the above, is again on the wrong track. The night watchmen do not do extra work for nothing, anymore than a grocer gives two pounds of an article when a customer pays only for one. A Citizen had better attend to his own particular business, instead of writing communications to newspapers, especially if he knows no more of the facts of the case than he appears to, about which he writes in the CHRONICLE of Monday. It is not the police who need watching so much as it is those who volunteer to watch the police. They are, we believe, a very capable company of men; certainly on all occasions, they are gentlemanly and courteous. It is not for us to say more than this. They are, too, men who intend to get pay for all the work they do, either from the city or some one else.

Ed. Chronicle:—I clip the above from the Times of Tuesday. That paper, as you will observe, intimates that I know nothing of "the facts of the case." I did not pretend to; I merely said I had been "informed" as to a certain matter—and so I had, by the Times itself, from the last Saturday's issue of which I took the quoted paragraph which the Times of Tuesday assails! If the Times wishes to find fault with the statement it has a perfect right to, for it is its own.

In the Times of the same date (Tuesday) is a communication from some one signing himself "Progressive," the writer of which could "progress" a long way before he would be the equal of the average grammar-school pupil in the use of the English language. He closes by saying "Where ignorance is bliss 'tis folly to be wise." He need not fear that I wish to disturb his bliss; I did not write for him, nor for others of his calibre.

REFORM CLUB ELECTION.

President, James W. Sanborn;
Vice Presidents, George W. Randall, Joseph T. French, Charles Stewart, B. Stowe Laskey, Charles William Lolley;
Secretary, James Sanborn;
Treasurer, James Janvrin;
Chaplain, James Janvrin;
Ticket Takers, Benjamin Powell, Reuben Rand;
Ticket Seller, Albert L. Stringer;
Finance Committee, James Sanborn, Charles T. Wiggin, Daniel L. Randall.

POLICE COURT.

TUESDAY, June 28; Batchelder, J.

Michael Norton, a boy, for assault on another boy, John Smart, was brought before the court; adjudged guilty, and let off on probation.

DISTRICT COURT--CLARK, J.

The District Court of the United States came in on Tuesday. Cases Woodman, assignee of A. B. Lane, vs. Brown, and Woodman, assignee, vs. Spurling and others, were continued. Hall for pltf.; Hatch for deft.

All other actions on the docket were continued; and the court after a brief session adjourned without day.

New Hampshire Items.

The appointment of a judge to succeed Judge Foster has suddenly become hung up at Concord, objections having been made to the appointment of Mr. Carpenter, and no formidable candidate being presented who would be likely to receive the nomination. It is expected that a nomination for the office will be made at the meeting of the governor and council on Friday.

A great deal of excitement has been caused on Bridgewater hill, about four miles west of Ashland, by disturbances of the earth's surface. Mr. E. E. Upham, while plowing, heard but a short distance from him a noise resembling the rumbling of a train of cars, and felt a slight shock as of an earthquake. The noise has been distinctly heard by the neighbors several times within the past few days, and shocks are frequent. Considerable apprehension is felt by the dwellers on the hill as to the cause of the disturbance. A smoke has been seen ascending from the rocks at the summit, smoke usually accompanying the internal noises. Geologists find evidences of volcanic eruptions in the White Mountains, fifty miles north, and perhaps the hidden forces are about to break forth at Ashland. This is the story told in the papers.

The New Hampshire Bible society has elected the following officers for the ensuing year: President, Dr. Edward Spaulding of Manchester; vice presidents, Rev. Silas Curtis and J. E. Sargent of Concord, Dr. J. G. Davis of Amherst; directors, Rev. C. E. Harrington, Rev. W. N. Gardner, Rev. Sullivan Holman and Rev. C. Parkhurst of Concord; secretary, Rev. F. D. Ayer of Concord; treasurer, John Kimball of Concord; superintendent, Dea. W. G. Brown of Campton; auditors, L. D. Stevens and Woodbridge Odlin of Concord.

A. Dauphin, New Orleans, La., for a half of ticket No. 39,416, in the May Distribution of the Louisiana State Lottery.

Poorly Reported.

Lawyer Benham, of the old Cincinnati bar, was an orator and very fond of showing off his classical learning before a jury. In a murder trial, in defending the prisoner, he warned the jury not to allow public opinion, which was against his client, to influence their verdict. "Gentlemen of the jury," he said, in concluding his appeal, "give up, drop entirely all feeling in this important matter, and be like the ancient Roman in his adherence to the truth, who, in its defense, most eloquently declared: 'Amicus Cato, amicus Plato, amicus Cicero, sed major veritas!' ("I am a friend to Cato, a friend to Plato, a friend to Cicero, but a greater friend to truth.") The next morning the lawyer found himself reported in the newspapers as follows: "Advocate Benham, the great orator, closed his great speech to the jury by eloquently declaiming: 'I may cuss Cato, I may cuss Plato, I may cuss Cicero, said Maj. Veritas.'"—Cin. Gazette.

The Lord of Creation at Home.

They had not been married long, so they sat down to play "checkers." In the middle of the game she said:

"Then do I jump these two men and get a king? Of course I do. Crown me. I've got the first king;" and she chuckled hysterically.

"No you ain't either; I didn't mean that move," said he. "If you can't play checkers without cackling like a hen you'd better give it up. I'll take that back, and move here; now, so. Now you can move."

"Over here?" asked the wife.

"Too late now," said he, pegging away for the king row. "You should study your moves first."

Rescued from Death.

William J. Coughlin, of Somerville, Mass., says: "In the fall of 1876 I was taken with a violent bleeding of the lungs followed by a severe cough. I soon began to lose my appetite and flesh. I was so weak at one time that I could not leave my bed. In the summer of 1877 I was admitted to the city hospital. While there the doctors said I had a hole in my left lung as big as a half a dollar. I was so far gone at one time a report went around that I was dead. I gave up hope, but a friend told me of Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs. I laughed at my friends, thinking that my case was incurable, but I got a bottle to satisfy them, when to my surprise and gratification, I commenced to feel better. My hope, once dead, began to revive, and to-day I feel in better spirits than I have the past three years.

I write this hoping you will publish it, so that every one afflicted with diseased lungs, will be induced to take Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs, and be convinced that consumption can be cured. I have taken two bottles and can positively say that it has done more good than all the other medicines I have taken since my sickness." Sold by all druggists.

—Napoleon the Great, hearing that a new tragedy by Lemercier had been vehemently damned by the students, ordered it to be played again, with the same result. The nettled emperor thereupon commanded a third performance of the play, and went to the theatre with a regiment of soldiers. The first and second acts passed off in utter silence. When the certain rose on the third act, Napoleon, leaning over his box to see if the students would dare to show their displeasure in his presence, beheld a vast assemblage of night-capped heads, nodding apparently in slumber. He left the tragedy to its fate.

Brace Up.

There is serious meaning in this expression. That wearied step, languid eye and feeling of general lassitude, come from "spring sickness." Be assured, a serious, and perhaps, fatal disease is close in its wake. The system wants cleansing of winter impurities; the sluggish blood needs to be sent in swift and clear currents through the veins. "Favorite Remedy" will do this; it will give new vigor to the body, brightness to the eye, a glow to the countenance and elasticity to the step. One dollar a bottle. Every druggist has it. Dr. David Kennedy, proprietor, Rondout, N. Y.

—No more comets are wanted. A number of wives report that their husbands came home last night in a terribly bewildered condition, and stated that it was the effects of looking at the comet.—Post.

I Will Never!

Allow myself to suffer again what I have suffered for the last year. That vile disease dyspepsia gave me no comfort. I could not eat or enjoy anything. The doctors amounted to nothing; nothing seemed to relieve me, until I used a bottle of Sulphur Bitters. Four bottles made me well.—Shoe Dealer.

The location of this property is unsurpassed, being near the celebrated "Robinson Consolidated," "White Quail," "Aftermath" and "Wheel of Fortune" mines, in the Ten-Mile Consolidated Mining District, and as prospect property is as valuable as any in Colorado.

Development work is to be actively and vigorously pushed, under the experienced management of Thos. Gowanlock, one of the most intelligent and experienced mining superintendents in Colorado.

A WELL KNOWN LADY

SPASMS.

Mrs. S. A. McIlwain, of Fergusonville, Delaware county, N. Y., writes: "Only a few days before I commenced using the "Favorite Remedy," in one of my spasms and sinking spells, my friends thought I was dead, and gave up the attempt to restore me to consciousness. I am confident that if I had not taken your medicine. "Favorite Remedy," during my periods of critical illness I should never have recovered. * * * That the Lord may bless you and increase your means of doing good is my daily prayer, and may many yet unborn praise the "Favorite Remedy" and its discoverer."

THE RUBY RIVER.

To keep the blood pure, is the principal end of inventions and discoveries in medicine. To this object probably no one has contributed more signally than Dr. David Kennedy, of Rondout, New York, in the production of a medicine which has become famous under the title of the "Favorite Remedy." It removes all impurities of the Blood, regulates the disordered Liver and Kidneys, cures Constipation, Dyspepsia, and diseases and weaknesses peculiar to females.

When inquiring of your druggist for this new medicine, avoid mistakes by remembering the name, Dr. David Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy," and the price, which is only one dollar a bottle, and that the doctor's address is Rondout, New York.—Ed.

—"Dovey," he said, "I think I was telling you after I came home last night about the necessity of some retrenchment in our expenditures, was I not?" "Well, really, I've forgotten, John," she answered, nonchalantly; "turn on the phonograph and see." He turned it on and all it said was: "Whazzer mazzer—(hic) mazzer? Whazzer mazzer?"

A New Analysis

By the present state assayer of Massachusetts confirms the favorable report of his predecessor in regard to the elegant quality of the Whiskey bottled by Chester H. Graves & Sons, Boston, and introduced by them some six years ago under the name of G. O. Taylor Old Bourbon.

—A worthy deacon, in a town not far from here, gave notice at a prayer meeting the other night of a church meeting that was to be held immediately after, and unconsciously added: "There is no objection to the female brethren remaining!"

In ministering to human ill;

—Lightning singled out a $5,000 stallion to kill at Bloomington, Ill., leaving eleven comparatively valueless horses uninjured. The owner, who had been an earnest Christian, resigned his church membership, and resumed a long neglected habit of profanity, declaring that Providence was against him, anyhow.

Portsmouth Chronicle.

THURSDAY, JUNE 30, 1881.

New Hampshire Legislature.

In the house, June 28th, notice was given of a bill to provide for the purchase by the state of the Concord railroad. A resolution was introduced and passed inviting President Garfield to Concord during his visit to New England, and extending to him the hospitalities of the state. In the afternoon the following were passed: A bill to disannex Goshen and Lempster from senatorial district No. 8, and annex them to district No. 7; in relation to the descent of real estate; to amend the charter of the Black Water River railroad; to incorporate the Laconia & Lake Village Horse railroad. A bill to provide for the establishment of railroads by a general law was introduced, and laid upon the table to be printed.

The Children's Country Week.

The "Country Week," conducted under the auspices of the Boston Young Men's Christian Union, enters upon its seventh season with the present year. Through its instrumentality, over five thousand children, and others from among the city poor, have since its inauguration in 1875 been enabled to visit for a week or longer in country homes, a pleasure which they could not otherwise have enjoyed. Aside from the pleasure which is afforded by these short visits, the moral advantage of the change in surroundings and influences is incalculable. "The children return with improved health, strengthened constitutions, and new and better aspirations."

The committee have already entered upon the list for the present season the names of over fifteen hundred children; and they ask of those living in the country, to whose notice, this article may come, "Would it not add to your happiness and the enjoyment of your own pleasant homes to entertain one or more of these children for ten days or more, and let a ray of sunshine in upon their poor lives?" If you are willing to aid in the work, please send your address, and the number of children and ages preferred, to the secretary, Miss H. G. Putnam, No. 18 Boylston street, Boston, who will cheerfully furnish any further information desired. The children will be sent and returned to and from your home free of expense.

The Latest Maine Murder.

A correspondent of the Bangor Whig and Courier writes concerning the Parkman murder as follows: Alvin T. Watson, the victim, was about thirty years old. He went home the night of the tragedy about nine o'clock, and retired. It is supposed that the murderer entered the house about midnight, and that Watson was awakened by the noise and was attacked while passing into an adjoining room. It also appears that Watson succeeded in reaching the window and called for help, as blood was discovered on the window sill, and his cries were heard. He received thirty-two cuts in all, some twenty of which were struck to the hilt of the knife used, any one of which would have caused death. The victim was dragged outside and then left, as a light was seen in the neighboring house, and the body was found early next morning. Samuel Chadbourn, a deaf mute, eighteen years old, has confessed the crime, and the knife was found in his pocket, covered with blood. It appears that there has been trouble between Watson and the Chadbourn family for some years, it being claimed that Watson was too intimate with Wallace Chadbourn's wife. The mute and other members of the family are under arrest.

British Railroad Travel.

When the Brighton railway express train was stopped for the collection of tickets outside of Brighton, Eng., June 27th, a man named Arthur Lefroy was found in one of the carriages, wounded on the head, and bleeding. He reported that his fellow travellers were a countryman and an old gentleman; that shortly after passing Croydon he heard a shot, and was stunned. The police found several bullets imbedded in the carriage, and in the Balcombe tunnel they found the corpse of G. J. Gold, a retired business man, who had been to London to collect dividends, with his throat cut. He was also stabbed in several places. Only a pocket-book containing cards was found on his person. Lefroy, after having his wounds dressed, started for London. A notice has been issued stating that he will be accused of the murder of Gold. He is a newspaper reporter, aged twenty-two years. He has been in the habit of claiming as his own the comedy of "Pins and Needles," which has been played in New York and other cities of the United States. He has also represented himself as the author of several successful burlesques and operas bouffe, which have been performed in Melbourne and America.

Nashua Iron and Steel Co.

The annual meeting the Nashua Iron & Steel company was held last week, when officers were chosen as follows: John A. Burnham, president; Daniel Hussey, Aretas Blood, Virgil C. Gilman, J. A. Burnham, Jr., directors; M. A. Herrick, clerk and treasurer. The business for the past six months has been very satisfactory, and the financial exhibit the best that has been made in years.—Telegraph.

We are glad to note this company is deriving some advantage from the improvement in business. It has in its mechanical management, as well as in its direction, the right kind of men, and we trust that it will prove remunerative to its stockholders, as such an enterprise deserves. It is an important industry to our state, and has cost in its establishment a large sum, upon which, however, in fair business times, a dividend should and doubtless will be earned.

Naval Affairs.

The Alliance, Capt. Wadleigh, sailed from St. Johns, N. F., at half-past seven o'clock Wednesday morning, June 29th. The weather was fine and she commenced the voyage under favorable auspices. She proceeds to Iceland direct, thence to Spitzbergen, and after coaling at the latter place, will commence the search for the missing steamer Jeannette.

The Powhatan arrived at Boston, June 29th, from Hampton Roads via Newport, R. I., to which latter port she towed the ship Constitution from Hampton Roads.

News and Notes.

Details of the railroad accident at Moreles, Mexico, augment the horrors of the disaster. In addition to the killed previously reported are thirty-seven women and five children, mostly wives and children of the soldiers. The authorities have been officially informed that the accident was caused by one of the officers, who, fearing the soldiers would desert, pistol in hand compelled the engineer to go forward, in spite of his reluctance due to the heavy rain and intense darkness of the night. The officer and engineer were both saved, and have been arrested.

Chief Clark of the revenue marine service has received a communication from Capt. Hooper, of the revenue steamer Corwin, relating to his arctic cruise, in search of the Jeannette. Mr. Clark is of opinion that if the Jeanette has not been lost, she will certainly be found during next fall.

A good deal has been said about the labor and expense involved in the arrears of pensions act, but the half has not been told. It is said that the examination of 100,000 cases is pending but not concluded, that 150,000 cases are on hand not touched, and that new cases are coming in at the rate of 5,000 per month. It will take well on to twenty years to clear off the accumulated cases as they are now disposed of.

Mrs. Richards, a Woodhaven (R. I.) boarding-house keeper sixty years of age, has eloped with Conn Mulverhill, aged eighteen years. She was one of the pillars of the Presbyterian church.

John Bigelow was killed by lightning at his residence at Lake Maitland, Fla., on Sunday afternoon, June 26th. He was a native of Concord, Mass., and had been living in Florida for the past eight years.

Sergt. Bates, the flag carrier, while lecturing on the public square at Morris, Ill., June 25th, made a misstep and fell off the platform, breaking his leg.

The badly decomposed body of Charles D. Woodward was found in an empty house at Norton, Mass., Monday night, June 27th. In one hand was a pistol, and he had been shot in the head. In one pocket $200 was found. Deceased had been despondent for some time past, and it is thought he had no relatives. It is thought that he shot himself a week before he was found.

The St. Albans, Vt., Messenger says that Charles H. Smith of Monkton, lately appointed mail agent between Essex and Boston, seems to have been a deserter from the army during the war, and has consequently resigned. Capt. W. B. Hurlburt of Weybridge, a brave officer, taking his place.

Free traders have held a large meeting at Madrid, Spain, and imposing meetings of protectionis have been held at Barcelona. In the latter the example of the United States was pointed to, and resolutions passed asking government for protection for the merchant marine and manufacturers.

At the trial of the prisoners charged with the murder of Abdul Aziz, at Constantinople, June 28th, after the counsel for the defence had concluded their addresses, the judges decided that Mustapha the wrestler, Mustapha, a sergeant, Fahri Bey and Hadi Mehmed were guilty of murder, and that Ali Bey, Nedjib Bey, Midhat Pasha, Nouri Pasha and Mahmoud Pasha were accomplices, being privy to the crime.

AROUND HOME.

A schooner loaded with railroad sleepers was carried against Portsmouth bridge by the tide on Thursday afternoon, and hung there until slack water.

A small boy fell overboard from the steamboat landing at the navy yard bridge, Thursday afternoon about three o'clock, and would have drowned had not some ladies drawn the attention of a man, who jumped in and rescued him.

On Tuesday quite a company of western and southern people arrived at the Ocean Wave house, Rye beach, kept by Mr. W. C. Walker. They were the families of Wm. T. Hunter and R. G. Coglin of St. Louis, Mo., and Robert Hunter of Fort Worth, Texas.

Among the degrees conferred by Dartmouth college on the 28th ult., was that of bachelor of sciences upon Charles W. Healey of Stratham. Mr. H. C. Fall of Farmington took the second Mead prize ($10), in the Chandler Scientific department, for free hand drawing.

The schooner G. W. Raitt, Coleman master, from Rockland with 800 barrels of lime, was towed up the river to Dover in the afternoon of June 28th, put her cargo out in four hours, and next morning went down the river to Dover point to take in a cargo of bricks for Boston.

Mr. Franklin A. Pickering of Newington has a cow, just turned out to pasture, which gives twenty-six quarts of milk a day; she is ten years old, and of mixed Durham and Jersey breed. Her udder, a day or two before the production of her last calf, measured five feet and three-eighths of an inch in circumference.

"Progressive," in the Times of Thursday evening, has a communication in answer to "Tax-Payer," in which, while he says nothing, he does not outrage all the rules of grammar—which shows that he has learned enough to submit to revision whatever he writes before he has it printed. He knows a good deal more now than he did ten days ago.

A gentleman interested in having some kind of sport in this city on Independence Day, was circulating a paper on Thursday last to get subscriptions for a sum of money to be distributed in prizes to the winners in various contests to take place on Market square on the afternoon of the 4th. He had secured $60 soon after noon, —enough to assure the sports.

James I. Christie, of the United States senate, was in town on Thursday. Col. Christie visited the navy yard in the forenoon, and subsequently went to Boar's Head to suggest to Col. Dumas that it would be well to have something on the ice, in case the presidential party should return this way from the White mountains. Col. Christie on reading Mr. Chandler's late Furber letter at once determined to return all his free passes and telegraph stamps.

A few days ago we published an item about an accident reported to have occurred to Mr. John F. Bridge at the Spring market. The item was made from a story told by Luther Varrell, who lives on Noble's island and drives a team for Messrs. Randall & Caswell, which story was a falsehood from beginning to end, as Varrell on Thursday acknowledged in presence of Mr. Bridge and others, at the same time blustering loudly as to what terrible things he would do if his name was used in a way to displease him. We hope he will not be displeased with this item, as we are aware that while a liar is of course a sneak he may not necessarily be a cur, and we should be very sorry to get hurt by any such creature.

M. G. Palmer of Portland, and others, are to form a stock company and build a $100,000 hotel at Old Orchard beach.

The Marshall house stage was loaded to its utmost capacity Thursday forenoon, when it started from this city for York harbor.

Hon. James W. Locke, United States district judge of Florida, is on a visit to his father-in-law, John Neal, Esq., in Kittery.

Most of the rooms in the Pepperell house at Kittery Point were taken early in the season, though not much company is expected until after the 4th.

Riverside Lodge, I. O. O. F., of Kittery, has elected the following officers for the ensuing year: N. G., Theodore Willcox; V. G., William K. Styles; Secretary, Calvin L. Hayes; Treasurer, Charles A. Bowden.

We have received the first number of the Sporting News, dated June 27th, and published in Newburyport by Smith, Summer & Co. As its name implies, it is devoted to sporting matters—boating, yachting, base-ball, billiards, bicycling, etc. Subscription price, twenty cents for three months.

The amendment to the charter of the Portsmouth Aqueduct Co. asked of the legislature authorizes the company to purchase and hold real estate to the amount of $50,000 in value, in addition to the property at present held by the company. The bill passed the house of representatives June 29th, without opposition, and was sent to the senate.

To a well-dressed lady feathers are one of the most necessary as well as most beautiful articles of adornment. If really nice, their first cost is high, but when we consider that with proper care they will last for years, there is no trimming so perfectly satisfactory. The new steam process used by H. Methot, 43 Winter street, Boston, for dyeing, curling or shading feathers to match samples, not only assures exemption from any injury to the finest goods, but also produces results that are impossible to be attained by the old-time methods.

The bill introduced in the legislature Wednesday, June 29th, providing for the purchase of the Concord railroad by the state of New Hampshire, is in substance as follows: To authorize the governor and council to appoint three commissioners to purchase said road of the stockholders. When 16,000 shares of stock have been purchased, a little over one-half, the management of the road is to be transferred to a board of six managers, residents of the state, also appointed by the governor and council. Said managers are not to be officers or stockholders in any other railroad. They are to be paid out of the net earnings of the road a fixed salary of $500, and are to have the same powers and perform the same duties as are now exercised by the board of directors under the charter of the Concord railroad. The net earnings of the road are to go to the state, and the road is to be conducted for the interest of the state. It is provided in the original charter of this road that the state may purchase it, upon complying with certain conditions recited therein, which are engrafted into the preamble of the bill.

ELDER HOW'S FUNERAL.

The funeral of our former townsman, Elder Moses How, was held in the Christian church at New Bedford, Mass., on Tuesday, June 28th, when a large concourse was present. It was especially noticeable how many aged persons were in attendance. The services, by Elder How's request, were of the most simple order.

Elder How will be remembered by our residents of advanced years, as one of the kind hearted, earnest, Christian men whom every one loved. He preached for many years in the church of the "First Baptist Society in Portsmouth, N. H.," whose church edifice stood upon the site of the present "Music hall." It was here that Elias Smith, (father of Matthew Hale Smith,) who was the first minister, preached. In 1839 the church building was sold, and subsequently changed by the Washingtonians into the "Temple." The society subsequently worshipped in the then Pleasant street church, and afterwards removed to their new church edifice on Court street, near Haymarket square. Elder How lived while in Portsmouth at the corner of Islington and what was then Ann (now Langdon) streets. He has one son living in this state, Dr. Lyman B. How, a well known physician in Manchester.

SHERIFF'S APPOINTMENTS.

The late official terms of the sheriff and other county officers expired on the 30th ult., and those elected last November enter upon their terms to-day. Sheriff Kent has appointed the following deputies: Newmarket, John W. Smart; Epping, George W. Tilton; Raymond, Charles A. Shepard; Nottingham, William F. Watson; Northwood, Joseph A. Trickey; Candia, George A. Eaton; Derry, Isaiah A. Dustin; Londonderry, William Clark, (post-office address Derry;) Salem, Benjamin R. Wheeler; Kingston, Samuel E. Woodman; Hampton Falls, Frank P. Cram, (post-office address Exeter;) Exeter, James W. Odlin and T. B. Hoyt; Deerfield, Ezra A. J. Sawyer.

THE HIGH SCHOOL EXHIBITION.

The annual exhibition and graduating exercises of the High school took place in the school building on Thursday afternoon last, the room being filled with the relatives of the pupils and friends of the school. The graduating class numbers six, as follows:

Celia Augustua Blaisdell, Annie Prudence Gilbert, Anna Swett Conner, Helen Augusta Plummer, Nellie Jane Pickering, Elwyn Carter.

The class motto, "Quales haberi velimus, simus," was worked in evergreen on the wall opposite the desk, and under it "1881" was woven in everlasting flowers and immortelles. The following was the

Music—"America."

The exhibition gave more than ordinary pleasure to the large audience, everything passing off in a manner satisfactory to the spectators and creditable to the pupils and teachers. The salutatory and valedictory were graceful productions, the latter being especially fruitful in thought. The essays on the influence of the drama, pro and con, were particularly interesting and terse, each disputant handling her side with marked ability. The following was the

SECOND YEAR.

Young ladies—First medal, Helen C. Pender; second medal, Carrie A. Drake.

Young gentlemen—John W. Kelley.

THIRD YEAR.

Young ladies—"Best scholar in bookkeeping and mathematics, including all the branches of the latter pursued during this and previous years." Ella F. Goss. [This young lady has also maintained the highest rank in general scholarship.]

Young gentlemen—"Best scholar in book-keeping and mathematics, including all the branches of the latter pursued during this and previous years." Benjamin Green. [This young gentleman has also maintained the highest rank in general scholarship.]

FOURTH YEAR.

For "diligent application, good deportment and general improvement." First medal, Celia A. Blaisdell; second medal, Nellie J. Pickering; third medal, Anna S. Conner.

After the medals were awarded, the chairman of the committee, Col. D. J. Vaughan, called up the former esteemed principal of the school, Stephen W. Clarke, Esq., who spoke most feelingly and appropriately to the graduates and the audience of his earnest efforts for fifteen years in behalf of the school's welfare. Then followed the award of diplomas to the graduates by His Honor Mayor Sise.

There were fourteen competitors for the two gold medals offered for the best compositions having for a theme "cruelty to animals." The essays submitted were of such general excellence that the committee of award found it difficult to discriminate, but Miss Grace M. Townsend and Master Benjamin Green, both members of third class, were finally selected as the winners. The medals are similar, having on one side "To (name,) June 30th, 1881," and on the reverse, "N. H. S. P. C. A. Presented by Mrs. Gov. Goodwin and A. O. Larkin, Esq." The medals were well won, and will no doubt be highly valued by the recipients.

In the evening the graduating class held a reception at Franklin hall, where gathered a very large and happy throng, the festivities continuing until a reasonably late hour.

MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

In Board of Mayor and Aldermen, regular meeting, Thursday evening, June 30th, Mayor Sise in the chair:

A communication was received from Rev. John D. Waldron of Amesbury, stating that as he was driving near Portsmouth bridge, June 22d, his horse stepped on a loose stone and fell, cutting his knee, injuring him to the amount of $50, and damaging the carriage $5, for which Mr. Waldron asked compensation. After a statement by the mayor, the communication was laid on the table.

The fire department pay-roll for June, amounting to $1424.16, was ordered to be paid.

Tenders from the banks in regard to deposits and loans were laid before the board, as follows: Mechanics & Traders' bank, loans at four per cent, interest on deposits two per cent; New Hampshire, loans not exceeding $15,000 at 4 1-2 per cent, interest on deposits 2 1-4 per cent; Rockingham, loans at 4 1-2, interest on deposits 2 1-2. After a brief discussion the tender of the Mechanics & Traders' bank was unanimously accepted.

The matter of kerbing the spring on Miller avenue was discussed, but no conclusion was reached. It was stated that Mr. James Miller had a right in the spring, conveyed to him by deed before the street became a highway. No action was taken.

The committee on streets reported that a serviceable drinking fountain could be put on the eastern side of Market square; referred back to same committee, with power.

The question of the appropriation bill, the last action on which was taken April 28th, was brought up, and Ald. Shannon moved to concur with the Common Council. The vote of June 16th, not to recede from the previous action, was reconsidered, and the bill was ruled to be now before the board for action. On a motion to recede the yeas and nays were called, with the following result: Yeas, Ald. Shannon, Vaughan and Sanborn, three; nays, Ald. Call, Noyes, Slater, Hall and Hartshorn, five; so the motion did not prevail.

Adjourned for one week.

OFF FOR EUROPE.

Miss Morgan, Miss Gangloff and Mrs. S. Tams left by the 8:20 A. M. train on the Eastern road, and Mrs. Jno. H. Burleigh and daughters of South Berwick and Miss Hackett of this city by the 11:02 train, for New York, to embark in the steamer Furnessia, Capt. Small, of the Anchor line, for Glasgow. Miss Morgan has quite a pleasant party of twenty who are to visit Europe for a short tour, most of the tourists returning in September.

Cereals in New Hampshire.

In 1870, on an acreage of 36,533 in this state, were raised 1,277,768 bushels of corn; in 1880, 1,358,625 bushels. Of wheat, on an acreage of 11,245, in 1890 were raised 169,316 bushels, and 193,621 bushels in 1870. Of oats, on an acreage of 29,434 in 1880, were produced 1,018,006 bushels; 1,146,451 bushels in 1870. Of barley, on an acreage of 3,460 in '80, we had 77,877 bushels; in 1870, 105,822 bushels. Rye, on 3,217 acres in 1880, shew 34,618 bushels, against 41,420 in 1870. Buckwheat was on 4533 acres in 1880, producing 94,127 bushels; in 1870, 100,034 bushels. In the last census the average of crops is given for the first time. Further statistics thus will be capable of more accurate comparisons. Our state seems to have in some degree "laid down the shovel and the hoe."

An Old Story Repeated.

We have all heard of the nabob who lived in a magnificent house, had everything that wealth could procure, and yet was not happy because of the unceasing ring of two smithies, one on either side of him. At last, driven to desperation, he offered the smiths a handsome sum (if they would move. They consented. He then invited them to a grand dinner, in the course of which he casually asked one whither he had moved, and was struck dumb with the answer: "Tom Jones moves to my shop, and I move to his." A similar affair occurred in this city a few days since. In a family where there are two boys, one of them brought home a worthless cur, to the disgust of the rest of the family. At last an older sister offered him a half dollar if he would give the dog awey. He assented, and pocketed the coin. When night came, prompted by curiosity, she asked the little fellow to whom he had given his dog, and was told with charming naivete, "Oh, I've given him to brother."—Newburyport Herald.

Lights for Row Boats.

The regulation which requires all dories and other small boats in motion after dark to carry lanterns, is looked upon with much disfavor by wharfmen. They say that a lantern on a dory is a great nuisance, and by dazzling the sight of the rower prevents him from keeping a good look-out for objects ahead. Old fishermen, when obliged to take a lantern after dark, usually put it in a basket, out of sight, that it may not interfere with their vision. If, therefore, the prevention of accident is intended by the new requirement, it rather misses the mark. If the lantern be mounted on a high pole, it will swing back and forth with every side motion of the dory, almost like a signal lantern on the railroads. A person not familiar with dories, who should happen to observe such a lantern in motion, would hardly know what to make of it, and would be extremely mystified to learn what kind of a craft that was ahead. We hear that persons in town are talking about a formal protest against the regulation, which certainly will admit of very serious modification.—Marblehead Messenger.

By the capsizing of a small yacht on Long Island sound, June 28th, four men and a woman were drowned. Two men were saved, after floating on an ice-chest for several hours.

There is serious meaning in this expression. That wearied step, languid eye and feeling of general lassitude, come from "spring sickness." Be assured, a serious, and perhaps, fatal disease is close in its wake. The system wants cleansing of winter impurities; the sluggish blood needs to be sent in swift and clear currents through the veins. "Favorite Remedy" will do this; it will give new vigor to the body, brightness to the eye, a glow to the countenance and elasticity to the step. One dollar a bottle. Every druggist has it. Dr. David Kennedy, proprietor, Rondout, N. Y.

—A man who has rented a cottage by the sea at $1,900 for the season, does not love his neighbor who comes along two months later and gets the twin cottage next door for $250. Such things happen, however.

I Will, Never!

Allow myself to suffer again what I have suffered for the last year. That vile disease dyspepsia gave me no comfort. I could not eat or enjoy anything. The doctors amounted to nothing; nothing seemed to relieve me, until I used a bottle of Sulphur Bitters. Four bottles made me well.—Shoe Dealer.

—An exchange says: "A Christian is always on the perch or on the wing." So we understand that he never digs a hole in the sand under the currant-bushes, and kicks the dirt into his feathers, like other domestic fowls?

—"I haven't any money with me today," said Pendleton to Billkins, who had called to collect that little bill, "but I will give you my note." "Your note!" exclaimed Billkins, "is it good for anything?" "I should say it was, replied Pendleton; "Everybody in the city has got it." Billkins declined with thanks. He would call again.

"A Girl's Choice."

It was in a drug store of course. All interesting incidents occur in drug stores,—that is, nearly all. She was pretty, with blue eyes and golden hair, one of those kind of beauties the poet would have called an "angel," but for the fact that a colony of pimples on her fair frontis-piece precluded all thought of a celestial being. Bowing timidly to the handsome clerk, she asked for "Swayne's Ointment for skin diseases," and upon receiving it vanished like the morning dew before the summer sun.

The schooner Gold Hunter came off the marine railway at Kittery on the 29th inst. The schooner Hattie Lewis, Garland master, went on the ways next tide for examination, and repairs if needed. The Gold Hunter proceeded up river on the same date, for a load of brick. A number of others vessels belonging to the "brick fleet" went up river on the same tide.

A change is announced in the starting time of the steamer Acushnet, which on and after July 5th will leave Boston for this port on each Tuesday and Friday at 10:30 o'clock A. M., instead of at nine o'clock as heretofore, and will leave this city each Wednesday and Saturday at 7:30 o'clock A. M., instead of at nine as previously. At the same time [illegible] trip tickets will be placed on sale at the low price of $1.50 each.

We have received a copy of the "Hickman Pioneer, published at Centreville, Hickman county, Tenn., containing a four-column description of the commencement exercises of the Centreville Male and Female High school, the principal of which institution is Mr. William H. Gardiner, formerly of this city. The editorial commendation of Mr. Gardiner, as a teacher and a gentleman, seems almost extravagant, but we do not doubt it is deserved.

New York city, whither the best wishes of a host of friends attend him.—Times.

Dr. Stearns of Newcastle, who occupies a cottage near the Wentworth, owns one of the prettiest little boats on the river; she is cat-rigged, and has recently been put in thoroughly good condition by Mr. George J. Fernald.

The schooner Mary Eliza, lumber laden and bound for New York, before reported as having got ashore on Lawrence's point, Kittery, on Monday night of this week, was hauled off on Tuesday by the tug Naumkeag, and sailed for her destination on Wednesday, having apparently suffered no material damage.

Mr. John S. Browning of Cambridge, Mass., is canvassing this city and vicinity, for the subscription or sale of Longfellow's Poetical Works, complete in two volumes. This is the new edition of Mr. Longfellow's poems which is published by Messrs. Houghton, Mifflin & Co., of Boston. The work is sold by subscription, completed in thirty parts, at fifty cents each, payable on delivery. Subscriptions are received only for the entire work. Both volumes are now ready, elegantly bound, and those wishing to purchase them in that form can do so. The canvassers take these orders, and the work is distributed by the agents of the firm. The edition contains a magnificent likeness of the celebrated poet, and is illustrated by over five hundred fine wood-engravings, designed especially for this publication by our best native artists, many of whom have achieved a wide celebrity. The book will be found to be one of the most attractive volumes of the kind in the entire range of poetic literature. This work deserves an examination by every one, and in its entire character, execution, etc., is far in advance of the publications usually presented by canvassers.

Mr. Editor: I do not much wonder at the contempt with which your correspondent "Citizen" treated the scurrilous attack upon him of the fellow signing himself "Progressive" in the Times, as the latter's remarkable production not only proved him to be ignorant of the ordinary rules of grammar, but also showed that he has vast room to "progress" before he will become liable to the imputation of being either a gentleman or a man of common sense. But I confess to a little surprise that "Citizen" did not even allude to "Progressive's" sapient suggestion that "providing it [the cost of certain official courtesies shown to private persons] came out of the city government last Thursday, no man of brains would think of such a thing as to mention the fact, as His Honor Mayor Siac, besides the city government, were present, and Portsmouth's best and most prominent citizens were the entertainers." This is a decidedly "progressive" idea, indeed—that provided Portsmouth's "best and most prominent citizens" get up a private entertainment, and invite the mayor and city government to participate, the bills should be paid out of the city treasury! "Citizen" may be "a narrow-minded 'old fogy,'" as "Progressive" calls him; that "Progressive" is a first-class toady does not admit of a question. TAX-PAYER.

We have received an enquiry from a person proposing to open a large store in Portsmouth, if a suitable building can be secured, wherein would be kept dry goods, boots and shoes, and (we infer) an assortment like what is found in some stores in the large cities. The firm would be connected with other houses which it is proposed to establish at different localities, and by purchasing enormous lines of goods and taking the entire product of some factories they would be enabled to sell at low rates, and advertise largely their wares. It is contended that such stores established in leading cities of the state would absorb much of the business, and through saving of rents and expenses be able to sell cheaper than could other establishments. They would have a systematic plan of advertising, and do a cash business. Whether with the loss of our cotton factory's laboring population, our high tolls from Maine, and other causes, our census is to show a further decline in the number of inhabitants, we know not; but we do know that trade in these days does not seek the seller. He must carry his wares to the buyer, or give such information by means of judicious advertising that buyers will come to the seller. The days when a man or a firm could open a store, stock it with new goods and await buyers, have gone by. Goods are bought by dealers, immediately after being manufactured or produced, and are quickly turned; and the merchant who does not rush his trade will find himself distanced by some better informed competitor, who has kept abreast of the times and knows how to do business in the modern way.

BICYCLES AND TRICYCLES.

Two boy bicyclers, aged respectively twelve and fourteen years, left Beverly, Mass., for [illegible] a distance of forty [illegible] morning of this [illegible] and arrived here at [illegible]

ported English tricycle, similar to the ones ridden by Queen Victoria and her daughters. There are over 6,000 of these machines in daily use in England, and a few in Boston and New York. The following paragraph regarding these machines was clipped from the Boston Transcript some months ago:

A clergyman in the west of England gives his experience of a tricycle as a means of locomotion in large country parishes. He says, "My first journey was ten miles, the third forty-two, across Devon into Cornwall. I have travelled about 800 miles by this time on pleasure trips in North Wales and latterly in Derbyshire, on my work of deputation for the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, and have found it a great comfort and pleasure. From seven to eight miles an hour is my speed, and I can do fifty miles per day. I can ride up any hill almost. I carry my portmanteau with me, and carried my boy, aged twelve, behind me for thirty-four miles once. If I were in a country place and wished to save a horse, I should do so by keeping a tricycle. It wants no grooming, no tax, no gates. You can leave it at the door of a cottage, and want no one to hold it; and, better than all, it has done my health (which was shattered abroad) more good than all the medicine I have swallowed, so I cordially recommend it to clergymen."

New Hampshire Items.

A terrific hail storm passed over Andover on Tuesday afternoon, June 28th, destroying the fields of corn, uprooting apple trees, overturning old buildings, blowing down fences and seriously damaging crops. It lasted fifteen minutes, and was of great fury.

Asa T. Barron, proprietor of the Fabyan, Crawford and Twin Mountain houses, the famous White mountain summer resorts, who has been afflicted by a temporary aberration of mind, has partially recovered, and is now at Saratoga.

The reported volcanic manifestations on Bridgewater hill, near Ashland, that have been extensively published abroad, deserve little consideration. The story has very slight foundation. Mineral springs abounding in gases of a sulphurous nature have long existed among the rocks there, and whatever slight symptoms have been exhibited are undoubtedly due to this cause. There is no excitement about Ashland on the subject.

Dr. M. R. Warren of Rochester died on Sunday, June 26th. He graduated from Bowdoin medical college in 1832, and began his professional career in Middletown. He afterwards resided at Wolfeboro', but for the past twenty years in Rochester. He was one of the oldest members of the Strafford County Medical society. He leaves one son, Dr. J. S. Warren of New York city, and one daughter.

A destructive storm of hail, rain and wind swept over Franklin village on the afternoon of June 28th, doing great damage. The track of the storm was about two miles wide; many buildings were injured by the floods of rain that poured in through windows broken by the hail; many chimneys and trees were thrown down, gardens ruined, fowls killed, etc. The Catholic church and several houses were moved from their foundations; the house, barn and shed of David E. Brown were blown to pieces, and George E. Drake's house wrecked; and cars on the Northern railroad track were blown off.

A COUGH, COLD OR SORE THROAT should be stopped. Neglect frequently results in an incurable LUNG DISEASE or Consumption. "Brown's Bronchial Troches" do not disorder the stomach like cough syrups and balsams, but act directly on the inflamed parts, allaying irritation, give relief in Asthma, Bronchitis, Coughs, Catarrh, and the throat troubles which Singers and Public Speakers are subject to. For thirty years "Brown's Bronchial Troches" have been recommended by physicians, and always give perfect satisfaction. Having been tested by wide and constant use for nearly an entire generation, they have attained well-merited rank among the few staple remedies of the age. A Queer Torpedo Ram.

England's new armored ram Polyphemus, recently launched at the Chatham dock-yard, is a unique implement of naval warfare. No other vessel of the kind was ever constructed or even designed, and it is possible that no similar vessel will ever be constructed again. It is an eccentric experiment which may never be repeated. The Polyphemus carries no guns, and can never be fitted to carry any. Her weapons are a powerful ram and Whitehead torpedoes, both of which she is designed to use with much cunning and deadly effect. The ram, which forms the bow (although it can be removed at will), is twelve feet long, and is submerged when the vessel is afloat so as to be capable of striking most iron-clads of modern construction well below their armor-plating. The torpedo fittings, which form the other fighting feature of the vessel, can be used in all directions with equal efficiency. The Polyphemus is cigar-shaped, and submerged except in the centre, where a conical deck, surmounted by a slight superstructure, rises above the water. Her length is 240 feet, breadth forty feet, and displacement 2,640 tons. Engines of 5,500 horse-power will propel her at the rate of seventeen knots an hour. Mr. Ward Hunt, who authorized her construction, says: "This vessel must, of course, to a certain extent be regarded as an experiment; and even supposing it to be a success, I could not propose it to the House as being likely to supersede all other kinds of fighting ships, but only as a useful adjunct in case of war."

Centaur Liniment.

Invaluable to families, and owners of horses Sold everywhere.

—The Springfield Republican says that one of Connecticut's best clergymen was inquired of by a stranger colporteur not long since as to whether he felt that his soul was safe. His reply was: "I deem your question exceedingly impertinent."

Castorin.

—"Why, alive yet, my old friend? I heard you were dead," "Nice friend, you are. You didn't even come to my funeral."

Ash-Tonic;

A perfected purifyer of the system. In 1-2lb. bottles; 75 cents. For dyspepsia, the many forms of liver complaint, impure and impoverished blood, and functional derangements attendant upon debility. For symptons indicated by indigestion, loss of appetite, nausea, sick headache, sour stomach, furred tongue, drowsiness, blanched lips, sallow complexion, pain in the side or back, eruptions, depression of spirits, nervous irritability and hysteria, and for building up the system, ash-tonic is unquestionably the most prompt and energetic remedy yet devised.

—Strawberry dry measure—Three quart baskets make one pint; three pints make one meal.

No Hospital Needed.

No palatial hospital needed for Hop Bitters patients, nor large-salaried talented puffers to tell what Hop Bitters will do or cure, as they tell their own story by their certain and absolute cures at home. —New York Independent.

Rescued from Death.

William J. Coughlin, of Somerville, Mass., says: "In the fall of 1876 I was taken with a violent bleeding of the lungs followed by a severe cough. I soon began to lose my appetite and flesh. I was so weak at one time that I could not leave my bed. In the summer of 1877 I was admitted to the city hospital. While there the doctors said I had a hole in my left lung as big as a half a dollar. I was so far gone at one time a report went around that I was dead. I gave up hope, but a friend told me of Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs. I laughed at my friends, thinking that my case was incurable, but I got a bottle to satisfy them, when to my surprise and gratification, I commenced to feel better. My hope, once dead, began to revive, and to-day I feel in better spirits than I have the past three years.

I write this hoping you will publish it, so that every one afflicted with diseased lungs, will be induced to take Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs, and be convinced that consumption can be cured. I have taken two bottles and can positively say that it has done more good than all the other medicines I have taken since my sickness." Sold by all druggists.

—People who are so "sentimental" as to deprecate horse-racing, are often told that "the horses enjoy it." Of course. In the first trot of the season at Detroit, Nellie Soper dropped dead before finishing the third heat. A dozen such things will happen this summer. Of course they enjoy it.

Thy wondrous virtues, fadeless still,
Exert an influence sublime,
In ministering to human ill;
Sanford's Jamaica Ginger doth allay.

Portsmouth Chronicle.

FRIDAY, JULY 1, 1881.

New Hampshire Legislature.

In the house, on the 29th, a large number of petitions for and against the general railroad law and the Lake Shore railroad charter were presented and referred.

A bill was introduced and referred to the committee on railroads, to provide for the purchase of the Concord railroad by the state. A motion was made to take it from the railroad committee and refer it to a special committee, which motion was left in the unfinished business; the bill was in the evening taken up and considered by the railroad committee.

The following bills were passed: To incorporate the Mt. Lafayette railroad; to abate the state tax on bonds purchased; to provide for the better protection of destitute and abused children; to incorporate the Crystal Shore Hotel company; to incorporate the Moosilauk railroad company; to incorporate the Manchester Chemical Manufacturing company; to incorporate the Connecticut Water Power & Lumber company. The following resolutions were passed:

Resolved by the house of representatives, the senate concurring, That the legislature of New Hampshire deeply sympathize with Ireland in her earnest struggle for more liberty and better government, and with those unfortunate Irish patriots who are now suffering imprisonment without trial for their efforts to repeal oppressive land laws, and to secure the possession and ownership of the soil to the men who cultivate.

Resolved, That the governor be requested to forward copies of the foregoing resolutions to our senators and representatives in Congress, and to the President and secretary of state.

Most of the afternoon was occupied in debating a resolution of the election committee that Joseph Q. Rolles of Ossipee is not entitled to a seat. It was voted to recommit the matter.

Mr. Rolles of Ossipee, whom it is claimed was irregularly elected as representative, is a time-honored member, and like Mr. Bingham is entitled prima facie to his seat. Any one who read the glowing piece of biography of the veteran member prepared for the sketch of the representatives of '81, cannot fail to see that the retirement of Rolles would entail a positive loss to the state.

News and Notes.

President Garfield has removed the collector of the port of Bangor to make place for a man who helped Senator Hale to his election. Against the late collector, who had not been in office a long while, no objection was urged. If the President desires to have a Congress severely opposed to the administration during his term of office, no surer way of effecting such a result can be devised than by such ill-advised removals as that of the collector on the Penobscot. It will doubtless be heard from at the next Maine election.

L. Zeckendorf's powder house at Tucson, Arizona, containing two car loads of English gun cotton and tonite powder, exploded Tuesday night, June 28th. All windows in the city were broken, doors burst in and crockery stocks demolished. The concussion broke a lamp in the residence of M. Katz, setting the house on fire and badly burning several inmates. The county hospital was ruined, but none of the patients were injured. Total loss about $100,000.

At Attleboro', Mass., on the night of June 28th, a male child apparently about one hour old was found by parties at work for Mr. F. S. Draper, in the grass just below his manufactory. The discovery was made directly after the heavy shower, and when found the child had no covering whatever, and appearances indicated that it was born in a carriage and thrown over the wall, the grass being very heavy, breaking the fall. The little fellow was blue as a whetstone, but through the care given him by those into whose hands he had fallen he weathered the gale, and is now smart and lively.

Charles Stebbins, a Frenchman, supposed to be 103 years of age, died in Rutland, Vt., June 27th.

James Root, a carpenter of Lee, who went to Pittsfield, Mass., June 27th, to attend Barnum's circus, was found dead under a railroad bridge on West street next morning. He was last seen alive at the depot on the night of the 27th, waiting to go home on the excursion train. Whether he fell from a platform of a car or walked to the bridge, which is but a short distance from the depot, and fell through, is not known. The body was not bruised, nor were any bones broken. He evidently lay out all night, as his clothes were soaked with rain. He leaves a wife and six children.

Tornadoes are reported from all over the northern states as having prevailed on June 28th and 29th, immense damage having been done by wind, lightning, rain and hail. Central Illinois, portions of Virginia, Iowa, Delaware, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, New York, New Hampshire and Maine all got a share of what was going, and crops were ruined and many buildings damaged wherever the storms were the most violent. But few lives are reported to have been lost.

Thomas G. Mallery, chief of police at North Adams, Mass., charged with seduction by Miss Witherell of that village, has suddenly disappeared. It is alleged he has been discovered under an assumed name in Troy, N. Y. He asserted his innocence, and pronounced the charge blackmail. He said he would go to parts unknown for the present.

Mr. Frank H. Cushing expects to create quite a historical sensation by his statements concerning ancient Mexican history. He went among the Zuni tribes of Indians, who are direct descendants from the Aztecs, and uncorrupted by Spanish civilization, and after a long residence among them, was made their chief. From them, in other ways, he procured evidence in regard to their early history which is at great variance with the story related by Prescott. He says he shall show that Prescott's story of the conquest of Mexico by Cortez was mostly romance. These disclosures will be awaited with considerable interest.

Talkers.

Some people talk with their eyes more eloquently than others can with the natural organ of speech. A glance, a twinkle, or an earnest look often expresses volumes when there is no time for words. Eyes are not only given for sight, but for the expression of ideas. This service seems almost a needless innovation upon the duties of the tongue, only that it is so charmingly rendered. The latter is reputed to need no assistance in its work, which "they say" is so amply and willingly performed, especially by the feminine type. "They say" many things which are untrue, unjust and not capable of proof, among which this charge may be classed; Heaven save us from greater talkers than the generality of men, and grant that women may learn to talk as well. Men now employ a vocabulary of words far greater than that used all by the rank and file of women, who find about six hundred words ample to give vent to their feelings and ideas. Of course this does not include exceptionally smart women, who read and think for themselves. But it does comprise a large number of vain, proud, stylish women who feel themselves too good to speak to a working woman, who may be able to converse intelligently upon subjects which would be Greek to them. A pleasant voice is a great charm, and a power which does almost as much as logic to convince and attract. Words must be judiciously selected if one would be really clever and successful; but the voice must be smooth and musical, and the pronunciation clear, distinct and proper, else more than half their force and power are lost. To talk well, and just enough, is an accomplishment and wisdom possessed by very few.—Exchange.

The "Lake Shore" Railroad.

The following is the full text, as printed for the use of the legislators, of "An Act in addition to an act to incorporate the Dover & Winnipiseogee Railroad, passed June 1, 1862:"

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Court convened:

SECTION 1. The Dover & Winnipiseogee railroad is hereby authorized to extend its railroad, with one or more tracks, from its present terminus in the town of Alton, through Alton, Gilford, and Laconia, or any of said towns, to some convenient point on the line of the Boston, Concord & Montreal railroad in the towns of Laconia or Gilford, and connecting therewith with an additional branch road to the road of the Boston, Concord & Montreal railroad, and connecting therewith near Weirs landing in said Laconia, and to extend from its present located terminus in Dover to the line of the Portsmouth & Dover railroad in Dover, and to connect therewith; to locate, construct, maintain, and operate such extended road, with all the powers, rights, privileges and immunities in respect thereto of similar railroad corporations under the laws of this state.

SEC. 2. Said Dover & Winnipiseogee railroad is authorized to increase its capital stock so as to not exceed in all one million of dollars, to be divided into shares of one hundred dollars each, and may issue its bonds to an amount not exceeding five hundred thousand dollars, payable with interest at such rate and at such time or times, not exceeding thirty years, as the directors of said corporation shall determine.

SEC. 3. Said Dover & Winnipiseogee railroad is hereby authorized to lease its road, and all its lands, rights, easements, franchises, and privileges appurtenant thereto, together with all the turn-outs, branch tracks, depots, grounds, and stations connected therewith or belonging thereto, as the same now is or shall be after the construction of the extension and branch, as herein authorized, to the Boston & Maine railroad, upon such terms and for such time as the directors of each corporation may agree; and the Boston & Maine railroad is hereby authorized to lease said Dover & Winnipiseogee railroad as aforesaid, and to aid in the construction of said extension either by taking and holding stock, or by guaranteeing the payment of the bonds of said Dover & Winnipiseogee railroad to an amount authorized by section second of this act.

SEC. 4. When said Dover & Winnipiseogee railroad shall be so extended, its tracks shall be suitably connected with the tracks of the Boston, Concord & Montreal railroad, and with the tracks of the several railroads in Rochester, and with the tracks of the Portsmouth & Dover railroad in Dover, and so remain connected until changed by mutual agreement of said railroads respectively, or by act of the legislature.

SEC. 5. All acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed, and this shall take effect upon its passage.

SEC. 6. The legislature may alter, amend, or repeal this act whenever in their opinion the public good may require it.

Brace Up.

There is serious meaning in this expression. That wearied step, languid eye and feeling of general lassitude, come from "spring sickness." Be assured, a serious, and perhaps, fatal disease is close in its wake. The system wants cleansing of winter impurities; the sluggish blood needs to be sent in swift and clear currents through the veins. "Favorite Remedy" will do this; it will give new vigor to the body, brightness to the eye, a glow to the countenance and elasticity to the step. One dollar a bottle. Every druggist has it. Dr. David Kennedy, proprietor, Rondout, N. Y.

Tuesday afternoon, June 28th, while workmen were engaged in making repairs upon the house of Mr. Charles Lewis, in Sherborn, Mass., they found in a secluded spot a bag containing $1,500 in gold. The bag was so rotten as to fall to pieces upon being handled. The house is generally known as the "Perry place," and is about two hundred years old. An opinion exists that the money was placed there by Mr. Perry during his life.

Advices from Lima, Peru, of date June 8th, say that the United States legation has been instructed from Washington to recognize the government of Calderon should such a step seem advisable, and in consonance with the traditions of American polity. The recognition by the United States will doubtless be followed by other nations, and aid Peru in her efforts to promote peace in her borders.

"A Girl's Choice."

It was in a drug store of course. All interesting incidents occur in drug stores,—that is, nearly all.—She was pretty, with blue eyes and golden hair, one of those kind of beauties the poet would have called an "angel," but for the fact that a colony of pimples on her fair frontis-piece precluded all thought of a celestial being. Bowing timidly to the handsome clerk, she asked for "Swayne's Ointment for skin diseases," and upon receiving it vanished like the morning dew before the summer sun.

Neil Kennedy shot Joseph Davitt in Jersey City, N. J., last Thursday night and the latter is dying. Both are boys, and were playing with a revolver. Kennedy fled.

I Will Never!

Allow myself to suffer again what I have suffered for the last year. That vile disease dyspepsia gave me no comfort. I could not eat or enjoy anything. The doctors amounted to nothing; nothing seemed to relieve me, until I used a bottle of Sulphur Bitters. Four bottles made me well.—Shoe Dealer.

Independence Day.

Every enlightened reader of our paper, as he or she awoke this morning, or remained awake during the period of small hours of the night after the Sabbath, remembered that this is the anniversary of the day on which our national independence was declared.

In the conferences which brought about this important step, New Hampshire was prominent. John Langdon did not sign the declaration, because at the time of its signing he was busily engaged in serving his country at Portsmouth, and Matthew Thornton's signature was not affixed until some time after the date of the instrument; but our state was represented, and participated in the deliberation of the occasion. We have in our state every reason to be proud of the part which our ancestors took in this then new departure, and in the succeeding struggle to maintain our independence. It may not be that we annually air our eloquence on the hill-top, or go down and tell the deep blue sea of our enduring patriotic recollections and our appreciating admiration of our forefathers, their struggles, their hardships and devotion to their country. It is not in our booming cannon, our display of bunting, our speeches, toasts, and oratorical effusions of every kind that we manifest these sentiments upon the recurrence of this anniversary; but we all, young and old, great and small, rich and poor, in whatever condition, heartily prize the boon of liberty which for a century this people have enjoyed. Its constant and almost uninterrupted possession may at times have caused us for a while to undervalue its immense advantage to us as a nation; but with this recurring day there goes up, amid all the noise and pomp of the occasion, the silent, prayerful acknowledgment of gratitude to the good God who has cared for us as a people since our independence. Let us not fail to remember our obligations to good citizenship and sound morals in public affairs, if we would preserve these eminent advantages which as a free people we possess in such generous abundance, and for which we never can be too grateful.

AROUND HOME.

No paper will be issued from this office to-morrow.

Among the recent visitors at Appledore are Jacob Wendell, Esq., of New York, and Rev. Edward E. Hale and Henry P. Kidder, Esq., of Boston.

The schooner yacht Knott V. Martin, of Marblehead, Mass., arrived on Sunday with a party of gentlemen excursionists, bound for the Shoals.

The dividend on the Portsmouth & Dover railroad stock was paid on Saturday, the 2d inst. The Rockingham National bank paid its usual semi-annual dividend of three and one-half per cent on the 1st inst.

The steamer Acushnet had a good number of passengers down from Boston on Friday, and another good number from this city for Boston on Saturday. The fare, $1.50 for the round trip, is certainly very low; the boat is a staunch one, built for sea service, and in good repair; and the trip to or from Boston on a fair day, such as may be expected now, is one of the pleasantest that can be taken.

At the harness shop of Mr. John T. Larrabee, No. 26 Congress street, (up one flight of stairs,) can be found a very large and well selected stock of whips of all kinds, from the most costly ones of whalebone and ivory down to those that ever an editor might lose without becoming bankrupt. He has lately received a large invoice of extra nice ones, which any person in want of such an article would do well to inspect.

The Children's Home has recently received a gift of $50 from Ex-Gov. Goodwin.

The little pleasure boat W. H. Smart was launched at Newcastle one day last week, with appropriate ceremonies, in which a number of young ladies participated.

Miss Tuttle of Boston appeared in the choir at the Unitarian church on Sunday. She possesses a voice of much compass, and is apparently a singer of excellent training.

Rev. James DeNormandie on Sunday touchingly alluded to the general feeling of sorrow throughout the country at the outrage committed in Washington on Saturday.

The can buoy marking Kitt's rock, outside the harbor, is a long way out of position; and the spar buoy which should be at Goat island ledge, in the river, is gone altogether.

The last gold-mining company organized under the laws of Maine bears the suggestive name of "Devil's Rapids." It was organized at Kittery, and E. C. Spinney, Esq., is secretary.

The yacht William H. Russell left the wharf on Sunday for Rye harbor, to take Ezra H. Winchester, Esq., and family, on a water excursion next day. This is the fifth successive 4th of July that this yacht has been engaged by Mr. Winchester.

The annual meeting of the committee on the return of the sons and daughters of Portsmouth will take place in the city rooms at eleven o'clock this forenoon. The third anniversary of the return of the sons and daughters draws near, and let there be a good attendance to talk over the matter.

Conductor Jacob Johnson, of this city, has been appointed on the part of the Eastern railroad, under the statute law, examiner of employes for color blindness. The many friends of Mr. Johnson on his train, and the travelling public generally on that road, hope that his new duties will not take him away from his train for a long period.—Newburyport Herald.

The trouble between the Eastern railroad managers and the Old Orchard Beach company has been settled, and the former will be compelled, by the laws of Maine, not only to allow of the connection, but also to delay its trains at least twenty minutes for the trains on the branch road.

Michael Ward, hailing from Lewiston, Me., was arrested in this city on Friday, on suspicion of concealing goods belonging to creditors of his brother, who recently failed in that city. Ward had eight trunks packed with ready-made clothing and cloths, a large part of which had been checked from the depot in this city to Portland, whither he was taken by City Marshal Entwistle, and delivered to a sheriff.

A brilliant light with a large reflector behind it has been put up on the sea-shore front of the "Gorgeana house," Natt G. Wadleigh proprietor, at Long beach, York, and is kept burning all night, rendering it an easy matter to find this very pleasant beach hotel. The house has been refurnished throughout since last season—new carpets, beds and bedding, furniture, etc.,—and as the charges are reasonable the proprietor thinks it is not unreasonable to expect a liberal share of patronage; guests of the house will find good attendance and good fare, and at rates that will not ruin them.

We received a brief call on Saturday from Mr. William H. Adams, who is canvassing the principal places in this portion of New England for subscriptions to the Southern Workman, a monthly paper devoted to the interests of the industrial classes of the south. The paper is issued from the Hampton Institute at Hampton, Va.; all the type-setting and press-work are done by the colored students at the institute, and the editor-in-chief is Gen. S. C. Armstrong, the principal. Mr. Adams is an intelligent and gentlemanly young colored man, and is abundantly vouched for as being authorized to receive subscriptions for the paper, and donations in aid of the institute.

Nothing gives better evidence that the season of summer excursion for visitors from the larger cities is [illegible] than the appearance of the [illegible] pages on our streets. The [illegible] stately coach with bang-taller [illegible] the jaunty English dog-cart [illegible] variety of turn-outs wh[illegible] on a pleasant afternoon [illegible] to gladly welcome [illegible] visitors at our seaside [illegible] good roads and pleasant drives around Portsmouth, and concede that this is the best place to take their horses for summer enjoyment.

Mr. Andrew J. Small of the Biddeford Times is publishing a daily evening paper at Old Orchard called the Sea Shell, and the Prescotts of the Biddeford Journal publish a morning paper, the Old Orchard Reporter. Thirty years ago, about the only land attractions at Old Orchard were the old Staples homestead, a few winding cow paths, and a clump of sour apple trees.—Post.

The Portland gentleman who contracted to raise the vessel sunken in the river near the "Narrows," has been paying $36 per day for about three weeks, for the use of the two schooners which are anchored near the sunken wreck. He is to receive only $1000 in case he succeeds in raising the vessel. Every attempt thus far to remove the craft has been futile, and being old and badly decayed and water-soaked, and also loaded with coal, it would seem as if the only way in which to raise it would be to blow it up with explosives.—Biddeford Journal.

Dartmouth College has discovered that our friend Col. Andrew H. Young of Dover has made such attainment, etc., that he is entitled to the degree of "Master of Arts," and it has been conferred. The Col. will, upon making the customary remittance, be entitled to a diploma from this ancient seat of learning which shall certify to all who will translate it into good English that the college aforesaid has conferred this eminent degree. The Col. will have framed and hung in some conspicuous place for inspection this evidence that he is in good standing at Hanover, and anyman in the state who thinks he is likely to pitch up the internal revenue collectorship after this evidence of competency will of course find himself mistaken.

THE RECEPTION OF SATURDAY'S TIDINGS.

A few minutes before eleven o'clock, Saturday forenoon, Sheriff Kent received a despatch from his son, Mr. Horace B. Kent, of Boston, saying that despatches received in the latter city from Washington announced the murder of President Garfield by shooting. The report was at once made public, and the most intense excitement was instantly created; the flags on the city building, custom house, navy yard, and many of the vessels at the wharves were displayed at half-mast, and the mayor directed the bells of the city to be tolled at noon; but a few minutes before twelve o'clock a second despatch announced the President to be still living, and the flags were mast-headed and the order for tolling the bells countermanded.

From that time until about five o'clock the bulletin boards in front of the CHRONICLE office and Moses Brothers' store were surrounded by throngs of deeply excited people, all eager to get the latest tidings. Partisan politics seemed forgotten, all classes and parties uniting in the expression of horror and detestation for the crime, and eagerly looking for a ray of hope from each succeeding despatch, while evidently fearing the worst. As the later telegrams were received, a deep sense of relief was experienced and expressed by republicans and democrats alike, that the brutal and cowardly murder of the Nation's chief magistrate in a time of profound peace and great national prosperity, and when no fierce political conflict is disturbing the public mind, appeared to be the result of personal malice and reckless ruffianism, and to have no political significance whatever.

Col. Kent sent the terrible news to the Sheals and the Wentworth hotel as soon as possible after receiving it; and to his courtesy, and the attention of his son in Boston, who forwarded the despatches throughout the day, the public were largely indebted for the many bulletins displayed in front of this office during the afternoon.

The deep concern excited by the early reports seemed to increase throughout the day, and up to a late hour at night numerous groups of men were to be seen about the streets discussing the awful affair in a half-dazed manner, and anxiously enquiring of every passer-by if any more favorable news had been received. The city was indeed in mourning.

HACKING.

"Superfluous lags the veteran on the stage," wrote Dr. Johnson. It is not so with the hack. The Veteran Dennett, who has been engaged in the hacking business longer than any other man in this city, is never behind time, but is reliable as of yore. His order book is in Cochrane's stable-office at the corner of Congress and Chestnut streets, and his hacks are in superior order.

Commercial travellers assure us that in no city of its size are found better, or—what is essential—neater kept hacks than in Portsmouth; and none are more stylish, more carefully driven, or more accommodatingly managed than are Mr. Dennett's. His patrons can always secure prompt service by leaving their orders at Cochrane's stable, or at Mr. Dennett's residence on Congress street.

—Stock to the amount of $10,000 has been sold for a mining company at Lebanon, Pa., on the strength of a man's dream that there was gold at a certain point, and a clairvoyant's assurance that the dream was trustworthy.

Returning, leaves the islands in season to connect with the morning and evening trains on the Eastern railroad for Boston and the west. The Railroad Contest.

The hearing upon the application for leave to extend the Dover & Winnepiscogee railroad from Alton Bay to the Weirs is to be concluded on Tuesday. The principal testimony on Friday, on the part of the remonstrants, consisted of the evidence of Hon. John W. Sanborn, the superintendent of the Portsmouth, Great Falls & Conway railroad. Col. Sanborn has been quite active in the preparation and presentation of the case on the part of the opponents of the measure. He is thoroughly familiar with the history of the railway enterprises in northern New Hampshire. He knows every mile of the territory traversed by these railroads, and the efforts expended in the development of their facilities. Added to this, Col. Sanborn possesses much tact. As a member of the Council during the busy times of the war, and as President of the Senate and in other capacities, he has had much experience in legislative struggles, and he has been the man around whom gathered the forces of the remonstrants, and whose sagacious advice and practical knowledge have hourly been in requisition during the protracted contest. His examination shew the wonderful ability of Superintendent Sanborn in his position as the controlling man, in this state, of the interests of the Eastern railway, and his replies to the cross-examination developed a fund of information as to the purposes of the Boston & Maine road, and the effect upon existing railway routes should their request be granted, and gave much practical knowledge which was pertinent to the case.

It is unfortunate that so much valuable time has been expended in this hearing. There seems to have been diffuseness in the conduct of the case, and much submitted which was of an immaterial character. Mr. Sanborn's statements shew that the ultimate result of the proposed grant would be that the B. & M. would combine with the Boston, Concord & Montreal or the Eastern as to the White Mountain traffic, and in the end the people of the state and the public would be compelled to support an additional line without a diminished rate of freight. This statement was submitted with due candor, and doubtless had its weight with the committee. The arguments are to be made on Tuesday. The contest has been ably conducted, and has been the all-engrossing subject of interest since the disposal of the senatorial question. Whether the B. & M. really desire to have this charter for the purpose of developing the D. & W. road, for which they pay a rental so high that they lose money in operating it, or whether it is desired to press other schemes of the road and to hold this enactment in terrorem over other lines, is one of the mooted questions, —especially as the statement that the road if chartered will be built, coming quite frequently from those employed to advocate the extension, does not appear in the evidence of responsible parties who represent the corporate powers which must build it if it is constructed. In fine, it has appeared all along that in the great awakening of our Belknap county friends, they had too eagerly supposed the construction was to follow legislation favorable to the project, without stopping to be assured that such was really likely to be the result of all the commotion.

The New York Senatorial Fight.

On Saturday a senator to suceed Thomas C. Platt was elected, by the following vote: Warner Miller, 76, Kernan (dem.) 47, all others combined 22. There was no choice for a senator to succeed Mr. Conkling, the vote being as follows; Potter (dem.) 47, Conkling 29, Lapham 68, Evarts one; necessary for a choice, seventy-three. Lapham will probably be elected to-day.

Constitution Tinkering.

In the legislature, last week, Mr. Chandler of Concord introduced a bill providing that on the 2d Tuesday of March, 1882, the sense of the voters shall be taken in town meeting on the question of calling a convention to revise the state constitution, and that at the same time the voters shall elect delegates to such a convention, with the further proviso that if the vote is in favor of a convention the members thereof shall meet at the state house in Concord on the first Wednesday in June, 1882, and propose amendments to be voted on by the people at the following November election. Section six of the bill is as follows:

It is the sense of this legislature that the constitutional convention, if called, shall only propose to the people, for adoption or rejection, amendments providing for a different time for the regular meeting of the general court, for extending the power of the general court to enact taxation laws, and for establishing a new method of making future amendments of the constitution.

The principal change aimed to be accomplished is to provide for the meeting of the legislature within some reasonable time after the election of its members, so that a United States senator can be elected in time to take his seat on the 4th of March. The bill provides that members of the constitution, if it is held, shall be paid at the same rate as members of the legislature, but only for five days' attendance.

The Naval Advisory Board.

The Army and Navy Register of the 16th inst. contains an account of the proceedings of the naval advisory board which met at the navy department in Washington on the 11th, and has held daily sessions since that time. The subject of unarmored vessels occupied the attention of the board during the first four days of the week. The department submitted memoranda from different officers in the service, and plans and designs of vessels by naval constructors and other officers, to be considered by the board at its convenience.

On Tuesday, the 12th, Chief Constructor Easby was called before the board to give estimates of the present condition, probable cost of construction and repair, probable lifetime, etc., of the vessels now composing the navy. Similar information in regard to the machinery was requested of the chief of the bureau of steam engineering. Naval Constructor Lenthall was requested to submit estimates of the measurements and weights of unarmored cruisers, calculated for maximum speeds of fifteen, fourteen, thirteen, twelve, eleven and ten knots, to serve as guides for the board.

The board afterward took up the general specifications of the proposed vessels; that is, as to speed required, armament, sail power, propelling power, arrangement of battery, material of construction, shape of bows, division of the ship into watertight compartments, double bottoms, and the general classification of the vessels which the board will recommend to be built at once to fill up the unarmored fleet.

On the 15th the questions of ironclads, rams and torpedo vessels were brought up, and were made the subjects of preliminary discussion. The board decided to recommend the construction of torpedo vessels; but in regard to rams and ironclads it was decided to ascertain whether any project that can be recommended is within the limit of feasible cost before any such recommendation is agreed upon. This will be decided when the board re-assembles. The Army and Navy Register summarized the week's work of the board as follows:

The navy advisory board has definitely decided that the smallest class of vessels it will recommend shall be of wood. Whether the larger classes of vessels shall have steel or iron frames is undecided. Quite an opposition to steel was developed at the meeting on Thursday. The board will not recommend any composite vessels. The board has fixed on a maximum of 6,000 tons and a minimum of 700 tons, for vessels of the unarmored fleet; the maximum of speed is to be fifteen knots, and the minimum ten knots.

News and Notes.

The President's condition continues to improve. On the 16th the attending physicians said that in three or four days, if the improvement kept on, they should pronounce him out of danger.

The Anglo-American Telegraph company, the Direct United States Cable company, and the Compagnie Francaise du Telegraphe de Paris, have given notice that on and after Aug. 1st the rate for the transmission of telegrams from New York to the United Kingdom or France, and vice versa, will be reduced to twenty-five cents per word.

Charles Ellis was hung at St. Louis, Mo., Isaac Green and John Hardin at Marianna, Mo., two men named Meyers and Brown at New Madrid, Mo., and Wiers Reeves at Fort Smith, Ark., on the 15th inst., all for murders committed by them.

John B. Bowman, a native of Cuttingsville, Vt., has just finished a tomb at that place, built in memory of his wife and daughter. It is a copy of an Athenian temple, and cost $75,000. At the entrance is a life-sized statue of Mr. Bowman, and within the door of bronze and an inner door of granite weighing six tons, is the tomb of marble, with busts of Mr. Bowman, his wife and child. Mirrors are set in the sides and at the angles, and, by reflecting the statues, give the effects of a long vista of galleries.

Despatches from Eau Claire, Wis., say the Williams or Maxwell brothers, who murdered Sheriff Coleman near Durant, Wis., on the 10th inst., had been surrounded in the woods five miles from the scene of the tragedy, by 150 armed men. The desperadoes were said to be wounded, and their capture dead or alive was the determined purpose of the excited populace.
